QUARANTINE PROCLAMATION NO. 3 (REVISED)

Pertaining to Oriental Fruit Moth

Effective on and after November 25, 1938

WHEREAS, The fact has been determined by the Director of Agriculture that an insect injurious to peach trees and fruit and other trees and fruit, known as the Oriental fruit moth (Laspeyresia molesta, Busck), new to and not heretofore prevalent or distributed in the State of California, exists in the States of Alabama, Arkansas, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Mississippi, Missouri, North Carolina, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia and West Virginia, and in the District of Columbia, and in the Province of Ontario, Canada, all of which are included in and hereinafter referred to as the infested territory, and that all varieties and species including the flowering forms of peach, nectarine, almond, apricot, plum, cherry, choke-cherry, quince, pear, apple and haw or hawthorn (Crataegus sp.) trees and plants and fresh fruits thereof, and all boxes, barrels, baskets, or other containers of these fruits are liable to be carriers of said Oriental fruit moth;

NOW, THEREFORE, It is declared necessary in order to prevent the introduction of the said Oriental fruit moth into the State of California, that a quarantine be and the same is hereby established at the boundaries of the State of California, in accordance with the provisions of Section 106 of the Agricultural Code of the State of California, against said Oriental fruit moth, and all varieties and species including the flowering forms of peach, nectarine, almond, apricot, plum, cherry, choke-cherry, quince, pear, apple and haw or hawthorn (Crataegus sp.) trees or plants or parts thereof, including the fresh fruits, and all boxes, barrels, baskets or other containers that have been used to contain these fruits, grown in or imported, shipped or brought from the said infested territory, and no such possible carriers of this insect as quarantined against in this proclamation shall be permitted to pass over the said quarantine lines so hereby established and proclaimed, except under and subject to the following provisions:

Provision 1. Budwood or scions of peach, nectarine, almond, apricot, plum, cherry, quince, pear and apple trees grown in or shipped from the said infested territory will be admitted into the State of California in limited amount and only during the dormant period from November 1st to April 1st, provided a permit to cover same is first issued by the Director of Agriculture. Persons contemplating the importing into this state of any such budwood or scions from the said infested territory shall first make application to the Director of Agriculture for a permit to do so, stating in the application the name and address of the shipper, the locality where the budwood or scions were grown, the amount and kind of budwood or scions it is desired to import, and the name and address of the importer in this state to whom the permit should be sent. All such permits issued by the Director of Agriculture will specify the amount of the importation, and the manner and method of shipment and treatment which must be complied with as a condition of entry.

Provision 2. Bare rooted trees or plants of peach, nectarine, almond, apricot, plum, cherry, choke-cherry, quince, pear and apple, grown in or shipped from the said infested territory will be admitted into the State of California only during the dormant period from November 1st to April 1st, provided same have been fumigated in a fumigation chamber, the construction, equipment and operation of which has first been approved in writing by the Director of Agriculture. Such approval shall specify the conditions of entry, including the treatment procedure that must be complied with, and each lot of such trees or plants must be accompanied by a certificate issued by a duly authorized inspection official of the state of origin, certifying that such trees or plants were treated under his personal supervision in an approved fumigator in accordance with the procedure specified by the Director. A copy of such certificate must also be mailed to the Director of Agriculture at Sacramento, California, at time of shipment.

Provision 3. Fresh fruits of any and all varieties and species including the flowering forms of peach, nectarine, almond, apricot, plum, cherry, choke-cherry, quince, pear, apple and haw or hawthorn (Crataegus sp.) and all boxes, barrels, baskets or other used containers of these fruits, arriving in the State of California from the said infested territory in violation of the provisions of this proclamation shall be refused admittance into California and shall be immediately sent out of the state or destroyed at the option and expense of the owner, or owners, his or their responsible agents.

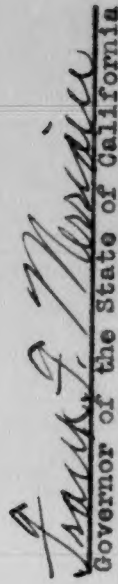

Provision 4. The entry into this state of any budwood or scions as provided in Provision 1 hereof or any bare rooted trees as provided in Provision 2 hereof, shall be further subject to the provisions of any other quarantine proclamation or ruling now in force or which may hereafter be promulgated.

The foregoing does not apply to the experiments of the United States Department of Agriculture in the State of California.

This Quarantine Proclamation No. 5 (Revised), supersedes Quarantine Proclamation No. 5, dated April 22, 1938, and shall take effect immediately.

PROCLAMATION

In accordance with time honored customs and tradition, the Christmas season makes each of us more considerate of the welfare and happiness of our fellowman.

Since the historic night when the shepherds in the fields and the wise men followed the light of the Bethlehem Star to find a babe in a rustic manger, delivering unto him precious gifts, this period of the year has been observed as a time to exchange greetings and personal remembrances. The most sincerely appreciated gift is a pleasant smile, a good deed or a kindly act.

In consideration of the needs of others and in an effort to revive and exemplify this spirit of "The Good Samaritan" now, therefore, I, Frank P. Merriam, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period beginning with the 18th day of December, to and including the 25th day of December, or Christmas Day of 1938, as "Help Thy Neighbor Week" in California, and respectfully urge all of our people to do everything possible within their means to relieve the suffering, wherever it may be found, and to make personal sacrifices to satisfy the pangs of hunger among those people who are less fortunate, the needy or the deserving unemployed.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this third day of December, A. D., one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight.

The New Year's Dinner Club initiated in 1954 and celebrated each New Year's Day since that date, is an excellent and practical example of the precepts found in the Golden Rule.

In an effort to articulate a state-wide observance of this worthwhile humanitarian movement, now, therefore, I, Frank F. Merriam, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Sunday, January 1, 1959, as "Good Will Day" in the State of California and respectfully request every citizen of the State, be it male or female, to invite and entertain a person at his own dinner table, or to contribute to a recognized charity, or to make a contribution, asking that the person so honored be one less privileged. By so doing, we may create a pattern of mutual helpfulness that will bring happiness to every heart and extend an influence which will be appreciated not only on New Year's Day but on all of the days that are to follow.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT

Executive Department

State of California

Whereas, the California State Legislature in Extraordinary Session, convening in Sacramento beginning on Monday, the 11th day of December, 1928, enacted legislation entitled as follows:

"An act to declare a state policy relating to soil conservation through the prevention or control of soil erosion, creating a State Soil Conservation Committee and defining its duties and authority; providing procedure for the organization, management and dissolution of soil conservation districts and defining their powers and providing for cooperation between the State Soil Conservation Committee, the United States, the State, counties, soil conservation districts, other public districts, and individuals and corporations."

Which said act is Chapter 1028 of the Statutes of the State of California, passed at the Extraordinary Session, and is now in full force and effect.

Section 4 of said act provides for the organization of the State Soil Conservation Committee, consisting of the State Engineer, the Dean of the College of Agriculture of the University of California, and one member to be appointed by the Governor.

Pursuant to the provisions provided for in Section 4 of said act, B. H. Crocheron of Berkeley, California has been appointed a member of said State Soil Conservation Committee.

Section 4 of said act further provides that immediately upon the appointment of the appointive member provided for in Section 4 thereof, that the organization of the State Soil Conservation Committee should be declared by executive order of the Governor. Therefore, I, Frank P. Merriam, Governor of California, pursuant to the authority in me vested by Chapter 7, Statutes of California, 1928, Extraordinary Session and as therein directed, do hereby certify and declare the organization of the State Soil Conservation Committee, consisting of the State Engineer, the Dean of the College of Agriculture of the University of California, and B. H. Crocheron of Berkeley, California.

THOMAS ALVA EDISON DAY.

FEB. 8. 1939.

FRANK J. CROSBY, JR.
SECRETARY OF STATE
By Chas. H. H. H.

February 11, 1939, there was born in the town of Milan, Ohio, the great inventor of all time. That infant was Thomas Alva Edison. He overcame handicaps of humble birth and deafness, and became the greatest contributor to human comforts the world has ever known. His inventions far overshadow the wealth and power of any nation.

California was born in 1850. The growth of California was rapid. In the 30's when the gold rush was on, California's growth was given to the inventions of Thomas Alva Edison. One of our great industries, motion pictures, was possible through the genius of Edison. The electric light industry in our state has profited because of Edison's invention, and the development of electrical power in our state has been made possible through his work.

California this year is celebrating many important events, the Golden Gate International Exposition, the Sacramento Golden Empire Centennial, and the discovery of gold by John W. Marshall. All these events are a part of the growth of this State, and so during this, our centennial year, it is appropriate that the people of California pay homage and respect to America's greatest genius, Thomas Alva Edison, whose contributions have greatly aided our remarkable growth.

I, Frank J. Crosby, Jr., Governor, do hereby set aside and proclaim, Saturday, February 11, 1939, as "Thomas Alva Edison Day," commemorating the seventy-second anniversary of the birth of Thomas Alva Edison, and I urge all citizens to observe this day with reverence.

PROCLAMATION

The great State of California has been blessed with an abundance of natural resources which have added greatly to her wealth and scenic beauty.

It is appropriate that California set aside a week each year to be known as "Conservation Week," extolling the wonders of her natural resources, and urging that those resources be guarded and preserved against unlawful encroachment and wastage.

It is also appropriate that "Conservation Week," be observed this year during the week beginning March 6, during which fall Arbor Day and Luther Burbank's birthday, and I call upon all California's citizens to unite in a policy of observing our conservation laws this week and every week throughout the year.

To this end, now, therefore, I, Culbert L. Olson, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week beginning March 6, 1939, as "Conservation Week" in California, and I urge wide-spread observance and participation by all citizens.

Throughout the Nation the week beginning March 6, has been designated as "Children's Week."

It is fitting that California, with its wonderful schools, playgrounds, recreational facilities, and ideal climate, should observe this week as "Children's Week," as a sort of stock-taking week on the part of parents, teachers, social workers and the general public. The welfare of our children, tomorrow's citizens, demands that we guide their training and be ever watchful of their health, not only during this week, but throughout the entire year.

To this end, now, therefore, I, Culbert L. Olson, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week beginning March 6, 1939, as "Children's Week," and I urge observance by all citizens of California.

PROCLAMATION

At a time when the lives of men are beset by events taxing their courage to the fullest, calling upon their mentality as never before to achieve and maintain clarity of thought and stability of action, demanding moral integrity as an example to others, and challenging our faith in the teachings of Him, who showed us the path, it is comforting to look upon the animals who live among and with us, questioning naught.

Their utter faith in our every action, their unfaltering acceptance of our every whim, their never-failing loyalty, stands out as a beacon light on the road to true happiness, contentment and the fellowship of man for man.

Would that we, their masters, could achieve the same measure of devotion and kindness which they bestow upon us.

We come once again to a week in which the people pause and think of these qualities and it is a pleasure to me to recognize the beauty and timeliness of it by proclaiming the week from April 17, 1939, to April 23, 1939, as "Be Kind to Animals Week."

EXPLANATION

The Sacramento river steamer of the early days in America contributed to the growth of many of our major inland communities of the present era, as well as played an integral role in the development of America's transportation system. The speed, and many accomplishments of these venerable old steamers having become legend, adding to the romance of the colorful pioneer era; and the development of the inland steamers has kept pace with the growth of our nation, it is fitting and proper that this colorful tradition of inland America be revived with the National Old Time River Steamboat Race on Saturday April 22nd, 1939, at which time the river steamer of cities on our principal inland waterways will race simultaneously against time, over a chartered course; and, it is my belief that this race will prove the supremacy of river steamers plying the San Joaquin and Sacramento Rivers, which will race against time to the Golden Gate International Exposition at Treasure Island, San Francisco.

I, Culbert L. Olson, Governor of the State of California, do hereby declare and proclaim April 22nd, 1939, as Inland Steamboat Day in California, and do hereby call upon the citizens of Northern California to participate wholeheartedly in the revival of a glorious American tradition, and I do further commend the citizens of Stockton, Sacramento, the Sacramento-Golden Empire Centennial, and the various civic organizations for their enterprising initiative in sponsoring this race.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this nineteenth day of April A.D. one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine.

To the valiant Mothers who have long suffered the loss of their sons who died for their country, I pay a humble tribute.

In this year, 1939, twenty-two years after the entrance of the United States into the World War, it is fitting that on Treasure Island, where now in progress is a great World's Fair, that the Gold Star Mothers of California have a day designated to them. This day should have a double meaning - a tribute to the Mothers who gave their sons in the past war, that Democracy might live, and a caution to the Mothers of today to exert their power for World Peace in these trying times of threatened conflict.

On the eighteenth day of May, this year, falls the Fortieth Anniversary of the International Conference for World Peace, held at the Hague in 1899.

It is appropriate and fitting that this year throughout the State of California, the entire month of May be observed as "World Good Will Month," and especially that the eighteenth day of May, 1939, be observed as "World Good Will Day."

Throughout the month of May, I ask widespread observance of the merits of our Democracy and the peace existing in the Americas while there is so much turmoil and threat of war in other parts of the world.

It behooves all Americans to think of peace and good will between nations so that our thoughts may reflect upon the other peoples of the world.

In view of these thoughts, now, therefore, I, Culbert L. Olson, do hereby proclaim the month of May, 1939, as "World Good Will Month," and the eighteenth day of May, 1939, as "World Good Will Day."

PROCLAMATION

In view of the official action of the United States Department of Interior in issuing a new Great Master Map of the United States, its territories and possessions representing two and a quarter billion acres of land, secured through treaty and purchase during the past one hundred and fifty years, it is fitting that Sunday, June 4th, be designated as "THIS OUR AMERICA DAY" in California.

Cooperating with the United States Department of Interior, the National Broadcasting Company will, from 11 A.M. to 12 noon on Sunday, June 4th, present over its facilities a dramatization of the story of the United States in connection with the official issuance of this new Great Map.

It is well that the citizens of California and of the United States be cognizant of the manner in which the United States of America secured the majority of its territory through Democratic processes of treaty and purchase, in comparison with the manner in which certain European countries today are taking possession of people and lands through military invasion and force.

In view of these considerations, now, therefore, I, Culbert L. Olson, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the day of June 4th, 1939, as "THIS OUR AMERICA DAY" in California, and urge our citizens to familiarize themselves with the fundamental principles of Democracy and cherish and protect our Democratic heritage.

QUARANTINE PROCLAMATION NO. 5

Pertaining to Mexican Cotton Boll Weevil, and Varieties Thereof, and Pink Bollworm of

Effective on and after June 14, 1939

WHEREAS, The fact has been determined by the Director of Agriculture that injurious insects known as the Mexican cotton boll weevil (Anthonomus grandis Boh.), and varieties thereof, and the pink bollworm (Pectinophora gossypiella Saunders), new to and not hitherto known to exist within and throughout the State of California, exists in several states of the United States, and that cotton lint, linters, waste, sweepings, samples of cotton, seed cotton, cotton seed, cotton seed hulls, cotton seed cake, cotton seed meal, cotton ginning and milling machinery, cotton bagging, used cotton pickers' bags and all other articles or materials that have been used in connection with growing, harvesting, ginning, baling, transporting or manufacturing cotton lint, seed cotton, or cotton seed; Spanish-moss (Tillandsia usneoides), plants and parts thereof; railroad cars, automobiles, automobile trailers, trucks and other vehicles, baggage, personal effects, emigrant movables, used household effects, household implements, camping effects and camping implements, are liable to be carriers of said insects:

NOW, THEREFORE, It is declared necessary in order to prevent the introduction of the Mexican cotton boll weevil and varieties thereof, or the pink bollworm into the State of California, that a quarantine be and the same is hereby established at the boundaries of the State of California in accordance with the provisions of Section 106 of the Agricultural Code of the State of California against cotton lint, linters, waste, sweepings, samples of cotton, seed cotton, cotton seed, cotton seed hulls, cotton seed cake, cotton seed meal, cotton ginning and milling machinery, cotton bagging, used cotton pickers' bags and all other articles or materials that have been used in connection with growing, harvesting, ginning, baling, transporting or manufacturing cotton lint, seed cotton or cotton seed; Spanish-moss (Tillandsia usneoides), plants and parts thereof; railroad cars automobiles, automobile trailers, trucks and other vehicles, baggage, personal effects, emigrant movables, used household effects, household implements, camping effects, and camping implements imported, shipped or brought from any other state, territory or locality of the United States, and further, no such commodities, articles, materials or vehicles as quarantined against in this order shall be permitted to pass over the said quarantine lines so hereby established and proclaimed except under and subject to the following provisions.

Provision 1. Seed cotton or cottonseed grown in any state or locality of the United States wherein the cultivated cotton is known to be infested with the Mexican cotton boll weevil, or varieties thereof, or the pink bollworm is hereby prohibited from entering the State of California for any purpose whatsoever, and upon the arrival of any such seed cotton or cotton seed as quarantined against in this order, the same shall be immediately sent out of the State or destroyed at the option and expense of the owner, consignee or agent.

Provision 2. Seed cotton or cotton seed grown in any state of the United States where the Mexican cotton boll weevil, or varieties thereof, or the pink bollworm are not known to exist in the cultivated cotton may be admitted into the state of California subject to the following requirement: Persons contemplating the importing or bringing into the state of California seed cotton or cotton seed from any state in the United States where the Mexican cotton boll weevil or varieties thereof, or the pink bollworm are not known to exist in the cultivated cotton shall first make application to the Director of Agriculture for a permit to do so, stating in the application the purpose for which the seed cotton or cotton seed is intended, the name and address of the exporter, the locality where the seed cotton or cotton seed was grown, the amount of the importation, the terminal point of delivery, and the name and address of the importer in the state of California to whom the permit should be sent. Accompanying the application must be a statement signed by the state entomologist of the state from which the seed cotton or cotton seed is to be imported to the effect that the seed cotton or cotton seed will be inspected before shipment and that a certificate of inspection signed by the state entomologist will accompany the shipment or be attached to the waybills, conductors' manifest, memoranda or bills of lading covering such shipment. Such certificate shall set forth the locality of origin of the seed cotton or cotton seed comprising the shipment, shall establish the fact that the Mexican cotton boll weevil, the varieties thereof, and the pink bollworm are not known to exist in the cultivated cotton in the state in which the seed cotton or cotton seed originates, and shall give the initials and car number of the car in which shipped if car lot shipment; if less than car lot shipment markings of container or containers shall be given. A copy of the certificate shall be mailed in advance of shipment to the Director of Agriculture, Sacramento, California.

Provision 3. Seed cotton or cotton seed imported or brought into the State of California under permit issued by the Director of Agriculture shall have each package or container in the shipment plainly and correctly marked to show the number of the permit, the quantity of the contents, the state and locality where grown, the name and address of the exporter and the name and address of the consignee. Permits issued by the Director of Agriculture shall specify the treatment which shall be given the commodity or container or vehicle as a condition of entry of material for which permit is requested.

Provision 4. Persons contemplating the importing or bringing into the State of California of cotton lint, linters, waste, seedings, bales, or any form of unmanufactured cotton from any other state of the United States shall first make application to the Director of Agriculture for a permit to do so, stating in the application the name and address of the exporter, the locality from which the shipment is to be made, the amount of the importation, the terminal point of delivery, and the name and address of the importer in the State of California to whom the permit should be sent. Permits issued by the Director of Agriculture shall specify treatment which shall be given commodity or container or vehicle as a condition of entry of material for which permit is requested.

Provision 5. Cotton seed cake and cotton seed meal and the seeds in other containers in which same are shipped, will be admitted into the State of California from any state of the United States only when such cotton seed by-products and their containers are free from whole cotton seed and when accompanied by a certificate of the duly authorized plant quarantine inspection official of the state of origin establishing the fact that the sacks or other containers are new or have not previously been used to contain seed cotton, cotton seed or cotton seed by-products.

Provision 6. Except as provided in Provision 5 hereof, bagging and other wrapping and containers that have been used in connection with seed cotton or cotton seed or in the baling of cotton, cotton lint or cotton waste or in the manufacture or handling of cotton seed by-products or which are contaminated with cotton or cotton products from any state of the United States are hereby prohibited unless a permit has first been secured from the Director of Agriculture. Such burlap or other fabrics shall be shipped via all-water route to designated California ports and upon arrival thereof shall be vacuum fumigated in an approved fumigation chamber using a dosage schedule of four ounces of liquid hydro cyanic acid gas per one hundred cubic feet of chamber space for a period of one hour, such gas to be injected in a twenty-seven inch mercurial vacuum and vacuum maintained throughout time of exposure. In lieu of such treatment such burlap or other fabrics may be allowed movement to a conversion mill which has first been approved in writing by the Director of Agriculture as having proper facilities for the prompt conversion of such burlap or other fabrics into paper or other conversion as the Director may approve. The importation into and all movement, treatment and conversion of such burlap or other fabrics within the state of California shall be under the jurisdiction of the Director, his deputy or inspector and no such burlap or other fabrics shall be moved for any purpose whatsoever except under and subject to conditions prescribed by the authorized State Plant Quarantine Officer having jurisdiction thereof as herein provided. Persons contemplating the importing or bringing into the state of California of any such bagging or other fabrics as heretofore described in this provision, shall first make application to the Director of Agriculture for a permit to do so, stating in the application the name and address of the exporter, the locality from which the shipment is to be made, the nature and amount of the importation, the maritime port of entry in California, and the name and address of the importer in the state of California to whom the permit should be sent.

Provision 7. Cotton ginning or cotton milling machinery that has previously been used in the ginning or milling of seed cotton or cotton seed or cotton seed by-products, in any state of the United States will be admitted into the state of California subject to and only under the following requirements: Persons contemplating the importing or bringing into the state of California of any such machinery as heretofore enumerated in this provision, shall first make application to the Director of Agriculture for a permit to do so, stating in the application the name and address of the exporter, the locality from which the shipment is to be made, the nature and amount of the importation, the terminal point of delivery, and the name and address of the importer in the state of California to whom the permit should be sent. Any and all shipments of such machinery as heretofore enumerated in this regulation imported or brought into the state of California under authority of permit issued by the Director of Agriculture shall have attached to each shipment a certificate signed by the official entomologist of the state from which such shipment was made, showing the number of the permit to import and setting forth the fact that all the cotton ginning or cotton milling machinery included in the shipment had been cleaned and fumigated with hydrocyanic acid, as before being loaded for shipment, the date and place of fumigation, and the amount of cyanide used in the fumigation of the shipment covered by the certificate. Any and all shipments of cotton ginning or cotton milling machinery not accompanied by a certificate as provided for in this regulation shall be refused admittance into the state of California, and upon the arrival of any such machinery without a certificate as provided for, the same shall be immediately sent out of the state at the expense of the owner, consignee or agent.

Provision 8. Cotton picking bags that have been used for picking or harvesting cotton in any state or territory of the United States or any cotton picking bags that have cotton lint or cotton seed in or upon or adhering to the same are hereby prohibited from entering the state of California, and upon the arrival of any such cotton picking bags, as quarantined against in this proclamation, the same shall be immediately sent out of the state or destroyed at the option and expense of the owner, consignee or agent; provided, that used cotton picking bags carried or otherwise brought into the state of California through a border quarantine station maintained by the state of California where facilities are available for sterilization, may be admitted, provided the said picking bags are immersed for not less than ten minutes in boiling water, said sterilization to be given at such border quarantine stations and under the immediate and direct supervision of the quarantine inspector at such station. All expense and labor connected with the sterilization of such cotton picking bags shall be borne by the owner or owners or person or persons in charge of same. Any failure or refusal by the owner or person in possession of such picking bags arriving at such border quarantine station to sterilize such bags, to the satisfaction of the quarantine inspector at such station, shall result in such picking bags being refused admittance into the State of California, and either immediately sent out of the state, or destroyed, at the option and expense of the owner or party in possession of same.

Provision 9. Railroad cars that have been used for the transportation of seed cotton, cotton lint, cotton seed, or cotton seed hulls, must immediately upon arrival at California, be disinfected or sterilized as to remove all possible danger of introduction of the Mexican boll weevil, and varieties thereof, or the pink bollworm and thoroughly cleaned of all cotton seed, or cotton seed hulls, and such cotton seed or hulls shall be burned upon removal from the car. Any and all such cars found at any point in California containing cotton seed or cotton seed hulls in or upon any of the parts thereof, shall be amenable to all the provisions of this proclamation, and shall be placed in quarantine by the Director of Agriculture, his deputy or deputies, or State Plant Quarantine Officers, until said cars have been disinfected or sterilized to the satisfaction of the quarantine officer making the inspection and the said cotton seed or cotton seed hulls are destroyed.

Provision 10. Spanish-moss (Tillandsia usneoides), plants and all parts thereof, in a fresh vegetative state, is prohibited admittance into the State of California as packing or otherwise.

No restrictions are placed by this provision on the entry into California of so-called "vegetable hair," which has been processed by retting and spinning, or on any other product made from Spanish-moss which is manufactured or processed in a manner and by method satisfactory to the Director, his deputy or inspector to eliminate the cotton boll weevil.

Provision 11. Automobiles, automobile trailers, trucks, and other vehicles, baggage, emigrant movables, personal effects, farming implements, or other field appliances, used household effects, household implements, camping effects and camping implements arriving in the State of California from the States of Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, New Mexico, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia, shall be placed in quarantine by the Director of Agriculture, his deputy or deputies, or State Plant Quarantine Officers of the district or county into which such vehicles, articles or commodities are imported or brought, until it has been determined by inspection that same are free from the Mexican boll weevil, or varieties thereof, or the pink bollworm, and other articles quarantined against in this proclamation.

The admissibility into the State of California of any articles or commodity covered by the foregoing regulations shall be further subject to the provisions of any other quarantine rules or regulations now in force or which may hereafter be promulgated.

When the Secretary of Agriculture of the United States shall have promulgated quarantine regulations governing the interstate movement from any state or portion of any state, of cotton or cotton products or any other article or commodity restricted by the provisions of this quarantine, such regulations by the Secretary of Agriculture shall supersede these provisions and all such cotton or cotton products or other articles or commodities from the areas covered by such federal quarantine may enter this state only in accordance with the regulations of the Secretary of Agriculture; provided, that if at any time for any reason the said regulations of the Secretary of Agriculture are set aside or are not enforced for any state or portion of any state of the United States, then all the provisions herein set forth shall be in full force and effect.

All deputies of the Director of Agriculture and all State Plant Quarantine Officers are hereby empowered to carry out all the provisions of this proclamation.

The foregoing provisions do not apply to the experiments of the United States Department of Agriculture in the State of California.

This Quarantine Proclamation No. 5 supersedes Quarantine Order No. 5 (New Series) dated April 7, 1932, and shall take effect immediately.

RESOLUTION

By John G. Jordan
Secretary of State
Deputy

The California Highway Patrol, the National Traffic Council and other safety groups are conducting a campaign to cut down the heavy annual July 4th toll, which last year took 155 lives and injured 1,464 persons on California highways.

The heavy July toll is due largely to the independence day holiday death total and by increased traffic on our highways and streets during the entire month of July.

Local and state citizens of this state and visitors within our boundaries are eager to enlist in the fight to save human lives, and reduce accident tolls. I, Edward G. Brown, Governor of California, hereby appeal to all citizens of this state, men, women and children, to join in this drive for better July and summer safety.

Wherefore, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this twenty-seventh day of June, A.D., one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine.

PROCLAMATION

Almonds are peculiar to California inasmuch as all almonds in the United States are grown here.
The almond is not only one of our main agriculture industries and contributes largely to the wealth of California and her people.

This year almond growers have been blessed with a bumper crop which is now being harvested. It is important that a ready market be found for the sale of this crop so that growers, packers and shippers might profit; so that employment might be given to thousands of California workers and so that the wealth of this State might be materially increased.

In view of these facts and in view of aiding one of California's major industries, now, therefore,
I, Culbert L. Olson, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week beginning July 17th, as "Almond Week in California" and urge all people to lend their aid in the sale of California almonds so that this year's crop may speedily and profitably be sold.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this twenty-seventh day of June A.D.,

SECRETARY OF STATE

PROCLAMATION

Petitions signed by approximately 737,000 purportedly qualified electors of this state have heretofore been presented to me, requesting that I call a special state election for a vote of the people on a proposed constitutional amendment initiated by petition making the same request, signed by 366,180 qualified electors and filed in the office of the Secretary of State, under the following title and summary of the general purpose and points of said proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of California:

"RETIREMENT WARRANTS. Initiative Constitutional Amendment. Requires State issue weekly at least thirty $1.00 warrants for life to electors fifty years old, neither employer nor employee, redeemable annually in cash, provided stamps sold by State affixed thereon weekly; warrants receivable for all obligations due State or political subdivisions, and some due therefrom. Incorporates Sales, Use Tax Acts. Enacts 3% gross income tax. Creates State bank to handle warrants; made sole depository for all public funds; requires $20,000,000 bond issue for initial capital. Permits Administrator propose amendments, calling elections thereon. Creates Economics Board. Prohibits courts interfering with administration."

Under Article IV, Section 1, of the Constitution, this proposed amendment must be placed upon the ballot for a vote of the people at the next general election on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1940, unless a special election is duly called for a vote on the same prior to said general election.

Article IV, Section 1, of the Constitution, provides that when an initiative petition is filed with the Secretary of State:

"The secretary of state shall submit the said proposed law or amendment to the Constitution to the electors at the next succeeding election occurring subsequent to one hundred thirty days

Executive Department
State of California

"after the presentation aforesaid of said petition, or at any special election called by the governor in his discretion prior to such general election."

It is my duty to exercise the authority thus conferred upon me by the Constitution, with sound discretion and due consideration, not only of the request of the proponents and their constitutional right to the initiative, but also the rights of all other electors; in order that the fullest possible opportunity shall be given for thorough consideration, discussion and action by all electors on this important measure.

This proposed measure would make far-reaching changes in the Constitution of the state and vital changes in the whole taxation system under the present Constitution. It contains provisions of an experimental nature affecting the fiscal operations of state and local governments, and involves constitutional questions under provisions of the Constitution of the United States. It, therefore, should be most carefully considered and fully discussed by the voters, dispassionately, unemotionally, upon the basis of reason only, and in the light of all available facts and information that can be afforded.

The issues raised by this measure are such that they would overshadow all other state issues (and there will be a number of them) on the ballot at the General Election in 1940. They would also overshadow consideration by the voters of the qualifications and principles presented by candidates for the important state and national offices to be voted upon at the 1940 General Election, including candidates for President of the United States.

I am, therefore, convinced that it is wise and just and that it will serve to accomplish more intelligent operation of our democratic processes to have a special election on the question of the adoption or rejection of this measure, free from its confusion with any other statewide issue.

In that belief, I informally stated, when these petitions were formally presented to me, that I would call a special election on this measure after the adjournment of the recent session of the legislature, and that I felt sure the date fixed therefor would be satisfactory to the proponents and to the people as a whole.

Executive Department

In fixing that date, consideration must be given to the fact that a similar measure was voted upon at the general election held in November of last year. If it were not for the fact that hundreds of thousands of people believe that a majority is now ready to accept this measure and that its adoption would mean their economic salvation and their permanent relief from the poverty, insecurity and distress they now suffer; and, if it were not for the far-reaching nature of this measure and the justification above stated for having it voted upon at a special election, I would leave it to be voted upon at the general election in 1940.

The Secretary of State advises that preparation for a special election will require approximately ninety days. The first Tuesday after the first Monday in November is the date on which the electors are accustomed to voting. That date this year is only one year from the date when the similar measure was voted upon by the people. Some local elections will occur, minimizing the expense of a special state election on that date.

All matters considered, I have decided that it is a proper exercise of my discretion to fix the date of this special election for Tuesday, November 7, 1939. This date, I am told by many of the petitioners, is satisfactory to them. It should be satisfactory to all proponents of the measure, as well as all other voters of the state.

In fairness and justice to the proponents of this measure, to all of the electors of the state, and to my own conscience and intellectual freedom, I must repeat here, what I stated when I informally announced my intention to call this special election; that it must not be inferred from this call that I believe this measure feasible or that, if adopted, it would work to accomplish the objectives of its proponents.

I am thoroughly in sympathy with and I shall continue to work, as I have heretofore worked, for those objectives, that is to say: for the social security of all citizens; for relief from economic submergence, poverty, and distress of so large a portion of our population expressed in the demands which the proponents of this measure believe they can realize by its adoption.

Executive Department
State of California

The demand for old age retirement and security is a vital issue throughout the nation.

That demand is manifested in this and other movements appealing to the distress of the aged, the unemployed, and the under-employed.

The platform on which I was elected recognized that fact, and affirms that for uniformity, equity and financing, old age pensions in their entirety should be provided for and administered by the Federal Government.

I would be false to my own conscience and sense of duty if I failed to here express my belief that, if adopted, this measure would fail to achieve its objectives, would disappoint the hopes of its supporters, and would retard instead of aiding our progress to a better economic order.

I must also state that there are provisions with regard to the use of unstamped warrants for legal payment of taxes and other obligations, which the judicial branch of the government may hold to be inconsistent with certain provisions of the Constitution of the United States. However, the act provides that if any one or more sections are held unconstitutional, other constitutional sections would not thereby be affected; and there are other sections which may be held constitutional.

It is the right of the petitioners to propose, and the right of the electors to adopt this measure if that is the will of a majority of the people. It is that right that I respect and shall protect to the limit of my power against any obstruction to its exercise.

With this explanatory statement, I, CULBERT L. OLSON, Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the authority vested in me by Article IV, Section 1, of the Constitution of the State of California, do hereby call and proclaim a special election to be held throughout the State of California on Tuesday, the 7th day of November, 1939, at which election there will be submitted to the qualified electors of said state for adoption or rejection in accordance with the provisions of Section 1 of Article IV, of the Constitution of said state, that certain initiative measure proposed by initiative petition filed with the Secretary of State and bearing the title and summary above set forth.

Executive Department
State of California

And I do hereby offer a reward of One Hundred Dollars for the arrest and conviction of any and every person violating any of the provisions of Title Four, Part One, of the Penal Code, or of Division XIV of the Elections Code, whichever be in effect; such rewards to be paid until the total amount hereafter expended for the purpose reaches the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed hereto,

PLANT QUARANTINE NO. 3 (REVISED)

Pertaining to Sweet Potato Weevil

Effective on and after July 10, 1939

WHEREAS, The fact has been determined by the Director of Agriculture that an insect injurious to sweet potato tubers and sweet potato plants, known as the sweet potato weevil (Cylas formicarius, Fab.), new to and not heretofore prevalent or distributed in the State of California, exists in the states of Florida and Texas; and in that portion of the state of Louisiana south of the south boundary of the parishes of Vernon, Rapides, Avoyelles and Concordia; and in certain counties of the state of Mississippi, to wit: Jackson, Harrison, Hancock, Pearl River, Amite, Pike, Jones, Jefferson Davis, Lawrence, Walthall, Marion and Stone; and in certain counties in the state of Alabama, to wit: Baldwin, Conecuh and Mobile; and in certain counties in the state of Georgia, to wit: Camden, Charlton, Glynn and Thomas; all of which being hereinafter referred to as infested territory, and that sweet potato tubers and yams (Ipomoea batatas) and parts thereof and sweet potato plants, vines, cuttings, draws and slips, and morning glories (Ipomoea and Convolvulus spp.) are liable to be carriers of said sweet potato weevil into districts otherwise free from said weevil;

Now, Therefore, It is declared necessary in order to prevent the introduction of said sweet potato weevil into the state of California, that a quarantine be and the same is hereby established at the boundaries of the state of California in accordance with the provisions of Section 106 of the Agricultural Code of the state of California against the said sweet potato weevil (Cylas formicarius, Fab.), sweet potato tubers and yams (Ipomoea batatas) and parts thereof, sweet potato plants, vines, cuttings, draws and slips, and morning glories (Ipomoea and Convolvulus spp.), imported, shipped or brought from all states and districts of the United States and no such plants or tubers or parts thereof shall be permitted to pass over the quarantine lines so hereby established and proclaimed, except under and subject to the following provisions:

Provision 1. Sweet potato tubers and yams (Ipomoea batatas) and parts thereof, sweet potato plants, vines, cuttings, sprouts and slips, and morning glories (Ipomoea and Convolvulus spp.) that have been grown, packed or stored in the said infested territory are hereby prohibited entry into California for any purpose whatsoever and any such prohibited articles arriving in California from the said infested territory shall be immediately sent out of the state or destroyed at the option and expense of the owner or owners, his or their responsible agents.

Provision 2. Sweet potato tubers and yams (Ipomoea batatas) and parts thereof, sweet potato plants, vines, cuttings, sprouts and slips which have not been grown, packed or stored in the said infested territory are admissible into California under the following conditions:

Each and every lot or shipment of material admissible under this provision shall bear an official certificate signed by the duly authorized inspection official of the state in which said articles establishing the fact that all material contained in the lot or shipment was grown, packed and stored in a list-free area from sweet potato weevil. Such certificate shall state the number of packages in the shipment, where grown, the name and address of the grower, the name and address of the shipper, the point of shipment, the terminal point of delivery and the name and address of the consignee. A copy of such certificate shall be mailed by shipper, in advance of shipment, to the Director of Agriculture, Sacramento, California.

If all lots or shipments of the articles enumerated in this provision arriving in California without the certificate as provided for shall be immediately sent out of the state or destroyed at the option and expense of the owner or owners, his or their responsible agents.

Provision 3. Except as provided in Provision 1 hereof, morning glory plants (Ipomoea and Convolvulus spp.) are admissible into California without restriction under the provisions of this proclamation.

The admissibility into the state of California of any article or commodity covered by the foregoing provisions shall be further subject to the provisions of any other quarantine proclamations or regulations now in force or which may hereafter be promulgated.

All deputies of the Director of Agriculture and all state quarantine officers are hereby empowered to enforce all the provisions of this proclamation.

This Revised Quarantine Proclamation No. 9 supersedes Quarantine Proclamation No. 9 (Revised), dated May 11, 1937, and shall take effect immediately.

WHEREAS the Federal Government, States, Cities and many national organizations have set aside the period of September 11th to 24th inclusive for the observance of air progress; and

WHEREAS America holds a unique position in the development of aviation because two American aviators, Orville and Wilbur Wright flew the first heavier-than-air machine and thus opened the advantages of flying to the world; and

WHEREAS our nation now has extensive commercial airways reaching from coast to coast, and border to border, and from this nation to many other nations of the world; and

WHEREAS the State of California has numerous large airplane factories, many wonderful airports and an ever increasing number of commercial and private planes; and

WHEREAS our government is training 15,000 young men to fly at hundreds of colleges and flying schools, and there is, as a result of this undertaking and others of equal magnitude a recognized development and continuous increase of the nation's aeronautic facilities; and,

WHEREAS the modern state owes itself a study of these developments and also of the possibility for still further extension of its flying facilities for commercial, research and defense;

Now, therefore, I, Culbert L. Olson, Governor of the State of California, do hereby designate and proclaim the period of September 11th to 24th inclusive, 1939, as "Air Progress Period," for the observance of air progress by the citizens of this State, and I ask each community to select for its local observance such day or days in the appointed period as it may find most convenient and fitting. I urge all citizens to participate in these events to obtain a fuller knowledge of aviation, its problems, its advantages, and to pay tribute to the men and women who have made America's air progress possible.

PROCLAMATION

This year the State of California presents to the people of the western part of the United States the eighty-fifth annual California State Fair at Sacramento.

Our state fair has grown from a small exhibit to an exhibition known throughout the nation as its largest state fair, and an inspiring display of California's development and progress in agriculture, industry, commerce, education and art.

This year the fair will be greater than in the past, and it should, therefore, receive even greater recognition than heretofore.

I therefore believe that we cannot too greatly emphasize the benefits to both the State of California and to the citizens of the western part of the United States that may be derived from attendance at this great exposition;

Now, therefore, I, Culbert L. Olson, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the days September first to tenth inclusive as "California State Fair Days", and cordially invite each of you to visit the 1939 California State Fair.

QUARANTINE PROCLAMATION NO. 6 (REVISED)

Pertaining to Vetch Weevil

Effective on and after August 25, 1939

WHEREAS, It has been determined by the Director of Agriculture that an insect injurious to vetch seed, known as the vetch weevil (Bruchus brachialis), new to and not heretofore prevalent in the State of California, exists in the states of Delaware, Georgia, Maryland, New Jersey, North Carolina, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Virginia and Washington, all of which are included in and hereinafter referred to as infested territory, and that vetch seed is liable to be a carrier of said vetch weevil;

NOW, THEREFORE, It is declared necessary in order to prevent the introduction of the said vetch weevil into the State of California that a quarantine be and the same is hereby established at the boundaries of California, in accordance with the provisions of Section 106 of the Agricultural Code of the State of California against said vetch weevil and vetch seed grown in, or shipped or brought from said infested territory and no vetch weevil (Bruchus brachialis) and no vetch seed shall be permitted to pass over the quarantine lines hereby established and proclaimed except under and subject to the following provisions:

Provision 1. Restrictions.

Vetch seed which has been grown in or shipped from the said infested territory will be admitted into the State of California only providing each shipment or lot of such seed is accompanied by a certificate signed by a duly authorized inspection official of the state of origin, affirming either that all vetch seed in the shipment or lot has been fumigated in accordance with Provision 2 hereof and has not been exposed to post-treatment infestation OR that such seed was grown in and shipped from a non-infested area in accordance with Provision 3 hereof. All such certificates must show the name and quantity of seed contained in the shipment or lot, car number or identifying marks, manner of shipment, name and address of shipper, name and address of consignee and the locality where grown. The original must be attached to the way bill or bill of lading and a duplicate copy sent to the Director of Agriculture, Sacramento, California, at time of shipment.

Provision 2. Fumigation Certificates.

Certificates of fumigation must certify that no less than 12 ounces of sodium cyanide per 100 cubic feet of space was used in an air-tight container for a period of twenty-four hours at a temperature of not less than 60 degrees Fahrenheit, except that if the Director of Agriculture, after the effective date of this Proclamation, determines that vetch seed may be satisfactorily treated by another method, certifying officials may issue certificates affirming such alternate treatment as the Director has approved.

Provision 3. Certificates From Non-infested Areas.

When it has been determined by annual official surveys that an area of any state in the said infested territory is not infested by the said vetch weevil and providing adequate protection is afforded by such state against the entry of vetch weevil into such non-infested area, the Director of Agriculture may, upon receipt in writing of proper evidence from the authorized official of such state, permit the entry of vetch seed which is certified as being grown in and shipped from such non-infested area.

Provision 4. Hold For Inspection.

Vetch seed admissible from the said infested territory under the foregoing provisions or when originating in areas outside of the said infested territory must upon arrival in California, be held by common carrier agents and not delivered to consignee or agent until inspected and passed by a State Plant Quarantine Officer.

The admissibility into the State of California of any article or commodity covered by the foregoing provisions shall be further subject to the provisions of any other quarantine proclamations or regulations now in force or which may hereafter be promulgated.

Deputies of the Director of Agriculture and State Plant Quarantine Officers are hereby empowered to enforce the provisions of this proclamation.

This revised Quarantine Proclamation No. 6 supersedes Quarantine Proclamation No. 6 (Revised), dated September 14, 1937, and shall take effect immediately.

While the American is usually a writer of continuous prose, he is also capable of writing a definite series of time periods, and the definition of the people involved is then ...the... is one of the most constructive... it is one of the most... it is one of the other... it creates or... with which it is... is fundamentally a matter of... accidental, thoughtless or intentional... individual or the group.

Accordingly, too much attention cannot be given to the general and specific efforts to improve the so-called "top-down" approach to consumer protection. It is essential in order that habits of the "bottom-up" approach be maintained and the destructive forces.

In view of the importance of developing an attitude of practicality in this connection, now, therefore, I, Gilbert L. Olson, Secretary of the State of California, do hereby proclaim the period between January 1, 1934, and June 30, 1934, as "Practicality Week" in this state.

In commemorating the three hundredth anniversary of printing in America, the United States Post Office will, on September 25th, issue a special three cent postage stamp, an honor justly deserved by the printing trades.

From an humble beginning, with crude, hand-cut wood type and slow hand presses, the printing industry has grown to be one of America's ranking industries, highly specialized and commercialized.

The printing industry has contributed greatly to the cultural advancement of our nation. It is an art and a trade. Not only has it contributed to the cultural side of our daily lives; it has become one of the leaders of all American industry.

Today, three hundred years since printing was introduced to Colonial America, the industry ranks first in the number of establishments; first in value of production added by manufacture; first in the number of salaried employees; first in salaries paid; fifth in number of wage earners; third in wages paid, and fifth in value of products produced.

Notable in the achievements of the printing industry has been its labor record. Highly unionized with its typographical unions, its pressmen's unions and its stereotypers' unions, it has made strides far over-shadowing other industries, trades, and crafts, that have inclined to submerge labor rather than cooperate with labor in bettering working and living conditions.

It is fitting that the printing industry be given due recognition for its contributions to our cultural and industrial advancements.

In view of these considerations, now, therefore, I, Culbert L. Olson, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of September 25th to September 30th inclusive, as "PRINTING INDUSTRY WEEK" in California and urge all citizens during this week to commemorate the tremendous strides made by the printing industry for the betterment and enlightenment of all the people in our lifetime.

Nine hundred and thirty-nine years ago
Leif Erikson, son of Erik the Red, settler and founder of the Republic of Greenland, landed on the shores of North America. He was a seafaring, progressive man, endowed with the Scandinavian principles of democracy which originated with the Scandinavian people as early as the year 1000.

Democratic politics and principles of the Vikings were carried by the Sea-rovers into North America, and their desires for freedom and individual liberty were so instilled in the country's early settlers that they were incorporated in the Constitution of the United States and its Bill of Rights.

This year, Scandinavians and people of Scandinavian descent throughout the world, will honor and pay tribute to Leif Erikson on his birthday which falls on October 9th.

In honor and respect to the contributions the Scandinavian people have given to the democracies of the world, and to the achievements and accomplishments of Leif Erikson, now, therefore, I, Culbert L.
Lyon, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim October 9th as Leif Erikson Day in California, and urge all people of Scandinavian descent to pay tribute to him and his people.

DECLARATION

Polish people and those of Polish descent; I mourn with you for death, destruction and tragedies of war which now inflict the country whence you and your forefathers came.

This year, as in many years past, people of Polish descent, and people of all nationalities in the United States, will pay honor and respect to Brigadier General Casimir Pulaski, a hero of the American Revolutionary War. His heroic deeds of this Polish General are known to all people. His memory is linked with the history of our democracy, and his memory is honored for the noble assistance he gave George Washington in fighting for the independence of this nation.

At this year, on October 11th, when the United States will pay tribute to Brigadier General Casimir Pulaski, the people of California observed with sadness in our hearts the death of this hero of the American Revolution.

It is fitting that on October 11th, all people should pay respect and homage to this man who helped give our country its freedom, and at the same time fervently pray that the reconstruction of Poland and the future destiny of its people will be for their benefit and prosperity.

Therefore, in view of these considerations, I, the Governor of California, do hereby declare the 11th day of October as "General Pulaski Memorial Day". I urge the people to observe this day in the schools and other suitable places with appropriate ceremonies.

Whereas, the week of October 22nd to October 28th, 1939, has been observed as "Blindcraft Week" throughout the United States for the past several years, and

Whereas, the splendid work done by Blindcraft to teach sightless people, art, craft and trades so they can be self-reliant and self-supporting is very meritorious, and

Whereas, the support of Blindcraft Organizations is a truly patriotic topic on the part of many of our citizens, now

Therefore be it resolved that the Week of October 22nd to October 28th, inclusive, be set aside as "Blindcraft Week" in California, and I urge all citizens to visit Blindcraft shops and help themselves with the prize-worthy work being done in California by those who have been deprived of the wonders of eyesight.

PROCLAMATION

Twenty-one years ago on November 11th, an armistice was signed bringing to a close a world war into which our nation was drawn in defense of democracy, and in the hope of putting an end to war. Each year since, on November 11th, Armistice Day has been observed as a day of peace - as a day of reverence and respect for those whose lives were sacrificed.

But these sacrifices failed to end war or to make the world safe for democracy.

This year on November 11th, many nations of the eastern hemisphere are again engaged in war. They are threatening to continue this war and bring upon their people all the horrible consequences that ingenious means for the destruction of human life can inflict.

In their observance of Armistice Day this year, Americans, in the name of humanity, will more than ever before give voice to civilization's protest against war, and while they pause at the hour of eleven o'clock a.m. on November 11th to honor those who fought in the previous world war, they will also solemnly resolve that the United States of America shall not become involved in this present conflict - that our soldiers and sailors shall not again fight upon foreign soil.

It is with this sentiment that I hereby proclaim November 11th as "Armistice Day in the State of California" and urge all citizens to observe this day as a holiday for peace and to pledge themselves to the peace of this nation.

The annual American National Red Cross Roll Call will be held this year from November 11th to 30th.

In view of the expanding domestic program of the Red Cross National organization and its thousands of chapters and branches; in view of the increasing necessity to furnish aid to civilians and wounded soldiers of the European conflict, the Red Cross this year has greater significance than in previous years and will need even greater support than has been so willingly given in the past.

With the European war under way only a short time, the American Red Cross has already sent fifty thousand dollars for medical aid to the Polish people; twenty-five thousand dollars to the American hospital in Paris, and twenty thousand dollars to London to care for the Athenia survivors. If the war continues the need for medical supplies and aid will be ever increasing.

In view of these facts, now therefore, I, Culbert L. Olson, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period of November 11th to November 30th, 1939, as Red Cross Roll Call Period in California, and urge all citizens to support in whatever way they can the American Red Cross in its drive for funds.

WHEREAS, The fact has been determined by the Director of Agriculture that a dangerous disease pest of nursery stock, known as Ozonium or cotton root rot (Phymatotrichum (Ozonium) omnivorum), not generally distributed in the State of California exists in the herein described infected areas, and that all soil, nursery stock and plants with roots are hosts or possible carriers of said disease;

NOW, THEREFORE, It is declared necessary that a quarantine be and the same is hereby established at the boundaries of the State of California in accordance with the provisions of Section 106 of the Agricultural Code of the State of California against said disease, its hosts or possible carriers, as herein described and no such things as quarantined against in this proclamation shall be permitted to pass over the said quarantine lines hereby established and proclaimed except under and subject to the conditions herein provided.

DEF: Ozonium or cotton root rot (Phymatotrichum (Ozonium) omnivorum).

INFECTED AREAS:

ARIZONA: Entire state.

ARKANSAS: Entire state.

CALIFORNIA: Entire counties of Contra Costa, Eddy, Chaves, Lea, Luna, Sierra, Grant and Hidalgo.

OKLAHOMA: Entire state.

TEXAS: Entire state.

UTAH: Entire county of Washington.

RESTRICTED AREAS: All soil, nursery stock or plants with roots except as provided in Provision 3 hereof.

Provision 1. DEFINITION OF THE WORD "PREMISES."

The word "premises" as hereinafter used in these provisions shall be construed to mean all the land included under one legal description or any parcel of land farmed or handled as one unit of ground, provided, that such "premises" shall include an additional area of at least 100 feet completely circumscribing the actual parcel of ground on which the nursery stock, trees, plants, shrubs or vines to be shipped or moved have been growing.

Provision 2. CERTIFICATION REQUIREMENTS.

Except as provided in Provision 3 hereof, no restricted articles herein quarantined against will be permitted entry into the State of California from the said infected areas unless each shipment or lot is accompanied by a certificate signed by the duly authorized inspection official of the state in which same originates, establishing the fact that all of the material contained in the lot or shipment was grown on premises free from said Ozonium or cotton root rot. In addition, each such certificate shall state the number and kinds of trees and plants contained in the shipment or lot, where grown, name and address of consignee and consignor, point of shipment and terminal point of delivery.

Provision 3. EXCITATIONS - EXEMPTIONS OF CERTAIN ARTICLES

No restrictions are placed by this proclamation upon the entry of the following:

(a). If free from roots and soil, nursery stock or plants, including trees, shrubs, vines, stolons, corms, dormant bulbs (including onions and onion sets), pipes, cuttings, scions, buds, grafts, fruits, leafy vegetables, fruit pits, seeds and plant products.

(b). If intended for edible purposes and washed free from soil, smooth root vegetables such as potatoes, sweet potatoes, carrots, turnips, and beets except that this exemption does not apply to mangels and sugar beets.

Provision 4. DISPOSITION OF UNCERTIFIED SHIPMENTS.

Any and all lots or shipments of the articles specified in this proclamation arriving in California from the said infected area without the certificate required in Provision 2 hereof or not otherwise complying with the provisions of this proclamation shall be immediately sent out of the state or destroyed at the option and expense of the owner or owners, his or their responsible agents.

COMMON CARRIER AGENTS MUST HOLD SHIPMENTS.

All articles admissible under the foregoing provisions must be held by common carrier agents and not delivered to consignee or agent until inspected and passed by the Director of Agriculture, his deputy or deputies, or a duly authorized state plant quarantine officer.

RESTRICTED ARTICLES SUBJECT TO OTHER RULES OR REGULATIONS

The admissibility into the State of California of any article or commodity covered by the foregoing provisions shall be further subject to the provisions of any other quarantine rules or regulations now in force or which may hereafter be promulgated.

ENFORCEMENT.

All deputies of the Director of Agriculture and all state plant quarantine officers are hereby empowered to carry out all the provisions of this proclamation.

SUPERSEDES PREVIOUS ORDER.

This Quarantine Proclamation No. 13 supersedes Quarantine Order No. 13 (New Series) (With Regulations - Revised), dated March 19, 1930, and shall take effect immediately.

PROCLAMATION

This autumn marks the one hundred and tenth anniversary of the birth of Thomas Hill, one of the greatest of California's artists, who has depicted California scenes and whose paintings are now on exhibition throughout the nation and the world.

Thomas Hill came to California in the year 1860 and settled in San Francisco. He immediately took an interest in the historic events taking place in the Far West and painted scenes of the Yosemite Valley, Donner Lake, the Sierra Mountains and Yellowstone Park. His most famous creation is undoubtedly "The Driving of the Last Spike", which is not only a beautiful art object, but a scene of historic significance.

It is most appropriate, therefore, from both artistic and historical consideration, that the people of the State of California, on this occasion of the one hundred and tenth anniversary of the birth of Thomas Hill, celebrate a week during which art galleries and exhibits through the State and nation will feature the works of this great Californian.

Now, therefore, I, Culbert L. Olson, Governor of the State of California, do proclaim the week of December fourth through December tenth to be "Thomas Hill week" and call upon the citizens of California to pay tribute to me to display and study the paintings of Thomas Hill.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this twenty-eighth day of November, A.D. Nineteen hundred and thirty-nine.

To promote conservation education and encourage cooperation in conservation effort, the Week of March 7 to 14, 1940, will be observed throughout the State as "Conservation Week".

The State Department of Education and the California Conservation Council along with federal and civic organizations, have for five years past, conducted extensive educational programs acquainting school children and the general public with California's great wealth of natural resources.

March 7, is Luther Burbank's birthday, and it is fitting that Conservation Week be observed at this time in reverence to California's outstanding naturalist and conservationist.

Therefore, in view of these facts, I, Culbert L. Olson, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of March 7 to 14, 1940, as "Conservation Week" in California, and urge wide-spread observance and participation by all citizens and groups.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my

PROCLAMATION

February 18th through February 25th has been set aside for the seventh consecutive year for the National Observance of Brotherhood Week, sponsored by the National Conference of Christians and Jews. This week is annually celebrated by schools, fraternal orders, churches, theaters, veterans and service clubs, women's clubs, civic forums and all other gatherings of citizens.

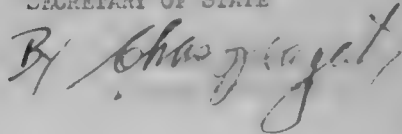

The Brotherhood of Man is the fundamental principle of organized society. It is the basic philosophy of all progress. Only through recognition and application of this humane concept of human existence can we advance to higher standards of civilization. It is the inspiration of righteousness, tolerance and all worthy civic and religious ideals. Appreciation of that brotherhood requires tolerance by us all toward our neighbors, particularly to those who adhere to different beliefs, or who were born into different races, colors or creeds. It prompted a great poet to say: "It is not a merit to tolerate, but rather a crime to be intolerant".

I call upon all citizens of California to join with the President of the United States, with the Conference of Christians and Jews, and with the citizens of all other States, in observance of National Brotherhood Week, and recognition of the Brotherhood of Man.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have
hereunto set my hand and
caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this eighth day

AS, extraordinary floods have occurred on the Sacramento River and its tributaries, inundating populated areas and thousands of acres of highly developed farm lands and forcing hundreds of families from their homes; and there are many breaks in the levees protecting said areas; and unless said levees are repaired the normal spring freshets and melting snows will raise the rivers and streams in the Sacramento River basin and cause water to flow out through these levee breaks and further inundate part of said lands and prevent their rehabilitation and the resettlement of their population thereon; and unless said levee breaks are repaired and the population of said areas returned to their homes and farms, they will be prevented from earning their livelihoods and will require public assistance.

NOW THEREFORE, I, Culbert L. Olson, Governor of California, pursuant to the provisions of Chapter 662, Statutes of 1929, and pursuant to the recommendation of the State Emergency Council, do hereby declare an emergency to exist within the boundaries of the basin of the Sacramento River and its tributaries, and I hereby instruct the Director of the Department of Public Works of the State of California to make an immediate survey of said area, and to determine the location and extent of the damage caused by the past floods, of levee breaks, of the potential danger of further floods at the time of the spring freshets, and of the best method of rehabilitating the inundated lands within said area and restoring the population of said lands to their homes and farms, and to take such further steps as are necessary to rehabilitate said area and its population.

Good Friday, a day commonly designated for the observance, this year falls upon March 9th. It has long been the custom of state, county and city governments to set aside at least three hours for the reverent observa-

DECLARATION

During the past few years the State of California will be observed as "President and Mother of the West". During this period a constructive and purposeful educational program, designed to aid in achieving economic security of the American Family, will be conducted.

It is no longer seriously debated that a fundamental change is needed in the method of meeting the cost of medical care and the risks and loss of income, especially for wage earners and others of small or moderate income.

The American Family should be protected against the loss or curtailment of income due to disability from ill health or accident. Yet in the majority of families the difference between ordinary living and actual want, when income ceases, is a matter of only a few weeks.

Good health and earning ability form the only real economic asset in the majority of cases. When disability comes through ill health or accidental injury, the earning ability is not only taken away, but medical and other expenses increase, impairing the economic security of the family.

In an effort to protect our citizens against losses occasioned by sickness or accident, and to aid them in building toward their own economic security, may we encourage, cooperate and assist in a governmental program to disseminate pertinent information of this vital need for protection. Action is needed to bring about the broadening of the base of health and accident insurance so that the American Family can have the needed protection.

I, William G. Olson, have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this twenty-ninth day of March, A.D., one thousand nine hundred and forty.

"Citizenship Week" will be observed in this year during the week of April 28 through May 4.

It is appropriate that Americans, in dramatizing their Democratic liberties and their faith in the American government, should during this period re-affirm their faith in the principles of Democracy and the civil liberties and rights guaranteed them under our Federal Constitution.

Also, during this period "Youth Week" will be observed, and it is fitting and proper that these two should be celebrated coincident to each other. At no time in the history of our nation has the need been so great as at present to recognize the relationship of youth to American citizenship. The youth of today, our citizens of tomorrow, must understand the full meaning of citizenship in American democracy, the protection given them and the opportunity afforded them, under our democratic system of government.

During Citizenship Week and Youth Week, we public spirited citizens should co-operate with Civic, Social, Religious and Patriotic organizations in re-dedicating the basic principles of our Democracy, Freedom of Speech, Press, Religious worship, the right to trial by jury, universal education and suffrage.

Now, therefore, in view of these considerations, I, Culbert L. Olson, Governor of California, do hereby designate the week of April 28 through May 4, 1940, as "Citizenship Week" and "Youth Week" in California, and urge all citizens to participate in the special events which will be held in every community of the state.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have
hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the

PROCLAMATION

The Nations of Central and South America have enjoyed a friendly and harmonious relationship with the United States, cementing our nations together as a bulwark against encroachment from foreign powers.

This year the peoples of the Americas have every reason to rejoice in the common bond of mutual understanding and mutual cooperation which exists between our respective countries. Reciprocal trade treaties are working to our mutual benefits. There are no invasions, armed or otherwise; no threats of war between any of the nations of the Americas. We are standing firm on this rock of mutuality with no fear, singly or collectively, of foreign invasion or disruption of our good neighborliness.

Pan America Day will be celebrated in the United States and in every other nation of the Americas on April 14th. It will be observed as a day of peace and fellowship. It is fitting, therefore, that the citizens of California join in these celebrations for this great state has closer relationships with our sister nations than any other state in the Union.

In view of these considerations, now, therefore, I, Culbert L. Olson, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim April 14th, 1940, as "Pan America Day" in California and urge all citizens friendship between the nations of the Americas.

Pertaining to Alfalfa Weevil

Effective on and after November 10, 1939

WHEREAS, The fact has been determined by the Director of Agriculture that an insect pest injurious to alfalfa, known as alfalfa weevil (Phytonomus posticus, Gyll. or Hypera variabilis) not generally distributed in the State of California, exists in the hereinafter described infested areas and that the restricted articles herein described are hosts or possible carriers of said alfalfa weevil into areas of this state otherwise free from this pest.

NOW, THEREFORE, It is declared necessary in order to prevent the further dissemination of said insect pest in the State of California, that a quarantine be and the same is hereby established at the boundaries of the State of California in accordance with Section 106 of the Agricultural Code of the State of California against said alfalfa weevil, its hosts or possible carriers as herein described, and no such articles as quarantined against in this proclamation shall be permitted to pass over the said quarantine lines hereby established and proclaimed, except under and subject to the conditions herein provided;

PEST: An alfalfa weevil (Phytonomus posticus, Gyll. or Hypera variabilis).

INFESTED AREAS:

ARIZONA: All that portion of Coconino County north of the Colorado River.

COLORADO: Entire counties of Delta, Eagle, Garfield, Gunnison, Mesa, Moffat, Montezuma, Montrose, Ouray, Pitkin, Rio Blanco, Routt, San Juan, San Miguel and Weld.

IDAHO: Entire state.

MONTANA: Entire county of Big Horn.

NEBRASKA: Entire counties of Banner, Kimball and Sioux; townships 27 and 28 north, ranges 51 and 52 west, and townships 27 and 28 north, ranges 49 and 50 west, in Box Butte County; townships 31 and 32 north, range 52 west in Dawes County; townships 20, 21, 22 and 23 north, ranges 57 and 58 west, and township 23 north, ranges 55 and 56 west, in Scotts Bluff County.

NEVADA: Entire counties of Churchill, Douglas, Elko, Humboldt, Lander, Lincoln, Lyon, Mineral, Ormsby, Pershing, Storey, Washoe and White Pine.

OREGON: Entire counties of Baker, Harney, Jackson, Josephine, Malheur and Union, and that portion of Douglas County lying south of a line beginning on the west at a point where the state Highway 42 enters said county and following said highway east to its junction with U. S. Highway 99, thence directly east to the east boundary of said county.

SOUTH DAKOTA: Entire county of Custer and that portion of Fall River County known as Indian Township.

UTAH: Entire State.

WYOMING: Entire state.

RESTRICTED ARTICLES: Alfalfa hay and all other hay and cereal straw, alfalfa meal, chopped alfalfa hay, machinery and implements that have been used in the milling, baling, harvesting or threshing of alfalfa, railroad cars, automobiles, automobile trailers, trucks, and other vehicles that have been used in the transportation of the aforementioned articles.

Provision 1. TREATED HAY, CEREAL STRAW AND CHOPPED ALFALFA HAY.

Except as provided in Provisions 2, 3 and 4 of this proclamation, alfalfa hay and other hay and cereal straw and chopped alfalfa hay which has been grown or stored in the said infested area, imported as such or as packing or otherwise will be admitted into the State of California only provided each such lot or shipment is accompanied by a certificate signed by a duly authorized inspector of the state of origin affirming that such hay, straw or chopped hay has been treated by a method which has first been approved by the Director of Agriculture and has been subsequently handled and shipped under official supervision in a manner satisfactory to the Director of Agriculture to maintain continued identity and prevent post-treatment infestation. Such certificates must set forth the dosage used, time of exposure, temperature within the enclosure during time of exposure, date of treatment, names and addresses of consignee and consignor, method of transportation and date shipped. The original of the certificate must accompany the transportation papers and a copy mailed on the date of shipment to the Director of Agriculture, Sacramento. Movement by rail transportation is hereby approved.

Provision 2. UNTREATED HAY, STRAW AND CHOPPED HAY ADMITTED INTO CERTAIN FOOTHILL, MOUNTAIN AND DESERT AREAS.

Untreated alfalfa hay, other hay and cereal straw and chopped alfalfa hay from the said infested area may be admitted under written permit from the Director of Agriculture into certain foothill, mountain and desert areas for consumption as fodder for animals. Said permits will be issued authorizing such movement only into those areas which the Director of Agriculture is satisfied will present no menace to the alfalfa growing sections of California, provided that admission of such hay, straw or chopped hay into foothill areas will be permitted only during the period October 1st to May 31st, inclusive, during which the weevil is inactive.

Persons contemplating such importations shall first make written application to the Director of Agriculture for a permit, setting forth in such application the kind and quantity of hay, straw, or chopped hay for which a permit is requested, name and address of shipper, name and address of importer, place where stored, mode of transportation and a description of the location of the premises where such hay, straw or chopped hay will be consumed. The importer must accompany such application by a statement subscribed and sworn to before a notary public wherein it shall be incumbent upon the importer to use all such hay, straw or chopped hay as feed for animals on such premises and that no portion of such shipment or lot so imported will be taken to any other destination nor used for any other purpose and that any car, wagon, automobile or other vehicle used in transporting such shipment or lot will be thoroughly cleaned of all such hay or straw or chopped hay immediately the lot or shipment is unloaded at destination.

Provision 3. NO RESTRICTIONS INTO "REGULATED TERRITORY A" AND ADJACENT TERRITORIES

No restrictions are placed by this quarantine upon the movement of any of the commodities and articles as quarantined against in this proclamation from the said infested territory into that portion of the State of California now generally infested with alfalfa weevil immediately adjacent to the eastern or northern California border and described as "Regulated Territory A" in California Quarantine Regulation No. 9.

Provision 4. UNTREATED HAY AND CEREAL STRAW ADMITTED INTO INTERIOR INFESTED AREAS

No restrictions are placed by this quarantine upon the movement of any of the commodities and articles quarantined against in this proclamation from the said infested territory to that interior portion of the State of California now generally infested with alfalfa weevil and described as "Regulated Territory B" in California Quarantine Regulation No. 9 or areas adjacent to said "Regulated Territory B," provided that shipments of alfalfa hay, other hay, cereal straw and chopped alfalfa hay will be admitted only for use within the above described areas and only during the period October 1st to May 31st; in carload lots; in tight railroad cars with all cracks and other openings sealed in a manner approved by the Director of Agriculture; and provided that each such hay shipment is consigned only over the Western Pacific Railroad, Feather River Canyon Route, via Sacramento and Stockton; the Southern Pacific Railroad Ogden Route, via Truckee and Sacramento, or the Southern Pacific Railroad Shasta Route, directly to a point within the above described area and further provided that such cars shall not be opened or diverted en route and that each such hay shipment is accompanied by a certificate signed by an authorized state inspector affirming that the empty railroad car was inspected before loading and found tight and in good condition and that all cracks and openings around the doors and otherwise were tightly sealed in an approved manner. Such certificate must also state the number and initials of the car containing the hay, the amount of the shipment, the name and address of the consignor, the name and address of the consignee, the route, and the date of shipment and a copy of the certificate must be mailed at time of shipment to the Director of Agriculture, Sacramento, California. It is further provided that upon arrival at destination and immediately the hay is unloaded the empty car shall be placed in quarantine and shall not be moved to any point outside of the alfalfa weevil infested area in California until it has been thoroughly cleaned, to the satisfaction of the state plant quarantine officer having jurisdiction; provided further that in the case of shipments of alfalfa hay, other hay, cereal straw and chopped alfalfa hay intended for destinations within the areas adjacent to "Regulated Territory B", the importer must first secure a written permit from the County Agricultural Commissioner of the County of intended destination and each such shipment shall be accompanied with a copy of such permit.

Provision 5. ALFALFA MEAL.

Except as provided in Provisions 3 and 4, alfalfa meal milled from hay which has been grown or stored in the said infested area, will be admitted into the State of California only provided each shipment or lot is accompanied by an official certificate affirming that (1) no larger than a 5/8 inch screen was used in the mill during the process of milling; (2) that the conveyance was inspected prior to loading and found free from alfalfa weevil, alfalfa hay, other hay or cereal straw; (3) that such meal and the conveyance have been safeguarded in a manner to prevent contamination by live alfalfa weevil. Such certificate must also state the name and location of the mill, the names and addresses of consignee and consignor, the amount of the product, method of transportation, the number and initials of the car or license number of the motor vehicle conveying the shipment, and date shipped. The original of the certificate must accompany the transportation papers and a copy mailed on the date of shipment to the Director of Agriculture, Sacramento.

Provision 6. USED ALFALFA MACHINERY.

Except as provided in Provisions 3 and 4, all machinery and implements that have been used in the baling, milling, harvesting or threshing of alfalfa will be admitted into the State of California from the said infested area only when same have been thoroughly cleaned of all alfalfa hay or other possible source of alfalfa weevil infestation before being transported into the State of California. Any such machinery and/or implements contaminated with alfalfa hay shall be held in quarantine until all alfalfa hay has been cleaned out and burned to the satisfaction of the inspector making the inspection and at the expense of the owner or owners, his or their responsible agents.

Provision 7. VEHICLES AND RAILROAD CARS.

Automobiles, automobile trailers, trucks and other vehicles that have been used in the transportation of any probable carrier of alfalfa weevil herein quarantined against, from the said infested area, arriving in California, shall be placed in quarantine by the agricultural inspector having jurisdiction at the point where same arrives until it has been determined by inspection that same are free from alfalfa weevil, alfalfa hay, other hay and cereal straw and except as provided in Provisions 1 to 4 inclusive, all common carriers shall clean and free of alfalfa hay and other hay and cereal straw, all railroad cars that have been used in the transportation of live stock or alfalfa hay and other hay and cereal straw, in or through any part of the said infested territory before the same enter the State of California. Any and all such cars found at any point in the State of California which have not been cleaned as above shall be placed in quarantine until all such hay or straw is thoroughly cleaned from the car to the satisfaction of the quarantine officer making the inspection. All hay or straw found in cars transporting live stock into California from or through any part of the infested territory shall be deemed to have originated within the infested territory and shall be amenable to all the provisions of this proclamation unless accompanied by an official certificate issued by an agricultural inspection official of the state where the hay was loaded in the cars, establishing the fact that the hay was grown in a non-infested area and setting forth the locality of origin.

CARRIER AGENTS MUST HOLD SHIPMENTS.

All articles admissible under the foregoing provisions must be held by common carrier agents and not delivered to consignee or agent until inspected and passed by the Director of Agriculture, his deputy or deputies, or by a duly authorized state plant quarantine officer.

DISPOSITION OF VIOLATIONS.

Except as provided in the foregoing provisions, any lot or shipment of commodities or articles arriving in California in violation of the provisions of this proclamation, shall be immediately sent out of the state or destroyed at the option and expense of the owner or bailee.

RESTRICTED ARTICLES SUBJECT TO OTHER RULES AND REGULATIONS.

The admissibility into the State of California of any article or commodity covered by the foregoing provisions shall be further subject to the provisions of any other quarantine proclamation or regulation now in force or which may hereafter be promulgated.

ENFORCING POWERS.

All deputies of the Director of Agriculture and all state plant quarantine officers are hereby empowered to carry out all the provisions of this proclamation.

SUPERSEDES PREVIOUS PROCLAMATION.

This Quarantine Proclamation No. 7 (Revised) supercedes Quarantine Proclamation No. 7 (Revised) dated September 16, 1937, as amended April 7, 1939, and shall take effect immediately.

PROCLAMATION

The new building for the public school is the surest foundation of the democratic state, a free education is the right of every child, and the system of free public education is the most important public policy of public interest for the nation. Twenty years ago our citizens instituted Public Schools Week. It is the duty of the government to extend the efforts of the founders of this nation -- the extension of public schooling to citizens of every age and condition. It is the duty of the government to enlist all men and women who are interested in free public education to join their voices in efforts to increase appreciation of its value and accomplishment, to rectify its weaknesses, and to supply its needs, by giving to all citizens, everywhere, whether parents of school children or not, a better understanding of the purposes of the public schools.

The duty lies upon the schools under a democratic system of government is just as great today. The need of youth for guidance in times of uncertainty and confusion is just as great. The value and responsibility of the public schools were never so important. Our boys and girls must be prepared for citizenship in a democracy; prepared to advance into a world which, in many of its aspects, will not only be different from the world their parents knew, but increasingly difficult to adjust to democratic patterns. Their ability to do this will depend upon the confusion of social orders will depend, as never before, upon the insights gained from their school experiences.

Now, therefore, I, Culbert L. Olson, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the school week from April 22, April 27, 1940, as Public Schools Week in and throughout California. I urge every citizen to visit the nearest public school and to otherwise express his interest in the public schools during this week. Let each school administrator, and the community, and each citizen, upon his own responsibility of making the public schools a more effective and more popular and profitable.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this fifteenth day of April, A. D., one thousand nine hundred and forty.

Organized labor has established the Union Label as the mark of merit assuring the consumer that articles so marked are 100% American, made under fair working conditions and that the workers are receiving American standard wages.

In recognition of this fact and also in recognition of the rights and objectives of union labor organizations in the field of industrial relations, for decent working conditions, fair wages, reasonable hours of employment, the prevention of child labor and for the welfare of all who toil to produce our wealth, it is fitting that a week be designated as "Union Label Week".

Now, therefore, I, Culbert L. Olson, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week beginning May 6th, 1940, as "Union Label Week" throughout California.

I, Culbert L. Olson, Governor of California, do hereby set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this sixteenth day of April, A.D., Nineteen Hundred and Forty.

PROCLAMATION

Whereas, an extraordinary occasion has arisen and new calls are requiring that the Legislature of the State of California be convened; now, therefore,

I, Earl Warren, Governor of the State of California, in virtue of the power and authority in me vested by section 1 of Article 4 of the Constitution of the State of California, do hereby convene the Legislature of the State of California to meet and assemble in extraordinary session, at Sacramento, California, on Monday, the 13th day of May, one thousand nine hundred and forty, at 10 o'clock a.m. of said day, for the following purposes and to legislate upon the following subjects, to wit:

1. To consider and act upon legislation making an appropriation to the Reclamation Board for construction, land, rights of way, easements, and general administrative expenses and overhead, in augmentation of the appropriation made by Item 206 of the Budget Act of 1939.

2. To consider and act upon legislation making an appropriation to the emergency fund created by Item 212 of the Budget Act of 1939 for the cost of repair and restoration of property damaged or destroyed by storms and floods and for work and remedial measures designed to avert, alleviate, and prevent such damage and destruction.

3. To consider and act upon legislation to provide for the acquisition and construction, maintenance and operation of a system of works for the control, storage, conservation and utilization of the waters of the Napa River and its tributaries.

4. To consider and act upon legislation making an appropriation to the Department of Natural Resources for forest fire suppression and prevention.

5. To rescind the action of the Legislature in amending Constitutional Amendment No. 9, Resolutions Chapter 11 of the Statutes of 1939.

PROCLAMATION

That, the cultivation of good music is a matter of the highest importance to the State. Their constant cultivation is a part and parcel of the education of the citizen and the spiritual well being of the people.

Now, therefore, IN RECOGNITION of established custom, and in appreciation of the constructive and fruitful efforts of the people of this State in the cultivation of music, and

IN RECOGNITION of the St. Cecilia Society of our country's history, and

IN RECOGNITION of the courses in music offered at the University of Virginia which have been of great benefit to the State,

I, Culbert L. Olson, Governor of the State of California, do hereby proclaim the week of May 5th, 1940, as "National Music Week" in California. And, in pursuance thereof, I do hereby express the interest in music by all citizens; their attention to the special programs devised for their instruction and enjoyment, and their support of all efforts to inculcate the love and cultivation of good music as an essential part of good living.

PROCLAMATION

The week ending June twenty-ninth is being observed at the Golden Gate International Exposition on Treasure Island as "I AM AN AMERICAN WEEK" which is dedicated to the benefit of our American heritage.

America stands today dominant in a war-torn world, the bulwark and hope of democracy, the prayer of civilization, the transcendent power for peace. No man can say, at this time, what tomorrow may bring forth, but all men must say, if they speak the truth, that America will be found standing reliant, steadfast and ready to defend our own shores. Whatever the chaotic end of this senseless war may be, America will be fighting and aiding in the most important of all battles, the battle for a just and enduring peace among all the peoples of the world.

The only way to judge the future is by the past, and to that end, there will be presented on Treasure Island in connection with "I am an American Week" a spectacle known as "America! Cavalcade of a Nation," which will bring the story of the building of our republic from its pioneer beginning to the glory and greatness of the present. The tale of discovery, of development, and countless progress to the greatest achievement in the making of a free country for free men will be depicted. The United States of America is the only nation in history where "Life, Liberty, and Pursuit of Happiness" is not merely a political nothing but is a resplendent American truth.

In times like these, it is eminently fitting that a special week be set aside of, by and for the American people, to count the blessings of living under the American flag and reaffirm our faith in American ideals and institutions. It is time for all of us to glorify in the fact that each of us can proudly say, "I am an American."

And, Sir, in view of these findings, I, the Governor of the State of California, do hereby proclaim the week ending June twenty-ninth as "I am an American Week" and urge all people to think Americanism, speak Americanism, and reacquaint themselves with the history of our country and the principles upon which it was founded as contained in our Bill of Rights.

By Albert H. ... Deputy

Pertaining to Nut Tree Insects

Effective on and after July 22, 1940

WHEREAS, The fact has been determined by the Director of Agriculture that dangerous insect pests, known as nut tree case bearers, heretofore not known to exist in the state of California, exist in the hereinafter described infested areas, and that the restricted products herein described are hosts or possible carriers of said pests,

NOW, THEREFORE, It is declared necessary, in order to prevent the introduction of said pests into the State of California, that a quarantine be and the same is hereby established at the boundaries of the State of California in accordance with Section 106 of the Agricultural Code of the State of California against said pests, their hosts, or possible carriers, and no such restricted products as quarantined against in this proclamation shall be permitted to pass over the said quarantine lines hereby established and reclaimed except under and subject to the conditions herein provided.

PESTS: Nut tree case bearers (Acrobasis spp.).

INFESTED AREAS: All states and districts of the United States east of and including the states of Montana, Colorado and New Mexico.

RESTRICTED PRODUCTS: All species and varieties of hickory, pecan and walnut (Carya sp. and Juglans sp.) trees or parts thereof except the nuts.

Provision 1. Trees, Budwood and Scions Admissible Under Permit Subject to Treatment Upon Arrival.

Except as provided in Provision 2 hereof, bare-rooted trees, budwood or scions of hickory, pecan and walnut grown in or shipped from the said infested areas will be admitted into the State of California only providing a permit has first been secured from the Director of Agriculture and subject to such disinfection or treatment, method of transportation, and limitations as to size and quantity as the Director may designate therein.

Persons contemplating the importing into this state of any such restricted products as herein provided shall first make application to the Director of Agriculture for a permit to do so, stating in the application the name and address of the shipper, the locality where the trees, budwood or scions were grown, the amount, size and kind of trees, budwood or scions it is desired to import, and the name and address of the importer in this state to whom the permit should be sent.

Provision 2. Trees, Budwood and Scions Admissible
Without Permit If Treated by Approved
Method at Origin.

Bare-rooted trees, budwood or scions of hickory, pecan and walnut grown in or shipped from the said infested areas will be admitted provided same have been fumigated in a fumigation chamber, the construction, equipment and operation of which has first been approved in writing by the Director of Agriculture. Such approval shall specify the conditions of entry, including the treatment procedure that must be complied with, and each lot of such restricted products must be accompanied by a certificate issued by a duly authorized inspection official of the state of origin, certifying that such products were treated under his personal supervision in an approved fumigator in accordance with the procedure specified by the Director. A copy of such certificate must also be mailed to the Director of Agriculture at Sacramento, California, at time of shipment.

CARRIER AGENTS MUST HOLD SHIPMENTS.

All products admissible under the foregoing provisions must be held by common carrier agent and not delivered to consignee or agent until inspected and passed by the Director of Agriculture, his deputy or deputies, or by a duly authorized state plant quarantine officer.

DISPOSITION OF VIOLATIONS.

Except as provided in the foregoing provisions, any lot or shipment of commodities or articles arriving in California in violation of the provisions of this proclamation, shall be immediately sent out of the state or destroyed at the option and expense of the owner or bailee.

RESTRICTED PRODUCTS SUBJECT TO OTHER RULES AND REGULATIONS.

The admissibility into the State of California of any product or commodity covered by the foregoing provisions shall be further subject to the provisions of any other quarantine proclamation or regulation now in force or which may hereafter be promulgated.

EMPOWERING OFFICERS.

All deputies of the Director of Agriculture and all State Plant Quarantine Officers are hereby empowered to carry out all the provisions of this proclamation.

Pertaining to Colorado Potato Beetle

Effective on and after July 22, 1940

WHEREAS, The fact has been determined by the Director of Agriculture that a serious insect pest of potatoes, tomatoes and egg plant, known as the Colorado potato beetle, not known to occur in the State of California, exists in the herein described infested areas, and that tubers, plants or cuttings of potato, plants and cuttings of tomato and eggplant, and soil in connection with or attached to such tubers, plants or cuttings are hosts or possible carriers of said pest,

NOW, THEREFORE, It is declared necessary in order to prevent the introduction of the said Colorado potato beetle into this state that a quarantine be and the same is hereby established at the boundaries of the State of California in accordance with the provisions of Section 106 of the Agricultural Code of the State of California against said insect, its hosts or possible carriers, as herein described, and no such products as quarantined against in this proclamation shall be permitted to pass over the said quarantine lines hereby established and proclaimed except under and subject to the conditions herein provided.

PEST: Colorado potato beetle (Leptinotarsa decemlineata).

INFESTED AREAS: All states, districts and territories of the United States except the state of Nevada and the Territory of Hawaii.

RESTRICTED PRODUCTS: Tubers, plants and cuttings of the so-called Irish potato (Solanum tuberosum); plants and cuttings of tomato (Lycopersicon esculentum); plants and cuttings of eggplant (Solanum melongena); and soil in connection with or attached to all such tubers, plants or cuttings.

Provision 1. Certificates for Plants, Cuttings and Tubers from Non-Infested Localities.

Except as provided in Provisions 2 and 3 hereof, no restricted products herein quarantined against will be permitted entry into the State of California from said infested areas unless each shipment or lot is accompanied by a certificate signed by the duly authorized inspection official of the state, district or territory in which same originates, establishing the fact that all restricted products contained in the lot or shipment were grown in and shipped from a locality free from Colorado potato beetle.

Provision 2. Certificates for Tubers from Infested Localities.

Potato tubers which have been grown in an infested locality will be admitted providing each lot or shipment is accompanied by a certificate signed by the duly authorized inspection official of the state, district or territory in which same originates, establishing the fact that all tubers contained in the lot or shipment have been passed over a screen of not less than one inch mesh prior to loading into car or vehicle or have been otherwise freed from all soil chunks and that the shipment or lot is free from tops or portions thereof, or any other plant debris and have been placed in new or clean sacks, loaded in a car or vehicle free from debris, and that adequate precautions were taken to prevent infestation or contamination following screening.

Provision 3. Disposition of Uncertified Shipments.

Any and all lots or shipments of the products specified in this proclamation arriving in California from the said infested areas without a certificate as herein provided or not otherwise complying with the provisions of this proclamation shall be immediately sent out of the state or destroyed at the option and expense of the owner or owners, his or their responsible agents, except that the Director, his deputies or inspectors, may release small, uncertified lots or shipments of potato tubers of one hundred pounds or less providing same are found upon inspection to be free from any stage of the Colorado potato beetle, soil chunks, tops or portions thereof and other plant debris, or if so contaminated, such contamination is entirely removed and destroyed under his supervision.

COMMON CARRIER AGENTS MUST HOLD SHIPMENTS.

All products admissible under the foregoing provisions must be held by common carrier agents and not delivered to consignee or agent until inspected and passed by the Director of Agriculture, his deputy or deputies, or by a duly authorized state plant quarantine officer.

RESTRICTED PRODUCTS SUBJECT TO OTHER RULES AND REGULATIONS.

Scandinavian and people of Scandinavian descent, will, on September 26, 1940, the birthday of Leif Erickson of the State of California, United States of North America.

The spirit of democracy originated with the Scandinavian people as early as the year 900 and the democratic principles of the Vikings were carried by Leif Erickson into North America.

In honor of the contributions the Scandinavian people have given to the world, now, therefore, I, Culbert L. Olson, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim September 26, "Leif Erickson Day" in California, and urge all people of Scandinavian descent to pay tribute to their great explorer.

I, ALFRED E. BROWN, I have

Whereas, an extraordinary occasion has arisen and now exists, requiring that the Legislature of the State of California be convened; now, therefore,

I, Culbert L. Olson, Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority in me vested by section 9 of Article V of the Constitution of the State of California, do hereby convene the Legislature of the State of California to meet and assemble in extraordinary session, at Sacramento, California, on Monday, the second day of December, one thousand nine hundred and forty, at three o'clock P.M. of said day, for the following purposes and to legislate upon the following subjects, to wit:

1. To consider and act upon legislation providing the bases, terms and conditions upon which, and in accordance with unemployment experience, the rates of contributions by employers under the Unemployment Insurance Act may be reduced in conformity with the requirements for an additional credit under the Federal Unemployment Tax Act.
2. To consider and act upon legislation making an additional appropriation to the Adjutant General and the California National Guard for construction, improvements and equipment of armories, arsenals, stables, rifle ranges and camp sites, and to make an additional appropriation to the emergency fund specified in Item 212 of the Budget Act of 1939 to reimburse the fund to the extent that moneys have heretofore been made available therefrom to the Adjutant General and the California National Guard for the purposes specified herein.
3. To consider and act upon legislation to enable the State of California to establish and maintain military forces and organizations in addition to the California National Guard, as authorized by federal law.
4. To consider and act upon legislation relating to the use of the tidelands and submerged lands which were granted by the State to the City and County of San Francisco by Chapter 912 of the Statutes of 1933.
5. To consider and act upon legislation authorizing life insurers to make investments in housing projects and providing for the taxation of the projects and of insurers investing in such projects.
6. To consider and act upon legislation to authorize the erection and maintenance and to provide for the use of a wind tunnel and necessary appurtenances on the campus of the San Diego State College.
7. To consider and act upon legislation authorizing counties and sixth class cities to acquire, establish, operate, repair and

It is the policy of the State of California, through the Department of Public Safety, to reduce the number of persons killed and injured in automobile accidents on the highways, streets and highways.

It is the policy of the State of California, through the Department of Public Safety, to reduce the number of persons killed and injured in automobile accidents on the highways, streets and highways.

It is recognized that prevention of accidents is a function of the State of California, and it is the obligation of government, and therefore, the Department of Public Safety, to organize and conduct a well planned and efficient program of accident prevention, and to establish a state-wide system of traffic promotion, information and assistance.

I, Frank P. Rowland, Governor of the State of California, do hereby appoint the following to the Department of Public Safety as a Board of Traffic Safety, with the responsibility of providing a program of traffic safety:

- Director of Motor Vehicles
- Commissioner of Traffic Safety
- Chief of Police, City of Los Angeles
- Inspector of Public Works
- Deputy Director of Public Works
- Chief Engineer, Division of Highways
- Superintendent of Public Instruction
- Chief of Police, City of San Francisco
- Administrative Officer, Dept. of Education
- Chief of Police, City of San Diego

I do hereby urge all individuals and organizations interested in the traffic safety of the State to utilize the facilities of the Department of Public Safety in order that the safety program of the State may be more efficient and effective.

California, because of its climate, its scenic attractions, recreational facilities and its history, has been termed the "Playground of the Nation", and in recent years has extended its recreational efforts to the development of winter sports, thus adding to the already long list of attractions, making California truly the "State that has Everything"; and

California, in the winter sports season in which the nation's leading winter sports resorts are located, is known throughout the world renowned "California Sportsland"; and

California has exceptionally good terrain and climate throughout the season in which winter sports can be enjoyed, and is known throughout the world; and

California, this sport is of great value to the health and well-being of its citizens and to the economic life of the State;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, CULBERT L. OLSON, Governor of the Great State of California, do hereby declare and proclaim that the 23rd day of December, 1940, shall be the date of the official opening of the winter sports season in California, and further, I do hereby urge and request Californians to take advantage of this delightful winter recreation, and further, invite to California, citizens from other states and other nations to join with us.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 21st day of December, A. D., nineteen hundred and forty.

WAR ABROAD, and our own National emergency, have impressed all citizens anew with the necessity of mobilizing all of our resources of manpower, energy and material for the National defense, and given new meaning to the value of our rich "natural resources" and the necessity of conserving them, guarding them against waste and unlawful encroachment.

FOR THE past several years, the State Department of Education and the California Conservation Council, along with federal and civic organizations, have conducted extensive educational programs acquainting school children and the general public with California's great wealth of natural resources and the wisdom of conserving them.

AND, for the past several years, in pursuance of these programs of education, California has observed "Conservation Week" during the month of March at a time including Arbor Day and Luther Burbank's birthday, March 7th.

THE observance of "Conservation Week" is both timely and appropriate.

NOW, THEREFORE, to this end, I, CULBERT L. OLSON, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week beginning March 7th, 1941, as "Conservation Week" in California, and I urge wide-spread observance and participation by all citizens.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I

PROCLAMATION

This week, from March 29th through April 5th, inclusive will be observed throughout the United States as "Civilian Conservation Corps Week" in commemoration of the 8th anniversary of the operation of the Civilian Conservation Corps.

California is singularly honored with having the largest number of CCC camps in operation of any state in the Union. The contribution made by these camps to forest fire suppression, reforestation and to other one hundred and fifty types of projects, besides the business stimulation and aid to needy families, has been a tremendous asset to the state. During the past year, approximately $70,000,000 have been returned to California in the way of allotment checks from enrollment and approximately $49,000,000 has been expended in cash for new to California boys enrolled in the camps.

Therefore, due to national defense activity, it is important that the service clubs, American Legion Posts and other civic organizations in the people of California generally visit as many of the CCC camps as possible throughout the State of California, and to illustrate themselves with the splendid work being done by these faithful American citizens.

Now, therefore, I, Culbert L. Olson, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of March 29th through April 5th, 1941, as "Civilian Conservation Corps Week" in the State of California.

PROCLAMATION

The United States Congress by Resolution and the President of the United States by Proclamation have designated April 6th as "ARMY DAY."

It was the intent and purpose of President Roosevelt's proclamation that the military units of the United States and civil bodies in conducting appropriate celebrations on this day.

This year the observance of ARMY DAY is of much more importance to American citizens than at any other time within the past two decades. ARMY DAY this year will be observed, not in a time when we are preparing a great offensive military campaign, but in a time when we are building a strong defense against a confident, aggressive people, intent upon taking no chances. Let our united effort and combination of arms will ever be a terror to the American people.

If democracy is crushed through the military might of our enemies in the eastern hemisphere, America is determined to ensure that it shall not happen here.

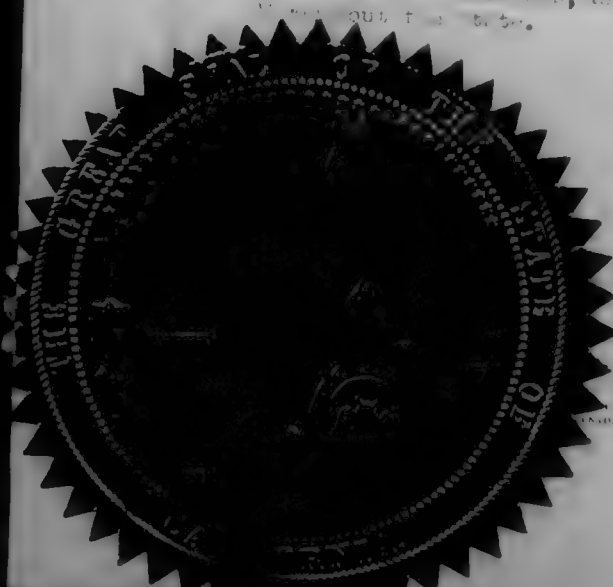

In California we have more Army encampments, with our thirty-five, than any other State in the Union. To date, 2,000 men have been inducted for military training under the provisions of the Selective Service Act, and 1,167 more will be called to arms June 10. Our National Guard with its 260 battalions and 1,000 enlisted men are in active training as an important part of our regular Army force.

In view of these facts, I, Gilbert I. Olson, Governor of the State of California, and in honor, April 6th, 1941 as "ARMY DAY" in the State of California, and call upon all civic and patriotic organizations and the State to prepare in conduct military and in celebration in observance of this day, and I likewise call upon all churches to observe this day as a day of prayer for the peace and security of our country. On Monday, April 6th, in further observance of "ARMY DAY" I request that the American Flag be flown on all public buildings, and displayed in all school classrooms throughout the State.

PROCLAMATION

Citizenship in the United States of America is a priceless and sacred privilege.

Those of us so fortunate as to be citizens by birth must be made to understand that citizenship in a democracy is an inescapable challenge to make our democracy work. It charges us to maintain in a high degree of citizenship that the Statue of Liberty shall always convey to the peoples of the rest of the world that the right to live in a free country -- a democracy, is the greatest benefaction of mankind.

Those who are citizens by naturalization, have gained the right to live under the laws of this nation as a free people, in harmony, in peace, and in security; they have gained the right to participate in the workings of our government. By their oath they have pledged themselves to uphold the Constitution of the United States and to protect our nation, when the need arises, against any attack by any foe.

The right to say "I am an American" today is the grandest privilege a person can have. It means faith in democratic processes. It declares to foreign dictators that their philosophies shall never find root in America.

The President of the United States, by proclamation, has designated the third Sunday in May as "I Am An American Day" and has asked that it be observed in recognition of American citizenship.

I, CALVERT L. OLSON, Governor of the State of California, do hereby proclaim Sunday, May 13th, 1941, as "I Am An American Day", and urge that this day be observed in patriotic fashion by all citizens both native and naturalized so that our children shall gain a fuller appreciation of the meaning of American citizenship. I call upon all public officials, all patriotic, civic, religious and educational organizations in the State of California to join in appropriate programs glorifying the meaning and virtues of citizenship in the United States of America.

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, 3,034 persons lost their lives in California last year in traffic accidents and 57,922 others were injured in the same manner, and

WHEREAS, records of 1941 to date indicate the same high rate of death and injuries will prevail this year unless the driving public is aroused to exercise greater caution in the operation of motor vehicles, and

WHEREAS, Safe driving in these critical times becomes a public duty because it tends to conserve the human and material resources of the nation for the common task of national defense,

NOW, THEREFORE, I, CULBERT L. OLSON, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week beginning May 18 and ending May 24, 1941 to be Safe Driving Week.

FURTHER, I do earnestly urge every person driving a motor vehicle in California to do his or her part in reducing the tragic toll of death and injury on our highways by driving carefully and urge all organizations interested in traffic safety to cooperate toward the achievement of the same high objective.

By the President of the United States, pursuant to the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, approved October 16, 1940, (54 Stat. 885), has proclaimed that the registration under said Act shall take place in the United States on the 1st day of July, 1941, between the hours of 7 a.m. and 9 p.m.; and

That every male citizen of the United States, and every alien residing in the continental United States or in the Territory of Hawaii, Puerto Rico, or the Territory of Alaska (other than persons exempted by section 3 (a) of the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940 or by section 208 of the Coast Guard Auxiliary and Reserve Act of 1941) is required to and shall on July 1, 1941, present himself for and submit to registration before a duly designated registration official or selective service local board having jurisdiction in the area in which he has his permanent home or in which he is known to be on that day if --

(a) Such person on or before July 1, 1941, and subsequent to October 16, 1940, has attained the twenty-first anniversary of the day of his birth, and has not heretofore been registered under the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940.

(b) Such person on October 16, 1940, had attained the twenty-first anniversary of the day of his birth and had not attained the thirty-sixth anniversary of the day of his birth and has not heretofore been registered under the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940; provided, That the duty of any person to present himself for and submit to registration in accordance with any previous proclamation issued under the said Act shall not be affected by this proclamation.

That a person subject to registration may register after the day fixed for registration in case he is prevented from registering on that day by circumstances beyond his control or because he is not present in the United States, the Territory of Hawaii, Puerto Rico, or the Territory of Alaska on that day. If he is not in the United States or the Territory of Hawaii, Puerto Rico, or the Territory of Alaska on the day fixed for registration but subsequently enters any of such places, he shall within five days after such entrance present himself for and submit to registration before a duly designated registration official or selective service local board. Registration shall be in accordance with the selective service regulations governing registration. Every person subject to registration is required to familiarize himself with such regulations and to comply therewith; and

AS the President of the United States has called upon the Governors of the several states and all officers and agents thereof and all local boards and agents thereof to do and perform all acts and services necessary to accomplish effective and complete registration;

I, M. OLSON, GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA, do proclaim as follows:

1. The second registration under the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940 shall take place on Tuesday, the first day of July, 1941, between the hours of 7 a.m. and 9 p.m.

2. I call upon every male person in the State of California who is required to register pursuant to the registration of the President of the United States to present himself and register between the hours of 7 a.m. and 9 p.m. on Tuesday, July 1, 1941, before a local board or at any other place that may have been designated by the local boards for registration.

3. I call upon all local boards and agents thereof appointed under the provisions of the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940 to do and perform all acts and services necessary to accomplish complete and effective registration.

4. I call upon all employers having employees who are required under said Act to register to permit such employees to absent themselves from their work without loss of pay in order to register.

5. I call upon the news disseminating agencies of the press and radio to lead their utmost efforts to publicize the proclamation of the President of the United States and the proclamation of the Governor of the State of California and the Selective Service Regulations in

Sweet potato tubers or yams (Ipomoea batatas) and parts thereof, sweet potato plants, vines, cuttings, draws and slips, and morning glories (Ipomoea and Convolvulus spp.) that have been grown, packed or stored in the said infested territory are hereby prohibited entry into California for any purpose whatsoever.

Provision 2. CERTIFICATE OF PRODUCTS FROM INFESTED AREAS.

Sweet potato tubers or yams (Ipomoea batatas) and parts thereof, sweet potato plants, vines, cuttings, draws and slips which have not been grown, packed or stored in the said infested territory will be admitted into the State of California only provided each lot or shipment is accompanied by an official certificate signed by the duly authorized inspection official of the state in which same originates establishing the fact that all such restricted products contained in the lot or shipment were grown, packed and stored in a district free from sweet potato weevil. Such certificate shall state the number of packages in the shipment, where grown, the name and address of the grower, the name and address of the shipper, the point of shipment, the terminal point of delivery and the name and address of the consignee. A copy of such certificate shall be mailed by shipper, in advance of shipment, to the Director of Agriculture, Sacramento, California.

Provision 3. MORNING GLORY PLANTS UNRESTRICTED
FROM NON-RESTRICTED AREAS.

Except as provided in Provision 1 hereof, morning glory plants (Ipomoea and Convolvulus spp.) are admissible into California without restriction under the provisions of this proclamation.

CARRIER AGENTS TO HOLD SHIPMENTS:

All products admissible under the foregoing provisions must be held by common carrier agents and not delivered to consignee or agent until inspected and passed by the Director of Agriculture, his deputy or deputies, or by a duly authorized State Plant Quarantine Officer.

DISPOSITION OF VIOLATIONS:

Any and all lots or shipments of products arriving in the State of California in violation of the provisions of this proclamation, shall be immediately sent out of the state or destroyed at the option and expense of the owner or bailee.

EXEMPTED PRODUCTS SUBJECT TO OTHER RULES AND REGULATIONS.

The admissibility into the State of California of any article or commodity covered by the foregoing provisions shall be further subject to the provisions of any other quarantine proclamations or regulations now in force or which may hereafter be promulgated.

ENFORCEMENT:

All deputies of the Director of Agriculture and all State Plant Quarantine Officers are hereby empowered to enforce all the provisions of this proclamation.

FEDERAL & MARITIME SHIPMENTS EXEMPT.

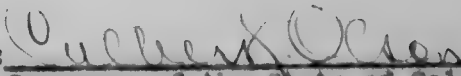

The foregoing does not apply to the experiments of the United States Department of Agriculture in the State of California.

SUPersedes PREVIOUS PROCLAMATION.

This Quarantine Proclamation No. 9 (Revised) supersedes Quarantine Proclamation No. 9 (Revised) dated July 22, 1940, and shall take effect immediately.

AND WHEREAS, parents, relatives and friends of California boys serving in the military camps of the United States located in California will want to visit them during the Independence Day week end, and

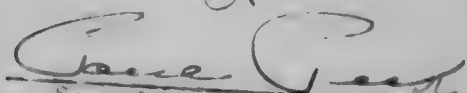

WHEREAS, it is fitting and proper that Saturday, July 5th, be set aside as a public holiday so more people may have the opportunity to visit the boys in the military encampments.

NOW KNOW ALL MEN, I, Gilbert L. Olson, Governor of the State of California, do hereby proclaim both Friday, July 4th, and Saturday, July 5th, as legal holidays in the State of California. I also make a special request that due to the increased traffic that will be on the California highways and the number of people visiting the state parks and beaches that every care and precaution be taken to prevent accidents and fatalities.

Traffic accidents on California highways during the Fourth of July period, 1940, were the heaviest in the United States, and I urge all citizens to do their part so that California's record this year will be commendable, rather than condemnable.

WHEREAS, there is a serious temporary shortage in aluminum needed for national defense, and

WHEREAS, in an effort to correct this condition the Office of Production Management and the Office of Civilian Defense, under direction of the President of the United States, have announced a nation-wide campaign, starting July 21 and continuing through July 29, to collect articles of aluminum content donated by citizens, and

WHEREAS, the United States Director of Civilian Defense, Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia, has officially requested the Governor of California to direct the campaign for the collection of said aluminum in this State, and

WHEREAS, as Governor of California and on behalf of the people of this State, I have accepted this responsibility,

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Culbert L. Olson, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim and designate the period starting July 21st and running through July 29th as a period to be devoted throughout California to the collection of used and scrap aluminum donated by citizens and business establishments for purposes of national defense, and

I do further proclaim that the collection of said aluminum in the State of California shall be under the general direction of the California State Council of Defense and its Executive Director, Mr. Richard Graves, and

I do call upon the Mayors of Cities and the Boards of Supervisors of Counties and local Councils of Defense wherever they are organized in Cities and Counties, to lead the campaign in their respective communities, and upon all public officials for their full cooperation, and

I do designate as collectors of such aluminum the Veterans' organizations, women's clubs, youth organizations, church and fraternal groups, civic clubs, business and commercial organizations and all other such clubs and groups as may volunteer for and be assigned to the task in their communities, and

I do call upon all citizens and business establishments to contribute generously with all articles of aluminum content they may have to spare to the end that California may do its full part in this campaign to supply a vital deficiency in our national defense.

Effective on and after July 28, 1941

Provision No. 6 of Quarantine Proclamation
No. 5 pertaining to Mexican Cotton Boll Weevil, and Varieties Thereof, and Pink Bollworm of Cotton, effective June 16, 1939, is hereby amended to read as follows:

Provision 6. Except as provided in Provision 5 hereof, burlap and other wrapping and containers that have been used in connection with seed cotton or cottonseed or in the baling of cotton, cotton lint or cotton waste or in the manufacture or handling of cottonseed by-products or which are contaminated with cotton or cotton products, and secondhand rags from any state of the United States are hereby prohibited unless a permit has first been secured from the Director of Agriculture or the United States Department of Agriculture. Such burlap or other fabrics or rags shall be baled in highly compressed bales marked to show the permit number and state, territory, or District of origin, and upon arrival thereof shall be vacuum fumigated in an approved fumigation chamber using a dosage schedule of four ounces of liquid hydrocyanic acid gas per one hundred cubic feet of chamber space for a period of one hour, such gas to be injected in a twenty-seven inch mercurial vacuum and vacuum maintained throughout time of exposure. In lieu of such treatment such burlap or other fabrics or rags may be allowed movement to a conversion mill which has first been approved in writing by the Director of Agriculture as having proper facilities for the prompt conversion of such burlap or other fabrics into paper or other conversion or process as the Director may approve. The importation into and all movement, treatment and conversion or processing of such burlap or other fabrics within the state of California shall be under the jurisdiction of the Director, his deputy or inspector and no such burlap or other fabrics shall be moved for any purpose whatsoever except under and subject to conditions prescribed by the authorized State Plant Quarantine Officer having jurisdiction thereof as herein provided. Persons contemplating the importing or bringing into the state of California of any such bagging or other fabrics as heretofore described in this provision, shall first make application to the Director of Agriculture for a permit to do so, stating in the application the name and address of the exporter, the locality from which the shipment is to be made, the nature and amount of the importation, the destination in California, and the name and address of the importer in the state of California to whom the permit should be sent.

NOTICE OF MODIFICATION AND REVOCATION OF
QUARANTINE PROCLAMATION NO. 7

Pertaining to Alfalfa Weevil

REVOCATION EFFECTIVE IN AND AFTER OCTOBER 1, 1941

WHEREAS, It has been determined by competent surveys conducted for a period of ten years of all known infested areas of the state that there has been no appreciable spread of alfalfa weevil (Hypera variabilis) or economic damage to alfalfa from this insect in the State of California, and

WHEREAS, The investigations of the University of California and the State Department of Agriculture support the conclusion that the alfalfa weevil is subject to both climatic and biological checks that will prevent its attaining the status of a pest in the State of California, and

WHEREAS, The dissemination of alfalfa weevil can be accomplished through the normal and uncontrollable movement of such agencies as persons, live stock, vehicles, farm implements, etc., from infested areas, and

WHEREAS, The status of cereal hay, straw, and alfalfa meal as probable carriers of alfalfa weevil has been determined to be negligible,

NOW, THEREFORE, Effective immediately, Quarantine Proclamation No. 7, dated November 10, 1939, is hereby modified to exempt from the provisions thereof all cereal hay and straw, alfalfa meal and chopped hay, except chopped alfalfa hay, and

WHEREAS, All member states of the Western Plant Board in convention assembled at Salt Lake City, Utah, June 23, 24, and 25, 1941, unanimously recommended the revocation of all quarantines of the western states directed against the alfalfa weevil, its hosts or possible carriers and established a uniform effective date thereof; and,

WHEREAS, It is now evident that California Quarantine Proclamation No. 7 pertaining to alfalfa weevil in other states no longer serves a useful purpose in preventing the further establishment of the alfalfa weevil in this state;

NOW, THEREFORE, In compliance with sound plant quarantine principles and the recommendations of the Western Plant Board, I hereby revoke California Quarantine Proclamation No. 7 dated November 10, 1939, revocation to become effective on and after October 1, 1941.

This modification and revocation in no way affects the authority provided in the Agricultural Code with regard to the inspection and disposition of plants and plant products moving interstate.

PROCLAMATION

It is especially gratifying that the West Coast has been recognized as the proper place for holding the 15th Annual Convention of the Propeller Club of the United States and the American Merchant Marine Conference by the designation of San Francisco as the host city.

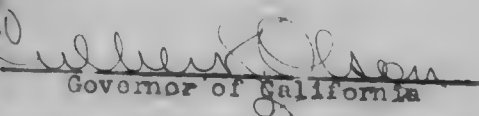

Because of California's ability to meet emergency demands with promptness and efficiency, the Federal Government is wisely spending millions of dollars in shipbuilding contracts at various shipyards in our harbors. The ports of San Francisco have been required to handle emergency shipping to an extent never before realized. All of the ports have met these demands with dispatch and efficiency.

Many important men of the shipping fraternity will attend the Convention and Conference in San Francisco. They will meet to discuss the tremendous problems of the hour. The entire nation will listen to their deliberations and the entire world will feel the results.

It is hoped that Californians, especially, will recognize the importance of the Convention and Conference and be enlightened, edified and encouraged by them.

Now, therefore, I, Culbert L. Olson, Governor of the State of California, do hereby proclaim the week of October 19, 1941, as American Merchant Marine Week and in so doing wish the greatest success to the Convention and Conference.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this twentieth day of September, A.D., nineteen hundred and forty-one.

It is especially gratifying that the West has been recognized as the proper place for holding the 15th Annual Convention of the Propeller Club of the United States and the American Merchant Marine Conference by the designation of the West as the host city.

The State's ability to meet the requirements of promptness and efficiency, in the present is wisely spending millions of dollars in shipbuilding contracts at various ports and harbors. The ports of San Francisco and Los Angeles are required to handle emergency traffic to an extent never before realized. The State is also making a large investment in the improvement of its harbors.

The representatives of the shipping industry will attend the Convention and Conference in San Francisco. They will meet to discuss the problems of the industry. The entire industry will be present for their deliberations and to report on the results.

The Californians, especially, will recognize the importance of the Convention and Conference and be enlightened, edified and benefited thereby.

I, Culbert L. Olson, Governor of California, do hereby certify that on October 19, 1919, at San Francisco, California, the 15th Annual Convention of the Propeller Club of the United States and the American Merchant Marine Conference was held and that the results of the same are as follows:

It has been customary for Scandinavians and people of Scandinavian descent, on October 9 of each year, to observe the birthday of Leif Erickson, the great seaman who landed on the shores of North America 941 years ago.

Setting democracy and its defense as the theme of this year's celebrations, Scandinavians throughout the State will observe Leif Erickson's birthday with appropriate ceremonies. This is fitting and proper as the principles of democracy originated with the Scandinavians as early as the year 900 A.D.

In tribute to the social contributions the Scandinavians have given to the world, now therefore, I, Culbert L. Olson, Governor of the State of California, do hereby proclaim October 9, 1941, as "Leif Erickson Day" in California and urge all people to patriotically join in this celebration.

The week of October 5th to 11th will be observed throughout the United States as National Business Women's Week. The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Club will hold appropriate meetings and ceremonies throughout the State, emphasizing the part that women can play in strengthening democracy for defense.

It is fitting and proper that such a week be observed in the State of California as women have contributed so much to the success of our industrial, social and economic life. During peaceful times, as well as during times of national emergency, women have always been in the forefront and the success and growth of our country is largely due to contributions of women.

In recognition and respect of their services to the country, I, Culbert L. Pertaining to European Corn Borer

Effective on and after October 30, 1941

WHEREAS, The fact has been determined by the Director of Agriculture that a dangerous insect pest known as European corn borer (Pyrausta nubilalis Hubn.) heretofore not known to exist in the State of California, exists in the hereinafter described infested areas, and that the restricted products herein described are hosts or possible carriers of said pest,

NOW, THEREFORE, It is declared necessary in order to prevent the introduction of said pest into the State of California that a quarantine be and the same is hereby established at the boundaries of the State of California in accordance with Section 106 of the Agricultural Code of the State of California against said pest, its hosts or possible carriers, and no such restricted products as quarantined against in this Proclamation shall be permitted to pass over the said quarantine lines hereby established and proclaimed except under and subject to the conditions herein provided.

PEST: European corn borer (Pyrausta nubilalis Hubn.)

INFESTED AREAS: Entire states of Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont, Virginia, West Virginia, and Wisconsin.

RESTRICTED PRODUCTS: Stalks, ears, cobs or other parts or debris of corn, broom corn, sorghums, and Sudan grass (except seed and shelled grain free from fragments of cob and other plant debris); Lima beans in the pod, green shell beans in the pod (of the variety known as cranberry or horticultural); beets with tops; and rhubarb (cut or plants).

Provision 1. Stalks, Ears, Cobs or Other Parts or Debris of Corn, Broom Corn, Sorghums, and Sudan Grass Admitted under Disinfection or Treatment Certificate.

Stalks, ears, cobs, or other parts or debris of corn, broom corn, sorghums, and Sudan grass grown in or shipped from the said infested areas imported as such or as packing or as contamination in seed or shelled grain, or otherwise, will be admitted into the State of California only providing each shipment or lot is accompanied by a certificate either (a) signed by an inspector of the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine of the United States Department of Agriculture certifying that such material contained in the shipment or lot has been disinfected or treated under the supervision of such inspector in such a manner as to eliminate all risk of transmitting the European corn borer, or (b) signed by the proper official of the state of origin certifying that such material has been treated under official supervision in a manner and by a method approved by the Director of Agriculture. Such certificate shall set forth the materials used, the dosage schedule and period of exposure and date and place of treatment.

Provision 2. Lima Beans, Green Shell Beans, Beets, and Rhubarb Admitted under Inspection Certificate.

Lima beans in the pod; green shell beans in the pod (of the variety known as cranberry or horticultural); beets with tops; and rhubarb (cut or plants) grown in or shipped from the said infested areas will be admitted into the State of California only providing each shipment or lot is accompanied by a certificate signed by an inspector of the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine of the United States Department of Agriculture or by the proper official of the state of origin certifying that such material contained in the shipment or lot has been inspected and found free from infestation by the European corn borer.

Provision 3. Clean Seed and Clean Shelled Grain Unrestricted

No restrictions are placed by this Proclamation upon the movement of seed or shelled grain from restricted plants which is free from fragments of cob and other plant debris of corn, broom corn, sorghums, or Sudan grass.

Provision 4. Manufactured or Processed Products Exempt from Restriction.

No restrictions are placed by this Proclamation upon the movement of the restricted products herein defined which are processed or manufactured in such a manner as to eliminate all danger of carrying the pest herein quarantined against.

CARRIER AGENTS MUST HOLD SHIPMENTS

All products admissible under the foregoing provisions must be held by common carrier agent and not delivered to consignee or agent until inspected and passed by the Director of Agriculture, his deputy or deputies, or by a duly authorized state plant quarantine officer.

DISPOSITION OF VIOLATIONS

Except as provided in the foregoing provisions, any lot or shipment of commodities or articles arriving in California in violation of the provisions of this Proclamation, shall be immediately sent out of the state or destroyed at the option and expense of the owner or bailee.

RESTRICTED PRODUCTS SUBJECT TO OTHER RULES AND REGULATIONS

The admissibility into the State of California of any product or commodity covered by the foregoing provisions shall be further subject to the provisions of any other quarantine proclamation or regulation now in force or which may hereafter be promulgated.

ENFORCEMENT

All Deputies of the Director of Agriculture and all State Plant Quarantine Officers are hereby empowered to carry out all the provisions of this Proclamation.

4.

QUARANTINE PROCLAMATION

This quarantine Proclamation No. 15 (Revised) supersedes quarantine Proclamation No. 15, issued December 18, 1936, and shall take effect immediately.

The unity of the peoples of the Americas, North and South, and the unity of our own citizens is of paramount importance during this war-torn era, for the preservation of democratic government and the ultimate peace of the world.

Hates and prejudices which pit class against class, race against race and creed against creed have no place in our democracy. Yet, proponents of disunity may be found attempting to foment these hates and prejudices among our citizens. We must ever be on our guard lest they make some headway and disrupt even a small part the unity of purpose of our people in preparing for our total defense, as well as giving full and complete aid to those nations fighting against the Axis powers.

New Year's Day, even before Columbus discovered America, was a time for friendly celebration among the Indians in the Western Hemisphere. For many centuries the advent of the new year was observed as a special occasion for applying the spirit of the Good Neighbor, by men and women in the old world.

During the past several years, New Year's Day has been officially proclaimed as "Good Neighbor Day" by a majority of the governors of the forty-eight states. It has become an occasion devoted to extending hospitality and good cheer to the unfortunates and building good will between all peoples.

Now therefore, I, Culbert L. Olson, Governor of the State of California, do hereby proclaim New Year's Day, 1942, as "Good Neighbor Day" in California and urge all civic, religious and patriotic organizations to make plans for the proper observance of this day. I also urge that the American Flag be flown from all state, county and municipal buildings as well as from all homes as a public expression of determination on the part of our people to bring about a better understanding, a better living condition and a better guarantee for the protection, the well being, the prosperity and happiness of men, women and children. I also urge that all citizens highly resolve that "Good Neighbor Day" shall be observed every day during the year 1942, so that the unity of our people shall be so strong that no proponent of hate and prejudice can ever penetrate and disrupt the national unity present conditions demand.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this twenty-fourth day of November, A. D., nineteen hundred and forty-one.

December 15, 1941, marks the Sesqui-Centennial of the adoption by the people and Congress of the United States of the first ten amendments to the Constitution -- known and revered as the Bill of Rights. For a century and a half, it has stood as the charter of the liberties of the American people. It is not only a part of the Constitution; it is the soul of that immortal document.

The Bill of Rights established the freedoms for which the founders of our country struggled and for which revolutionary sacrifices were made. Succeeding generations have safeguarded these freedoms. It inspires us today to renew our loyalty to the principles of human equality upon which they rest. Freedom of worship, freedom of speech, freedom of the press, freedom of assembly--these are the pillars which sustain the temple of liberty under law.

On this one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the adoption of the Bill of Rights, it is fitting that Americans rededicate themselves to the maintenance of these freedoms, particularly because this anniversary comes at a time when gangsters abroad are determined upon abolishing those freedoms and establishing tyranny and human slavery.

Against such attempts from within or without our country, the American people must stand firm and be prepared to fight and make all necessary sacrifices. True Americans of all races and creeds, regardless of political affiliations, welcome the opportunity which the Sesqui-Centennial of the Bill of Rights affords them, to reaffirm their devoted loyalty to the fundamental principles of personal liberty and human equality embodied in our Bill of Rights.

In observance of this determination, and also in view of the events planned by various organizations throughout the State of California, the period from December 8th through December 15th should be designated as "Bill of Rights Days".

NOW THEREFORE, I, Culbert L. Olson, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period from December 8th through December 15th as "Bill of Rights Days". I urge all schools, colleges and universities to give special instruction in their classes as to the meaning of our Bill of Rights. I further urge all civic,

PROCLAMATION

President Franklin Delano Roosevelt, on January 14, 1942, issued a proclamation requiring all Japanese, Germans and Italians, fourteen years of age or over who are not citizens of the United States, to secure Certificates of Identification. The Department of Justice has set the period from February 2 through February 7, 1942 for these aliens to register for identification purposes in California.

The general requirements of the identification program are:

- (1) All German, Italian and Japanese aliens, (technically known as alien enemies) who are fourteen years of age or over, must file application for a Certificate of Identification.
- (2) All such aliens must file applications within the period from February 2 through February 7.
- (3) Applications for Certificates of Identification must be filed at First or Second Class or County Seat Post Offices. The alien is required to go to any such post office nearest his place of residence.
- (4) Aliens filing applications must bring with them their Alien Registration Receipt Card, and three unmounted photographs of themselves, with light background, 2" x 2" in size, printed on thin paper. These photographs must have been taken not more than 30 days prior to the time the alien presents his application and must be taken front view and without a hat.
- (5) Aliens filing applications may take a member of their family or a friend to the post office. If they cannot write, they are advised to take someone with them who writes plainly. If such a person is not available, clerks at the post office will help them with their applications.
- (6) Certificates of Identification will be delivered to the aliens personally at their residence address. Aliens are asked to cooperate in every way possible with the post office carriers to facilitate delivery and acceptance.
- (7) The requirements should involve no expense to the aliens except for the photographs. It is not necessary to pay any person or organization for assistance. The government, which includes the post offices, will assist the alien as much as possible.

(3) Complete printed instructions for filing applications are available at all post offices.

NOW, THEREFORE, in view of these facts, I, Culbert L. Olson, Governor of the State of California, do hereby proclaim the period of February 2 through February 7, 1942, as Alien Registration Period for the purpose of securing Certificates of Identification. I urge all German, Italian and Japanese aliens, fourteen years of age or over, to comply with the requirements of the Federal Government within this time.

The conservation and the prudent utilization of our natural resources always of great importance must be specially observed now.

The educational activities of the State Departments of Education and of Natural Resources, the California Conservation Council and various federal and civic organizations have, in the past, served well to impress citizens with the importance of this policy. To this same end, "Conservation Week" will again be observed in March at a time including Arbor Day and Father Urbanek's birthday, March 7.

This year, the observance of "Conservation Week" assumes a new and even greater importance.

DECLARATION

THE PRESIDENT of the United States, pursuant to the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, as amended, (50 Stat. 645), has proclaimed that the third registration under said Act shall take place in the United States on the 16th day of February, 1942, between the hours of 7:00 a.m. and 9:00 p.m.; and

That every male citizen of the United States, and every male alien residing in the continental United States or in the Territory of Hawaii, Puerto Rico, or the Territory of Alaska (other than persons exempted by section 5 (a) of the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, as amended, or by section 203 of the Coast Guard Auxiliary and Reserve Act of 1941) is required to and shall on February 16, 1942, present himself for and submit to registration before a duly designated registration official or selective service local board having jurisdiction in the area in which he has his permanent home or in which he may happen to be on that day if--

(a) such person on or before December 31, 1941, has attained his 20th birthday and has not heretofore been registered under the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, as amended.

(b) such person on December 31, 1941, had attained the twentieth anniversary of the day of his birth and had not attained the 45th anniversary of the day of his birth on February 1, 1942 and has not heretofore been registered under the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, as amended: Provided, that the duty of any person to present himself for and submit to registration in accordance with any previous proclamation issued under the said Act shall not be affected by this proclamation.

That a person subject to registration may register after the day fixed for registration in case he is prevented from registering on that day by circumstances beyond his control or because he is not present in the United States, the Territory of Hawaii, Puerto Rico, or the Territory of Alaska on that day. If he is not in the United States or the Territory of Hawaii, Puerto Rico, or the Territory of Alaska on the day fixed for registration but subsequently enters any of such places, he shall within five days after such entrance present himself for and submit to registration before a duly designated registration official or selective service local board. If he is in the United States or in the Territory of Hawaii, Puerto Rico, or the Territory of Alaska on the day fixed for registration but because of circumstances beyond his control is unable to present himself for and submit to registration on that day, he shall do so as soon as possible after the cause for such inability ceases to exist.

That the registration shall be in accordance with the selective service regulations governing registration. A person subject to registration is required to familiarize himself with such regulations and to comply therewith; and

That, the President of the United States has called upon the governors of the several states and all officers and agents thereof and all local boards and agents thereof to do and perform all acts and services necessary to accomplish effective and complete registration;

That, W. L. GILSON, Governor of the State of California, do proclaim as follows:

1. That due to the large number of citizens to be registered in California that three days be observed as registration days.

2. That the third registration under the selective training and service act of 1918, as amended, shall take place on Monday, Sunday and Monday, February 11, 12 and 13, 1940 between the hours of 1:00 a.m. and 9:00 p.m.

Three days are being set aside on working in defense industries will not have to take time off to register, thus not interrupting production. It is important that these men register on their own time.

3. I call upon every male person in the State of California who is required to register pursuant to the proclamation of the President of the United States to present himself and register between the hours of 1:00 a.m. and 9:00 p.m. on either of the above stated dates, before a local board or at any other place that may have been designated by the local boards for registration.

4. I call upon all local boards and agents thereof appointed under the provisions of the selective training and service act of 1918 or the selective service regulations promulgated thereunder to do and perform all acts and services necessary to accomplish complete and effective registration.

5. I call upon all employers having employees who are required under said act to register to permit such employees to absent themselves from their work without loss of pay in order to register.

6. I call upon the great news disseminating agencies of the press and radio to lend their utmost efforts to

WHEREAS, an extraordinary occasion has arisen and now exists requiring that the Legislature of the State of California be convened;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Culbert L. Olson, Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority in me vested by Section 9 of Article V of the Constitution of the State of California, do hereby convene the Legislature of the State of California to meet and assemble in extraordinary session at Sacramento, California, on Saturday, the 17th day of January, One Thousand Nine Hundred and Forty-two, at 10 o'clock, P. M. of said day, for the following purposes and to legislate upon the following subjects, to wit:

1. To consider and act upon legislation authorizing the City and County of San Francisco to grant to the United States of America, for the use of the Navy Department of said United States, title in fee to those tide and submerged lands heretofore granted by the State to said City and county by Chapter 912, Statutes of 1933; consenting on behalf of the State to the acquisition of said lands by the United States and reserving to the State the power of taxation and the authority to serve civil and criminal process; and conferring upon the United States the powers now had by said city and county to raise, fill, and reclaim said lands and for that purpose to dredge said lands and submerged lands adjacent thereto.

2. To consider and act upon legislation providing for wage and salary deductions for the purchase of United States Savings Bonds or similar obligations of the United States for public officers and employees of the State of California, counties, cities and counties, cities, municipal corporations, political sub-divisions, public districts and of other public agencies of the State of California.

3. To consider and act upon legislation making county probation officers and superintendents of state correctional schools eligible to serve, without additional compensation, as members of the Youth Correction Authority.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this seventeenth day of January, A. D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Forty-two.

The people of the State of California are in the front ranks of the struggle which has been thrust upon us from the East. They have been subjected to the harrowing expectation of a third world war by sea. They have, therefore, experienced the bitter consequences of their fellow citizens who are fighting the enemy. They sympathize deeply with the Allies.

Therefore, they will wish to express their sympathy through the American Red Cross which has always stood for the alleviation of suffering of all humanity. Through the American Red Cross it is our desire and our duty to aid our fellow citizens who have been mercilessly attacked to build our own defense stronger, and to hold our protecting army and navy into a spiritually unshakable armed force.

The people of California will wish to be also in the front ranks of the drive financially to the Red Cross. A national American Red Cross war fund of a minimum of fifty million dollars is needed to carry on this vital work.

With the deepest conviction that all the people of this State will wish to share in this humanitarian endeavor.

I, Culbert L. Olson, Governor of the State of California, proclaim the beginning, as of this date, of a new drive campaign for the raising of four million five hundred and thirty-three thousand dollars in California through the collection of twenty-five chapters of the American Red Cross. I call upon the citizens of this State to make this campaign an overwhelming success.

I, Culbert L. Olson, Governor of the State of California, have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this thirteenth day of December, A. D., nineteen hundred and forty-one.

WHEREAS, the National Boys and Girls Week Committee has selected the week of April 25th to May 2nd, 1942, inclusive, for the twenty-second annual observance of "BOYS AND GIRLS WEEK" throughout the United States; and

WHEREAS, the objects of this week are to awaken an increasing number of adults to the joys and opportunities of helping youths; to give impetus to year-round programs and character building activities for the general welfare of boys and girls and acquaint the public with agencies serving this purpose; to emphasize the importance of education and the complete development of boys and girls, physically, mentally and spiritually, calling attention to duties in the home, the school, and the church in this development; to instill in boys and girls love of country, and a realization of the benefits and responsibilities of citizenship; and

WHEREAS, boys and girls need the help and encouragement of every community and every organization in their character building; and their confidence in the future of our Republic and its democratic processes; and

WHEREAS, to win the war and also the peace for the democracies in the present international conflict, we must have not only better armies and navies, but better boys and girls as well, and the character building of our youth must not be neglected even while we are required to give so much thought and energy to winning the war.

I, Culbert L. Olson, Governor of the State of California, call upon all the citizens of California to join with those of the other states in the observance of Boys and Girls Week during the week of April 25th to May 2nd, 1942, inclusive, which I do hereby proclaim as Boys and Girls Week in the State of California.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be hereto affixed this third day of April, A. D. one thousand, nine hundred and forty-two.

Whereas, the Governors of many of our forty-eight states are jointly in proclaiming the week of April 12th to April 19th as "China Relief Week"; and

Whereas, China, the last remaining stronghold of Democracy in the Orient, has for nearly five years bravely withstood Japanese assaults and has been overwhelmed and is suffering;

Whereas, the people of our United States, now joined in arms with us as its friend and ally against the common enemy, subscribe unanimously to President Roosevelt's solemn assertion that "it is essential that we help China";

I, Gilbert L. Olson, Governor of the State of California, do hereby proclaim the week of April 12th to April 19th, 1942 to be known as "China Relief Week", and do hereby call upon the people of California to observe this week as one devoted to securing assistance to the people of China in their plight.

PROCLAMATION

BEFORE, the United States Treasury Department is asking that the earnings of every American citizen be enlisted in a national program of systematic thrift; and

WHEREAS, many thousands of volunteer Minute Men, as their answer to a threat to democracy, will devote their own time and efforts by visiting every resident of this great state, seeking his or her moral obligation in this time of financial need; and

THAT, it is necessary that every man, woman and child in California sign a voluntary pledge to save regularly out of current income through the purchase of War Savings Stamps and Bonds; and

THAT, it would be a splendid attestation of loyalty were every Californian to pledge to the extent of his, or her financial ability, a stipulated purchase of Bonds each month until victory over our enemies is achieved, such pledges being expressions of willingness to aid the nation in a critical hour, and are not in conflict with, but are a confirmation of the payroll savings pledges already signed by so many of our workers who are doing their share without complaint,

Now, I, DONALD W. SWANSON, I, Culbert L. Olson, Governor of California, do hereby designate the week of May 24-31, 1942, as California's Victory Week, and I urge each citizen to pledge to set aside regular savings for the purchase of War Savings Bonds or Stamps. I also urge the Mayor of every city to issue similar proclamations so that California can and will over-subscribe her quota of $40,011,100. for the month of May.

PROCLAMATION

In the war now being waged by the enemies of Democracy and many nations and peoples, fighting shoulder to shoulder for human freedom. The citizens of each such nation must recognize in their respective governments, certain concepts of human dignity; the right to wholesome living and cultural development; protection in childhood, security in manhood and peace in old age.

There are not considerations which drive nations to invade and conquer other nations or peoples to enslave and degrade other peoples, but it does impel them to resist with all the force at their command, all attempts at aggression and enslavement and will not let them rest until victory is theirs.

Our Country has the honor to be among the Nations fighting for human values as opposed to a mechanized state; for the rights of the plain men and women as opposed to an evil group who despise their fellows. This is our heritage and our destiny.

To each of us should come a special satisfaction and pride when he has cause to say, "I am an American," and with stout hearts and heads held high, we should fling this phrase into the teeth of the enemy as a challenge and solemn notice that Democracy will not be ground into the dust but that the principles of freedom and equality for which America stands, will in the end, flourish throughout the world.

NO, THEREFORE, I, Culbert L. Olson, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Sunday, May 17, 1942, as "I am an American" Day, and urge that this day be observed in patriotic manner by all our citizens. I call upon all public officials, all patriotic, civic, religious and educational organizations in the State of California to join in appropriate programs highlighting the meaning and virtues of citizenship in the United States of America.

hereunto set my hand

PROCLAMATION

General Douglas MacArthur has become a symbol of the military might of the allied nations.

General MacArthur, after serving his country and its armed forces in peace time and in the past World War, rose to the position of Chief of Staff of the United States Army. Thereafter, he gave tangible and permanent expression to the enlightened American colonial policy, through his splendid relations with the officials and people of the Philippine Islands. There, too, the General's magnificent ability in the field of military science was demonstrated by his establishment and training of the intrepid Philippine Army.

But above all, the world has been inspired by the gallant struggle of General MacArthur and his faithful followers against overwhelming forces of aggression in the Philippines, Bataan Peninsula, Corregidor, and now the Southwest Pacific theater of warfare.

General MacArthur has become a symbol of the rising might of the American democracy and of the forces of all of the united nations struggling to prevent the eclipse of democratic institutions by the ruthless forces of totalitarianism.

It is, therefore, fitting and proper that we designate a day of celebration to be known as "Douglas MacArthur Day", during which we may celebrate the military success he and his forces have achieved to date, and contemplate the ultimate triumph of democracy in the days to come.

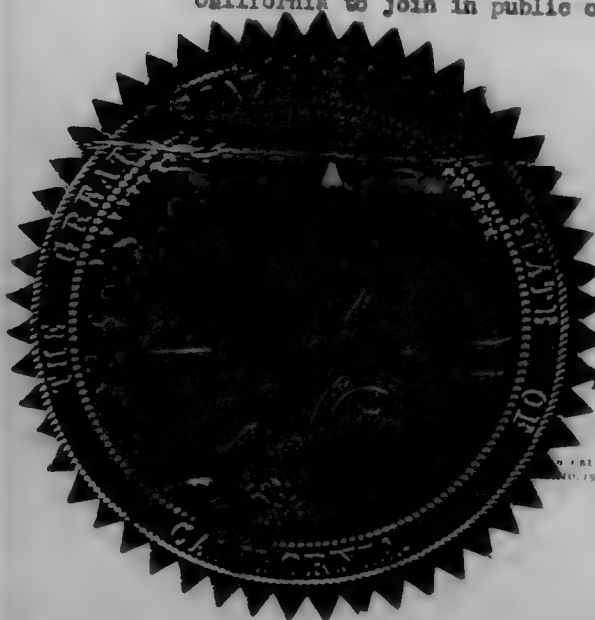

Now, therefore, I, Culbert L. Olson, Governor of the State of California, pursuant to the authority vested in me by the constitution and laws of the State of California, do hereby proclaim Saturday, June 13, 1942, to be Douglas MacArthur day, and call upon all citizens and public officials of the State of California to join in public observance of that day.

WHEREAS June 14 is the anniversary of the adoption by the Continental Congress June 14, 1777, of the Stars and Stripes as the emblem of the United States, and with that date began the history of our Flag as a symbol of our nationality; and

WHEREAS, the American Flag Day Association, which for nearly fifty years has led the observance of "Flag Day" as a patriotic influence for national unity, with other patriotic, fraternal, civic, military, social, service, educational, religious and other organizations cooperating and participating, have by their example shown the nation at large the patriotic influences which such observances exert and

WHEREAS, our Country is engaged in a war to preserve the liberties of which the Flag of the United States is the glorious symbol, and the citizens of California in common with loyal Americans on the far-flung battle fronts of the world are fighting, sacrificing and working in a united and determined effort that the freedoms won and preserved for us by our forefathers shall not perish from the earth; and

WHEREAS, the period of June 8-14 has been designated as Flag Week by The United States Flag Association, during which suitable patriotic exercises will be conducted to pay homage to our National Emblem as one more evidence of the courage and patriotism, love and loyalty of the American people; and

WHEREAS, by such celebration of our first national bann our pride in our nation and in American citizenship is stimulated and emphasized, our faith in and devotion to our Republic and American institutions strengthened, a greater love of country shown, our patriotism rekindled;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Culbert L. Olson, Governor of the State of California, do hereby proclaim June 8-14 as Flag Week and direct that during this period the Flag of the United States be displayed on all government and public buildings. Furthermore, I do urge the people of California to display the Stars and Stripes at their homes, places of business, and elsewhere, and to conduct patriotic ceremonies as a public expression of our love of Country, national unity, and allegiance to our National Emblem, the symbol of our civic faith, the beacon of hope to liberty-loving people throughout the world.

PROCLAMATION BY DIRECTOR OF AGRICULTURE

By virtue of the authority vested in the Director of Agriculture by Section 1088 of the Agricultural Code, I, W. J. Ceall, Director of Agriculture of the State of California, do hereby proclaim a regulation relative to products to be used on food crops to be known as Economic Poisons Regulation No. 9 (Revised). This regulation will be in full force and effect July 29, 1942, and consists of the following provisions:

ECONOMIC POISONS REGULATION No. 9 (Revised)
(Originally issued August 1, 1938. Revised June 29, 1942)

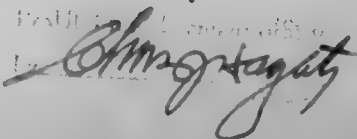

Relative to Products to be Used on Food Crops

The label of an economic poison intended for use on, or sold for application to, any food crop and containing any arsenic expressed as metallic in excess of 0.25%, any lead expressed as metallic in excess of 0.25%, or any fluorine in excess of 0.25%, shall state the percentage of each.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the official seal of the Department of Agriculture to be affixed in Sacramento, California, this 29th day of June, 1942.

PROCLAMATION

Chas. Gregory

All over the world today Americans are fighting and dying to keep America free. They are defending our country, our people and our democracy.

The right to vote is one of the fundamental privileges of free people in a democracy; it is the first right denied the enslaved people in totalitarian nations and in conquered countries. We must preserve it in America; we cannot let it be taken from us, nor permit it to go by default.

In order to vote, the law requires citizens to be registered. All citizens are eligible to register to vote who are over 21 years of age, who have been residents of the State of California prior to November 3, 1941, and who have been residents of the county in which they presently reside for ninety days prior to November 3, 1942.

It is necessary for all citizens to register or re-register if they did not vote at the 1940 elections, if they have changed their place of residence since they last registered, or if their name has been changed through marriage or court decree.

Complete information of places for registration may be obtained from the County Clerks of the several counties or from County Registrars of Voters. The final date for registration for the general election of this year is September 24, 1942.

To prove to the world that our democracy can and does function effectively and efficiently, even in the midst of a conflict testing its very ability to survive, to establish that democracy is not decadent as claimed by axis propagandists, it is most essential that all citizens register to vote and that they do exercise their right of franchise this year.

NOW, I, CECIL W. OLSEN, Governor of the State of California, pursuant to the authority vested in me by the Constitution and laws of this state, do hereby proclaim the period from September 14 through September 24, 1942, to be REGISTERATION WEEK, and call upon all citizens of California to register to vote. And I call upon management, labor, civic, patriotic, fraternal, religious and all other groups and the press to encourage all citizens of California to register to vote by displaying and publicizing REGISTERATION WEEK, and by posting this proclamation in appropriate places.

I, CECIL W. OLSEN, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 17 day of September, A. D. Nineteen hundred and forty-two.

PROCLAIMED
Alfred S. B. H.
The necessity of conserving the consumption of meats has been urged by the President of the United States through the Food Requirements Committee of the War Production Board and the Office of Agricultural War Relations of the United States Department of Agriculture.

The Hotel and Restaurant Industries of California have indicated their eagerness to cooperate with the Federal Government in a program destined to curtail consumption of meat so that the requirements of our armed forces and of our non-military obligations may be met.

The people of California have many times demonstrated their willingness to make any sacrifices necessary to win the war, even to the extent of self denial of commodities considered necessities of life. I therefore feel no hesitancy in calling upon the people of California to observe one meatless day in each week on which no meat in the form of beef, veal, lamb, mutton and pork shall be consumed in any household, restaurant, hotel or other eating establishment in the State of California. Included from this provision, however, shall be the so-called variety meats, which include liver, heart, kidneys, sweet-breads, tongue and meats made from the head and feet of animals.

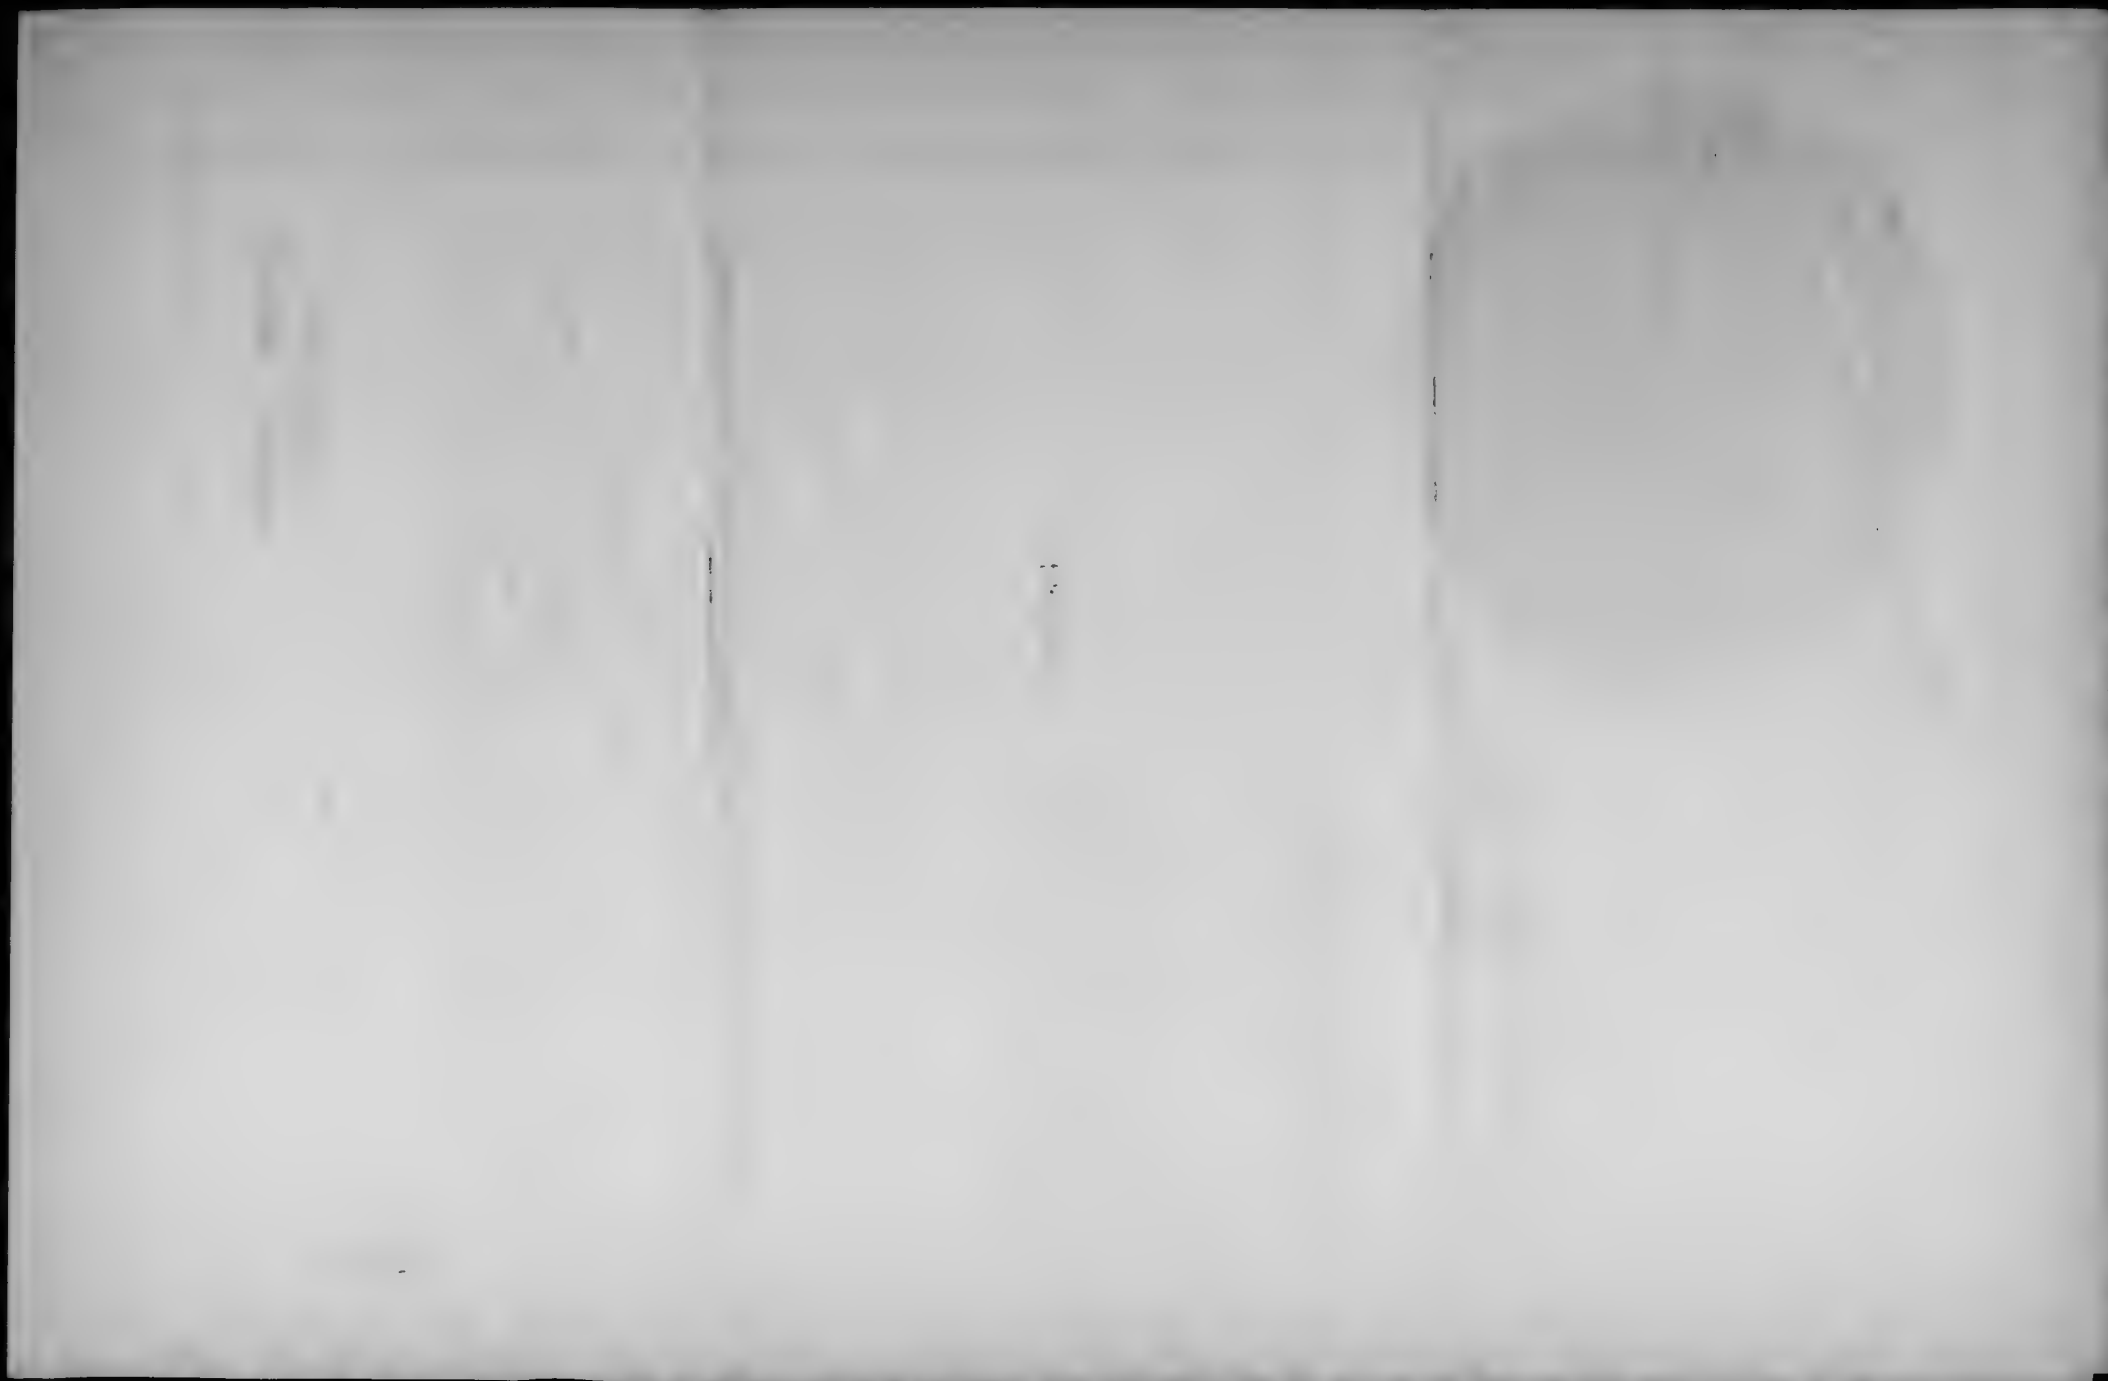

On October 1, California's alone, Governor of the State of California, do hereby proclaim that each Monday, starting with November 6, 1945, and continuing for the duration of the war, shall be a "meatless day" in the State of California, during which all citizens will cooperate with the war effort by voluntarily foregoing the consumption of the meats enumerated herein.

THE PRESIDENT, the President of the United States, pursuant to the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, as amended (54 Stat. 885), has proclaimed that the sixth registration under said Act shall take place in the United States between the hours of 7:00 a.m. and 9:00 p.m. on the following dates: December 11, 1942; December 18, 1942; and December 26, 1942. The provisions of the President's proclamation which are to be followed are:

1. (a) Those who were born on or after July 1, 1924, but not after August 31, 1924, shall be registered on any day during the week commencing Friday, December 11, 1942, and ending Thursday, December 17, 1942;

(b) Those who were born on or after September 1, 1924 but not after October 31, 1924, shall be registered on any day during the week commencing Friday, December 18, 1942, and ending Thursday, December 24, 1942;

(c) Those who were born on or after November 1, 1924, but not after December 31, 1924, shall be registered on any day during the period commencing Saturday, December 26, 1942, and ending Thursday, December 31, 1942;

(4) During the continuance of the present war, those who were born on or after January 1, 1925 shall be registered on the day they attain the eighteenth anniversary of the day of their birth; provided, that if such anniversary falls on a Sunday or a legal holiday, their registration shall take place on the day following that is not a Sunday or a legal holiday.

2. (a) Every male citizen of the United States, and every other male person residing in the continental United States or in the Territory of Alaska or in the Territory of Hawaii or in Puerto Rico, other than persons excepted by section 5 (a) of the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, as amended, or by section 208 of the Coast Guard Auxiliary and Reserve Act of 1941, is required to and shall during the time or on the day fixed herein for his registration present himself for and submit to registration before a duly designated registration official or selective service local board having jurisdiction of the area in which he has his permanent home or in which he may happen to be during that time or on that day if such male citizen or other male person has not heretofore been registered under the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, as amended, and the regulations prescribed thereunder.

(b) The duty of any person to present himself for and submit to registration in accordance with any previous proclamation issued under said Act shall not be affected by this proclamation.

(c) A person subject to registration may be registered after the time or day fixed for his registration in case he is prevented from registering during that time or on that day by circumstances beyond his control. If he is unable to present himself for and submit to registration during the time or on the day fixed for his registration, he shall do so as soon as possible after the cause for such inability ceases to exist.

3. The registration under this proclamation shall be in accordance with the Selective Service Regulations governing registration. Every person subject to registration is required to familiarize himself with such regulations and to comply therewith.

WHEREAS, the President of the United States has called upon the Governors of the several states and all officers and agents thereof and all local boards and agents thereof to do and perform all acts and services necessary to accomplish effective and complete registration;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, ELLIS E. PATTERSON, Acting Governor of the State of California, do proclaim as follows:

1. That the sixth registration under the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, as amended, shall take place in the State of California at the dates and hours above mentioned.
2. I call upon every male person in the State of California who is required to register pursuant to the proclamation of the President of the United States to present himself and register between the hours of 7:00 a.m. and 9:00 p.m. on the above stated dates, before a local board or at any other place that may have been designated by the local board for registration.
3. I call upon all local boards and agents thereof appointed under the provisions of the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940 or the Selective Service Regulations prescribed thereunder to do and perform all acts and services necessary to accomplish complete and effective registration.
4. I call upon all employers having employees who are required under said Act to register to permit such employees to absent themselves from their work without loss of pay in order to register.
5. I call upon the great news disseminating agencies of the press and radio to lend their utmost efforts to publicize the Proclamation of the President of the United States and the Proclamation of the Governor of the State of California and the Selective Service Regulations in every newspaper and periodical and over every broadcast facility within their respective jurisdictions.

In our struggle to move tomorrow's world a better way, we must fight many battles.

As we concentrate our efforts upon global warfare of the collection of our freedoms from aggressors and dictators, we must make certain there is no abandonment of the goals which have been recorded in other fields.

At this time, we are working to preserve our civilization and must not be permitted to interrupt our efforts to retain and preserve the youth which is to enjoy our victory. There must be no abandonment of the fight against aggressors, but eating up our boys and girls and our young men when the time of commitment of the full realization of the battle is reached.

Believing that any gap in our front against aggression must not be permitted to interrupt our efforts to retain and preserve the youth which is to enjoy our victory, I hereby give official emphasis to the fact that the drive for funds being launched by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

It is my hope that the citizenry of California will make a contribution in their response in behalf of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. It is a fight which President Roosevelt has annually called for and which his authority is now indicated.

I, THOMAS H. BROWN, Governor of California, do hereby call upon the citizens of California to broaden the scope of their contribution by assisting in the fight for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

As a nation, we are today engaged in a desperate war for survival. We are so all-encompassing that it involves the very existence of our civilization.

In standing for the right of men to live together in peace with broad principles of self-government, it is our duty to recognize the fact that the liberal society depends upon the character of the man.

Individuals we have been called upon to work and to shoulder, with every resource at our command, for the kind of society which we consider best. We this because of a faith that the best way of life develops under free institutions which permit broad latitude in individual action. We do it with courage because we sense clearly that the only way to the overwhelming aspiration of man is to be free.

We have attained this degree of unity and understanding upon a period of war, we must strive to maintain and preserve it in times of peace. In such unity there is no place for distinction among us by reason of race, creed or color. The blood and sacrifice of war must be made to write the word of unity upon the hearts of all.

Our nation is a comment upon our civilization. The values which we have and upon which we pride ourselves in all our activities have been approved in furtherance of our freedom. We have been understanding, friends, less and more to the principles of these principles will make us to the people of the world and to the people of our own nation.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have
hereunto set my hand
and caused the Great
Seal of the State of

Ever since the Crucifixion of Christ have the civilized peoples of the world of all races and creeds been in such need of Divine protection and guidance as today.

There hangs over every portion of the globe the specter of the destruction of civilization and the suppression of Christianity.

Will there directed by Godless men are striving to impose their will upon freedom loving men and women and children and to deprive them of their right to worship
God in their own way.

Friday of Holy Week, observed as the anniversary of the Crucifixion of Christ, is a day for reflection. In these times of dark forebodings, it is more than ever be an occasion for devout prayer, asking for the blessings the Almighty can bestow upon our country and the world.

I urge upon all our citizens proper observance of this holy day and as Governor of California, I, Earl Warren, authorize all State employees who desire to attend church services between the hours of 12:00 and 3:00 on April 23, 1944, to absent themselves from their duties for

ARTICLE I. AN ACT:

All states, districts, and territories of the United States.

RESTRICTED PRODUCTS:

Sweet potato plants, vines, cuttings, draws, and slips of sweet potato tubers or so-called yams (Ipomoea batatas), and morning glory plants (Ipomoea and Convolvulus spp.).

Provision 1. PRODUCTS PROHIBITED FROM INFESTED AREAS

Except as provided in Provision 2 hereof, sweet potato tubers or yams (Ipomoea batatas) and parts thereof, sweet potato plants, vines, cuttings, draws, and slips, and morning glories (Ipomoea and Convolvulus spp.) that have been grown, packed, or stored in the said infested area are hereby prohibited entry into California for any purpose whatsoever.

Provision 2. SWEET POTATO TUBERS GROWN, PACKED, OR STORED IN THE SAID AREA ADMITTED IF TREATED AS FOLLOWS:

Sweet potato tubers grown, packed, or stored in the herein described infested area will be admitted into the State of California only providing same have been fumigated (at owner's risk) in a fumigation chamber by an approved method and certified in accordance with Provision 4 (a) hereof and protected from post-treatment infestation.

* Approval of fumigation chamber shall be by the Director of Agriculture.

Provision 3. ALL RESTRICTED PRODUCTS FROM NONINFESTED AREA ADMITTED UNDER CERTIFICATE OF ORIGIN

Any and all restricted products herein defined which have been grown, packed, or stored in the said infested area (including morning glories, which are unrestricted from noninfested areas) will be admitted into the State of California only providing same are officially certified in accordance with Provision 4 (b) hereof affirming such facts.

Provision 4. TREATMENT AND ISSUANCE OF CERTIFICATES

Each lot or shipment of restricted products must be accompanied by a certificate issued by a duly-authorized inspection official of the state, territory, or district of origin.

(a) For cured tubers only - If tubers were grown, packed, or stored in the herein described infested area, said certificate must affirm that all tubers in said lot or shipment were fumigated immediately prior to shipment under the personal supervision of the certifying officer for a Station in California today is the 13th Armored Cavalry of the United States Army, only unit of its kind organized, activated and trained entirely within our State.

so has been granted by Major General John B. Wogan, Commanding General, who has further designated the Fourth day of July as a day for christening and review of the men from every state in the Union, the combat training at Fort Ord, near Marysville, California, and it has become the desire of its officers and men that the Division be permitted to name its armored vehicles after the states and counties of the state.

In recognition of this tribute to our State, I have requested the cooperation of civic leaders throughout the State to the end that this wish may be formally fulfilled and now, on this Flag Day of 1943, a day of tribute to the emblem of the Nation, for purposes which this highly trained and patriotic citizenry understand, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, call upon all the people of our Commonwealth, to join me in honoring and proclaim California's sponsorship of the United States Flag and designate it as "California's Flag Day".

PROCLAMATION

Establishing a 35-mile per hour speed limit in California and calling for the enforcement thereof

WHEREAS, by executive order the President of the United States has vested in the Director of Defense Transportation the authority to take all necessary measures to conserve the highway transportation facilities of the nation; with particular reference to the conservation of rubber; and

WHEREAS, pursuant to the authority so vested in him, the Honorable Joseph B. Eastman, Director of Transportation, on September 26, 1942, issued an order designated as General Order, Office of Defense Transportation No. 23, which in part reads as follows:

"Section 501.126 Limitation on Speed. No person shall drive or operate or cause, permit, suffer or allow to be driven or operate any motor vehicle within the continental limits of the United States at a rate of speed which is (1.) in excess of the applicable speed limit duly prescribed by competent public authority, or (2.) in excess of thirty-five (35) miles per hour, whichever rate of speed is the lesser.

"Section 501.127 Exemption. The provisions of this sub-part shall not apply to: (A.) Any motor vehicle driven or operated by or under the direction of the military or naval forces of the United States, or state military forces organized pursuant to Section 61 of the National Defense Act as amended.

"(B.) Any motor vehicle when driven or operated in emergency for the protection or preservation of life, health, or for public safety: providing that this paragraph shall not be so construed as to authorize any such motor vehicle to be driven or operated at a rate of speed in excess of that which is reasonable under conditions prevailing at said time.

"Section 501.129 Effective Date. This sub-part shall become effective October 1, 1942 and shall remain in full force and effect until further order of the office of Defense Transportation, except that as to any person operating any motor vehicle for hire in scheduled regular route service, shall become effect on October 15, 1942."

and,

WHEREAS, said order is fully justified by the present war emergency existing in the nation, and particularly in the State of California, a state of emergency having been proclaimed to exist within the State of California by proclamation of the Governor thereof on December 14, 1941; and

WHEREAS, it is necessary that the speed limit so ordered be observed, and that provision be made for the enforcement thereof in order to conserve public and private transportation in this State;

Now, therefore, I, CULBERT L. OLSON, Governor of the State of California, under and by virtue of the authority vested in me as chief executive of the State of California, and in response to the appeal to all state and local governments to make effective the said order of the Director of Defense Transportation, do hereby declare and proclaim that it is necessary to the war effort that the said speed regulations above set forth be strictly observed in the State of California from and after October 1, 1942, except that this order shall not be deemed to increase any existing speed limit within the State of California.

I further call upon each and every driver of a motor vehicle within the State of California, as his patriotic duty, to observe said speed limit to conserve to the fullest extent the rubber which is so vital to the war effort.

I hereby direct the Director of Motor Vehicles, acting through the California Highway Patrol and the Division of Drivers' Licenses of the Department of Motor Vehicles, to take all lawful action necessary to enforce said speed limit and to compel observance thereof with all facilities at his command, and request that all local law enforcement agencies likewise take all lawful measures to enforce said speed limit within their respective jurisdictions.

PROCLAMATION

Scrap metal stock piles of the nation have been heavily drawn upon since the 1942 scrap drive and we are now officially informed must be replenished rapidly to insure our continued peak production of steel armaments.

War Production Board officials estimate that the minimum requirements for the current half year will be 15,000,000 tons of which California's quota has been set at 709,500 tons, an increase of 37.25% over our last quota.

In view of the importance of this drive, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby urge every California citizen and public agency to cooperate in the creation of community "victory scrap banks" and particularly urge the members of salvage committees, the Citizens Service Corps, the Junior Citizens Service Corps and every Defense Council in the State to devote their full energies to the task. To the end that California's quota may be met in a period of concentrated activity, I hereby designate the period commencing October 1 and ending November 15, 1943 as the time for California to make its contributions to the national scrap pile.

During this long period of supreme war effort we have, as a people, come to lean more heavily than usual upon our daily and weekly newspapers. We look to them to keep us fully and wisely informed as to developments the world over and to publish the sober facts which keep us alert to the needs of each day. And, we look to them to cooperate in all local activities which the war has caused to be imposed upon our community life.

It is fitting that we as a people pause to consider the importance of this service---the beneficial influence of a free press upon our daily lives. These are days when there must be intelligent evaluation of our gains and a cautious weighing of all trends which may influence our future. These are days when community effort must be united and effective. More than ever before we need the guideposts of accurate, full presentation of news for the cross-currents in which we are caught and the trends which we must evaluate extend far beyond our own immediate horizons.

Democracy has long since proved the worthiness of its reliance upon a free press. The manner in which newspapers have assumed new responsibilities and given of their time and space during this period of emergency adds to the conviction that the rights of the free press are a safeguard to be treasured.

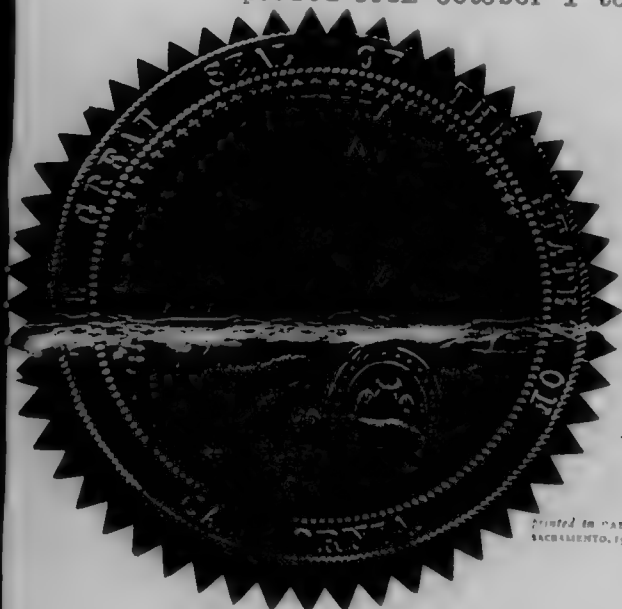

As Governor of California, I, Earl Warren, take this occasion to commend the daily and weekly newspapers of this State for the many and splendid public services they have rendered during the months the nation has been at war and do hereby urge a general State-wide observance of National Newspaper Week which has been designated as the period from October 1 to October 8, 1943.

Section 4. Subject to the exceptions hereinafter provided, during the hours specified in Section 2 hereof, any light source located within Lighting Zone B which is directly visible from the sea, as hereinafter defined, shall be either extinguished or shielded so that it is no longer directly visible from the sea, in addition to the applicable restrictions provided in Section 3 hereof.

Section 5. RESTRICTIONS WITHIN LIGHTING ZONE C. Subject to the exceptions hereinafter provided, during the hours specified in Section 2 hereof illumination within Lighting Zone C shall be restricted as follows:

(a) Light. All electric incandescent lamps in excess of 100 watts capacity, and all other light sources producing equivalent light intensity, when located out-of-doors, shall be shielded so that no rays from any light source are emitted above the horizontal out-of-doors. Any accumulation of light sources located within or above any ten foot square of outdoor ground area shall be deemed to be a single light source, and if the aggregate intensity of such an accumulation of light sources exceeds the limit expressed in the preceding sentence, then all such light sources shall be shielded.

(b) Light or Illumination. Illumination on any outdoor area shall not exceed one foot candle at any point.

Section 6. Variations or exceptions from the above restrictions shall be as follows:

(a) Industry, Safety, Health and Welfare. Variations from any of the restrictions of this Proclamation shall be permitted by the written approval of the Commanding General of the Western Defense Command, or any agency designated by such Command to approve such variations, obtained in advance, but only in and to the extent required to achieve a maximum industrial efficiency, or to protect the persons or property, or to promote the health and welfare of persons to the extent required by military necessity, as determined from time to time by the Commanding General of the Western Defense Command. All approvals of lighting variations shall be reported to, and subject to revocation by the Commanding General, Western Defense Command. All

...shall be subject to the provisions of Chapter 222, Statutes 1943, in respect to any illumination within Lighting Zones A, B or C, established herein, shall be subject to effect as if re-

(1) Interior Lighting. Upward light emitted out-of-doors from any light source shall be permitted if the light source is (1) within any building and not less than six feet from the nearest window or other opening in the wall of the building, or (2) at any location within a building used primarily as a residence, apartment, hotel or residential club, if all the direct rays emitted above the horizontal plane - ... any customary residential building; but in either case no direct rays from any light source shall be emitted through any skylight, and all indoor light sources within Lighting Zone B shall be shielded so that they are not directly visible from the sea. (See Section 5 for further exception of interior light sources in Lighting Zone B.)

(2) Recreational Lighting. Outdoor area lighting up to a maximum of thirty foot candles is permitted at any location more than three miles from the sea as hereinafter defined, but only when the extent actually required and primarily for sports or recreation, and when otherwise in compliance with the applicable restrictions of this Proclamation.

(3) Vehicle Lights. All vehicle lights permitted by law are permitted; provided, however, that in areas visible from the sea, driving lamps shall be operated only on low or depressed beam. Authorized emergency vehicles on official emergency missions are excepted from all the restrictions of this Proclamation.

(4) Signs on Public Carrier Vehicles. Illuminated signs on public carrier vehicles shall be subject to all the restrictions of this Proclamation.

(5) Lighting of Buildings. Illumination of buildings by light sources of electrical intensity for direct traffic are excepted from all the restrictions; provided, however, that electric lamps of more than 100 watt capacity or the equivalent, and that the actual light sources illuminating such buildings shall comply with Sections 3 and 4 hereof.

(h) Navigation and Railroad Lights. Authorized necessary to facilitate air or water navigation, authorized railroad signal lights, and headlights on motor vehicles on the other are created by the Department of the Interior.

(2) The use of lighting fixtures on all street corners should be exempted from the restrictions on the use of lighting fixtures, but they must be shielded so that the light source emits no more than ten per cent of the total lamp lumens above the horizontal plane. The shield should be so designed so that such light sources are not visible from the street. Foot candles of illumination should not exceed 100 foot candles, and in addition, the shield should be round, and in addition, the shield should be shielded so that the light source is not directly visible from the street.

PROCLAMATION Ed. Johnston

The system of government which we in this nation enjoy today was evolved by men who had great reverence for the Bible and it is an especially good thing for a country in times of emergency such as this to give emphasis to the significance and values of the teachings which it contains.

We are sending millions of our young people to all parts of the world to fight, in order that we may retain in honor and substance the government which we have. We have dislocated much of our economy and disturbed normal social relationships to the same end.

In the midst of such dislocations it is important that we steadfastly refuse to be diverted away from the fundamental institutions which have guided our development. Always the greatest source of strength in a people lies in its understanding of the guiding principles upon which their greatest progress has been made.

For this reason, I join in urging general observance of National Bible Week in California. From out of such observance can come a resurgence of faith in the crusade in which we are engaged---faith in our cause, in our standards and in our future. To let our every action reflect the spiritual and moral standards of the Bible will be to strengthen the very foundation upon which our democracy was built.

hereunto set my hand
and caused the Great
Seal of the State of
California to be af-

PROCLAMATION

BANK M. JORDAN, Secretary of State

There exists in our nation today an urgent need for registered nurses for military duty and for the maintenance of an adequate nursing service for civilians.

One of the exactions imposed upon us by the war is the necessity of safeguarding public health in a manner which maintains both morale and production at a high level.

To meet this problem it has become apparent there must be pressed into service thousands of volunteers capable of lending assistance in all phases of public health activity.

Demands of the Army and Navy for additional nurses are depleting the reserve of nurses on the home front and as a result there is a necessity for a campaign for recruitment of volunteer nurses aides and the enrollment of more students in Red Cross Home Nursing.

Men who come back from the war will never forget the heroines who personified the mercy of medicine in their hours of need. This same spirit of service is already apparent in our home front nursing programs, but it must be expanded in scope through the assistance of thousands of volunteers if it is to meet the tests of emergencies which may confront us.

For these reasons I join in the campaign now under way to call to the attention of all eligible young women the possibilities now open in the field of nursing, and urge state-wide attention be given to the Red Cross Nurse Procurement Programs which will be inaugurated in California communities during the balance of this month.

In stirring times such as these, it is particularly fitting that we should give voice to our admiration of the manner in which the various branches of our armed services are fighting in our behalf. To fail in this would be to ignore the bravery, the sacrifice and the firm resolve of our own sons, neighbors and friends who are now front line participants in this terrible global war.

In the unparalleled record of our United States Navy during the past year will be found much to inspire new confidence in this splendid fighting force. For, colorful and inspiring as its history has been, our Navy has weathered the initial tests of this great conflict in unprecedented manner and expanded its influence to all the seven seas.

It was in the month of October 1775 that the Continental Congress laid the foundation of our American Navy. It has since become custom to honor the Navy during this month, and more particularly upon October 27 the anniversary of the birth of Theodore Roosevelt, the President under whose direction the Navy became generally recognized as our first line of defense.

Never before has the need for common understanding of the needs of our Navy been so pressing nor its responsibilities been so heavy. Never before has there been better reason for expressing our admiration of the tasks being performed by all who wear the Navy blue. For these reasons, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do proclaim October 27, 1943 NAVY DAY in California and urge the citizenry of the State to join in the observance and to continue ever mindful of the valiant services being rendered by both our Navy and our Merchant Marine.

(b) Containers shall be forth in (b) above and live stock shall only be used on containers when empty, as both will injure the contents.

(c) Containers shall be protected from pestinfestation and continued identity maintained.

SECTION 2. - CONTAINERS FOR THE PROTECTED AREA

Persons desiring to import restricted articles are admitted into the State for the purpose of agriculture subject to the provisions of this act and shall be certified in accordance with the provisions hereof. Persons desiring to import such articles should make written application to the Director of Agriculture for a permit to do so, stating in said application the amount and kind, name and address of the person, and the name and address of the person to whom the articles are sent.

SECTION 3. - CONTAINERS FOR THE PROTECTED AREA

No restrictions are placed by this proclamation on the in transit movement on through bill of lading of restricted articles from a point outside of the herein described infested area, through the infested area to any point in this state.

Articles in original lidded containers and other restricted articles originating outside of the herein described infested area, may be reshipped from any point within the infested area to points within the protected area of this state only provided continued identity and protection from infestation have been maintained while within the infested area and each lot or shipment is officially certified from point of shipment, affirming such facts and setting forth the state and county of origin, point of re-shipment, manner of shipment, amount and kind of articles comprising the lot or shipment, and names and addresses of the shipper and consignee.

SECTION 4. - ARTICLES NOT TO BE HELD FOR INSPECTION

All restricted articles herein defined must be held by common carrier agents and not delivered to consignee or agent until inspected and passed by the Director, his deputy or deputies, or by a duly authorized state plant inspecting officer.

WAR POWERS PROCLAMATION NO. 5

Section 4 of Chapter 229, Statutes 1943, entitled "to provide for precautions against enemy attack, blackout and dimout regulations, etc., provided for by law."

After the California State War Council, after investigation or hearing as it may make, direct or indirect, shall find and determine that additional or different provisions for restricting lighting are required in the areas described in Section 1 hereof, or that restrictions on such areas are necessary for areas in order to prevent a successful operation of the enemy, the said State War Council shall transmit its findings to the Governor, and if the Governor concurs therein, he shall proclaim such additional or different restrictions and regulations governing illumination which shall thereupon become effective and shall have the same effect as laws of this State and shall supersede to the extent of any conflict the provisions of this chapter (including persons or subjects herein excluded from the operation of this chapter) and any other provisions of law governing illumination. The violation of any such regulations shall constitute a misdemeanor and be punishable as a violation of this chapter. In making such investigations and determinations, the State War Council is hereby directed to consider the findings and recommendations of the Commanding General of the Western Defense Command or such other military agency as may be designated by the Secretary of War, and in no event shall the Governor proclaim more restrictive regulations than those specified by said Commanding General, it being the intention that insofar as possible the regulations so adopted shall be uniform with the orders or recommendations of the said Command General." PROCLAMATION

As we concentrate upon the tremendous requirements of war and bend our will to the sacrifices entailed, there is reason for rising satisfaction that not all which we perfect is to be wasted and outlived in the gigantic struggle in which we are engaged.

There is much in our war effort which silver-lines even its darkest aspects. Glowing bright among these rays of hope for a better world to come is our progress in the field of aviation.

We have come to look upon our air forces as the powerful spearhead of our drive against the enemies of democracy. Actually it is much more. In spear-heading our thrusts against the enemy our daring airmen are also smashing away at barriers of time and distance which have stood in our pathway throughout history. They are opening new vistas for us and ushering in a new era of closer association between men of good will throughout the world.

We here in California are proud of the contribution we are making to the widening of this global air road of the future. We are proud of the manner in which engineering and production skill has been mobilized into a mighty force within our state. We thrill at the perfection of those young men who make use of those planes in the exercise of their determination that the right to be free shall not be denied.

It is for these reasons that I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby urge the citizens of California to look upon December 17, 1943 as a day of special importance. It was upon December 17, 1903 that Wilbur and Orville Wright made the historic flights at Kitty Hawk, North Carolina, which first gave reality to man's ambition to speed through the air. No day could be more fitting for honoring those who have pioneered that today's progress might be possible and those who pioneer now that there shall be fewer barriers to world-wide mutuality of understanding and good will in our future.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 11th day of December, A.D., one thousand nine hundred and forty-three.

The President of the United States has designated the period between January 18 and February 15, 1944, as the period of the Fourth War Loan for the purpose of raising War Stamps.

The Fourth War Loan offers the people of California an opportunity to make a sound investment and at the same time a definite and needed contribution to winning the war.

It is the duty of every citizen to contribute to the war effort in proportion to his ability. The time has come when all of us must shoulder the burden of this responsibility. I strongly urge that the people of California, with a firm determination, will be raised in the shortest possible time. This is a patriotic and indefatigable service to our country and to the world. Through such efforts we can furnish additional resources for the war effort.

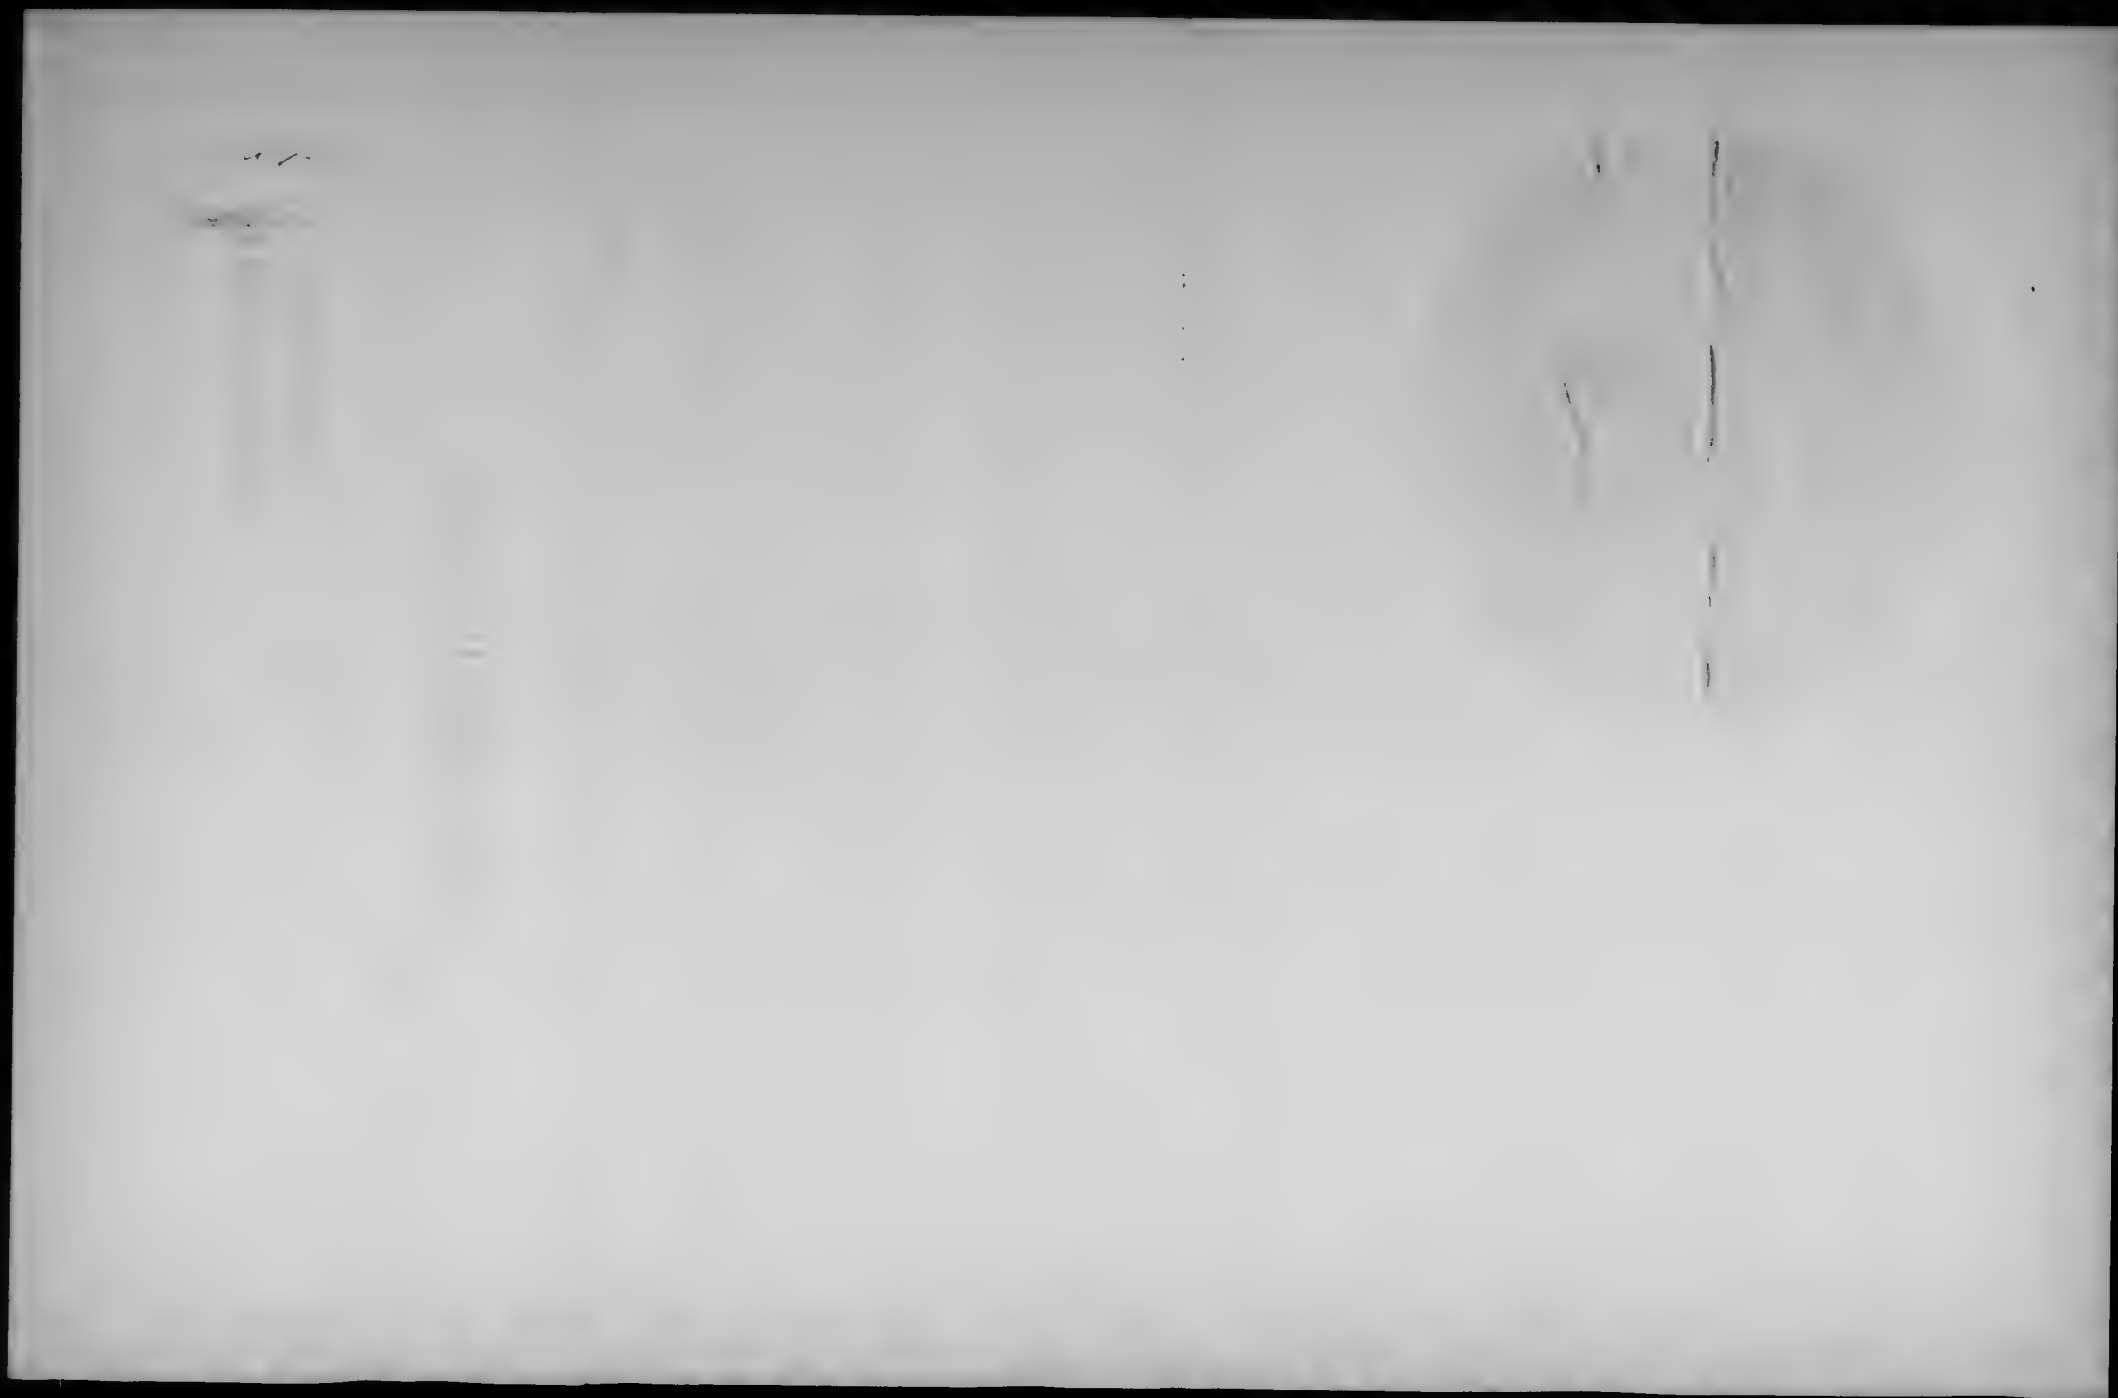

I am, therefore, recommending that the Governor of California should call upon the people of the State to contribute to the Fourth War Loan in the most effective manner possible.

Provision 1. Restrictions

Vetch seed which has been grown in or shipped from the said infested territory will be admitted into the State of California only providing each shipment or lot of such seed is accompanied by a certificate signed by a duly authorized inspection official of the state of origin, affirming either that all vetch seed in the shipment or lot has been fumigated in accordance with Provision 2 hereof and has not been exposed to a post-treatment infestation, OR that such seed was grown in and shipped from a noninfested area in accordance with Provision 3 hereof. All such certificates must show the name and quantity of seed contained in the shipment or lot, car number or identifying marks, manner of shipment, name and address of shipper, name and address of consignee, and the locality where grown. The original must be attached to the way bill or bill of lading and a duplicate copy sent to the Director of Agriculture, Sacramento, California, at time of shipment.

Provision 2. Fumigation Certificates:

Certificates affirming treatment shall not be issued unless all vetch seed to be moved thereunder was treated as herein approved or subsequently approved by the Director of Agriculture under official supervision in a gas-tight chamber.

Approved Alternate Treatments

(A) Atmospheric Fumigation

BY ORDER OF THE DIRECTOR OF AGRICULTURE
SACRAMENTO, CALIF. GEORGE H. MOORE, STATE ENGINEER

Executive Department

State of California

1. Ethyl mercuride. 3 pounds per 1,000 cubic feet of air space in a gas-tight fumigation chamber at a temperature of not less than 65° F. for a period of not less than 4 hours at a maximum load of 15,000 pounds per 1,000 cubic feet. At least two fans with 12-inch blades to be kept in operation at opposite ends in the fumigation chamber throughout the time of exposure.
2. Ethyl mercuride. 1 pound per 1,000 cubic feet of air space in a gas-tight fumigation chamber at a temperature of not less than 60° F. for a period of not less than 24 hours at a maximum load of 15,000 pounds per 1,000 cubic feet.
3. Hydrocyanic Acid (HCN). 4 pounds per 1,000 cubic feet of air space in a gas-tight fumigation chamber at a temperature of not less than 65° F. for a period of not less than 24 hours at a maximum load of 15,000 pounds per 1,000 cubic feet, each layer of sacks to be separated by 2 x 4 boards to permit free circulation of gas.
4. Carbon disulphide. 20 pounds per 1,000 cubic feet of air space in a gas-tight fumigation chamber at a temperature of not less than 65° F. for a period of 24 hours at a maximum load of 15,000 pounds per 1,000 cubic feet, each layer of sacks to be separated by 2 x 4 boards to permit free circulation of gas.
5. Chloropicrin. 1½ pounds per 1,000 cubic feet of air space in a gas-tight fumigation chamber at a temperature of not less than 60° F. for a period of 24 hours at a maximum load of 15,000 pounds per 1,000 cubic feet, each layer of sacks to be separated by 2 x 4 boards to permit free circulation of gas and at least two fans with 12-inch blades to be kept in operation at opposite ends in the fumigation chamber throughout the time of exposure.

(b) Vacuum Fumigation

Hydrocyanic acid (HCN). 7 ounces per 100 cubic feet of space at a temperature of not less than 65° F., the gas to be injected at not less than a 25-inch vacuum for a period of 2 hours at a maximum load of 15,000 pounds per 1,000 cubic feet

Refrigerator cars may be used as fumigation chambers. However, it is emphasized that the drains must be sealed with water, and if the car is liable to be shunted during the fumigation cycle, the drains should be plugged with wet paper which should be removed at the completion of the cycle.

Division 2. Certificates from Noninfested Areas:

It has been determined by annual official surveys that an area of any state in the said infested territory is not infested by the said vetch weevil and providing adequate protection is afforded by such state against the entry of vetch weevil into such noninfested area, the Director of Agriculture may, upon receipt in writing of proper evidence from the authorized official of such state, permit the entry of vetch seed which is certified as being grown in and shipped from such noninfested area.

revision 1. Hold for inspection:

Watch seed admissible from the said infested territory under the foregoing provisions or when originating in areas outside the said infested territory must upon arrival in California, be held by common-carrier agents and not delivered to consignee or agent until inspected and passed by a State Plant Quarantine Officer.

The admissibility into the State of California of any article or commodity covered by the foregoing provisions shall be further subject to the provisions of any other quarantine proclamations or regulations now in force or which may hereafter be promulgated.

Deputies of the Director of Agriculture and State Plant Quarantine Officers are hereby empowered to enforce the provisions of this proclamation.

PROCLAMATION

Chas. G. H. H. H.

Since pioneer days abundant natural resources have contributed greatly to the progress and prosperity of our nation. Fertile soils, extensive forests, rich oil and mineral deposits and abundant water have been converted, through the genius and energy of our people, into the many comforts and conveniences of modern civilization.

Today, in the midst of a mighty struggle to preserve our way of life, these same resources are being used in ever-increasing amounts as weapons of defense. They have become the basis for the designation of our land as "The Arsenal of Democracy."

It is important that we give thought to the need for husbanding our supplies of non-renewable materials and to the renewal of those which are replaceable. It is particularly desirable that we take effective steps to prevent the needless destruction of forests, ranges, watersheds and farms from fire and unnecessary depletion. Even more obvious is the need for preventing waste of any of the critical materials so vitally needed in the war effort.

To encourage public consideration of the need for conservation programs and to emphasize that we can better direct our full power against the enemy and at the same time build for the future by fostering such programs, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby designate the period of March 7 to March 14 as Conservation Week in California and urge all educational institutions, public agencies and the citizenry in general to give attention to those phases of the problem in which they can best render assistance.

PROCLAMATION

In California and throughout the nation, the American people will be called upon, during the month of March, to make contributions which will enable the American Red Cross to continue its many services to the men and women of our armed forces at home and abroad.

More than 80 per cent of the Red Cross funds are now being expended in services for our overseas forces. In the coming months our military operations will expand and it is known that the Army and the Navy will be calling upon the Red Cross to keep pace with this expansion.

In view of these expanding war requirements and the multiple tasks which must be undertaken, it becomes both a privilege and a responsibility to make contributions to the Red Cross at this time. The privilege is one of helping increase the countless small, personal human services rendered our young men and women who are doing the overseas fighting in this war. The responsibility is one of rendering aid and assistance to those who are making the sacrifices which the war entails.

For these reasons I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby call the attention of all citizens of the State of California to the 1944 War Fund Drive of the American Red Cross which will be conducted during the period March 1 to 31 and do hereby urge upon all citizens a response in keeping with the humanitarian services known to be required.

In this critical period of our history, when every person must exert full energy to the needs of war, the preservation of manpower and womanpower through the protection of health is more than ever a matter of public concern.

During the month of April the Women's Field Army of the American Society for the Control of Cancer is to conduct a drive to increase public knowledge of the progress which has been made in the treatment of cancer. Authorities in this field tell us that many of the 163,000 individuals who die of cancer annually in our nation die needlessly, simply because they did not submit to early diagnosis and early treatment.

Being fully in accord with the objectives of this campaign to acquaint the American people with the early signs of this dread malady, I urge that special attention be given to the annual message of the Women's Field Army of the American Society for the Control of Cancer. For the purpose of encouraging public education as to the facts of cancer and the importance of early diagnosis and treatment I hereby proclaim the month of April, 1944 to be Cancer Control Month in the State of California and urge wholehearted public support of the program of the Women's Field Army of the American Society for the Control of Cancer.

PROCLAMATION

There is in California today an unexplained lag in the response of citizens to the call to register and qualify as voters.

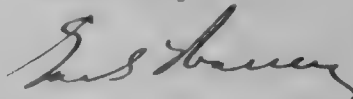

These are times when there is far more than normal responsibility attached to American citizenship and this seeming apathy on the part of hundreds of thousands of citizens is a matter of general concern.

Believing that every American, regardless of political affiliation or conviction, has the duty as well as the right to vote and that the obligation to participate in public decisions increases in war time, I hereby urge the citizenry of every California community to make a final effort to increase our state registration by April 6.

The right to vote one's own convictions is a principle of democracy for which men are now offering their lives. We have properly shown concern over the right of these fighting men to vote and have adjusted our state laws to increase their opportunity. We must now add to their confidence in our management of the home front by assuring them of our full participation in the decisions which lie ahead. This is a trust which they have placed in our hands for they are fighting for an ideal in government which imposes responsibility upon all and permits the expressed will of the majority to become the program of all.

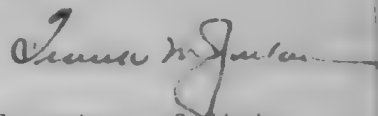

April 6 being the final day for registering for the May 16 primary election, it is important that every person qualified to register in California be urged to do so immediately. For this reason, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim April 1 to 6 inclusive, with the exception of Sunday, April 2 as Registration Days in California and do hereby urge all citizens to join in a drive to make California's registration totals added proof of our full assumption of wartime responsibilities.

PROCLAMATION

It is fitting that a day should be set aside each year to commemorate the tradition of the Army of the United States and to reflect upon the understanding, the courage and the sacrifice which the preservation of our way of life has necessitated.

It is fitting that we should join in such observance this day, for it is in the history of our country that the flag of the United States has been weighed with such responsibility and extended its protection to so many millions of people.

In sacrifice and in deeds of valor, the personnel of the Army of the United States has always, as it does today, mirrored the principles and the values of the American home. It is the Army of the people, the defender of human rights.

In this year of global strife, when the Army of the United States is ennobling the globe in line of duty, we glory in the fact that it is everywhere heralded as an Army of liberation. True to its noble tradition, it fights as the defender of men's rights, not for love of aggression or conquest.

This year should bring pause, not only for solemn remembrance of the deeds of our soldiers, but for solemn tribute to all who are this day carrying the flag of freedom to the oppressed lands of the world.

In furtherance of public recognition of the deeds, both past and present, of the officers and men of the Army of the United States, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Thursday, April 6, 1944, as Army Day in California and do hereby urge all citizens to display the flag of the United States at their places of business, their homes and wherever else suitable and to participate in such civilian and military ceremonies as may be held for the purpose of bringing to public mind the deeds and responsibilities of our soldiers.

PROCLAMATION

A year has passed since full observance of the Friday of Holy Week, the anniversary of the Crucifixion of Christ was last urged upon our California citizenry.

During that year the armed forces of our country have reached further into many portions of the world to challenge the assault that has been made by godless enemies upon the peaceful way of life so dear to God-fearing men and women everywhere.

The steady march of our armed forces toward the enemy has called for increase of sacrifice and courage on the part of our brave men and women at their posts of danger, and has brought into even sharper view the tremendous issue for which they crusade under the flag of our country, and in concert with all of the United Nations.

With the solemn support of their nation these men and women are enduring and gradually overcoming the cruelties of the organized forces of evil throughout the world.

More than ever before the men and women of our armed forces stand in need of the consolation to be derived from the suffering of the Crucified Christ, and the confidence that comes from knowledge that those at home join with them in prayer for Divine guidance and strength.

Therefore I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, again urge all our citizens to properly observe the Friday of Holy Week, April 7, 1944, and to pause for devout reflection during the hours twelve noon and 3 P. M. on that day; and I hereby authorize all State employees who desire to attend church services during those hours to absent themselves from their duties for that purpose.

We have come to recognize more and more during recent years that durable peace as well as victory in the great battle for freedom in which we are now engaged, involves an understanding and the continuous exercise of those influences which enable people to live and work together.

Free government has always been measured in strength by its recognition of the home, the church, the school and the community level of enterprise and it will always be so measured.

Since government, as we know it, got its start in the home, it is to the home that we look now as our greatest source of strength in meeting the tests which lie ahead. It will be in the home that religious and civic forces unite their efforts to insure the fullest assumption of individual responsibility. It will be in the home that the same forces are blended to train an inspired citizenry of the future.

To add emphasis to the importance of the home in our national endeavors, leaders of the Protestant, Catholic and Jewish faiths are sponsoring National Family Week, May 7 to 14. The climax of the week will appropriately be Mother's Day, a day for special honor for the central figure of our home life.

These are times in which American mothers and mothers the world over are being called to give demonstration of their splendid courage. These are times when wholesome environment in the home is keeping the thoughts of men on the field of battle linked closely with the ideals for which they fight. These are times when we look with assurance to the home for the inspiration and the influence which will build for betterment in the days of peace to come.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim May 7 to 14 as National Family Week in California and urge that the week of observance be climaxed with special prayers on Mother's Day, May 14, for all mothers to whom this war is bringing loss and the need for the comfort of Him to whom all turn in their hour of greatest trial.

PROCLAMATION

In these days of war tension, the importance of equipping our youth with spiritual conviction and social vision is being given new emphasis in all parts of the world.

Expansion of this influence in the face of tragic warfare constitutes the real triumph of our day. The will to serve humanity is actually being multiplied by the stress of our times. It is evident that the faith of all who believe Christian character to be the force which will improve the world has not been shaken.

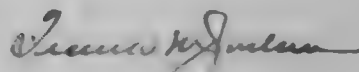

Among the great agencies which are re-dedicating themselves to the indispensable task of fostering programs for young people is one which is this year observing its one hundredth anniversary of activity. Founded in London, June 6, 1844, it has worked continuously for the advancement of the spirit of tolerance and understanding so essential for world improvement. Its vast range of activities and its long record of successful achievement well illustrate the foundation of our belief in the attainment of a better future.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, hereby call public attention to the centennial anniversary of the Young Men's Christian Association, this sixth day of June, 1944 and urge that the occasion be made to all to the general appreciation of the great contribution which this association has made to the physical, intellectual, and spiritual well-being of young people throughout the world and of the importance of all such character building programs for youth in all of our communities.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this sixth day of June, A. D., one thousand nine hundred and forty-four.

The Government of the United States has designated the period between June 12th and July 4th as the time for the Fifth War Loan Campaign. The purpose is to raise sixteen billion dollars through the sale of War Bonds and War Stamps. Of this national goal California's quota totals $365,000,000.

The drive opens at a time when our men in uniform are striking the greatest blow for freedom of all times. Each day we learn more of the magnitude of their undertaking. Each day the meaning of the slogan "Back the Attack" becomes more clear.

Our success in raising funds for the war effort will reflect our understanding of the significance of these solemn hours. Through enthusiastic and indefatigable effort we can render conspicuous service to these fighting men, to our country and to ourselves. It is now well recognized that War Bonds are an investment in both our individual and national future. No sounder investment exists.

For these reasons and with special emphasis upon the need for home front action and unity, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period June 12th to July 4th, 1944, as the period for the Fifth War Loan Campaign in California, and I hereby urge that all our citizenry display a determination that the final campaign total will serve as an inspiration to all now fighting for our cause throughout the world.

We have grown accustomed during this period of world-wide conflict to saying we are fighting to preserve freedom. Actually we are doing much more for freedom is never an end to itself. It is more in the nature of an opportunity which must be recognized, nurtured and understood.

History teaches, and the present war well illustrates, that freedom cannot long exist unless there is popular understanding of both its meaning and its opportunities. The greatest civilizations have always been those with the best popular understanding of the broad scope of application needed for human progress.

With millions of men and women away from home and country and other millions concentrating all their interests upon the war effort, we must take particular precaution that no void is allowed to develop in the educational programs upon which we rely for advancement. We fight now to preserve our freedom. We must also educate now that better use can be made of the opportunities which we will have preserved.

With the thought in mind that in the years just ahead we will need more than ever before the humanizing influences which are the natural outgrowth of liberal education, I urge all our citizenry to interest itself in our public schools system. To the end that additional encouragement may be given all groups seeking to encourage parents and adults to better acquaint themselves with educational services and facilities being offered California's youth, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period of April 24 to April 29 as Public Schools Week in California and urge that in every community special effort be made during that period to increase understanding of the importance of public education.

Believing that every American, regardless of political affiliation or conviction, has the duty as well as the right to vote and that the obligation to participate in public decisions increases in wartime, I hereby urge the citizenry of every California community to make a final effort to increase our State registration by September 28.

The right to vote one's own convictions is a principle of democracy for which men are now offering their lives. We have properly shown concern over the right of these fighting men to vote and have adjusted our State laws to increase their opportunity. We must now add to their confidence in our management of the home front by assuring them of our full participation in the decisions which lie ahead. This is a trust which they have placed in our hands for they are fighting for an ideal in government which imposes responsibility upon all and permits the expressed will of the majority to become the program of all.

September 28 being the final day for registering for the November 7 General Election, it is important that every person qualified to register in California be urged to do so immediately. For this reason, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim September 11 to 18 inclusive, with the exception of Sunday, September 17, as REGISTRATION DAYS in California and do hereby urge all citizens to join in a drive to make California's registration totals added proof of our full assumption of wartime responsibilities.

WHEREAS, communities throughout California are now making plans to celebrate the day of the defeat and surrender of Germany, and

WHEREAS, victory will have been achieved only after great sacrifices of life and immeasurable human suffering,

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby call upon the people of our State, upon our public officials in counties and cities, upon our civic and church leaders, to plan their programs for celebrating this day of victory so that the joy of our people will find expression in ways befitting the event; to plan celebrations of a patriotic and spiritual kind; to arrange such programs for the great day that there shall be no desire or need for celebration out of keeping with the thought that our men and women of the armed forces will be still on the battlefields, still unable to join in home celebration, and still faced with the task of completing every phase of victory; and

FRANK M. JORDAN, Secy.

Whenever the welfare of our nation has called for supreme effort, women have always borne and always will bear a full share of the burden.

Proof of this is abundantly found in the manner in which the women of our nation have responded to the multitudinous requirements of the present national emergency. Never before in history have women been called upon to serve their country in quite so many ways. Never before, in such a short span of years, have they entered so successfully upon so many new undertakings.

Victory in war is always the work of many people. In office, shipyard, and factory, in uniform and out, the women of America have quietly added not only to our national strength but to the unity with which the nation has faced its war problems.

Peace will also be the work of many people. Peace and the solution of our many problems of reconstruction will call for the same unity of purpose among both men and women which is being so successfully demonstrated during the period of war.

For these reasons, I commend to public attention the observance of BUSINESS WOMEN'S WEEK in California October 8-14 and urge that tribute be paid to the California Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs and all other organizations which have helped to bring about the release of woman-power for war effort. During this week I urge that new preparation be made in every community to enlist the full support of women in the many postwar projects which are now being formulated in keeping with our opportunities for social and economic advancement.

To help stimulate the public purpose to reduce and eliminate losses by preventable fire, October 8 to 14 has been proclaimed nationally as National Fire Prevention Week.

During this week every citizen is being urged to devote special thought and effort to the detection and elimination of fire hazards. Such activity on the part of all citizens is made doubly important by imperative wartime requirements. There must be no interruption in the flow of goods and materials to every battlefield. Waste occasioned by preventable fires can become a serious handicap to speedy victory.

It is important that our citizenry be apprised of all known precautions which can be made to lessen the staggering annual losses brought about by the ravages of fire. Responsibility for fire prevention rests upon the shoulders of all. It calls for individual inspection and individual housecleaning to make every structure fire safe. It calls for the fullest development of educational programs which will maintain a general alertness to the dangers of fire.

In recognition of California's extra wartime burden of responsibility as a production, concentration and transportation center for the great Pacific battles to come, it is important that popular understanding of fire prevention methods be increased within our State. For this reason, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim October 8-14 to be National Fire Prevention Week in California, and do hereby urge that full support and assistance be given to every effort to inform and instruct our people with respect to the importance of year around fire prevention programs.

PROCLAMATION

OCT 28 1944
FRANK M. JORDAN, Secretary of State

Since October 27, 1922, it has been the annual custom of the people of many states to join in celebrating the anniversary of the day when the fleet was just emerged triumphant from one of the greatest battles in naval history. It comes at a time when task forces are daily carrying the light of freedom closer to the last remaining strongholds of tyranny and oppression. It comes at a time when the hopes of all freedom-loving people are at the highest in years.

It is a day when all Californians to join in celebrating the glorious record of the Navy and for special tribute being paid the heroic men of the fleet. California has looked out across the broad Pacific during the past year with ever increasing confidence---confidence traceable in a large measure to naval achievements which have pushed the enemy farther and farther from our shores. It is here in our state that much of the strength was assembled which has been used in the island to island advance toward the Philippines. Thousands of Californians are now among those participating in the combat which is bringing liberation to the Philippines.

It is well that we should mark this Navy Day that all the men of the Atlantic and the Pacific is the product of the Navy. It gives its expression in the unity of purpose, in the unity of effort, in the unity of effort by men in the service, and in the unity of effort among the people. It has been in this spirit that the American people have brought into being and manned the greatest fleet in all history. It is in this spirit that the men of this great fleet have joined willingly with the Army, the Marine Corps, and the Coast Guard in the victorious operations which have been recorded.

It is with these thoughts in mind that I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, call upon the people to join in the observance of NAVY DAY this 27th day of October, 1944. May the day be the occasion for the expression of public admiration everywhere of the service performed by our glorious fleet and may the day serve to increase our understanding of the importance of the unity of effort not only in the winning of the war but in the winning of a lasting peace.

INTERAL

Executive Department State of California

RECEIVED - JAN 1 1941

On January 1, 1941, the ratification of the Bill of Rights reached the 100th anniversary of the ratification of the Bill of Rights.

It is an anniversary which should be a source of pride and inspiration for all Californians, for it is a reminder of the national strength which we have inherited from our forefathers.

The coming of this anniversary is a reminder of the ratification of the Bill of Rights, which has been a source of pride and inspiration for all Californians. It is a reminder of the national strength which we have inherited from our forefathers.

As we look ahead to the days of peace to come, we must maintain an awareness, however, that it requires more than military victory to preserve democracy. Regardless of how thoroughly we win the war the struggle to make democracy will still require the constant participation of all our people. Democracy can never be properly defended by indifference or preserved status quo. It lives and thrives as it is freely and participation of the people as a whole.

Within the framework of our Bill of Rights there is a place for us to resume with vigor the march toward a better life. There is room for all the innovations required to meet the coming changes in our world relations. In the cultural, economic, or political. And, above all, we must have the confidence to give, through example, new inspiration and confidence to the millions everywhere who seek assistance in the attainment of personal freedoms.

It is my pleasure to report that I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, have already designated the week of December 12 to 18 as the week of the Bill of Rights in California and do hereby urge all citizens to refresh themselves as to the basic guarantees of individual rights and freedoms which have given us our national strength. I commend to all the faith that tells us that we can, with intelligence and courage, live with these same tools a better peace and a better life than has yet been known.

By this act, I have hereby designated the week of December 12 to 18 as the week of the Bill of Rights in California and do hereby urge all citizens to refresh themselves as to the basic guarantees of individual rights and freedoms which have given us our national strength. I commend to all the faith that tells us that we can, with intelligence and courage, live with these same tools a better peace and a better life than has yet been known.

QUARANTINE PROCLAMATION NO. 11 (REVISED)

Pertaining to Peach Tree Diseases
Effective on and after January 13, 1945.

WHEREAS, The fact has been determined by the Director of Agriculture that dangerous diseases of stone fruits, known as peach yellows, peach rosette, and little peach, not known to occur in California, exist in the herein-described area and that all the herein-described restricted articles are hosts or possible carriers of said diseases;

NOW, THEREFORE, It is declared necessary that a quarantine be and the same is hereby established at the boundaries of the State of California in accordance with the provisions of Section 106 of the Agricultural Code of the State of California against said diseases, their hosts and possible carriers, as herein described, and no such things as quarantined against in this proclamation shall be permitted to pass over the said quarantine lines hereby established and proclaimed, except under and subject to the conditions herein provided.

PESTS: The virus diseases known as peach yellows, peach rosette, and little peach.

INFECTED AREA: The entire states of Alabama, Arkansas, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Mississippi, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia, West Virginia, and the District of Columbia.

RESTRICTED ARTICLES: All trees, cuttings, grafts, scions, or buds of all species and varieties including the flowering forms of peach, nectarine, apricot, almond, plum, and prune, and any trees budded or grafted on peach stock or peach roots.

Provision 1 - RESTRICTED ARTICLES PROHIBITED EXCEPT UNDER CONDITIONS OF PROVISION 2

The restricted articles are prohibited entry from the infected area except as provided in Provision 2 hereof.

Provision 2 - CONDITIONS GOVERNING ISSUANCE OF CERTIFICATES

When there have been carried on by any infected state or by the U. S. Department of Agriculture in any infected state, adequate annual surveys which have determined counties within such infected state which are free from peach yellows, rosette, and little peach, and the Director of Agriculture of this state has been so advised and is satisfied of the adequacy of such surveys, then the restricted articles enumerated herein originating in such counties may be admitted provided that each shipment of restricted articles is certified by the authorized state official at origin as having been produced in such disease-free

PROCLAMATION

The increased tempo of the war, both in the European and Pacific theaters, has resulted in battle casualties being returned from overseas to the Army General Hospitals at a rate which is imposing the heaviest load in history upon the facilities of the Medical Department of the Army of the United States. Thousands of these wounded men are being returned to hospitals in our state.

The Army Recruiting Service has announced an enlistment program under which American women between the ages of 20 and 49, inclusive, may enlist for specialized training as medical or surgical technicians in the Medical Department of the Army, for service in the Women's Army Corps and for assignment to any of the nine Army General Hospitals in the Ninth Service Command.

Recognizing the urgency of this enlistment activity, I take this means of joining with Army officials in calling this special opportunity for service to the attention of all California women. It is my hope that civic leaders in every community will lend their assistance to the Women's Army Corps recruiting organization, to the end that every available woman within the state may become quickly acquainted with the urgent need for new recruits and the splendid opportunity open for them to perform valued service for their country.

For these reasons I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the month of March to be "WOMEN'S ARMY CORPS HOSPITAL ENLISTMENT MONTH," and I do so confident that during this period hundreds of California women will respond to the urgent call now being made to staff with Californians the many hospitals to which thousands of American men are now being returned from the battle fields.

California has always been justly proud of its abundant natural resources. It has looked upon its fertile soils, its extensive forests, rich oil and mineral deposits and abundant water as a means of adding to the comforts and the conveniences of an ever-increasing number of people.

Today, in the midst of a struggle to preserve our way of life, the same resources are being used in ever-increasing amounts as weapons of defense. Three years of the demands of war have made material inroads upon these natural resources. There has become apparent a greater need for husbanding our supplies of non-renewable materials and for the renewal of those which are replaceable.

It is important that we bend our efforts to the furtherance of all programs which will maintain for our citizens the full range of opportunities which our natural resources afford. To do this, we must take effective steps to prevent the needless destruction of forests, ranges, watersheds and farms, and we must guard against waste of critical materials.

In the hope that recognition of this joint public responsibility will be increased I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby designate the period from March 7 to March 14 as "CONSERVATION WEEK" in California, and urge all educational institutions, public agencies, and the citizenry in general, to give study to all phases of conservation during this period, to the end that our cooperative conservation programs may be further advanced.

Friday of Holy Week, observed as the anniversary of the crucifixion of Christ, comes once again when the animosities and hardships of a world-wide conflict surround us.

It comes as a reminder of sublime grace, priceless privilege and sacrifice which have outlived all wars and all destruction and devastation. Surrounded though we may be by sad facts and dangerous tendencies, each loses its discouraging aspect under the clear and consoling light of the eternal teachings of Him in whose name we this day pray.

Mankind has always made its greatest progress when in step with His teachings and we know, even in these hours of sorrow and strain, that through these teachings will again come days of peace, of spiritual benefit and material restoration. The spirit which comes from Him has lost nothing of its force or of its power to heal.

For these reasons I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, urge all our citizens to observe Friday of Holy Week, March 30, and to pause for devout reflection at some moment during the hours of 12 noon and 3 p. m. on that day, to the end that the supreme purpose for which Christ on this day suffered may be reimpresed upon us all.

QUARANTINE PROCLAMATION NO. 16 (REVISED)

Pertaining to Colorado Potato Beetle
Effective on and after April 2, 1945.

WHEREAS, The fact has been determined by the Director of Agriculture that a serious insect pest of potatoes, tomatoes, and eggplant, known as the Colorado potato beetle, not known to occur in the State of California, exists in the herein-described infested area, and that plants and cuttings of potato, tomato, and eggplant, and soil associated with or attached to such plants, cuttings, or potato tubers, are hosts or possible carriers of said pest;

NOW, THEREFORE, It is declared necessary in order to prevent the introduction of the said Colorado potato beetle into this state that a quarantine be and the same is hereby established at the boundaries of the State of California in accordance with the provisions of Section 106 of the Agricultural Code of the State of California against said pest, its hosts or possible carriers, as herein described, and no such pest, hosts, or possible carriers thereof as quarantined against in this proclamation shall be permitted to pass over the said quarantine lines hereby established and proclaimed except under and subject to the conditions herein provided.

DEFINITIONS

PEST: Colorado potato beetle (Leptinotarsa decemlineata)

INFESTED AREA: All states, districts, and territories of the United States except the State of Nevada and the Territory of Hawaii.

RESTRICTED ARTICLES: Plants and cuttings of tomato (Lycopersicum esculentum); eggplant (Solanum melongena); Irish potato (Solanum tuberosum); and soil in association with or attached to all such tubers, plants, or cuttings.

Provision 1 - ORIGIN CERTIFICATES FROM NONINFESTED LOCALITIES

Except as provided in Provisions 2 and 3 hereof, no restricted articles herein quarantined against will be permitted entry into the State of California from said infested area unless each shipment or lot is accompanied by a certificate signed by the duly-authorized inspection official of the state, district, or territory in which same originates, establishing the fact that all restricted articles contained in the lot or shipment were grown in and shipped from a locality free from Colorado potato beetle.

Provision 2 - POTATO TUBERS FREE FROM SOIL UNRESTRICTED

No restrictions are placed by this proclamation on the entry into California of Irish potato tubers from any point in

Executive Department
State of California

Q. I. No. 10 (Revised)

the infected area when such tubers prior to entry have been washed, screened, or otherwise freed of soil, and host plants or other material and such tubers are in new or recleaned sacks or other clean containers.

PROVISION - DISPOSITION OF VIOLATIONS

Any and all lots or shipments of the articles specified in this proclamation arriving in California from the said infected areas without a certificate as herein provided or not otherwise complying with the provisions of this proclamation shall be immediately sent out of the state or destroyed at the option and expense of the owner or owners, his or their responsible agents, except that the Director, his deputies or inspectors, may release small lots or shipments of Irish potato tubers of one hundred pounds or less which are contaminated with soil or other restricted articles, provided such contamination is entirely removed and destroyed under his supervision.

COMMON CARRIER AGENTS MUST HOLD SHIPMENTS

All articles admissible under the foregoing provisions must be held by common carrier agents and not delivered to consignor or agent until inspected and passed by the Director of Agriculture, his deputy or deputies, or by a duly-authorized State Plant Quarantine Officer.

RESTRICTED PRODUCTS SUBJECT TO OTHER RULES AND REGULATIONS

The admissibility into the State of California of any article covered by the foregoing provisions shall be further subject to the provisions of any other quarantine rules or regulations now in force or which may hereafter be promulgated.

ENFORCING POWERS

All deputies of the Director of Agriculture and all State Plant Quarantine Officers are hereby empowered to carry out all the provisions of this proclamation.

During these trying months, when the Army of the United States is encircling the globe in line of duty, we glory in the fact that its oldest and strongest tradition is that it fights as a defender of men's rights and not for love of aggression or conquest.

It is fitting that the American people should set aside a day each year to commemorate this tradition of their great Army and of the Nation which it defends. In sacrifice and in deeds of valor, the Army of the United States has always mirrored the determination of the American people and the values of the American home. It is true to this tradition today, as ever, and through new achievements and new sacrifices has spread recognition of its true purpose throughout the world. It is being heralded today in all parts of the world as an army of liberation.

April 6, 1945, having been officially designated as ARMY DAY by the Congress of the United States and by the President, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby join in urging public observance of the day by proclaiming April 6, 1945 to be ARMY DAY in California. On this day it is my hope that the people of California will give special honor to our courageous soldiers now undergoing some of the cruelest tests of this mighty war, and that on this day all civilians will re-consecrate themselves to the task of producing in the fullest measure the material needs of our soldiers.

During the month of April the American Cancer Society is conducting a drive to increase public knowledge of the progress which has been made in the treatment of cancer.

Cancer is now rated as the greatest killer of American women and the second greatest killer of American men. Authorities tell us that every hour cancer is killing 18 Americans. Yet, the same authorities tell us that cancer can be conquered, and that thousands of lives can be saved each year by teaching men and women to recognize early possible cancer symptoms.

Believing it important that every step possible be taken which will lead to the preservation of the health of our men and our womanpower, and being fully in accord with the objective that everyone should know the early signs of cancer and be aware that prompt consultation with a physician is imperative, I urge all California citizens to give support to the campaign now being conducted by the American Cancer Society.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the month of April, 1945, to be CANCER CONTROL MONTH in the State of California, and do hereby urge our citizens to unite in the fight to lessen cancer's awful toll.

PROCLAMATION

In every heart in our State profound sorrow has been caused by the untimely and untimely passing of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

In accordance to what I know to be the wishes of all our citizens, I am hereby urging that Saturday, April 14, the day of funeral services at Washington, D.C., and Sunday, April 15, the day of interment at Hyde Park, be considered and observed as days of public sorrow and prayer. On both of these days I urge the people of our State, in accordance with the dictates of their faith, to attend their places of worship and pray that the nation speedily be granted the full measure of victory over the Nazi and the Japanese militarists and be blessed with the lasting peace for which President Roosevelt so tirelessly worked.

As a means of further expression of our respect for the memory of the President, I hereby direct that flags be placed at half-mast upon all public buildings and urge that on Saturday, April 14, all governmental activities which need not be carried on in accordance with statute or in furtherance of the war effort be cancelled for the day.

4, Section 3, and Quarantines)

3411 REVOCATION OF CALIFORNIA QUARANTINE EXTERIOR QUARANTINE
(Revocation of Proclamation 3)

Effective July 1, 1945

WHEREAS, It has been determined by recent intensive survey and by surveys conducted during the past three years that the Oriental Fruit Moth (Grapholitha molesta) is now that widely spread within the State of California as to subject the major part of the deciduous-fruit acreage to infestation through natural spread and spread through the normal and uncontrollable movement, by persons and vehicles, of host fruits, nursery stock, and containers, appliances, and other possible carriers; and

WHEREAS, The quarantine measures designed to prevent or delay the further spread of the pest within the State of California appeared no longer practicable and were rescinded by the Director of Agriculture effective July 17, 1945, lifting all restrictions on the intrastate movement of host fruits, nursery stock, and other possible carriers insofar as said insect is concerned:

NOW, THEREFORE, In conformity with the action within this state regarding this insect, I hereby revoke California Quarantine Proclamation No. 3 (Revised) dated December 28, 1944, as amended on May 18, 1945, and July 7, 1945 (Section 3252 C.A.C.), and this revocation being an emergency shall become effective immediately.

This revocation in no way affects the provisions of the Agricultural Code with regard to inspection and disposition of plants and plant products moving interstate.

WAR POWERS PROCLAMATION NO. 7

WHEREAS, the Legislature of the State of California, pursuant to request of the Commanding General of the Western Defense Command, did enact Chapter 229, Statutes of 1943, effective April 27, 1943, entitled "an act to provide for precautions against enemy attack, including blackout and dimout regulations", etc.; and

WHEREAS, pursuant to the provisions of said act, War Powers Proclamations No. 4, 5 and 6 were promulgated by the Governor of the State of California, establishing zones of lighting and restrictions and regulations governing illumination therein; and

WHEREAS, Section 19 of Chapter 229, Statutes of 1943, provides as follows:

"Sec. 19. This act shall remain in effect only until the cessation of hostilities in the present war in which the United States is engaged, as declared by the President or the Congress of the United States, or until such time as the Governor after recommendation made by the Western Defense Command or such other military agency as may be designated by the Secretary of War proclaims the provisions of this act are no longer necessary as a matter of military necessity, or to preserve life and property"; and

WHEREAS, by letter dated 14 July 1945, the Commanding General of the Western Defense Command did recommend to the Governor of the State of California that the military situation which required restrictions on lighting had improved to the extent that it is now considered appropriate from the military standpoint to remove all military requirements for lighting restrictions, and on July 15, 1945 did issue Public Proclamation No. 23, effective 1 August 1945, rescinding all military restrictions on lighting within the States of California, Washington and Oregon; and

WHEREAS, by letter dated 24 July 1945, the Commanding General of the Western Defense Command did further advise the Governor of the State of California that it has been considered appropriate from the military standpoint to eliminate on 1 August 1945 all special military communication facilities which have been installed for the operation of the civil air raid warning system; and that on and after 1 August 1945 information of enemy action will be transmitted through normal communication facilities;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Earl Warren, Governor of the State of California, do hereby proclaim in accordance with and upon the recommendation of the Commanding General of the Western Defense Command that the pro-

August 1, 1945 has been designated as Air Force Day throughout the United States. The day will be the 38th anniversary of the Army Signal Corps order creating a Division of Aeronautics to study the flying machine and the possibility of adapting it to military purposes.

It is with pleasure that I give official recognition to this day, on behalf of the State of California, and in so doing express my hope that on this day all of our citizens will join in making known their admiration of the heroic performances of our air forces. Not only have our air forces demonstrated their collective power but they have also demonstrated the individual courage, the bravery, and the efficiency of the American flyer. These flyers today are part of the greatest and most devastating flying force the world has ever known--- the spearhead of attacks which are rapidly winning us final victory.

California is proud of the part it has had in assisting in the expansion of this great air force. Its workers have gloried in their ability to achieve a brilliant record of plane production and the State has been proud to serve as a training center for so many flyers. On this day we pay special tribute to the thousands of sons of California who have flown and fought with the air forces in the cause of freedom, and particularly do we honor the memory of those who gave their lives that their comrades might be able to carry on to victory.

With these thoughts in mind I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim August 1, 1945, to be AIR FORCE DAY in California.

PROCLAMATION

This day can be the greatest day in all our history or it can merely mean the end of another world conflict. What it is made to mean will depend upon how we use the freedom that is now being made possible for the entire world. We must work as hard for permanent peace as we have for victory, and the task involves us all in our homes and daily contacts.

We greet this day in California with the knowledge that, great as our efforts have been, they must be increased if we, our Nation and our Allies, are to reap the full benefit. Peace brings with it serious problems of reconversion, of readjustment, and the challenge to advance our standards of civilization. It brings with it the call to face many new situations.

NOW, THEREFORE, and with these thoughts in mind, I, Frederick F. Houser, Acting Governor of California, do hereby proclaim August 15, 1945, to be a legal holiday in the State of California, in official commemoration of the surrender of Japan and the close of the terrible world wide struggle in which we have had a part. On this day I urge all Californians to offer a prayer of thanksgiving that victory has come to us and our allies, and I further urge that in all celebrations on this holiday there be encouraged the restraint imposed by solemn realization that some of our greatest and most difficult tasks are yet to be performed. We must dedicate ourselves to this cause.

NATIONAL FREE PRESS WEEK, to be observed throughout the United States from October 1 to October 8, has as its theme, "A Free Press -- Torch of World Peace."

During the years of war now ended in military victory, American newspapers have given new proof of the fundamental contribution which they make daily to the life and vitality of the republic. They alerted us to the needs and trends of the day. They gave us an understanding of the purposes of the national effort, and of our individual responsibilities in relation to the war.

As we enter the postwar period with visions of permanent world peace before us, we look back upon the war record of the American press with confidence that those who have been recently freed in all parts of the world can learn and profit by our experience. It was a responsible press, built upon the structure of freedom, which helped to inspire our people to make history's greatest military bid for permanent peace. Its publishers, editors and writers helped to maintain a high level of enlightenment in our community, and nurtured the high morale necessary for military success. They created an understanding of the need for thousands of volunteer workers in the programs through which our people made special wartime contributions.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of October 1 to October 8 to be NATIONAL FREE PRESS WEEK in California. In so doing it is my hope that understanding of the protection of liberty which is afforded by a free press will be advanced and that through this understanding, the press can better serve as the torch of world-wide peace and freedom.

PROCLAMATION

In furtherance of the public purpose of reducing and eliminating preventable fires, the week of October 7 to 13, 1945, has been proclaimed nationally as National Fire Prevention Week.

Although our armed forces have been victorious overseas and we are beginning to show progress in the re-establishment of a peacetime economy, there is another enemy against which our attack must never relax--the home-front enemy of fire.

It is important that our citizenry be ever alert to the need for fire preventive activities. In furtherance of this program and particularly at a time when a housing shortage exists, it is important that all persons apprise themselves of the known precautions which can be taken to lessen both the dangers and losses from fire. Responsibility for fire prevention rests on the shoulders of all---in our homes, in our places of employment and on our highways.

And these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of the State of California, do hereby proclaim October 7 to 13, 1945, to be National Fire Prevention Week in California. In so doing, it is my hope that fire prevention educational programs be given attention by all of our citizens and that during this week a serious fire hazards will be instigated which will lead to a noticeable reduction in our fire losses in the months to come.

PLUM CURCULIO AND APPLE MAGGOT
EXTERIOR QUARANTINE

(Quarantine Proclamation 20)

Notice of Quarantine: It having been determined by the Director of Agriculture that dangerous pests known as plum curculio and apple maggot new to or not heretofore generally distributed in this state exist as hereinafter described, I hereby establish a quarantine at the boundaries of the State of California in accordance with Section 106 of the Agricultural Code of the State of California hereinafter setting forth the names of the pests against which the quarantine is established, the area under quarantine, the commodities covered, and the restrictions governing the entry of such commodities into this state.

(Reference: Title 3, California Administrative Code, Subchapter 4, Group 3, Plant Quarantines)

Section 3266 is hereby added to read as follows:

3266. Plum Curculio and Apple Maggot Exterior Quarantine
(Quarantine Proclamation 20)

A quarantine is established effective against the following pests, their hosts, and possible carriers:

(a) Pests. Plum curculio (Conotrachelus nenuphar) and apple maggot (Rhagoletis pomonella).

(b) Area Under Quarantine. All States east of and including the States of Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, and New Mexico.

(c) Commodities Covered. All fresh fruits of apple, apricot, cherry, hawthorn (haw), nectarine, peach, pear, plum, prune, and quince are hereby declared to be hosts of the pests herein quarantined against.

(d) Restrictions. (1) Commodities Covered Prohibited from Area Under Quarantine. All commodities covered which have been grown in the area under quarantine are prohibited entry into California for any purpose whatsoever and except as provided in paragraphs (2) and (3) below, all such commodities regardless of origin shipped or otherwise transported or moved from any point within the area under quarantine are likewise prohibited entry into this State.

(2) Reshipments in Original Containers from Quarantined Area of Commodities Grown Outside Thereof: Provided commodities are in original unopened containers, each bearing labels or other identifying marks evidencing origin outside of the area under quarantine, same may be reshipped to this state from any point within the quarantined area.

Executive Department

State of California

Section 3266, C.A.C. (Contd.)

(3) Repacked Commodities Admissible from Quarantined area if Certified Grown Outside Thereof. Provided each lot or shipment is officially certified to have been grown outside the area under quarantine and that continued identity has been maintained while within the quarantined area, all such commodities may be repacked and shipped by common carrier from any point within the quarantined area to any point in this State.

Certificates Must Establish Origin, etc. All such certificates shall set forth the State in which commodities were grown, point of repacking and reshipment, amount and kind of commodities comprising the lot or shipment, and the names and addresses of the shipper and consignee.

(See also Sections 3152 to 3156 inclusive)

3152. Enforcing Powers. All deputies of the Director and all State plant quarantine officers are empowered to carry out all the provisions of Quarantine Regulations.

3154. Commodities Covered Subject to Other Rules and Regulations. The admissibility and movement within the State of California of any commodity covered by a Quarantine Regulation shall be further subject to the provisions of any other rule or regulation now in force or which may hereafter be established.

3155. Disposition of Violations. (a) Exterior: Any and all lots or shipments of commodities covered by any Exterior Quarantine Regulation arriving in the State of California in violation of or not in compliance with the restrictions thereof, shall be immediately destroyed unless no detriment can be caused to agriculture in this State by the shipment of such commodities out of the state within the specified time limits at the option and expense of the owner or bailee.

PROCLAMATION

Navy Day, an important occasion in California ever since its first observance in 1922, holds unprecedented and glorious significance this year. It comes at a time when our ports are crowded with the happy, victorious personnel of our great fleet--the greatest history has ever seen. It comes at a time when our people are rejoicing over the end of the war and the prospect of lasting peace.

On this day, dedicated as always to the advancement of understanding of the colorful and inspiring record of our Navy throughout history, our eyes are being gladdened and our hearts are being warmed by the return of our loved ones. In all our ports there is, this week, opportunity to shake the hands of men to whom the nation itself is saying thank you and well done.

Never before has there been better reason for expressing our admiration of the contribution which our Navy has made to our national welfare. California, on this occasion, feels itself especially close to all the officers and men of the Navy. Many of its ships were built by California workers. Thousands of its personnel were trained in Navy installations within our state and our own sons were with its ships in all their victorious exploits.

It is with these thoughts in mind that I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim October 27, 1945, to be NAVY DAY in California, and on this day I call upon all of the people of the state to join in paying tribute to the men and officers of the United States Navy and the United States Merchant Marine, to give them the welcome of heroes and to continue ever mindful of the part which our Navy has played in preserving our right to pursue our way of life.

hereunto set my hand
and caused the Great
Seal of the State of
California to be af-

PROCLAMATION

By Earl Warren
Governor

In this year of world-wide strain and endeavor, there have come to all of us as individuals and as a Nation many blessings for which we should lift our hearts in thanksgiving--- and the greatest of these has been the answer to our prayer for peace.

We come to the end of our harvest season with a multitude of benefits for which we should give thanks to our Heavenly Father. We can offer thanks for the unity of spirit which kept our Nation strong during the darkest months of world-wide conflict. We can rejoice that it has been a year of liberation for so many millions of oppressed peoples. We can offer thanks for our abiding faith in freedom, for the preservation of our way of life and for the renewal of opportunity to advance the welfare of all men. And to each of us as individuals have come many personal blessings known only to ourselves for which we are deeply grateful.

To the end that there will be special opportunity for all Californians to bear witness to their gratitude to Almighty God for the blessings received, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim and designate the 22nd day of November, 1945, to be THANKSGIVING DAY in California, a legal holiday. On this day let every man of every creed seek in his version of the scriptures a strengthening contact with the eternal truths through which our blessings are bestowed, and let us pray on this Thanksgiving Day that these majestic principles will come to light the world and guide the steps of all along the path of permanent peace.

The people of the State of California are being asked to demonstrate their patriotism and their determination to finish the tasks of war in a manner worthy of our heroic fighting forces. They have been asked to participate in the Victory Loan Drive, the California quota for which has been set as $282,000,000. Progress reports of the campaign to date indicate our state is in serious danger of falling short of its quota and failing in the assumption of its share of our national responsibility.

To further public recognition of the need for greater participation in the Victory Loan Drive within our state, and in memory of those who died in the attack on Pearl Harbor which drew our Nation into the mighty struggle from which we are now but beginning to recover, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period from December 3 to 7, 1945 to be VICTORY WEEK in California, and during this week urge all Californians to band together in the purchase of Victory Bonds in an amount sufficient to reach the quota assigned us by the Treasury Department.

PROCLAMATION

Five years ago Sister Elizabeth Kenny brought to America from her native Australia a great gift of healing and presented it freely to the American people, to the end that the dreadful scourge of infantile paralysis might be lifted from America's children. Her knowledge has proved a boon to all victims of infantile paralysis. It came as a real hope against an illness which leaves more cripples in its wake than all other acute diseases combined.

The Sister Kenny method is now being used with success in practically all of the hospitals in California. The State Department of Public Health is among the many agencies encouraging the immediate training of more technicians and nurses to the end that we may have a larger trained personnel available at all times.

The second annual appeal for funds with which to carry on the work of the Sister Elizabeth Kenny Foundation for infantile paralysis is now underway in California. Funds received from this appeal will be used for the training of additional technicians and in the development of additional facilities for the treatment of infantile paralysis victims.

In recognition of a special opportunity opened for all to have a part in the campaign against infantile paralysis, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim December 8, 1945, to be SISTER KENNY DAY in California and urge that upon this day special honor be paid this outstanding woman who has rendered such great public service to our country.

PROCLAMATION

On the 15th day of December, 1791, the Bill of Rights became a reality upon its approval by the last of the number of States necessary to its adoption.

On the 15th day of December, 1945 -- the anniversary of that historic event -- we should pause to consider the vitality of this document, which has served for 154 years as a symbol of human freedom.

So vital and so fundamental were the safeguards of individual liberty enunciated by the Bill of Rights that they have come down to us with all their validity and force. Neither a war of world-wide proportions nor the problems of restoring world-wide peace have served to dim these vital principles.

An instrument which was intended to protect the rights of the citizens of thirteen small States strung along the Atlantic Coast has grown to be revered by the citizens of a great nation of forty-eight States. And now it emerges as a guiding star for a world reaching for freedom for all peoples.

To provide the leadership which the world expects of a nation which has enjoyed the protection of our Bill of Rights for so many years, it is incumbent upon us to re-examine our charter of freedom, and to assure ourselves that it is being put to everyday use in all our affairs. Unless we, as Americans, are true to the spirit of the Bill of Rights we cannot expect to stand before the world as a people who serve as an example of its hope and inspiration to all peoples.

For these reasons, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby designate the week of December 9 to December 15, 1945, as BILL OF RIGHTS WEEK in California, and do hereby urge all citizens to give careful thought to the basic guarantees of individual rights and freedoms, adherence to which has given us our heritage of individual freedom before the world.

Pertaining to Cattle Scabies

WHEREAS, The Director of Agriculture of the State of California has found and determined that the contagious disease of cattle known as scabies exists in certain areas in the County of Lake, State of Oregon, described as North and South Warner Valleys and Big Valley and that the importation of cattle from such areas into California might spread such disease among cattle within California, and

WHEREAS, In accordance with the provisions of Section 211 of the Agricultural Code the Director of Agriculture has notified the undersigned as Governor of California thereof;

NOW, THEREFORE, In accordance with said Section 211 of the Agricultural Code, I do hereby proclaim that cattle from said areas in Oregon may not be imported into California except in accordance with the provisions of Section 761 of the California Administrative Code, hereby added to Title 3 of said Administrative Code to read:

761. Pursuant to the provisions of Section 211 of the Agricultural Code, cattle from or originating in North and South Warner Valleys and Big Valley, Lake County, Oregon, shall not be shipped, driven, transported, trailed, or otherwise moved or imported into California unless:

Accompanied by a permit issued by an officer of the Division of Animal Industry, California State Department of Agriculture, and Accompanied by an official health certificate showing that the animals have been inspected by a State or Federal veterinarian within ten days prior to the time of importation and that they are free from evidence of scabies and exposure thereto; and in the case of cattle that have been exposed to scabies, or have been infested with scabies, that said animals have been properly treated under official supervision in a manner satisfactory to the Director of Agriculture of the State of California. A copy of said health certificate shall be forwarded to the Division of Animal Industry, California State Department of Agriculture, Sacramento, California, at the time of importation.

A solemn obligation of our generation is to work for the betterment of the lot of mankind.

In this, it is a source of inspiration and new courage to reflect upon the lives of men and women who have gone before us.

The life of George Washington Carver is an example of fortitude and accomplishment for all Americans. Born in humble circumstances, and faced with adversities which would have held back a less indomitable spirit, he devoted his great talents in science and research for the benefit of men of every race and creed.

His contributions to human society have been recognized by action of the Senate of the United States in designating January 5 as Carver Day, a national day of celebration.

Therefore, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, commend to the people of this State an observance of "Carver Day," and do hereby designate January 5, 1946, for this purpose.

PROCLAMATION

Throughout the past twenty-five years, thousands of young men in California have received valuable training in leadership through participating in the activities of the Junior Chambers of Commerce in their communities.

They have contributed to many worth-while projects whose purpose has been to make life better and happier for all our people.

By, strengthened in numbers by the return of many of the young men of the state to civilian life, the Junior Chambers of Commerce are preparing to go ahead with added vigor with their civic projects.

In observance of the twenty-fifth anniversary of their nationwide organization, I do hereby designate the week of January 14th to January 21st as JUNIOR CHAMBER OF COMMERCE WEEK in California, and commend to the people a recognition of this occasion.

PROCLAMATION

It is important, as we face our postwar problems, that we recognize the great factors which led to the recent military victory. To accomplish this victory people in many lands demonstrated the value of unity and teamwork. There was no room for distinction among us by reason of race, color or creed during the long months of war. There is equal need for the same demonstration of tolerance, unity and teamwork as we confront our postwar problems.

We here in California need the same kind of teamwork today that existed while we were achieving our outstanding war record--teamwork which comes through the furtherance of the religious principles of understanding, friendliness and cooperation. Nowhere in the Nation today is the need greater, for here in our State we face a task of helping 700,000 veterans of the war re-establish themselves in civilian life. Added to this, we face the problem of developing an economy which can absorb successfully the million people who came to California to assist in our war effort.

For these reasons I commend to all of our citizens the observance of Brotherhood Week and do hereby proclaim February 17 to 24, 1946, to be BROTHERHOOD WEEK in California. During this week it is my hope that in all the communities of the State a special occasion will be created to give emphasis to the great religious principles for which Brotherhood Week is annually sponsored by the National Conference of Christians and Jews. The blood and sacrifice of war must be made to write these principles more deeply into the hearts of all if we are to build a type of permanent peace which brings freedom of opportunity to all men.

Millions of people throughout our land will be called upon during the month of March to help insure the continuance of programs which contribute to the strength and well-being of the men and women who won victory for America in the war. The shooting part of the war is over, but individual responsibility on the home front continues. First comes the obligation of helping the wounded and the broken back to health and useful living. Second comes the need for maintaining the morale of the men in our armed forces still on duty in foreign lands.

In one great humanitarian organization, the American Red Cross, opportunity exists for all of us to have a part in these programs. The American Red Cross daily renders service to thousands of our boys in military hospitals and to hundreds of thousands of boys who are still overseas in the armed forces. It daily extends assistance to the victims of aggression in many lands and stands ever ready on our home front to assist in emergencies which arise out of floods, fires or other catastrophes.

It is with these thoughts in mind that I call the attention of all California citizens to the annual Red Cross fund raising campaign and do hereby designate the month of March, 1946 to be AMERICAN RED CROSS FUND RAISING CAMPAIGN MONTH in California. I do so in the belief that Californians want to share responsibility for Red Cross programs and with confidence that they will be generous in their response.

PROCLAMATION

The comfort and prosperity of the people of California due in large measure to the natural wealth resident in her mountains, valleys, and the waters of her rivers and adjacent ocean. Especially evident during this first post-war year is our increasing dependence for better living conditions on our fine agricultural soils, our sorely needed timber products, our vast oil and gas supplies, our developing water resources and the recreational facilities on our mountain and seaside playgrounds.

But these resources under the manifold demands of an increasing population are not inexhaustible. Great inroads were necessary into the stores of exhaustible resources during World War II and continuing demands are being made to insure economic stability to the nations of the world. Thus it becomes imperative that we compensate for these ravages of war within our own borders at the same time we extend a helping hand to distressed peoples of other continents.

Fortunately, the people of the State are awakening to their increasing responsibilities to "Practice Conservation For Tomorrow's America." A recent adoption of a self-regulatory system of forest practices by the private timber owners to insure permanent timber production on their lands is an example indicative of the new long-range outlook. This movement is one result of the numerous natural resources conservation measures of far-reaching importance recently adopted by the State legislature. However, such measures cannot be fully effective and may, in fact, be largely nullified without the whole-hearted interest and effective cooperation of all the people.

With this thought in mind I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby designate the period from March 7 to 14, 1946 as CALIFORNIA CONSERVATION WEEK and recommend that schools, colleges, clubs and associations and all of the people cooperate with the various private organizations, Federal and State Departments, in giving thought and study to the problems involved in the maintenance, upbuilding, and wise use of all our natural resources to the end that they may long serve the needs of the people through the peaceful years to come.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have

For the first time in five years Army Day comes at a time when our Nation is at peace. Our Army has participated in a great victory for freedom and decency. Many of the millions who swelled the ranks of the Army for the duration of the war have returned to the pursuits of civilian life. Observance of Army Day this year will therefore not only honor the peacetime Army now being built but the millions of veterans of World War I and World War II now living as civilians in our communities.

The day is one which we should dedicate particularly to remembrance of the sacrifices of those who fell on foreign soil and those who lie in our hospitals. They have enriched the traditions of American patriotism and loyalty. Their example shines as an inspiration to all their countrymen.

In harmony with action by our national government, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Saturday, April 6, 1946, to be ARMY DAY in California. In so doing I call upon all our people to join in public recognition of the accomplishments of our Army; to honor the veterans of World War I and World War II; and to pay tribute to those young men and women who have chosen peacetime military service in our Army as a career. Let there be flags displayed at our homes and places of business and a rededication to the great principles which our Army has so successfully defended.

History teaches, and the recent war has demonstrated for a new generation, that freedom cannot long exist without popular understanding and appreciation of its meaning and of its opportunities.

During the years just ahead we will need more than ever before the humanizing influences and understanding which are the natural outgrowth of a liberal education. It will be much more than just an ordinary duty for communities to provide good schools for children. The background of training which they receive will be the force which not only safeguards democracy but which provides leadership for world advancement.

California's tremendous increase in population, the educational needs of hundreds of thousands of veterans and our changing economy have all contributed to the need for a re-evaluation of public school programs in our State. It is more urgent today than ever before that public awareness of the importance of our public school system be maintained at a higher level.

With this thought in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period from April 8 to April 13, 1946 to be PUBLIC SCHOOLS WEEK in California, and I urge upon all parents and adults the joining in programs through which they may more thoroughly acquaint themselves with the educational services, facilities and needs of our State.

PROCLAMATION

By act of Congress and presidential proclamation, the month of April has been designated as Cancer Control Month.

Cancer is rated as the greatest killer of American women and the second greatest cause of death among American men. Yet the American Cancer Society contends that this annual toll of lives can be reduced from 30 to 50 per cent through education of the public to recognize cancer's danger signals and to seek immediate diagnosis and treatment.

During the month of April the American Cancer Society is to conduct a nation-wide campaign to increase awareness of general precautions which should be followed in the fight against this greatest destroyer of American lives.

Believing it important that every step possible be taken through which the annual toll of this dreaded disease can be decreased, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the month of April, 1946 to be CANCER CONTROL MONTH in the State of California, and do hereby urge all citizens of the State to give assistance to the program of the American Cancer Society and unite in the educational campaign to lessen cancer's annual toll.

It has become a happy custom in the United States to designate one day each year as Pan American Day, a day during which we salute our fellow Americans in the twenty republics of Central and South America.

Pan American Day this year finds the Americas proud of their part in the restoration of peace to the world and more united and more determined than ever before that this hard-won peace shall be lasting.

Permanent peace will always be dependent upon mutual appreciation of the need for programs which will help promote friendship and cooperation among nations and it is with this thought in mind that I call attention to Pan American Day this year. It is my hope that observances of the day in our state will be enlarged to the end that greater numbers of our people will be made conscious of the importance of our daily relationships with the peoples of the sister republics of Central and South America.

To this end, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim April 14 to be PAN AMERICAN DAY in California, and particularly urge that there be re-emphasized for the youth of California the part they will have in fostering international friendships which will contribute to the lasting peace for which so many Americans have recently offered their lives.

Believing that every American, regardless of political affiliation or conviction, has a duty as well as the right to vote, I hereby urge immediate participation by California citizens in a campaign to increase registration for the State primary election to be held June 4th.

California is now the third state in population in the United States, but its registration does not yet properly reflect its recent growth. Thousands of California residents have so far failed to place themselves in a position to participate in the determination of the postwar policies of our State. The right to vote one's own conviction is a principle of democracy for which millions of young Americans recently offered their lives. Through military victory they preserved this right for all and made it more than ever a patriotic duty to be fulfilled by every citizen.

For these reasons I urge the launching of campaigns in every community in California to increase registration for our coming election. To encourage such activity, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim each day of the week beginning Monday, April 15 and ending April 20 to be REGISTRATION DAYS in California, and express the hope that April 25, the last day on which to register for the June state primary election, will find our total registration reflecting more completely the willingness of all our citizens, new and old, to participate in the determination of our State policies.

Friday of Holy Week, observed with solemnity as the anniversary of the crucifixion of Christ, comes this year at a time when there is special need for reminder that there is a Divine inspiration which has outlived all wars and man-made destruction.

Holy Week will be observed for the first time in years by a world at peace. It will be observed during a period when men and women, tired of wartime experiences, will need not only the consolation to be derived from remembrance of the suffering of the crucified Christ but the inspiration which comes from His eternal teachings. All wars bring letdowns in moral standards with the resulting need, when peace returns, that such departures from high standards be quickly recognized and corrected. This need is present in California and elsewhere today. Mankind has always made its greatest progress when in step with Christ's teachings and when freely admitting its dependence upon Divine protection and guidance.

For these reasons, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, again urge all our citizens to observe Friday of Holy Week, April 19, 1946, and to seek in their places of worship spiritual benefit and inspiration. On this day, during the hours between 12 noon and 3 P.M. I urge that employers throughout our state respect the wishes of all employees who desire to absent themselves from their duties for the purpose of worship.

PROCLAMATION

California will observe on May 30 its first Memorial Day following the close of another long and terrible war. The people have again felt the pain and anguish that come with military conflict. They have again, at the cost of many lives, helped preserve for all the rights and opportunities of our American way of life. On this day we honor our dead.

We have emerged from this great war dedicated not only to the principle of freedom and equality guaranteed under our own constitution but with a larger obligation to fulfill. We are now called upon to live in accordance with the principles of the United Nations -- principles which call for mutual respect among all peoples of the world, regardless of their race or their religion.

We here in America, and here in California in particular, have had a part in elevating these great principles to this international level. Having done so we, and all who live in free America, must share in a double responsibility. We must live our daily lives in a manner which reflects our sincere belief in these principles and we must do our part toward having our Nation reflect this belief in all its dealings with other nations.

No worse calamity could befall our state or Nation during this first year of our postwar period than a recurrence of the wave of bigotry that followed World War I. Nothing could be more harmful and rob us more quickly of the fruits of our recent victory than to have a revival, either in fact or in spirit, of such organizations as the Ku Klux Klan. Unless we can live at peace and in harmony with our neighbors the sacrifices made by millions of Americans in this and other wars will have been in vain and there will be little hope for the establishment on a firm foundation of the principles of the United Nations upon which we now depend for lasting peace.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim May 30, 1946 to be MEMORIAL DAY in California. On this holiday, dedicated to the memory of all who have died in defense of our way of life, I call upon all Californians to rededicate themselves to the great principles through which peace can be maintained. I call upon every public employee as well as our citizenry at large to give careful thought and attention to the eradication of the last vestige of bigotry from California to the end that the state in which the United Nations principles were first written may better serve as a daily inspiration to freedom-loving people throughout the world.

California will on June 14 observe not only national Flag Day but the first centennial of the dramatic series of historical events which led to its statehood. This is the month of memories -- the centennial of our State's beginnings.

It was one hundred years ago on June 14, 1846, that a small band of American settlers rode into the sleeping town of Sonoma and gave positive demonstration of their determination that government must originate with the people. It was over the Plaza in Sonoma on that day that the Bear Flag which is today California's official emblem was first raised.

The Legislature of the State of California has by resolution requested that June 14, 1946 be designated as a day for special centennial observance of the raising of the Bear Flag and has requested that the Governor of California officially proclaim the day to be a legal holiday.

In accordance with this request and in keeping with my own personal belief that the story of the Bear Flag and our State's early history should be known by all Californians, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim June 14, 1946 to be a full and legal holiday.

On this day I call upon all the people of California to join in observances which will further understanding of the historical relationship between the Bear Flag of California and our National Flag. One was fashioned in battle by men whose hearts throbbed with the spirit of justice and humanity and it became the emblem of national unity and an inspiration to freedom loving people throughout the world. The other was fashioned and unfurled by men determined that these great principles should be allowed to take root and flourish in what is now our beloved State. Let it be remembered that large and bountiful as our State has always been it has always owed its growth, its progress and its opportunities to men and women possessed of unshakable faith in the great concepts which these two flags so beautifully symbolize.

It was over the Plaza in Sonoma on that day that the Bear Flag which is today California's official emblem was first raised.

The Legislature of the State of California has by resolution requested that June 14, 1946 be designated as a day for special centennial observance of the raising of the Bear Flag and has requested that the Governor of California officially proclaim the day to be a legal holiday.

In accordance with this request and in keeping with my own personal belief that the story of the Bear Flag and our State's early history should be known by all Californians, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim June 14, 1946 to be a full and legal holiday.

On this day I call upon all the people of California to join in observances which will further understanding of the historical relationship between the Bear Flag of California and our National Flag. One was fashioned in battle by men whose hearts throbbed with the spirit of justice and humanity and it became the emblem of national unity and an inspiration to freedom loving people throughout the world. The other was fashioned and unfurled by men determined that these great principles should be allowed to take root and flourish in what is now our beloved State. Let it be remembered that large and bountiful as our State has always been it has always owed its growth, its progress and its opportunities to men and women possessed of unshakable faith in the great concepts which these two flags so beautifully symbolize.

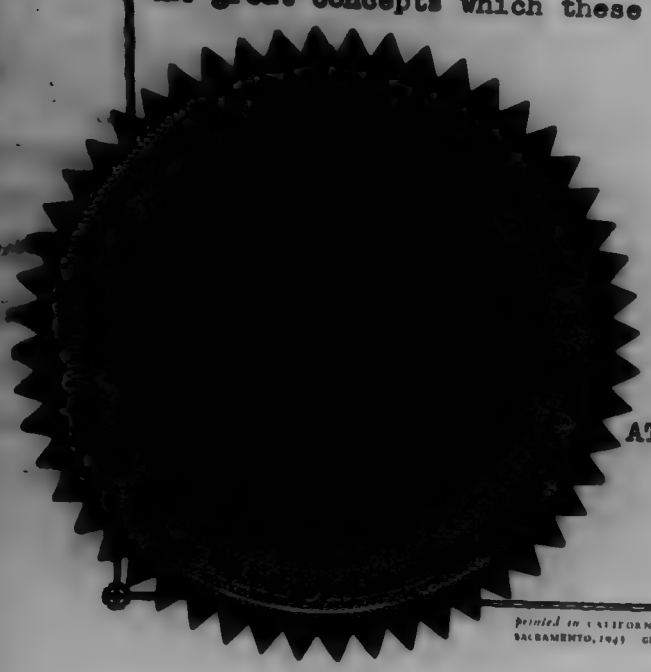

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 7th day of June, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Forty-Six.

PROCLAMATION

California will on June 14 observe not only national Flag Day but the first centennial of the dramatic series of historical events which led to its statehood. This is the month of memories -- the centennial of our State's beginnings.

It was one hundred years ago on June 14, 1846, that a small band of American settlers rode into the sleeping town of Sonoma and gave positive demonstration of their determination that government must originate with the people. It was over the flag in Sonoma on that day that the Bear Flag which is today California's official emblem was first raised.

The Legislature of the State of California has by resolution requested that June 14, 1946 be designated as a day for a special centennial observance of the raising of the Bear Flag and has requested that the Governor of California officially proclaim the day to be a legal holiday.

In accordance with this request and in keeping with my own personal belief that the story of the Bear Flag and our State's early history should be known by all Californians, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim June 14, 1946 to be a full and legal holiday.

One was fashioned in battle by men whose hearts throbbled with the spirit of justice and humanity and it became the emblem of national unity and an inspiration to freedom-loving people throughout the world. The other was fashioned and cherished by men determined that these great principles should be allowed to take root on this soil. In what is now our beloved State, let it be remembered that large and bountiful as our State has always been it has always owed its growth, its progress and its opportunities to men and women possessed of unshakable faith in the great concepts which these two flags so beautifully symbolize.

PROCLAMATION

During the war emergency, the California State Service, in order to recruit the necessary working force of employees and, at the same time, to protect persons in the armed forces or engaged in civilian war work from being able to compete for permanent state employment, adopted a system of its appointments as duration appointments, which appointments were expressly limited in Section 19200 of the Government Code to the period of the emergency, with the understanding that examinations for regular permanent appointments would be held at a time when the persons served in the armed forces or had been in civilian service during the emergency period would have the opportunity to compete if they so desired; and

WHEREAS, over 85 per cent of the pre-war California residents who entered the armed forces have now returned to civilian life, and civilian war workers are again free to seek other employment, and many of the returning veterans and former civilian war workers have expressed a desire for other employment, and the State Personnel Board, after studying the matter, has found that the best interests of the State will be served by terminating the system of duration appointments and has been holding examinations for regular permanent civil service appointments during the past several months,

NOW, THEREFORE, I hereby find and proclaim that for the purpose of Section 19200 of the Government Code of the State of California (and for that purpose only) the emergency no longer exists.

For the first time since the war ended, AIR FORCE DAY will be commemorated throughout the United States on August 1, 1946.

Because our arms have triumphed since this great national observance was conducted a year ago, it has special meaning for our people at this time. It gives us an opportunity to acknowledge our debt to the men who flew our bombers and fighters and to the splendid leadership of their commanders; it is an occasion for giving devout thanks to a Divine Providence for the return of so many of our boys and to ask the blessing of eternal peace for those who made the supreme sacrifice.

As our nation goes forward in the years of peace ahead, our people will look to the air forces as the first line of defense of their country if the need should ever arise. We shall anticipate, also, the further services that will be rendered by our military aviation in extending the routes for our peacetime commerce.

It is with these thoughts in mind that I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim August 1, 1946, to be AIR FORCE DAY in California.

PROCLAMATION

On August 15, 1846, an event of far-reaching importance occurred in our State when the first newspaper to be printed in the English language in California was published at Monterey.

The "Californian" was meagre in size, but mighty in its assertion of the democratic principles that have made America and California great. It stood for liberty under the law, freedom of speech and of the press, religious tolerance and the promotion of the public welfare.

The importance of these principles has not diminished. They are essential to the continuance of free government, and vital to the well-being of people throughout the world.

They are strengthened and perpetuated when we have a free exchange of information, such as is provided by the newspapers of California. The history of journalism in our State is brilliant with examples of devotion to the public welfare. The example set by Robert Semple and Walter Colton in the pioneer newspaper they founded one hundred years ago has been an inspiration to the editors and publishers of today.

The place of the newspapers in a democracy is one of opportunity for service. In them is reposed the confidence of the people that they will report the truth, fearlessly interpret it and fight corruption and oppression.

I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, therefore proclaim August 15, 1946, as NEWSPAPER CENTENNIAL DAY in California, for the purpose of calling the attention of the people of our State to the continuing importance of the freedom of the press.

California is in the midst of a period of growth and change which requires the full participation of every citizen in the decisions which must be made. It is a bigger state, commercially and industrially, than ever before and it has many new problems to solve. It now ranks third in population among all the states of the Union. Its decisions and its actions will have increasing influence upon the well-being of our entire Nation.

Full utilization of our many opportunities calls first for majority expression and then majority rule. Each individual in a democracy such as ours is entrusted with the responsibility of making a true majority expression possible. To fail to register and to fail to vote is to fail in a fundamental responsibility of citizenship. To fail to register and to vote in California is to deny our state the full benefit of the majority expression needed so badly during this period of opportunity.

For these reasons, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby urge that organized effort be made in every community in the state to increase registration for our November general election. To encourage this activity I hereby proclaim the days from September 19 to 26, inclusive, excepting Sunday, September 22, to be REGISTRATION DAYS in California, and I do hereby urge all citizens to make California's registration totals reflect the willingness of all citizens, new and old, to participate in the determination of our state's policies.

Fire during the past year has exacted another heavy toll in lives, property and resources within our State. This destruction has taken place at a time when our State is experiencing an unprecedented shortage in housing and essential building materials. It occurs at a time when throughout the Nation shortages exist which add to the severity of all losses from fire.

In furtherance of the public purpose of reducing and eliminating preventable fire losses, the week of October 6 to 12 has been proclaimed nationally as National Fire Prevention Week.

In support of this national program and also for the purpose of adding emphasis to the special need for fire prevention in California during this period of shortage, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim October 6 to 12, inclusive, to be Fire Prevention Week in California. During this week it is my hope that fire prevention educational programs will be given attention by all of our citizens and that understanding will be increased that the responsibility for fire prevention rests upon the shoulder of all, in our homes, in our places of employment and on our highways.

By Act of Congress the first week in October of each year has been designated as National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week.

The purpose of this week is to stimulate interest in the employment of handicapped individuals and to acquaint employers with the many opportunities for intelligently matching the physical capacity of a man with the physical demands of a job. Performance studies have long since proved that physical handicaps do not necessarily constitute occupational handicaps and that physically handicapped persons have a proper place in all hiring programs which seek to match the right man and the right job.

In compliance with the will of Congress and a proclamation of the President, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of October 6 to 12, inclusive, to be NATIONAL EMPLOY THE PHYSICALLY HANDICAPPED WEEK in California. California newspapers will from October 7 to 12, inclusive, participate in the observance of National Newspaper Week.

It will be a week during which special opportunity will be afforded all to become more familiar with the many types of public service being rendered by their community newspapers. It will be a week during which all our citizenry can well afford to take time to reflect upon the relationship of a free press to our way of life.

Newspaper Week observances will have added significance in California this year for this is the Centennial Anniversary year of newspaper publication in our state. A free press was present when free government was brought to California. A free press has given inspiration, encouragement and leadership to our development throughout the years. Even in the face of recent wartime restrictions and curtailment our press provided us daily with brilliant examples of its devotion to public welfare.

We look upon a free press today as a necessity in our communities, as a safeguard to our nation and as a mighty contributor to world understanding and world peace. With these thoughts in mind I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of October 7 to 12, 1946 to be NEWSPAPER WEEK in California and urge upon every citizen a fuller appreciation of the contribution which newspapers are daily making to the democracy which we enjoy.

One of the most encouraging developments in American life during recent years has been the manner in which American women have increased their participation in all programs involving community and national welfare.

In office, shipyard and factory -- in uniform and out -- the women of America served as a tremendous force for unity and accomplishment throughout all the years of the war. Today we find them continuing, as individuals and through their organizations and forums, to devote themselves to study and action in the many fields of postwar need and endeavor.

In recognition of the community, state and national benefits being derived from this demonstrated willingness of American women to share more fully in the determination of our programs, I commend to public attention the observance of National Business Women's Week, October 13 to 19.

As Governor of California, I, Earl Warren, do hereby proclaim October 13 to 19, 1946, to be BUSINESS WOMEN'S WEEK in California and I urge that in all of our communities during this week added emphasis be given to the value of enlisting the aid of women's organizations in every program which calls for a broad attack upon our social and economic problems.

Navy Day, 1946, finds the United States at peace and affords an opportunity for review of the many heroic achievements which have been added to American naval history since the tragedy at Pearl Harbor.

To the Navy of the United States goes a large and enduring share of our gratitude for the victory so recently achieved. Its men and ships have thrilled us by excellence of performance and glowing examples of devotion to duty. Through their exploits on all the waters of the globe they have broadened our vision and given us a new conception of the importance of our first line of defense.

It is proper that we observe a special day of tribute to all who had a part in writing this gallant and illuminating chapter of our history. This first Navy Day following demobilization of the greatest fighting force in our Nation's history is a fitting time to express our gratitude to the Navy of the United States for the contribution it has made to our welfare and safety.

It is with this thought in mind that I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, in conformity with the program for national observance of Navy Day, do hereby proclaim October 27, 1946 to be NAVY DAY in California. It is my hope that on this day the people of California will join in appropriate ceremonies honoring all who have helped in the making of American naval history and particularly the men and women of our home State who have had a part in writing its most recent chapter.

Armistice Day, 1946, comes at a time when the military strength of our Nation is being reorganized for peacetime services. Across the Nation the day has been designated as a day for re-dedication of the National Guard and the return of the colors of the Guard to State control.

As always, Armistice Day is a day for remembrance -- remembrance of the heroism and the sacrifice of those who have fought in defense of the ideals of our great Republic. As part of our ceremonies on this day it is proper that we include in our tribute to all who have served our Nation in time of war, a special tribute to those who have served in the National Guard.

This Armistice Day finds the colors of the California National Guard, which was federalized in September, 1940, being returned to State control after six years of wartime service. On this day, as we re-dedicate these colors to State service, let us honor those whose sacrifice has glorified these colors and let us pray that these colors shall never again be called into battle.

With this thought in mind I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim November 11, 1946, to be ARMISTICE DAY in California. In so doing, I call upon all Californians to join in tribute to all men and women who have enriched the traditions of American patriotism and loyalty through military service. And I ask that on this day all citizens re-dedicate themselves to the great principles which our armed forces have so successfully defended.

In furtherance of its efforts to serve American boys and girls suffering from the ravages of "polio" and restore to such victims lives of usefulness and happiness, the Sister Kenny Foundation for Infantile Paralysis is now engaged in its third annual appeal. The funds received from this appeal are to be used in the training of additional technicians and in the development of additional facilities for the treatment of infantile paralysis victims.

All Californians share in the deep-seated desire of the Sister Kenny Foundation to bring an end to the scourge of infantile paralysis. Since Sister Kenny first brought her great gift of healing to America, from her native Australia, thousands of Californians have given her heartfelt encouragement. Her knowledge has proven a boon to hundreds of victims within our state and given rise to popular support of the annual plea for funds made by the Sister Kenny Foundation through which she carries on her great work.

In recognition of the services being rendered by Sister Kenny and as an expression of hope that through the public support of the Sister Kenny Foundation there may be a hastening of the day when infantile paralysis will leave no more cripples in its wake, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim November 23, 1946 to be SISTER KENNY DAY in California, and urge that on this day all Californians give heed to the appeal now being made by the Sister Kenny Foundation.

We have come to the end of another harvest season and to the appointed time of taking stock of the blessings which have come to us during the year.

For every man, of every creed, this has been a year crowded with much for which solemn expression of thanksgiving is due our Heavenly Father.

In keeping with the glorious American tradition it is proper that a day be set apart for religious consecration and for rededication to the ideals and majestic principles which have served as our guide during all these months.

On this day we can all count high among our blessings the unity and understanding which have kept our nation strong and vigorous. We can offer thanks for a concept of government which keeps alive a sense of individual responsibility. We can rejoice in the ability of the American people to give expression to their own determinations as to course and policy. And we can give thanks for the many new opportunities afforded to further the advancement of the welfare of all mankind.

To each of us, as individuals, have come many personal blessings known only to ourselves. Let us find in these blessings added reason for seeking and strengthening our contact with the Eternal Truths through which these blessings were bestowed. To the end that all Californians shall be afforded special opportunity to give expression to their gratitude, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim and designate November 26, 1946 to be THANKSGIVING DAY in California, a legal holiday. On this day my prayers be said, in church and home, in thanksgiving for the accumulated blessings of the year and in praise of Him who has served as our guide and comforter during our hours of greatest trial.

DECLARATION

On the 9th day of December, 1961, the State of California will observe the anniversary of the ratification of the Bill of Rights.

It is the policy of the State to recognize that in honor of this anniversary the public recognition of the fundamental premises contained in the Bill of Rights is of great importance.

The vitalizing influence of the Bill of Rights serves today as an integral part of our daily life. Its guarantees of individual freedom are the cornerstone upon which all of our rights are based.

As the world grown constantly more complex, the Bill of Rights remains as basic and as characteristically American as the principles upon which the United States Constitution in 1791.

It is the policy of the State to recognize the strength and inspiration to freedom-loving people which the Bill of Rights has given to the world.

It is the policy of the State, therefore, that we re-examine the Bill of Rights at this time, to reaffirm its principles and its application to our daily life.

Whereas, on December 9, 1961, Earl Warren, Governor of California, designated the week of December 9 to 15 as BILL OF RIGHTS WEEK in California, and do hereby urge all citizens to refresh themselves as to the basic guarantees of individual rights and freedoms which have given us our national strength.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 9th day of December, A. D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Sixty One.

History produces in every generation men who, by bettering the lives of those about them, succeed in bettering the lives of all.

The works of these men provide for each succeeding generation the inspiration to raise the level of human endeavor still higher.

In the life of George Washington Carver we find such inspiration. During more than forty years spent in the development of Tuskegee Institute, Dr. Carver overcame seemingly insurmountable obstacles in order to create new educational and economic opportunities for a great mass of our people.

His scientific contributions, which were many, were given by him freely so that all might benefit. His chemical and agricultural research, notably with the peanut and the sweet potato but with countless other plants as well, helped to raise thousands of families from the depths of poverty to a more plentiful life.

In keeping with plans for a national observance of the birthday anniversary of this great man, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim January 5, 1947 as GEORGE WASHINGTON CARVER DAY and recommend that the people of California render appropriate honor to his memory and to his works.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 30th day of December, A.D. One Thousand Nine Hundred and Forty-Six.

The basic philosophy of our democratic way of life was conceived centuries ago in ancient Greece. More recently, during World War II, it was defended heroically by the people of modern Greece. So overwhelming were the sacrifices of the Greek people in the cause of freedom that the Greek nation lies in pitiful ruins today. Its people are lacking in the elementary tools with which to help themselves. Because of the destruction and devastation which has ridden their land, the Greek people are desperately in need of financial and material assistance from the outside world.

To aid these heroic people whose forebears gave to the world the great principles upon which modern democracies have been built, I, Earl Warren, Governor of the State of California, recommend that the people of California support the nationwide drive for Greek relief and do hereby proclaim the week January 12-18, 1947, inclusive, as GREEK WAR RELIEF WEEK.

Because the happiness of our people is dependent upon their soundness of mind and body, the maintenance of high standards of public health is one of the major concerns of the society in which we live.

We are fortunate that great progress is being made in the fight against disease; yet in spite of our many advances, there are a number of ailments for which neither a preventive nor a cure have so far been devised.

One such disease is the dread scourge of infantile paralysis which, striking mysteriously and without warning, takes a tragic toll each year. During 1946 a major epidemic swept our nation, and California was among the States hardest hit. In California alone, during the past twelve months, infantile paralysis struck down nearly 2200 persons.

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, supported financially by public contributions through the annual March of Dimes, has waged a bitter campaign against this disease in the laboratory and in the field. It has thrown into the battle every resource at its command, making assistance available to all who are afflicted and in need of aid.

To assure the continuation of this worthy work, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, urge the people of California to contribute generously to the nationwide March of Dimes, January 15th to January 30th, and do hereby proclaim January 15th as the opening day of the March of Dimes in this State.

Our Nation and our State owe much of their strength to the efforts of men who, encouraged by the American system of free enterprise and steeped in the American faith in the dignity of man, have devoted their lives to improving the lot of their fellow men in a material as well as a spiritual way.

Such a man was Thomas Alva Edison. Born 100 years ago, Edison contributed many inventions and scientific discoveries which have brought about our present high standard of living. The enterprise and ingenuity which made him great were nourished by the fundamental concepts of the American way of life, which served and will continue to serve as an inspiration to all who contribute to the progress which we make.

So that our faith in these American precepts may be renewed by a review of the long and productive life of this great man, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Tuesday, February 11, 1947 as THOMAS ALVA EDISON DAY.

In peace as well as war, the American Red Cross serves an important need of our people. It is our reserve against an emergency or disaster which may strike without warning anywhere at any time. It wages a continuing fight against disease, thereby raising the standard of public health. Its program of safety education assists in the protection of our people in hundreds of communities throughout our State.

PROCLAMATION

The historic development of California has been due in great part to the abundance of water, minerals, forests, natural gas, oil, hydro electric power, fertile land and other resources with which it has been blessed. Similarly, California's future progress depends upon the continued abundance of these important resources.

Appreciating the need for guarding against the dissipation of our natural wealth, State and local governments have long worked to encourage the prevention of fire and disease in our forests, the preservation of supplies of natural gas, the reclamation of agricultural land and the development of new sources of water and power.

Action on the part of government alone, however, is not enough. During World War II heavy demands were made on many California resources, a number of which are subject to exhaustion. Also in the period since 1940, the State has added more than two million persons to its population, all of whom place new and greater demands upon the resources of the State.

This combination of circumstances makes it important for every citizen to take a personal part in the State's conservation program, and to incorporate sound conservation practices into the habits of his daily life.

To bring more forcefully to the attention of all the citizens of the State the need for personal participation in conservation activity I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period of March 7 to 14 to be CONSERVATION WEEK in California. I urge that all programs initiated during this week be continued throughout the year, to the end that 1947 shall become known as Conservation Year in California and recognized as a year of new accomplishments by our people in the prevention of waste and the conservation of our natural resources.

California has been built by the cooperative efforts of citizens of highly divergent creeds, races and national origins into one of the most populous and active States in the Union. The application of the principles of brotherhood to the solution of daily problems has contributed mightily to our progress during our first century of statehood. As we organize to prepare our State for its second century of progress, it is important that we continue to demonstrate our belief in the fundamental premises of universal brotherhood.

To further the understanding of the importance of these principles the National Conference of Christians and Jews is again sponsoring the observance of American Brotherhood Week throughout the Nation. In keeping with the high purposes of this program I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of February 16 to 23 inclusive, to be AMERICAN BROTHERHOOD WEEK in California, and I urge observances in all communities which will help inspire a rededication to the principles of tolerance and good will.

As we direct our energies with ever increasing intensity toward the establishment of permanent peace, it is fitting that we join in the national observance of Army Day, and reflect upon the past and present contributions of our armed forces to the cause of peace.

Our Army helped restore peace to the world. Existing solely as a defender of human rights and as the guardian of a peaceful way of life, it has neither conquest nor aggression as its aim.

Army Day, 1947, should serve to remind us that our nation possesses the might with which to defend its ideals. It should inspire a greater appreciation of our living Army which carries on the tradition of the brave men and women who suffered and died to preserve our way of life. In addition, it should serve as a reminder of the contributions which have been made to our national welfare by the men and officers of the Organized Reserve and of the California National Guard, who were called into early action during World War II as part of the nation's first line of defense.

To encourage the citizens of California to take part in the national celebration of this occasion, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Monday, April 7, as ARMY DAY, and urge that during the period of April 7 to April 12, inclusive, the flag of the United States be displayed over homes, places of business, schools and other public buildings in our State, and that all citizens join in civilian and military ceremonies honoring our armed forces.

The fight against cancer is of increasing importance in the health, social and economic planning activities of the State. Because of the burden of unpredictable suffering which cancer imposes upon its victims in addition to the economic consequences of unemployment which results, this disease must be attacked with all the medical, social, educational and scientific resources available.

To add to the present limited knowledge of cancer will require extensive additional research. It is known that following early recognition and prompt treatment, some cases of cancer can be cured. Yet more than 12,000 Californians die of cancer each year.

The fight against cancer depends upon the generous support of all agencies working in the cancer program, many of which are directly financed by contributions from the public. Therefore in cooperation with the National Cancer Fund Campaign for 1947, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the month of April 1947 as CANCER CONTROL MONTH in the State of California and hereby urge our citizens to assist generously in the fight against this dread disease.

Christ's sacrifice upon the cross in atonement for the sins of man has long served as a constant inspiration to men and women of the Christian faith throughout the world.

The crucifixion of Christ symbolizes the great love which He held for us all — a love which each of us, in his own way, seeks to translate into terms of brotherhood and good will in the conduct of everyday life.

It is traditional during Holy Week to observe Good Friday as a day of meditation and prayer, reaffirming our devotion to Him who was crucified for our sake.

For this reason, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, urge upon all of our citizens the proper observance of this Holy Day, and do further call upon all employers throughout this State to respect the wishes of their employees who desire to absent themselves during the hours between 12 noon and 3 p.m. on Good Friday for the purpose of worship.

One of our greatest hopes for restoring balance to an unsettled world lies in the field of public education. It is through the broader education of all peoples that there can best be nurtured the virtues of tolerance and understanding which are needed in the world today.

It is part and parcel of the American tradition that every child, no matter where he lives or what may be the economic or social situation of his parents, has the birthright to a sound education. Government's responsibility for making this education available to our young people is met through a public school system which has contributed greatly to the strength of our democratic way of life.

Training for good citizenship must continue to be the concern of the public schools, not only in providing academic and vocational preparation for life but in stimulating character-building activities that supplement the moral instruction for which parents are responsible in the home.

Standards of education must be constantly raised and adapted to the changing needs of the day, and these standards must recognize the ever-increasing importance of the homely virtues as a basis for good citizenship in the highly complex age in which we live. The public schools are constantly seeking new ways and means of expanding and improving educational opportunities for our children, and if their continued efforts are to meet with success, they must be backed by the conscientious interest of all the citizens of the State.

With this thought in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of April 29 to May 4, 1947, as PUBLIC SCHOOLS WEEK, and I urge that all of our citizens set aside time during this week to better acquaint themselves with ways in which they may take a part in the further development of our local public schools.

The twenty-one nations of the Pan-American Union have long demonstrated in their relations with each other that differences in language and custom do not constitute a barrier to international friendship and understanding. They have proved the efficiency of approaching mutual problems in a spirit of neighborliness and good will, thereby setting an example of cooperation for the world.

The people of California, because of their close historical and geographic associations with the nations to the south, are keenly interested in all activities which will further tighten the bonds of friendship among the peoples of the Americas. It is especially fitting, therefore, that we join with wholehearted enthusiasm in the international observance of Pan American Day.

For this reason, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Monday, April 14, 1947, as PAN AMERICAN DAY in California and urge that appropriate recognition of this day be given in the schools, churches, business places and social gatherings of our State to the end that our international unity may be strengthened still further.

The responsibility for maintaining good public health is one which all people share, for it is on the community level -- in our homes, schools, institutions, farms, factories and shops -- that the never-ending battle against disease is being fought.

The peoples of many nations look to the United States of America for leadership in this period of world reconstruction, placing their faith in the principles and ideals which have made America strong. These are principles and ideals of a free and democratic way of life which accords to each citizen an equal voice in government but charges him with the compensating responsibility of making that voice heard.

Hundreds of thousands of persons -- by means of naturalization or coming of age -- attain citizenship in our land each year, and it is appropriate that a day be set aside to honor them in public ceremonies which stress the responsibilities as well as the privileges that citizenship entails.

This event has been proclaimed by the President of the United States as "I AM AN AMERICAN DAY." In keeping with the action of the President, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Sunday, May 18, as I AM AN AMERICAN DAY in this State and urge that on this day public ceremonies be held in California cities and towns in order to welcome the new citizens of the past year to active participation in public life.

The American Merchant Marine serves our people not only as an agency of commerce but as an instrument for conveying American good will to the peoples of other lands. By facilitating global travel and promoting a free exchange of goods and ideas, it helps to bring about greater understanding and tolerance among the nations of the world.

By joint resolution of Congress, May 22 of each year has been set aside in honor of the men and women of the Merchant Marine. It is especially appropriate that California join with the nation in the observance of this day because ours is a maritime state with great shipbuilding industries and some of the finest natural and man-made harbors in the world.

With this thought in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Thursday, May 22, 1947, as NATIONAL MARITIME DAY in California and urge that flags be displayed and civic programs be held in recognition of the achievements of the American Merchant Marine.

The great accomplishments of the civilians in our Armed Forces during the recent war and their quick re-adjustment to normal pursuits upon their return to civilian life demonstrated to the world that our people are capable of uniting in military action yet prefer a life of peace.

In view of America's desire for peace, it is natural that our Armed Forces look to units of civilian reserves for their strength. Accordingly, the United States Navy has established a civilian Naval Reserve to encourage the continued interest and participation of Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard veterans, as well as other eligible citizens in its peacetime work.

In recognition of a recruitment campaign for this Naval Reserve, the President of the United States has proclaimed May 18 - 25, inclusive, as Naval Reserve Week and has set aside Sunday, May 25, as Naval Reserve Day.

Concurring in this action by the President, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period of May 18 - 25 as NAVAL RESERVE WEEK and Sunday, May 25, as NAVAL RESERVE DAY, and urge that during this period the young people of our State acquaint themselves with the opportunities offered by the Naval Reserve.

The American people are deeply grateful to those who bled on the fields of battle for the preservation of our democratic ideals. Many of these veterans have been crippled for life and are being cared for in the military and veterans hospitals of our State.

It has become an annual custom for these hospitalized men to make Buddy Poppies which are sold under the sponsorship of the Veterans of Foreign Wars for the purpose of raising funds for relief work among needy veterans and for the support of the National Home for Widows and Orphans of Veterans operated by this organization.

Recognizing the desire of our citizens to encourage our disabled veterans by assisting in this worthy effort, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim May 23 and 24 as BUDDY POPPY DAYS in California and urge our citizens to purchase and wear Buddy Poppies on these days.

The observance of the 170th anniversary of the adoption of the Star Spangled Banner as our National Flag is an appropriate time for all of us to re-dedicate ourselves to the fundamental principles of democracy upon which our government is based.

Our National Flag is a glorious symbol of freedom and progress which generations of Americans have been proud to defend upon the fields of battle, and in these unsettled times it provides hope and inspiration for millions of liberty-loving people who look forward to a peaceful world in which the rights of men can never again be challenged by force.

As we pay honor to the Flag on its anniversary day, it is fitting that we express our gratitude for the blessings which our way of life has bestowed upon us and that we be reminded of our individual responsibility to preserve and strengthen the ideals which have made America great.

With this thought in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Saturday, June 14, 1947, as FLAG DAY and urge that from every home, institution and place of business the Stars and Stripes be flown in tribute to the glory of our Nation and our Flag.

During the years of war, our servicemen and women derived comfort from the knowledge that their families and dependents were economically protected under the National Service Life Insurance plan made available to them by the government of the United States.

In civilian life this insurance continues to give peace of mind to many veterans and their families. Its renewal is one of the wisest investments a veteran can make because it provides financial security for his dependents at a very low cost. It is in the interest of every honorably discharged California veteran of World War II to call to his attention the fact that August first will be the last date on which it will be possible to reinstate lapsed policies of National Service Life Insurance without physical examination.

Accordingly, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, join with the United States Veterans Administration in urging every California veteran to become fully informed of the benefits of National Service Life Insurance and to avail himself of this last opportunity to obtain valuable protection for his family.

State of California (Quarantine Proclamation 22)

Notice of Quarantine: It having been determined by the Director of Agriculture that a dangerous virus disease pest known as peach wart disease, new to or not heretofore generally distributed in this state, exists as hereinafter described, I hereby establish a quarantine at the boundaries of the State of California in accordance with Section 106 of the Agricultural Code of the State of California, hereinafter setting forth the name of the pest against which the quarantine is established, the area under quarantine, the commodities covered, and the restrictions governing the entry of such commodities into this state.

(Reference: Title 3, California Administrative Code, Chapter 4, Subchapter 3, Group 4, Plant Quarantine)

Section 3268 C.A.C. is hereby added to read as follows:

3268. Peach Wart Disease Exterior Quarantine
(Quarantine Proclamation 22)

A quarantine is established effective against the following pest, its hosts, and possible carriers:

- (a) Pest. Peach wart disease.
- (b) Area Under Quarantine. The entire States of Idaho, Oregon, and Washington.
- (c) Commodities Covered. (Restricted Products.) All varieties of peach trees, including flowering forms, and parts thereof (except fruits, pits, and trees other than peach on peach root) are hereby declared to be hosts or possible carriers of the pest herein quarantined against.
- (d) Restrictions. (1) Origin Certificate Must Accompany Lot or Shipment. Commodities covered are prohibited entry into California from the area under quarantine unless each lot or shipment is accompanied by a certificate signed by the authorized agricultural inspection official of the origin state affirming that all such commodities contained therein meet all minimum qualifications of this regulation and setting forth the names and addresses of the consignor and consignee and the quantity of peach trees covered by the certificate.
- (2) Conditions Governing The Issuance of Origin Certificates. No certificates as herein required shall be issued except under and subject to the following conditions:
 - (A) Competent (Adequate) Surveys. Competent surveys shall have been made by the official representatives of the origin State Department of Agriculture and/or the United States Department of Agriculture at

ELM TREE DISEASES EXTERIOR QUARANTINE
(Quarantine Proclamation 21)

Notice of Quarantine: It having been determined by the Director of Agriculture that serious disease pests of elm known as Dutch elm disease and phloem necrosis of elm, not known to occur in this state, exist and are widely spread in many eastern and middle western states, and that the Federal Domestic Dutch Elm Disease Quarantine has been rescinded, lifting all restrictions on the movement of possible carriers from known infected areas, I hereby establish a quarantine at the boundaries of the State of California in accordance with Section 106 of the Agricultural Code of the State of California, hereinafter setting forth the names of the pests against which the quarantine is established, the area under quarantine, the commodities covered, and the restrictions governing the entry of such commodities into this state.

(Reference: Title 3, California Administrative Code, Chapter 4, Subchapter 3, Group 4, Plant Quarantine)

Section 3267 C.A.C. is hereby added to read as follows:

3267. Elm Tree Diseases Exterior Quarantine
(Quarantine Proclamation 21)

A quarantine is established effective against the following pests, their hosts, and possible carriers:

(a) Pests. Dutch elm disease (Ceratostomella ulmi) and phloem necrosis of elm.

(b) Area Under Quarantine. All states and districts of the United States.

(b-1) Infected Area. The entire States of Arkansas, Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Tennessee, Vermont, Virginia, and West Virginia.

(b-2) Restricted Area. All states and districts of the United States under quarantine, not described in (b-1) above as "Infected Area" shall be known as "Restricted Area".

(c) Commodities Covered. Elm plants and parts thereof, except seed, of all species of the genus Ulmus, including (1) trees, plants, leaves, twigs, branches, bark, roots, trunks, cuttings, and scions of elm; (2) logs, or cordwood of elm; and (3) lumber, crates, boxes, barrels, packing cases and other containers manufactured in whole or in part from elm wood not free from bark, all of which are hereby declared to be hosts or possible carriers of the pests herein quarantined against.

(d) Restrictions. (1) Commodities Covered Prohibited from Infected Area. All commodities covered originating or grown within the infected area described in (b-1) above are prohibited entry into the State of California whether so moved directly from said area or by diversion or reconsignment from any point outside thereof.

(2) Commodities Originating in Restricted Area Admissible Under Certificate of Origin. All commodities covered, if originating within and shipped from a point in the restricted area described in (b-2) above, are admissible into the State of California, provided that each lot or shipment of such commodities is accompanied by a certificate signed by the authorized agricultural inspection official of the state of origin affirming that neither the Dutch elm disease or phloem necrosis of elm are known to occur in said state and that such commodities contained therein are a product of said state or have been grown in another state wherein neither disease is known to occur, also, setting forth the names and addresses of the consignee and consignor and the kind and amount of commodities covered by said certificate.

(3) Director May Exempt Certain Articles. The Director of Agriculture may exempt certain articles classed as restricted herein when in his judgment such articles, because of the nature of their growth or production, or their manufactured or processed condition, are considered innocuous as carriers of infection. (See also Sections 3152 to 3156 inclusive.)

3152. Enforcing Powers. All deputies of the Director and all State plant quarantine officers are empowered to carry out all the provisions of Quarantine Regulations.

3153. Federal Shipments Exempted. Federal experimental shipments moved into this state by or at the request of the United States Department of Agriculture, are exempt from all the provisions of any Exterior Quarantine Regulations.

One hundred and sixty years ago the founding fathers of our nation translated their burning belief in the dignity and the freedom of man into one of the greatest documents of all time -- the Constitution of the United States of America. In doing so, they created a system of government which for more than a century and a half has commanded the respect of liberty-loving people everywhere.

The concepts of the privileges and responsibilities of citizenship upon which this government is based have long served as the foundation of our American way of life. Under the steady influence of the Constitution, our country has advanced to a foremost position among the nations of the world.

It is fitting, therefore, that at this time when the fundamental precepts of free government are being challenged, we should turn to our Constitution for renewed inspiration and strength.

With this thought in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Wednesday, September 17, 1947, as CONSTITUTION DAY in California, and urge that on that day we reaffirm our undying faith in the historic principles upon which our way of life and our form of government are based.

The people of our nation are devoted to peaceful ways, and for this reason it has become an American tradition that our armed forces are made up of men who are citizens first and soldiers second. One of the chief bulwarks of our country's strength is the National Guard, which is composed of civilians who consider it an honor and a privilege to train during their leisure hours for emergency service in the defense of our country.

In recognition of the contributions of the National Guard to the welfare of the United States, the President has proclaimed Tuesday, September 16, as National Guard Day. It is fitting that the citizens of California join in the observance of this day.

The men of the California National Guard are friends and neighbors whom all of us know well. They were among the first to be called into action during World War II and served bravely and with distinction in the major theaters of war. Behind them stands a tradition of service traceable nearly a hundred years back into the history of our State. They are entitled to our support as well as our gratitude.

In order that the spirit of service of the California National Guard may be duly recognized by all our people, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Tuesday, September 16, 1947, as NATIONAL GUARD DAY in California and urge that on this day the flag of the United States be displayed on all public buildings in honor of the men and the officers of the National Guard in our State.

Two years ago the hope of the world for an effective organization to promote lasting peace was centered in San Francisco where the charter of the United Nations was being drawn. Because this momentous event took place in our midst, the people of California have always felt a particularly close relationship to the United Nations organization and the ideals to which it is dedicated. It is especially fitting therefore that at this time as the General Assembly of the United Nations reconvenes, our State should join in the countrywide observance of United Nations Week.

Each of us shares in the responsibility for making international cooperation and good neighborliness a success. Many millions of people throughout the world look to our Nation for leadership and example in finding the solution to the problems of postwar adjustment. It is incumbent upon us, therefore, to keep ourselves informed on the work of the United Nations so that we may act in a way which will provide continued inspiration for those people abroad who look to this Nation for guidance.

For this reason, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, hereby proclaim the week of September 14 to 20, 1947, as UNITED NATIONS WEEK in California, and urge that during this period the civic organizations, schools, and other media of enlightenment in our State emphasize in their programs the importance of directing our individual efforts to furthering the ideals which prompted the establishment of the United Nations.

PROCLAMATION

California has long been proud of the record of thousands of its citizens who, in spite of physical handicaps, have made important contributions to the economic life of our State.

The accomplishments of these workers were vividly called to public attention during the recent war when they proved themselves an important asset to California industry and agriculture. They taught us that physical disability, rather than being a barrier to efficient production, often provides the incentive for outstanding performance.

Since the end of the war, numbers of rehabilitated veterans have been added to this work force, and it has assumed an increasingly important role in our economy.

To call attention to the valuable specialized abilities of our physically handicapped workers, the President and the Congress of the United States have designated the first week in October as NATIONAL EMPLOY THE PHYSICALLY HANDICAPPED WEEK.

, Earl Warren, Governor of California, therefore join with the President and Congress in urging employers to investigate the advantages of creating opportunities for physically handicapped personnel, and for this purpose do hereby proclaim the week of October 5 - 11, inclusive, as EMPLOY THE PHYSICALLY HANDICAPPED WEEK in California.

Because of the great loss which our Nation suffers each year as a result of fire, the President of the United States has again called public attention to the need for increased precautions against this menace, and has proclaimed the second week of October as Fire Prevention Week.

It is a tragic fact that much loss of life and property is caused by carelessness and neglect, and can be avoided if proper preventive measures are taken. The need for husbanding our every resource during this period of world reconstruction is self-evident. When fire destroys our forests, grazing land, homes, and places of business, it retards not only the development of our own State but of those other states and nations which count upon our productive capacity to help them meet their needs.

Fire hazard in California this year has been as great as in any year of our history. For this reason, it is essential that each citizen of our State exercise double precaution against the hazard of fire at home, at work and at play.

Accordingly, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of October 5 to 11, 1947, as FIRE PREVENTION WEEK in California, and urge that during this period our citizens join in a concerted effort to establish fire prevention habits and policies which will be of continuing benefit throughout the year.

In the history of this nation, no state has benefited more from the devotion and the activities of its women than has California during its first century of progress.

The achievements of our women culminated in the war years when they carried on not only their normal pursuits but engaged in every kind of business and industrial endeavor essential to the war effort. In this way they made it possible for our State to make its magnificent contribution to early victory.

Because of the pressing state and community problems which are associated with our rapid growth, the participation of our women in public life is more essential than ever. Since our most important problems require an understanding of economic as well as social factors, it is particularly fitting that business women because of their specialized training should provide leadership in finding their solution.

Therefore, to stimulate the greater interest of women in the public life of our State, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of October 5 to 11, 1947, as BUSINESS WOMEN'S WEEK in California, and urge that during this week special honor be given such organizations as the California Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs for the contribution they are making to the improvement of our community life.

One of the distinguishing features of the American way of life is the guarantee of freedom of the press. It is one of the most cherished guarantees in the Bill of Rights.

This basic right has been exercised by our daily and weekly newspapers to better serve our people. The press of America has throughout our history truthfully disseminated the facts which the people in a democracy must have if they are to make sound decisions. For over a century and a half, our newspapers have consistently fought oppression, injustice, and corruption in every form.

As an essential part of the life of every community, newspapers are making a greater contribution to sound public opinion than any other medium. Further, they are contributing to the citizenship training of thousands of growing boys by sponsoring wholesome programs of recreation and educational opportunities for their newspaper boys.

If all parts of the world were served by a free press such as our own, this, more than any other one thing, would dispel bitter emotions and inspire peaceful desires in all hearts.

So that all our citizens may be reminded of the importance of a free press in our daily life, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of October 1 to October 8, 1947, as NEWSPAPER WEEK in California and urge that during that week our citizens familiarize themselves with the many forms of public service being rendered by the newspapers of this State.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 17th day of September, A. D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Forty-Seven.

Our homes and our schools exert the greatest character-building influences upon our children. For this reason, it is vital that parents and teachers work closely together in all programs affecting the welfare of youth. The need for coordinating their efforts is particularly acute in this State because the extraordinary expansion of our population in recent years has placed great strains upon our educational system and upon the agencies which deal with juvenile problems. If we are to have a better future, we must give increasing thought to the means by which our boys and girls may grow into responsible citizens. Their educational opportunities must be equalized throughout the State, and wholesome recreational and health facilities must be made available for all.

The California Congress of Parents and Teachers, which this year is celebrating its fiftieth anniversary, has long worked toward these worthy ends. Not only has this organization served as a consistently effective forum for the exchange of ideas affecting the welfare of youth, but it has provided leadership and helped to initiate many of our most forward-looking educational and welfare programs.

In order to call public attention to the great contribution to community life being made by the many Parent-Teacher Associations of our State, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of October 6 to 10, 1947, as PARENT-TEACHER WEEK in California, and urge that during this period parents acquaint themselves with the work of the Parent-Teacher groups in the local schools with a view to taking part in the programs which they have undertaken.

The recent war has given new significance to our annual observance of Armistice Day, for it has impressed upon us the need for redoubling our efforts in promoting international understanding and good will.

With the memory of the losses of that war still fresh in mind, we are more than ever determined to make the present peace a lasting one. We are fully aware that the responsibility for preserving the ideals for which our loved ones fought now rests squarely with us. We can, by our display of tolerance and brotherhood, give inspiration to all others who, like us, desire harmony in the world. By work and sacrifice we can help keep our country strong, so that America's call for good neighborliness among the nations may continue to be respected wherever it is heard.

With these thoughts in mind I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Tuesday, November 11, 1947, as ARMISTICE DAY in California, and urge that all of us pause on this day for a moment of solemn prayer in memory of those who laid down their lives in the defense of freedom, and further, that we rededicate ourselves on this day to the principles for which they died.

Although the recent war came to an end well over two years ago, its tragic consequences still plague millions of people in all parts of the world. Many remain cold and hungry, facing the prospect of a winter of starvation and disease.

Out of the native generosity of the American people has come the idea for a Friendship Train, carrying not only physical but spiritual nourishment for those less fortunate abroad. Our State is privileged to be the starting point for this train.

Such is the American spirit that citizens all over the country are joining spontaneously in this gesture of good will toward those in need. From California this train will wind its way eastward, adding carload after carload of non-perishable food contributions for shipment overseas.

To call the attention of the people of this State to the Friendship Train, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, hereby proclaim the week commencing Friday, November 7th, as FRIENDSHIP WEEK in California, and urge all of our people by their individual contributions to assist in fulfilling the mission of the Friendship Train.

PROCLAMATION

Since 1775 the men and women of the United States Marine Corps have served our nation with valor and distinction both in peace and in war. They have written many colorful accounts of heroism into the pages of our national history, and brought honor and glory to the American flag wherever it has flown.

In view of the long-standing admiration for the Marine Corps by the citizens of this State, it is appropriate that our people should join in national observances commemorating the 172nd anniversary of this important branch of the armed forces. It is fitting, also, that we should give our full support to a three-month recruiting drive for the Organized Reserve and the Volunteer Reserve of the Marine Corps, which will begin on that day.

So that due recognition may be given this significant anniversary in the history of the Marine Corps, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Monday, November 10th, the Birthday of the Marine Corps, as MARINE CORPS DAY in California, and urge that on this and the ninety days following our people give every assistance to the Marine Corps recruiting drive.

PROCLAMATION

In a world still unsettled as an aftermath of war, the American people have particular reason for expressing thanks to God for the benefits which have come to us during the past year.

Our nation fortunately has been spared the calamities which have occurred in many other parts of the world. Spiritually and materially we remain strong and we rejoice in the maintenance of a free way of life handed down to us by our founding fathers.

Even more than the Pilgrims who established the glorious tradition of Thanksgiving, we have reason to express our gratitude for an abundant harvest. Our productive capacity has become so great that we are able to fill not only our own needs but the needs of many less fortunate abroad. For this reason many of us, in giving thanks, will wish to remember the millions of hungry people elsewhere in the world who do not possess the advantages which we enjoy. We will wish to share with them through recognized agencies established for the purpose, or directly, if we get more pleasure that way. Above all it is appropriate that we give thanks for our blessings by reiterating our faith in the spiritual principles upon which our way of life is based. This we can do both through our individual prayers of thanksgiving and through participation in the religious ceremonies of the church.

With these thoughts in mind I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Thursday, November 27, 1947, as THANKSGIVING DAY in California.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the great seal of the State of California to be affixed this 14th day of November, 1947.

PROCLAMATION

The Bill of Rights is the very soul of our government. Its guarantees of individual liberty serve to distinguish our system of government from many others in the world today. Because these rights have become ingrained in the American people, they are too often taken for granted.

We must all remember that the Bill of Rights came into being only after many trials and tribulations on the part of the men and women who conceived and helped to shape our democratic processes. The constitutional rights which were thus secured for us are balanced by important responsibilities of citizenship, and each of us must be willing to shoulder these responsibilities if the spirit as well as the form of our institutions is to be maintained.

Particularly during this period of postwar reconstruction, it is essential that the true significance of the fundamental liberties assured us under the Bill of Rights be understood both at home and abroad. This is a time in history when the eyes of all the world are upon us. Millions of people in other sections of the globe who cherish freedom are looking to us now for examples of accomplishment under our system of free government.

This week we will observe the 156th anniversary of the ratification of the Bill of Rights by the thirteen original states. It is appropriate, therefore, that we review the contribution which this document has already made to our way of life and that we determine the methods by which we can better put into action our devotion to its ideals.

CHAPTER 1181

An act to repeal Section 6028 of the Penal Code and to add Sections 6028, 6028.1, 6028.2, 6028.3, and 6028.4 thereto, relating to the functions of the Board of Corrections, authorizing the Governor to create special commissions to assist the board in the study of crime, and specifying the powers and duties of such commissions and of the board in relation thereto.

[Approved by Governor July 8, 1947. Filed with Secretary of State July 8, 1947.]

The people of the State of California do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. Section 6028 of the Penal Code is repealed.

SEC. 2. Section 6028 is added to said code, to read:

6028. Upon request of the Board of Corrections or upon his own initiative, the Governor from time to time may create by executive order one or more special commissions to assist the Board of Corrections in the study of crime pursuant to Section 6027. Each such special commission shall consist of not less than three nor more than five members, who shall be appointed by the Governor. The members of any such special commission shall serve without compensation, except that they shall receive their actual and necessary expenses incurred in the discharge of their duties.

The executive order creating each special commission shall specify the subjects and scope of the study to be made by the commission, and shall fix a time within which the commission shall make its final report. Each commission shall cease to exist when it makes its final report.

SEC. 3. Section 6028.1 is added to said code, to read:

6028.1. Each such special commission may investigate any and all matters relating to the subjects specified in the order creating it.

SEC. 4. Section 6028.2 is added to said code, to read:

6028.2. The Director of Corrections may furnish for the use of any such commission such facilities, supplies, and personnel as may be available therefor.

SEC. 5. Section 6028.3 is added to said code, to read:

6028.3. All such special commissions shall make all their reports and recommendations to the Board of Corrections. The Board of Corrections shall consider such reports and recommendations, and shall transmit them to the Governor and the Legislature, together with its own comments and recommendations on the subject matter thereof, within the first 30 days of the next succeeding general or budget session of the Legislature. The Board of Corrections shall also file copies of such reports with the Attorney General, the State Library and such other state departments as may appear to have an official interest in the subject matter of the report or reports in question.

SEC. 6. Section 6028.4 is added to said code, to read:

6028.4. The Governor shall report to each regular session of the Legislature the names of any persons appointed under Section 6028 together with a statement of expenses incurred.

EXECUTIVE ORDER OF THE GOVERNOR
(Pursuant to Chapter 1181, Statute Laws of 1947, Section 6028)

By virtue of the authority vested in me by Chapter 1181 of the Statute Laws of 1947, I hereby create a special Commission of five members, to be known as "The Special Crime Study Commission on Social and Economic Causes of Crime and Delinquency," to assist the Board of Corrections in the study of crime pursuant to Section 6027 of the Penal Code.

This Commission is authorized and instructed to make inquiries into any social or economic condition in the State which appears to be or is contributing to crime and delinquency, either directly or indirectly. Because of the broad scope of this subject, it is suggested that the Commission: (a) make a general inquiry into social and economic causes of crime and delinquency in California, and (b) restrict its intensive studies to the more acute social and economic conditions productive of crime and delinquency. It is further suggested, in this connection, that particular attention be given to those conditions with respect to which there is the greatest promise of effecting substantial improvement and amelioration.

Said Commission is authorized to make partial and interim reports on such subjects within the general scope of its study and at such times as are deemed appropriate by said Commission.

Said Commission shall render its final report and recommendations to the Director of Corrections not later than July 1, 1949, and in the manner provided by Section 6028.3 of the Penal Code.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto

Said Commission is authorized and instructed to study, evaluate, and make recommendations respecting all matters having a direct bearing upon the prevention of juvenile delinquency and the protection of the welfare of children together with the general problem of dealing with juvenile offenders against the law, including their apprehension, detention, prosecution, treatment, and rehabilitation.

The scope of these inquiries shall include, but shall not be limited to: (a) A careful examination of the Juvenile Court Law and of other laws, State and local, related to the problem of dealing with juvenile offenders against the law, together with laws established for the protection of juveniles and, in particular, laws dealing with adults who contribute to the delinquency of juveniles. (b) Studies of the organization, administration, functions, policies, and practices of the California Youth Authority; the Juvenile Court, County agencies responsible for the administration of juvenile probation, parole, and placement; juvenile detention homes; County probation committees; local and State public correctional institutions for juveniles, including forestry camps, police juvenile bureaus; and the qualifications and training of police officers dealing with juveniles on a full- or part-time basis.

It is further suggested that the Commission inquire into the general field of the causes of delinquency and of prevention techniques and practices including the study of programs for the coordination of public and private community forces for the correction and prevention of delinquency.

In making these studies, the Commission is instructed to make use of such advice and consultation as the Committee of the Judicial Council for the Study of the Juvenile Court Law and the California State Bar may elect to make available to it.

(Pursuant to Chapter 1181, Section 6028, Statute Laws

By virtue of the authority vested in me by Chapter 1181 of the Statute Laws of 1947, I hereby create a special commission of five members, to be known as "The Special Crime Study Commission on Organized Crime," to assist the Board of Corrections in the study of crime pursuant to Section 6027 of the Penal Code.

This commission is organized and instructed to make inquiries into the general subject of organized crime in the State of California, the extent to which persons are organized or are otherwise banded together, both inside and outside of this State, for objects and purposes which violate the laws of the State of California, the means and methods used by such persons to further and promote their unlawful objects and purposes in California, and the conditions which make possible the continued existence and activity within the State of California of persons who are thus organized or otherwise banded together, both inside and outside of this State, for purposes which violate the laws of the State of California. Because of the broad scope of this subject it is suggested that the commission:

(a) Review the findings and recommendations of the Special Crime Study Commission on Organized Crime, created by Executive Order dated November 1, 1947, and the findings and recommendations of the Special Committee of the United States Senate to Investigate Organized Crime in Interstate Commerce;

(b) Make general inquiry into the effectiveness of the revenue laws of California in removing the potentialities of profit from organized criminal enterprises, into the use of State and local revenue laws as a means for supplementing and assisting the efforts of federal agencies in deterring and suppressing the possible development and growth of black markets in California, into the size and relationships of the narcotics traffic and organized prostitution in California, into the effect upon organized crime of jurisdictional limitations and overlapping of authority among local law enforcement agencies, and into the means by which standards of local law enforcement may be improved and made more uniform;

(c) Restrict its intensive studies to the more acute conditions with respect to which there is the greatest promise of effecting substantial improvement and amelioration.

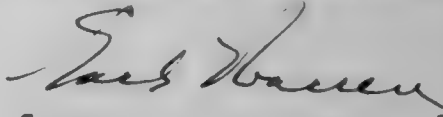

The commission is directed, empowered and authorized to conduct public and private hearings to accomplish the several purposes of the commission; and to that end, as circumstances in its judgment may require, to designate from time to time one or more of its members to hold and preside over such hearings without convening the entire commission. The commission is authorized to seek and receive cooperation and assistance in making its investigations, studies, and reports from all agencies of the Executive Department of this State. The commission is directed to seek the assistance and cooperation of the Attorney General and the Department of Justice and to utilize such assistance to the greatest practicable extent. In the course of its studies into the general subject of the revenue laws and their relationship to organized crime, the commission shall seek the cooperation, help, and assistance of the Franchise Tax Board and other tax agencies of the State and local governments. All agencies of the Executive Department of the State are directed to make their facilities and resources available to the commission in the course of its studies. The commission is authorized to make partial and interim reports on such subjects within the general scope of its study and at such times as are deemed appropriate by said commission.

Executive Department
State of California

The commission shall terminate its studies on June 30, 1952, and shall render its final report and recommendations to the Director of Corrections as soon thereafter as is practicable, and in any event not later than December 31, 1952, and in the manner provided by Section 6028.3 of the Penal Code.

EXECUTIVE ORDER OF THE GOVERNOR
(Pursuant to Chapter 1181, Section 6028, Statute Laws of 1947)

WHEREAS, the demands for services and facilities concerned with minor children has been intensified at every level of government by the phenomenal population growth of California; and

WHEREAS, the last comprehensive study by the executive branch of this essential area of government responsibility was made in 1948 by Special Study Commissions appointed by the Governor; and

WHEREAS, in California there is an increasing awareness regarding the variations in application of the laws relating to juveniles, jurisdictional statutes, methods of handling youthful offenders, and the use of state and local facilities; and

WHEREAS, there has been no comprehensive revision of the juvenile court act since 1913 there now exists an urgent necessity to consider changes which will provide just legal procedures designed to effectively meet the needs of our complex modern society, particularly noting that since adoption of the basic juvenile court law, innumerable fundamental changes have been made in our educational, welfare, and correctional statutes; therefore,

By virtue of the authority vested in me by Chapter 1181 of the Statute Laws of 1947, I hereby create a special commission of five members to be known as "The Special Study Commission on Juvenile Justice," to assist the Board of Corrections in a penological study pursuant to Section 6027 of the Penal Code.

Said Commission is authorized and instructed to study, evaluate, and make recommendations respecting all matters related to juvenile justice and the protection of minors together with general problems involved and dealing with dependent children, minor offenders against the laws including their apprehension, detention, prosecution, supervision, treatment, and rehabilitation.

The scope of these inquiries shall include but shall not be limited to:

A. Juvenile laws regarding:

1. Dependent and neglected children.
2. Revision to make possible for juvenile court to carry on modern concepts of treatment.

Executive Department

3. Protection of rights of children and parents; for example, legal detention, right to counsel, bond, trial, calling of witnesses, access to findings.
 4. Review of statutory provisions related to protective services.
 5. Review laws permitting juvenile courts to engage in prevention of juvenile delinquency.
 6. Laws relating to children and youth (ages 16-21) with particular attention to disposition of cases involving extensive criminal activity or crimes of violence.
- B. In addition to review of laws, consideration of methods of their administration.
- C. Labor laws affecting various ages of minors.
- D. Laws of arrest, detention, and treatment.
- E. Analysis of present and desirable allocation of financial responsibility as between the county and state jurisdictions.

Said Commission is authorized to make partial and interim reports on such subjects within the general scope of its study and at such times as are deemed appropriate by said Commission.

Said Commission shall render its final report and recommendations to the Board of Corrections not later than June 30, 1959, and in the manner provided by Section 6028.3 of the Penal Code.

It has become an annual custom in this country, in accordance with a proclamation of the President and an act of the Congress of the United States, to honor the memory of George Washington Carver on the anniversary of his death.

Our observance of this anniversary is most appropriate, for Dr. Carver gave unselfishly of his talents for the benefit of all people, regardless of race or religion. He rose to eminent rank as a scientist and educator, and his research made an important contribution to the social and economic progress of this nation.

Born in slavery, he confirmed anew the American tradition that anyone, regardless of his start in life, can rise to supreme heights of achievement in the service of his fellow-man.

With the hope that all of our people may share in the inspiration which can be gained from a review of the life and works of George Washington Carver, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Monday, January 5, 1948, as GEORGE WASHINGTON CARVER DAY in California, and urge that on this day appropriate ceremonies be held in recognition of the contribution which he has made to our way of life.

Because of the great shortage of food in Europe, the training ship of the California Maritime Academy this year will forego its annual winter cruise to South American waters in order to carry milk to the starving children of France, Italy and Greece.

During the next ten days this vessel, the "Golden Bear," will dock at principal ports of the State so that each of us may have an opportunity to make a personal contribution of canned milk to its precious cargo. Collections are already in progress in communities throughout our State.

By their generosity, our people are demonstrating their friendship and compassion for the stricken peoples of the countries ravaged by war. They are translating their concern for these unfortunates into positive action by helping to save the lives of their undernourished babies.

Accordingly, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, hereby proclaim the period of January 14 to 24, 1948, inclusive, as CALIFORNIA GOOD WILL MILK SHIP DAYS so that public attention may be called to the mercy mission of the "Golden Bear." In issuing this proclamation, I urge that our people take part in appropriate ceremonies in conjunction with the loading of this ship in Vallejo on January 14, Stockton on January 15, Oakland on January 16 and 17, San Francisco on January 18, Long Beach on January 21 and 22, and San Diego on January 23 and 24.

By their generous support of the annual "March of Dimes" fund-raising campaign of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, the people of California have experienced each year the warmth of heart which comes from sharing in the joy of bringing crippled children back to health.

Each Californian who has contributed to the "March of Dimes" has had a part in making available to infantile paralysis victims in this State the expensive treatment which otherwise only few could afford. In addition, these contributions are financing a research program which it is hoped will eventually eradicate the shadow of infantile paralysis from our homes.

Although progress has been made against this dread, crippling disease, it is still far from conquered. It continues to strike suddenly and without warning, claiming hundreds of our people -- adults as well as children -- as its victims each year.

So that the fight against infantile paralysis may be pressed relentlessly on, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, urge all Californians to contribute generously to the 1948 "March of Dimes," and do hereby proclaim Thursday, January 15, 1948, as the opening day of the "March of Dimes" drive in this State.

PROCLAMATION

On Saturday of this week the people of California will celebrate the Centennial anniversary of the discovery of gold.

When James W. Marshall first found yellow metal on a bank of the American River at Coloma on January 24, 1848, he set off a chain of events which tremendously accelerated the early expansion of the West. As a result of his momentous discovery the sparsely populated territory of California developed at such a rapid pace that in less than thirty-two months it became a state.

The California Centennials Commission has appropriately designated the one-hundredth anniversary of the discovery of gold as the opening event of a three-year centennial celebration commemorating these outstanding historic developments. Between now and September 9, 1950, when this observance will culminate in ceremonies marking the one-hundredth anniversary of California's admission to the Union, all of us will join in hailing the glory of our State's romantic past.

It is fitting that we honor these important anniversaries in California history, and that in doing so we review with thoughtfulness our progress of the past one hundred years. By becoming more intimately acquainted with the developments which have led to our present growth, we shall better be able to plan for a second century of progress to come.

California's centennial celebrations will refresh our memories as to the glorious traditions which have been handed down to us from earliest days. They will provide us with new opportunities to consider the abundance and the diversity of our natural resources, as well as the beauties of California terrain. Above all, they will provide inspiring occasions for us to rededicate ourselves to the great principles of the American way of life upon which all of California's progress has been based.

In honor of the centennial anniversary of the discovery of gold at Coloma, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Saturday, January 24, 1948, as GOLD DISCOVERY DAY in California, and do further designate this day as the start of a three-year festival of centennial observances in our state.

PROCLAMATION

In our observances of the various Centennial anniversaries of events highlighting California's glorious history, it is proper for us to reflect that this State's steady progress during the past one hundred years has been due in large part to the greatness of its store of natural resources.

California's abundance of natural wealth enables us to look forward with complete confidence to a future even more promising than was our past. We must bear in mind, however, that none of these resources is inexhaustible. It is our solemn obligation to use them wisely, and to preserve and replenish them for the use of generations still to come.

Conservation programs which are being carried out in California by various government and private agencies merit the whole-hearted support of us all. Each of us, whether he lives in the city or in the country, can assist materially in husbanding the precious reserves of good soil, water, hydro-electric power, forests, minerals, petroleum, natural gas and other resources which have already contributed so much to the growth of our State.

We can do this by familiarizing ourselves with the many ways in which these natural resources contribute to the comfort of our daily life, and by remaining constantly on guard against their waste. We can give encouragement to programs for the development of new water and power sources and for the reclamation of arable land. We can, by our exercise of good outdoor manners in California's beautiful natural playgrounds, help to prevent the needless destruction of forests and wildlife by fire.

To call the attention of our people to the numerous ways in which they can contribute to the preservation of our magnificent heritage, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of March 7 to 14, 1948, as CONSERVATION WEEK in California, and urge that during this week the importance of carrying out extensive programs of conservation be stressed in public meetings, homes and schools throughout our State.

Each year at this time our people are called upon to assist in the annual fund raising drive of the American Red Cross. This organization, created under Congressional charter for the protection and welfare of the public, merits the full support of us all.

Its facilities extend into every California community. Through its disaster service, the Red Cross is a potential benefactor to each of us regardless of rank or station in life. By sponsoring free training classes in home nursing, nutrition, first aid and water safety, it is helping to improve our standards of public health. In addition it is ministering to the needs of the many young men and women who remain in our armed forces, as well as to the needs of an increasing number of veterans and their families at home.

One of the most important public welfare services of the American Red Cross will be greatly intensified during the coming year, when the system of blood banks which saved so many lives during the recent war is expanded for peace time use throughout the state.

Knowing that the people of California will be anxious to lend their support to the American Red Cross in its appeal for funds to finance its operations of the coming year, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Monday, March 1, 1948, as the opening day of the 1948 Red Cross fund raising drive in California, and urge that during the month of March our people give as generously to this agency of mercy as they can.

It is the hope of people the world over that at last we have entered into an era of permanent peace. Whether or not this hope is justified will depend in great part upon the degree to which mankind can replace bitterness, prejudice and fear with the constructive influences of a spirit of brotherhood and good will.

The achievement of complete harmony among the peoples of the world is not at all a hopeless dream. We have learned in our own State that when men and women of widely differing origin come to know each other well, their mutual suspicion and mistrust are erased. California's great development of the past one hundred years has stemmed from the ability of her people to live together in unity and friendship while working toward the common goals of progress and a better life for all.

Because it is important that we give thought to the means of developing universal brotherhood without regard to race, nationality or creed, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of February 22nd to 29th, inclusive, 1948, as BROTHERHOOD WEEK in California and urge that during this period our people join in strengthening the bonds of friendship which already exist in the hundreds of communities in our State.

The dread disease of cancer took the lives of nearly thirteen thousand Californians last year. Medical experts tell us that if there had been early recognition and prompt treatment of these cases many of the victims could have been saved.

There is a great need for the expansion of research and educational programs in the field of cancer control and we must do everything possible to encourage the fight against this enemy of public health. We must strive to add each year to our knowledge of the causes and treatment of this disease, to the end that it can ultimately be conquered.

The fight against cancer is being led by the American Cancer Society, which depends upon public donations for its support. This society will conduct its annual fund raising drive during the coming month. State of California

In accordance with resolution of Congress and proclamation of the President, the nation observes Army Day for the 21st consecutive year on April 6, 1948.

The people of California have every reason to join patriotically and enthusiastically in this observance.

During the recent war we came to know the spirit of the American Army as few states had the opportunity to know it. Millions of young men and women from all parts of the country, trained in our state, embarked here for battle service throughout the world, and returned through our ports at the conclusion of their heroic service. Some are still returning on silent ships that bring them back to the homeland as our honored dead.

On Army Day we honor those who gave their lives, those who still languish in our hospitals, those who are endeavoring to re-establish themselves in civil life after the disruption of war, and those who are continuing to serve as members of the regular Army, the National Guard and the Organized Reserve.

We know the Army for what it has accomplished in the defense of America and to establish a just and lasting peace. We look to the army for our future security in a troubled world. We have faith that it will measure up to every responsibility if the American people will provide it with the means to remain strong.

In California Army Day will have added significance this year because it will open a week of intensive recruiting activity for the Sixth Army Area. Through it we will honor those young men who will offer their service to our country.

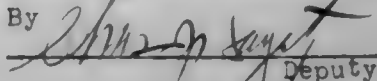

To call attention to the great contribution made by the Army to our national welfare and to lend encouragement to the Sixth Army Area recruiting drive, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Tuesday, April 6th, 1948 as ARMY DAY in California, and urge our people to display the American flag in the Army's honor on this day.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 5th day of April, One Thousand Nine Hundred and Forty-eight.

It is particularly appropriate that our people should join this year in the annual observance of Pan American Day. There is perhaps a greater need at this time than ever before for the twenty-one nations of the Pan American Union to rededicate themselves to the spirit of friendship and neighborliness which has so long characterized their relationships with each other.

In California we are especially aware of the close kinship of the nations of the western hemisphere. Not only has our culture been greatly influenced by the customs of our neighbors and friends to the south, but we share with them many intimate historical and racial ties. For these reasons we have annually taken enthusiastic part in the international celebration of Pan American Day.

In keeping with this tradition, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Wednesday, April 14, 1948 as PAN AMERICAN DAY in California and urge that on this day our citizens join with their friends throughout the Americas in this demonstration of hemispheric solidarity and good will.

The twenty-ninth annual observance of Public Schools Week provides us with an opportunity to familiarize ourselves with the accomplishments of our public schools and to re-examine their needs.

It is important that we become better acquainted with the workings of these schools, because they share with home and church in the responsibility for shaping the character of our growing boys and girls. The vast majority of us have gained our own understanding of the meaning of democracy and its application in daily life from the training we received in the public schools. It is more than ever essential, in this modern era of conflicting ideologies, that we provide proper guidance for our children and point the way to their full realization of the advantages of the American way of life.

Each of us can gain a greater insight into the problems of our public schools by visiting them during Public Schools Week. Our visits will equip us to contribute more intelligently to the advancement of public education in our state.

Accordingly, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week commencing Monday, April 26, 1948, as PUBLIC SCHOOLS WEEK in California and urge the whole-hearted participation of our people in the many community programs which will be scheduled during this week.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 19th day of April, One Thousand, Nine Hundred and Forty-eight.

During this month the people of nearly fifty nations will join in a world wide fund raising campaign sponsored by the United Nations for the benefit of underprivileged children. In many of these countries the voluntary contributions to this Crusade for Children will represent sacrifices by men and women who already do not have enough for themselves. Living in the midst of the ruins of war these people need no reminder of the great effort which must be made to save from starvation the boys and girls who will be entrusted with responsibilities of citizenship in tomorrow's world.

It would be particularly fitting if in our own country, which has largely been spared the miseries of war, this appeal for children should meet with unusually warmhearted response. We can help those who are trying to help themselves, bearing in mind that the people who most seriously require aid are those least able to cooperate in this humanitarian drive. If, out of our gratitude for the well being of our own boys and girls, we are able to bring succor to the unfortunates of other lands, we shall be helping materially to make the world a better place in which to live.

It is with these thoughts in mind that I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, call to public attention the Crusade for Children which is being jointly conducted by American Overseas Aid and the United Nations Appeal for Children, and do hereby proclaim the month of May, 1948, as CRUSADE FOR CHILDREN month in this state.

Our nation's great technological progress of recent years is exemplified by the rapid rise of air mail service from experimental status only thirty years ago to its important position in world communication today. The thirtieth anniversary of the inauguration of United States Air Mail will occur on the fifteenth day of this month, and in honor of this event the United States Post Office Department has designated the week of May 15th to 21st as Air Mail Anniversary Week.

Inasmuch as our state has received particular benefit from air mail service because of its geographical situation, it is appropriate for the people of California to give enthusiastic support to this observance. The speedy communication made possible by air mail has brought us closer to distant regions of this country and facilitated our exchange of trade and ideas with the citizens of other parts of the world. In addition to excellent domestic service we now enjoy the advantages of air mail communication with seventy-five foreign nations. Our interest in this service is heightened because much of this mail which is addressed to the Orient passes through the airports of our state.

So that the people of California may be made more fully aware of the contributions made by air mail to our everyday life, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of May 15th to 21st, inclusive, 1948, as AIR MAIL ANNIVERSARY WEEK in this state.

hereunto set my hand

Seal of the State of Citizenship in this nation has long been cherished by our people as a sacred trust. For many generations of Americans it has meant independence from oppression, persecution, and fear. It has provided opportunity for free men to exercise their voice in government, and to enjoy the brotherhood of their fellows without regard to national origin, race or creed.

The unity which has thus been engendered has given our country the moral stamina to win for itself a position of leadership among the nations of the world. The maintenance of this position is of great importance today for at this time our fundamental concepts of liberty and democracy have been challenged by cynical propagandists of subversive doctrines.

It is our solemn duty, therefore, to demonstrate by our intelligent interest in public affairs that the institutions of democracy possess a vitality and progressive spirit which justifies the confidence placed in them by freedom loving peoples everywhere. We can do this on I Am An American Day, which has been designated as the third Sunday in May by the President and the Congress of the United States.

Although this occasion has as its primary purpose the honoring of those who have attained citizenship during the past twelve months, it will provide opportunity for every American to reaffirm his faith in the principles and ideals which are the foundation of our national life.

With this thought in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Sunday, May 16, 1948, as I AM AN AMERICAN DAY in California, and urge that on this day all of our people join with those who have newly assumed the responsibilities of American citizenship in ceremonies of rededication to the great heritage of freedom which is ours.

FINDING OF EMERGENCY

Goodwin J. Knight, pursuant to power vested in me as Acting Governor of the State of California, find that the revision of the Cherry Fruit Fly Exterior Quarantine is necessary for the immediate preservation of the safety and general welfare of the public, and that compliance with the notice and public procedure of the Government Code thereon are impracticable, unnecessary and contrary to the public interest, and therefore adopt the foregoing as an emergency regulation to take effect immediately upon the filing of the same with the Secretary of the State.

The Director of Agriculture finds that cherry fruit fly is now known to occur in Douglas County, Oregon, and that under the provisions of the proclamation last revised June 17, 1945, as amended May 23, 1946 and July 6, 1946, cherry fruits are admissible into California from Douglas County, Oregon, being defined therein as "Noninfested Area". It is therefore necessary to revise the proclamation to prohibit fresh cherry fruits from this county now known to be infested. Also, with this revision the proclamation is prepared in accordance with the form prescribed by the Codification Board, superseding the revision of June 17, 1945 and amendments No. 1 and 2 thereto of May 23, 1946 and July 6, 1946, respectively.

As cherry fruits will very shortly be harvested and shipped from the State of Oregon, it is necessary to make this regulation effective at the earliest possible date.

CHERRY FRUIT FLY EXTERIOR QUARANTINE
(Quarantine Proclamation 8)

Notice of Determination Of The Director Of Agriculture

Citation of Authority: Sections 106 and 107 of the Agricultural Code of the State of California.

Reference: Section 3256, Title 3, California Administrative Code, Chapter 4, Subchapter 3, Group 4, Plant Quarantine.

It has been determined by the Director of Agriculture that it is necessary to further revise the Cherry Fruit Fly Exterior Quarantine which was last revised June 17, 1945, as amended May 23, 1946 and July 6, 1946, in order to prohibit the entry into this state of fresh cherry fruits produced in Douglas County, Oregon, wherein cherry fruit fly is now known to occur. The exterior quarantine is therefore hereby revised to read as follows:

Notice of quarantine: It having been determined by the Director of Agriculture that pests of cherry fruits known as cherry fruit flies, not heretofore generally distributed in this state, exist as hereinafter described, I hereby establish and proclaim a quarantine at the boundaries of the State of California, hereinafter setting forth the names of the pests against which the quarantine is established, the area under quarantine, the commodities covered, and the restrictions governing the entry of such commodities into this state.

3256. Cherry Fruit Fly Exterior Quarantine
(Quarantine Proclamation 8)

A quarantine is established effective June 24, 1948 against the following pests, their hosts and possible carriers:

(a) Pests: Cherry fruit flies (Rhagoletis cingulata and Rhagoletis fausta).

(b) Area Under Quarantine. Entire States of Oregon, Washington, and Idaho.

(b-1) Noninfested Area:

Oregon: Counties of Baker, Coos, Curry, Jackson, Josephine, Lake, Malheur, Umatilla, and Wallowa.

Washington: Adams, Chelan, Columbia, Douglas, Ferry, Garfield, Grant, Lincoln, Okanogan, Pend Oreille, Stevens, and Whitman.

Idaho: Entire State except the Counties of Benewah, Kootanai, Latah, and Nez Perce.

(b-2) Infested Area: All other areas of the States Oregon, Washington, and Idaho not defined as noninfested area.

(c) Commodities Covered. Cherry fruits are hereby declared to be hosts and possible carriers of the pest herein quarantined against.

(d) Restrictions. (1) Cherries Prohibited from Infested Area.

Cherry fruits grown, packed, or stored in or shipped from the infested area are prohibited entry into this State.

(2) Certified Cherries Admissible From Noninfested Area.

Cherry fruits which have been grown, packed, and stored in and shipped from the noninfested area are admissible into California, provided, each lot or shipment is officially certified from origin by a duly authorized representative of the Department of Agriculture, setting forth the locality where grown and packed, where stored (if stored), the names and addresses of the grower, shipper, and consignee. (See also Sections 3152 to 3156, inclusive.)

3152. Enforcing Powers. All deputies of the Director and all State plant quarantine officers are empowered to carry out all the provisions of Quarantine Regulations.

3153. Federal Shipments Exempted. Federal experimental shipments moved into this state by or at the request of the United States Department of Agriculture, are exempt from all the provisions of any Exterior Quarantine Regulations.

3154. Commodities Covered Subject to Other Rules and Regulations. The admissibility and movement within the State of California of any commodity covered by a Quarantine Regulation shall be further subject to the provisions of any other rule or regulation now in force or which may hereafter be established.

3155. Disposition of Violations. (a) Exterior: Any and all lots or shipments of commodities covered by any Exterior Quarantine Regulation arriving in the State of California in violation of or not in compliance with the restrictions thereof, shall be immediately destroyed unless no detriment can be caused to agriculture in this state by the shipment of such commodities out of the state within the specified time limits at the option and expense of the owner or bailee.

3156. Common Carrier Agents Must Hold Shipments. Any and all lots or shipments of commodities covered by any Quarantine Regulation must be held and not delivered to consignee or agent until inspected and passed by the Director, his deputy, or by a State plant quarantine officer.

This revised exterior quarantine supersedes the quarantine issued June 17, 1945 and amendments No. 1 and 2 thereto issued May 23, 1946 and July 6, 1946, respectively.

This Proclamation being an emergency regulation shall take effect immediately.

Reference: Section 3257, Title 3, California Administrative Code, Chapter 4, Subchapter 3, Group 4, Plant Quarantine.

It has been determined by the Director of Agriculture that it is necessary to further amend the Sweet Potato Weevil Exterior Quarantine which was last revised April 5, 1946, as amended July 2, 1947, in order to designate Henry County in Alabama, Mitchell County in Georgia and Houston County, Texas, as infested area, and to omit from the area designated as infested, Brooks and Camden Counties, Georgia, wherein sweet potato weevil is not now known to occur.

The "Infested Area" as described in Subsection (b-1) of Section 3257 C.A.C. entitled "Sweet Potato Weevil Exterior Quarantine" effective April 5, 1946, as amended July 2, 1947, is hereby further amended to read as follows:

(b-1) Infested Area.

ALABAMA: Counties of Baldwin, Coffee, Covington, Geneva, Henry, and Mobile.

FLORIDA: Entire State except the counties of Bay, Calhoun, Escambia, Franklin, Gulf, Holmes, Madison, Wakulla, Walton, and Washington.

GEORGIA: Counties of Chatham, Colquitt, Grady, Glynn, McIntosh, Mitchell, Thomas, Tift, and Worth.

In honor of the men and women, living and dead, who have contributed to the growth of American air power, the President of the United States has proclaimed September 18 as Air Force Day. This will mark the first anniversary of the autonomous Air Force and the forty-first birthday of American military aviation.

It is particularly fitting that in this age of supersonic speed full consideration be given to the importance and the potentialities of aviation. It is in the interest of our nation to maintain within the Air Force a nucleus of highly trained personnel and to keep this branch of the armed services abreast of all developments in its specialized field.

In order to call public attention to the magnificent accomplishments of the Air Force in peace as well as in war, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California do hereby proclaim Saturday, September 18, 1948 as AIR FORCE DAY in California.

PROCLAMATION

The President of the United States has proclaimed September 16, 1948, as National Guard Day to honor those who served and those who are now serving their country in the National Guard. This date will mark the eighth anniversary of the call of the National Guard to Federal service in World War II.

It is appropriate that the people of California join in the country-wide observance of National Guard Day, because the members of the National Guard in our State were among the first to be called into action during that war. They served with honor on the principal fighting fronts, and in carrying their colors to the first lines of battle they brought new glory to a California tradition of service to the nation which is as old as our State itself.

Since our people are of peaceful bent this nation has placed its reliance upon large standing armies, but it has also relied upon the willingness of its civilian men to serve in time of need. The core of this civilian force is the National Guard, made up of friends and neighbors giving unselfishly of their leisure time in order to be ready for emergency service.

In recognition of the patriotism, loyalty and courage of these men, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, hereby proclaim ~~Monday~~ September 16, 1948, as National Guard Day in California and urge that the flag be flown on this day in honor of the men and officers of the National Guard in our State.

I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 15th day of September, A.D. One Thousand Nine Hundred and Forty-eight.

During the period of October 1st to 8th, inclusive, the editors and publishers of America will sponsor the observance of ninth annual National Newspaper Week.

Their slogan will be: "Your right to know is the key to all your liberties." This precious "right to know" has been cherished by many generations of Americans. It was handed down to us by our founding fathers who wrote a guarantee of freedom of the press into the Constitution of the United States.

Public confidence in an unrestricted press has been justified by the leadership which American editors have given to many great movements contributing to this nation's progress. While in other parts of the world the curtailment of editorial freedom has foreshadowed the destruction of many of the institutions of Democracy, the free press of America has helped to keep our nation strong and to preserve its liberties.

So that our people may become more fully cognizant of the importance of preserving their vital "right to know", I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, join in calling attention to the many public services rendered by the newspapers of America and do hereby proclaim the period of October 1st to 8th, inclusive, 1948, as NEWSPAPER WEEK in California.

On October 24th the people of the United States will join in a world wide observance of United Nations Day. Californians, appropriately, will take important part in this celebration. It was in our city of San Francisco that the charter for the United Nations was drawn, and from the start we have been intensely interested in seeing that the lofty aims of this great international body are carried out.

Multitudes of liberty-loving people everywhere look hopefully to the United Nations for leadership in the construction of a better postwar world. We in America can provide them with inspiration by our devotion to the principles of universal brotherhood, and by our adherence to the ideals upon which the United Nations was founded. Each of us can contribute in this way to the development of harmony among the citizens of all nations, thus helping to put an end to prejudice, intolerance and misunderstanding wherever they are found.

Accordingly, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Sunday, October 24, 1948, as UNITED NATIONS DAY in California and urge that on this day the citizens of our state join in programs dedicated to the furtherance of global good will.

By act of Congress, the first week in October is observed annually in the United States as Employ the Physically Handicapped Week. As a part of this observance, the President and the Governors of the various states customarily issue proclamations calling public attention to the contributions made by handicapped workers to industry and agriculture.

It is especially appropriate for California to join in this program, because many thousands of handicapped men and women are maintaining an outstanding record of production in our midst. Careful studies have shown that these workers are performing specialized tasks with efficiency equal to and at times surpassing that of unimpaired workers.

During the observance of Employ the Physically Handicapped Week it will be possible for employers and employees alike to become better informed of the opportunities which exist for the fuller participation of handicapped workers in the development of this state. Therefore, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Acting Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of October 3rd to 9th, inclusive, 1948, as EMPLOY THE PHYSICALLY HANDICAPPED WEEK in California.

California's tremendous population increase of recent years has made unprecedented demands upon the resources of our state. It has imposed upon every citizen an important share of the responsibility of conserving these resources for future as well as current use.

For this reason all of us should become familiar with the precautions which can be taken against fire. Our state annually suffers a tragic loss of life and valuable property due to fire, much of which can be avoided if the proper preventive practices are faithfully carried out.

During the observance of Fire Prevention Week, which traditionally occurs during the first week in October, we are provided with opportunity to become acquainted with the means of averting fire in our timber and watershed areas, grazing lands, homes, places of business and institutions. To lend encouragement to this worthy program, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Acting Governor of California, do therefore proclaim the period of October 3rd to 9th, inclusive, 1948, as FIRE PREVENTION WEEK in California, and urge that during this period our people give particular attention to the elimination of fire hazards in their local communities.

The increasing interest of American women in public life has been an encouraging development of recent years, because it is helping to bring about the full participation of our people in planning for future growth.

The stress which is being placed upon good citizenship by many fine women's organizations in our state is exemplified by the slogan which has been adopted by the California Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs for this year's observance of Business Women's Week. This slogan--"Use Your Vote in '48"--calls attention to one of the major responsibilities which accompanies the privileges of citizenship in a free nation. If ours is to remain a government of the people, each citizen must make his wishes known by going to the polls and casting his vote.

Accordingly, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Acting Governor of California, do join with the members of the California Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs in urging every citizen to vote, and, to assist in stimulating this exercise of good citizenship, hereby proclaim the week of October 10th to 16th, inclusive, 1948, as BUSINESS WOMEN'S WEEK in California.

Throughout the years, the people of California have enjoyed a particularly close association with the United States Navy and its men. Because several major naval installations are based upon our shores, we have had the opportunity to become intimately acquainted with the Navy's magnificent record of service to the nation, and we have experienced the great sense of security which comes from viewing its vessels in our ports.

It has been natural, therefore, for us to take a leading part in the traditional observance of Navy Day. We shall do so again in 1948, fully cognizant of the need for maintaining a first class fleet at this time when America is seeking universal support for a program of permanent peace. We realize that if our nation's voice is to be respected in the councils of the world, it must be backed by physical as well as moral strength.

Therefore, to enable our citizens to join once again in paying well deserved tribute to the Navy and its personnel, both living and dead, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Wednesday, October 27th, 1948, as NAVY DAY in this state. In doing so, I urge Californians who have served in the Navy to appear in uniform on that day. I further urge all citizens to display the national colors, and suggest that California firms fly the Army-Navy "E" pennants awarded them during the war.

PROCLAMATION

Once again the people of California are preparing to join in solemn statewide commemoration of Armistice Day. In traditional ceremonies which had their origin thirty years ago, we will recall the glorious heroism and the noble sacrifices of our sons and daughters who championed the cause of liberty during the first world war. We will, in addition, memorialize the valor and the magnificent accomplishments of those who set back the forces of tyranny in World War II.

With the recollection of anxiety and suffering occasioned by these two great conflicts uppermost in our minds, we cannot help but be spurred to redouble our efforts toward the attainment of lasting peace. It is our hope that on this Armistice Day the citizens of all other nations which felt the impact of those bitter wars will join us in rededication to the great ideals of universal brotherhood upon which the hopes of mankind are based.

In order to assist the citizens of California in planning appropriate ceremonies of remembrance on the thirtieth anniversary of the original Armistice Day, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do accordingly proclaim Thursday, November 11th, 1948, as ARMISTICE DAY in this State. In doing so, I urge that the national colors be displayed in every California community, and that special homage be paid the great branches of our national defense, including the California National Guard.

PROCLAMATION

On November 10th the United States Marine Corps will observe the 173rd anniversary of its authorization by the Continental Congress. This birthday will be celebrated nationally as Marine Corps Day.

The men and women who wear the Marine Corps symbol of the Eagle, Globe and Anchor are carrying forward a glorious tradition which has been proudly handed down from generation to generation since the founding of this important branch of America's national defense. Called into action almost immediately after their Corps was constituted as an American military force, they have since 1775 brought increasing honor to our nation through their heroism and devotion to duty at home and abroad. It is appropriate, therefore, that our people join in congratulating this outstanding organization upon its long and magnificent record of service to the nation.

Accordingly, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Wednesday, November 10th, 1948, as MARINE CORPS DAY in California, and urge that the American flag be displayed on that day in honor of the Marine Corps and its courageous personnel.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 5th day of November, One Thousand Nine Hundred and Forty-eight.

The week of November 14th to 20th has been designated by the American Nurses' Association as Nursing Progress Week, in celebration of the Diamond Jubilee of American Nursing. The Jubilee will commemorate the graduation of Linda Richards from the New England Hospital for Women and Children just seventy-five years ago. Miss Richards was the first American woman specifically trained for a professional nursing career.

It is particularly fitting for California to be enrolled among the states observing this significant anniversary. Of the 320,000 registered nurses now contributing to the preservation of our national health, sixty thousand are licensed to practice in this state.

Such a comparatively large number of nurses does not, however, adequately meet California's increasing needs in this exceedingly important field. Many fine opportunities for service are still to be found in steadily expanding public health agencies in numerous California communities, as well as in hospitals, in the armed forces, and in industrial plants both large and small.

Accordingly, with the hope that the celebration of the Diamond Jubilee of American Nursing will help to better acquaint our people with the glorious traditions of professional nursing, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of November 14th to 20th, inclusive, 1948, as NURSING PROGRESS WEEK in this state. Further, in honor of the memory of America's first professional nurse, I hereby proclaim the Tuesday of that week as LINDA RICHARDS DAY.

PROCLAMATION
DECLARING UNUSUAL FIRE HAZARD CONDITIONS

Under authority vested in me by the provisions of Section 4153 of the Public Resources Code, I hereby declare there does exist unusual fire hazard conditions in the Counties of San Luis Obispo, Kern, Santa Barbara, Ventura, Los Angeles, San Bernardino, Riverside, Orange and San Diego; and do further declare that such unusual fire hazard conditions shall extend beyond December 1, 1948, and until such time as this Proclamation is rescinded.

Further, under the provisions of this Proclamation, no person shall burn brush, stumps, logs, fallen timber, fallows, slash, or grass, brush, or forest covered land, or other inflammable material, or blast with dynamite, powder, or other explosives, or set off fireworks of any kind in forest, fallows, grass, or brush covered land, either on his own land or the property of another unless such burning or use of explosives is done in strict accordance with the terms of a written permit from the State Forester or his duly authorized agent and as permitted by law.

That the Director of Natural Resources hereby finds and declares that the within Proclamation declaring unusual fire hazard conditions is necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety and general welfare, and that compliance with the notice and the public procedure set forth in Section 11420, et seq. of the Government Code is inapplicable, unnecessary and contrary to the public interest; and therefore said Proclamation is adopted as an emergency regulation to take effect immediately upon the filing of the same with the Secretary of State. A statement of the facts constituting such emergency is as follows:

That there does exist in the Counties of San Luis Obispo, Kern, Santa Barbara, Ventura, Los Angeles, San Bernardino, Riverside, Orange and San Diego unusual conditions of extreme drought, low humidity, lack of rainfall, and frequent high winds, which said conditions are conducive to high fire incidence within said areas;

That under section 4153 of the Public Resources Code the requirement for burning permits within said areas of the State will expire on December 1, 1948, unless this Proclamation shall become effective at or prior thereto;

That because of the said hazardous conditions it is necessary and desirable in the interest of public safety, health, and welfare that no burning or use of explosives be done within said area on or after December 1, 1948, and during the period of time this Proclamation is in force and effect, except under a written permit from the State Forester or his duly authorized agent, and in strict accordance with the law and the terms of said permit.

Therefore, it is necessary that this Proclamation be and the same shall become effective upon the filing of the same with the Secretary of State.

FINDING OF EMERGENCY

I, Earl Warren, pursuant to power vested in me as Governor of the State of California, find that the foregoing revision of the Citrus Pest Exterior Quarantine is necessary for the immediate preservation of the safety and general welfare of the public, and that compliance with the notice and public procedure of the Government Code thereon are impracticable, unnecessary and contrary to the public interest, and therefore adopt the foregoing as an emergency regulation to take effect immediately upon the filing of the same with the Secretary of State.

The Director of Agriculture has determined that compliance with the permit requirement for the entry into this state of citrus fruit results in unnecessary delays and needless expense to importers and shippers, and that these requirements may be simplified without increasing the hazard of introducing the pests quarantined against. It has also been determined that citrus fruits which have been produced in approved areas and so processed so as to eliminate pest hazards may be carried as stores or provisions by ships, airplanes, diners and private railway cars if marked in a manner satisfactory to the Director, evidencing such treatment and continued identity.

As the citrus fruit shipping season in the Gulf area has now begun, it is necessary that these proposed modifications be placed into effect immediately in keeping with the policy of the Department of Agriculture of promptly relaxing quarantine restrictions whenever proper and safe to minimize inconvenience and delays in the normal movement of plants and plant products.

CITRUS PESTS EXTERIOR QUARANTINE

Notice of Determination of The Director of Agriculture

Citation of Authority: Sections 106 and 107 of the Agricultural Code of the State of California.

Reference: Section 3250, Title 3, California Administrative Code, Chapter 4, Subchapter 3, Group 4, Plant Quarantine.

It has been determined that compliance with the permit requirements for the entry into this State of citrus fruit results in unnecessary delays and needless expense to importers and shippers and that these requirements may be simplified without increasing the hazards of introducing pests. This regulation is therefore revised to provide for the issuance by the Director, of master permits, to be filed with the origin State Department of Agriculture, approving areas from which citrus fruits which have been treated and otherwise prepared to meet the minimum requirements of this quarantine and of the provisions of such master permit may be admitted under California shipping permits, issued by any agent of the origin State Department of Agriculture, who has supervised the preparation of such fruit for shipment.

Section 3250 C.A.C., entitled "Citrus Pests Exterior Quarantine", effective January 19, 1935, is hereby revised to read as follows:

Notice of Quarantine: It having been determined by the Director of Agriculture that dangerous insects and other animal life and plant disease pests of citrus new to or not heretofore generally distributed in this State, exists as hereinafter described, I hereby establish a quarantine at the boundaries of the State of California in accordance with section 106 of the Agricultural Code of the State of California, hereinafter setting forth the pests against which the quarantine is established, the area under quarantine, the commodities covered, and the restrictions governing the entry of such commodities into this State.

3250. Citrus Pests Exterior Quarantine

A quarantine is established effective DEC 2 1948 against the following pests, their hosts and possible carriers:

(a) Pests. Any species of fruit flies of the family Trypetidae known to attack citrus; citrus canker Xanthomonas (Phytophthora) citri; and any other injurious insect or other animal or plant disease pest of citrus.

(b) Area Under Quarantine. All States, districts and territories of the United States, except the State of Arizona.

(c) Commodities Covered. The following are hereby declared to be hosts or possible carriers of the pests herein quarantined against:

(1) All species and varieties of citrus fruits and citrus plants and parts thereof including buds, scions, and seeds;

(2) Automobiles, automobile trailers, trucks, or any other road vehicle, personal effects, emigrant movables, household effects, household implements, camping effects and camping implements;

(3) Stores or provisions of airplanes, ships and dining cars.

(d) Restrictions. (1) Citrus Trees, Plants, Scions, Buds and Cuttings prohibited. All species and varieties of citrus trees, or plants, scions, buds and other cuttings thereof, imported, shipped or in any manner brought or carried into the State of California from the area under quarantine, except when shipped by or at the request of the United States Department of Agriculture for experimental purposes in accordance with Section 3153 C.A.C., shall be placed in quarantine and immediately destroyed or shipped out of the State in accordance with Section 3155 (a), C.A.C.

(2) Citrus Fruits Admitted From Areas Or Localities Approved By The Director. The Director may, issue to the proper official of any State, or territorial department of agriculture a master permit, designating areas or localities within the area under quarantine from which citrus fruits may be admitted into this State, and setting forth therein any treatments, manner of transportation, permit or certification requirements and other restrictions which must be met at point of origin.

(3) Conditions Governing The Issuance Of Master Permits. Master permits as required in subsection (d), (2) above, will not be issued allowing the entry into this State of citrus fruits from any area or locality under quarantine,

(A) wherein any species of the fruit fly family Trypetidae which attacks citrus is known to occur, unless all movement of citrus fruits therefrom is regulated by a quarantine regulation issued by the United States Department of Agriculture, and each lot or shipment to this State is authorized under permit issued by said Department;

(B) Unless thorough and competent official surveys have been made in such State, or territory, annually during each of the three years previous to date of shipment for the possible presence of citrus canker Xanthomonas (Phytophthora) citri;

(C) wherein citrus canker occurs or has been known to occur within three years previous to date of shipment;

(D) wherein occurs any other injurious insect or other animal pest or plant disease attacking citrus which does not occur or which is not generally established in the State of California and which, in the opinion of the Director, might be transported in a living or viable condition in connection with such citrus fruits shipments and thus be introduced or become disseminated in the State of California.

(4) Shipping Permit Must Accompany Each Lot Or Shipment Of Citrus Fruits. Upon the issuance of a master permit as provided in subsection (d) (2) above, the Director will furnish to the proper official of such

State or territory, shipping permit forms which said official or authorized representative may, during the validity of said master permit, issue and shall attach to each container, or waybill covering each lot or shipment, destined to this State only provided said fruits were grown within the area or locality approved by the Director and the lot or shipment otherwise conforms in every respect with the provisions of the master permit.

(5) Citrus Seed Admitted Under Permit. Citrus seeds will not be admitted into the State of California from any State or territory of the United States except the State of Arizona, unless a permit has first been issued by the Director of Agriculture. Persons contemplating such importing or bringing into the State of California of citrus seeds shall first make application to the Director of Agriculture for a permit to do so, stating in the application the name and address of the exporter, the locality where the citrus seeds were grown, the amount of the importation, the terminal point of delivery, and the name and address of the importer in the State of California to whom the permit should be sent. Permits issued by the Director of Agriculture shall specify the manner of shipment and the treatment, if any, required as a condition of entry.

(6) Citrus Fruits in Stores or Provisions of Ships, Airplanes, Railway Dinners, and Private Railway Cars. During the validity of the master permit provided in Subsection (d) (2) above, citrus fruits conforming with the provisions thereof may be carried as stores or provisions of ships, airplanes, railway diners, and private railway cars over direct routes to this State from points within any area or locality approved by the Director, provided:

(A) All citrus fruits in said stores or provisions are stamped or otherwise marked under the supervision of the proper State or territorial official at origin, in a manner satisfactory to the Director; and

(B) All such fruits are retained aboard said ship, airplane, railway diner or private railway car while within this State.

(7) Automobiles, Other Vehicles, Baggage, Effects, etc., Subject To Inspection. Automobiles, automobile trailers, trucks and other vehicles, baggage, personal effects, emigrant movables, household effects, household implements, camping effects and camping implements, arriving in California from any State or territory of the United States shall be placed in quarantine by the Director of Agriculture, his deputy or deputies or the State plant quarantine officer of the district or county into which such vehicle or baggage, personal effects, emigrant movables, household effects, household implements, camping effects or camping implements may arrive, until it has been determined by inspection that the same is free from all varieties of citrus fruits and citrus plants, and parts thereof, including buds, scions and seeds, which are hosts of the pests herein quarantined against. 3152. Enforcing Powers. All deputies of the Director and all State plant quarantine officers are empowered to carry out all the provisions of quarantine regulations.

3153. Federal Shipments Exempted. Federal experimental shipments moved into this State by or at the request of the United States Department of Agriculture, are exempt from all the provisions of any Exterior Quarantine regulations.

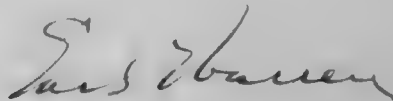

3154. Commodities Covered Subject to Other Rules and Regulations. The admissibility and movement within the State of California of any commodity covered by a quarantine regulation shall be further subject to the provisions of any other Rule or Regulation now in force or which may hereafter be established.

3155. Disposition of Violations. (a) Exterior: Any and all lots or shipments of commodities covered by any Exterior Quarantine Regulation arriving in the State of California in violation of or not in compliance with the restrictions thereof, shall be immediately destroyed unless no detriment can be caused to agriculture in this State by the shipment of such commodities out of the State within the specified time limits at the option and expense of the owner or bailee.

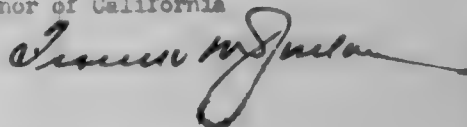

3156. Common Carrier Agents Must Hold Shipments. Any and all lots or shipments of commodities covered by any quarantine regulation must be held and not delivered to consignee or agent until inspected and passed by the Director, his deputy, or by a State plant quarantine officer.

This Proclamation being an emergency regulation shall take effect immediately.

Infantile paralysis constituted the most severe individual public health problem in California during the year 1948. Fifty-eight hundred Californians, most of them little children, were afflicted by it. Ours was the hardest hit of all the states of the union.

The fact that the state and local chapters of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Inc., were in existence and had at their disposal funds previously contributed in the annual "March of Dimes" fund raising campaigns enabled them to fight back at this scourge, and to bring merciful assistance to the suffering. The absence of this help would have made it impossible for many of the victims of infantile paralysis to have the expensive treatment which the disease requires.

We are again being asked to contribute our dimes and dollars to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. The Foundation must have funds not only to cope with future epidemics, but also for the treatment of the victims of previous epidemics. It must have funds to carry on the research that some day will discover the means of preventing infantile paralysis, which has been one of the scourges of our civilization.

Therefore, I urge the people of California to contribute as generously as possible to the 1949 "March of Dimes", and do hereby proclaim Friday, January 14, 1949, as the opening day of the "March of Dimes" drive in this state.

FINDING OF EMERGENCY

I, Earl Warren, pursuant to power vested in me as Governor of the State of California, find that the foregoing revision of the Ozoneum Root Not Exterior Quarantine is necessary for the immediate preservation of the safety and general welfare of the public, and that compliance with the notice and public procedure of the Government Code thereon are impracticable, unnecessary and contrary to the public interest, and therefore adopt the foregoing as an emergency regulation to take effect immediately upon the filing of the same with the Secretary of the State.

The Director of Agriculture has received reports from the State Entomologists of Arkansas and Louisiana, advising of the occurrence of Ozoneum root rot in Lafayette County in Arkansas, and Bossier and Caddo Parishes in the State of Louisiana. It is, therefore, necessary to add these additional areas to the quarantined area in order to require that certificates of cleanliness accompany all shipments of hosts or possible carriers of this disease from these areas, as a condition of entry into this State. As we are now in the midst of the nursery stock shipping season, it is necessary that this regulation be made effective at once and, therefore, should be declared an emergency.

Notice of Determination of The Director of Agriculture

Citation of Authority: Sections 106 and 107 of the Agricultural Code of the State of California.

Reference: Section 3261, Title 3, California Administrative Code, Chapter 4, Subchapter 3, Group 4, Plant Quarantine.

It has been determined that it is necessary to further revise the Ozonium Root Rot Exterior Quarantine which was last revised October 19, 1939, and amended September 17, 1940, in order to add to the area under quarantine, the County of Lafayette in Arkansas and the Parishes of Bossier and Caldo in Louisiana within which infection has been officially reported by the state entomologist, and in order to re-vamp the regulation in conformity with the Administrative Procedure Act.

Notice of Quarantine: It having been determined by the Director of Agriculture that a serious disease pest of cotton, fruit trees, ornamentals, truck crops, hay crops, etc. known as ozonium, or cotton, root rot, not heretofore generally distributed in this State, exists as hereinafter described, I hereby establish a quarantine at the boundaries of the State of California in accordance with Sections 106 and 108 of the Agricultural Code of the State of California, hereinafter setting forth the pest against which the quarantine is established, the area under quarantine, the commodities covered, and the restrictions governing the entry of such commodities into this State.

Section 3261 C.A.C., entitled "Ozonium Root Rot Exterior Quarantine", effective October 19, 1939, as amended September 17, 1940 is hereby revised to read as follows:

3261. OZONIUM ROOT ROT EXTERIOR QUARANTINE
(Quarantine Proclamation 13)

A quarantine is established effective January 21, 1949 against the following pest, its hosts and possible carriers:

(a) Pest. Ozonium root rot (Phymatotrichum (Ozonium) omnivorum).

(b) Area Under Quarantine:

Arizona: Entire State.

Arkansas: Entire Counties of Lafayette, Little River and Miller.

Louisiana: The entire Parishes of Bossier and Caddo.

New Mexico: Entire Counties of Dona Ana, Eddy, Chaves, Lea, Luna, Sierra, Grant, and Hidalgo.

declared to be hosts or possible carriers of the pest herein quarantined against.

(d) Restrictions. (1) Definition of the Word "Premises." The word "premises" as hereinafter used in these provisions shall be construed to mean all the land included under one legal description or any parcel of land farmed or handled as one unit of ground, provided, that such "premises" shall include an additional area of at least 100 feet completely circumscribing the actual parcel of ground on which the nursery stock, trees, plants, shrubs, or vines to be shipped or moved have been growing.

(2) Certification Requirements. Except as provided in paragraph (3) hereof, no restricted articles herein quarantined against will be permitted entry into the State of California from the said infected areas unless each shipment or lot is accompanied by a certificate signed by the duly authorized inspection official of the State in which same originates, establishing the fact that all the material contained in the lot or shipment was grown on premises free from said Ozonium or cotton root rot. In addition, each such certificate shall state the number and kinds of trees and plants contained in the shipment or lot, where grown, name and address of consignee and consignor, point of shipment and terminal point of delivery.

(3) Exceptions--Exemptions of Certain Articles. No restrictions are placed by this Proclamation upon the entry of the following:

(A) If free from roots and soil, nursery stock or plants, including trees, shrubs, vines, stolons, corms, dormant bulbs (including onions and onion sets), pips, cuttings, scions, buds, grafts, fruits, leafy vegetables, fruit pits, seeds and plant products.

(B) If intended for edible purposes and washed free from soil, smooth root vegetables such as potatoes, sweet potatoes, carrots, turnips, and beets except that this exemption does not apply to mangels and sugar beets. (See also Sections 3152 to 3156, inclusive.)

3152. Enforcing Powers. All deputies of the Director and all State plant quarantine officers are empowered to carry out all the provisions of Quarantine Regulations.

FINDING OF EMERGENCY

I, Earl Warren, pursuant to power vested in me as Governor of the State of California, find that the foregoing amendment to the Citrus White Fly Exterior Quarantine is necessary for the immediate preservation of the safety and general welfare of the public, and that compliance with the notice and public procedure of the Government Code thereon are impracticable, unnecessary and contrary to the public interest, and therefore adopt the foregoing as an emergency regulation to take effect immediately upon the filing of the same with the Secretary of the State.

The Director of Agriculture finds that at least three species of plants of the genus Osmanthus are hosts and possible carriers of citrus white fly, whereas, Osmanthus americanus is the only species of this genus now covered by the Citrus White Fly Exterior Quarantine. It is therefore necessary to immediately declare all species of the genus Osmanthus as hosts or possible carriers of said insect, in order to require complete defoliation of plants or certification of cleanliness or treatment as a condition of entry into this State. As we are now in the midst of the nursery stock shipping season, it is necessary to declare this amendment as an emergency regulation.

FINDING OF EMERGENCY

I, Earl Warren, pursuant to power vested in me as Governor of the State of California, find that the foregoing revision of the Nut Tree Insects Exterior Quarantine is necessary for the immediate preservation of the safety and general welfare of the public, and that compliance with the notice and public procedure of the Government Code thereon are impracticable, unnecessary and contrary to the public interest, and therefore adopt the foregoing as an emergency regulation to take effect immediately upon the filing of the same with the Secretary of the State.

The Director of Agriculture finds that a virus disease known as "brooming disease of walnut" has increased in prevalence in recent years, and has now become widely spread into the native black walnut growth in many states east of the Rocky Mountains, and that recognizable signs of the disease may not appear for some time after infection, making it necessary to prohibit the movement to California of nursery stock or parts of walnut, except nuts, produced in infected areas, or areas to which the disease may spread naturally, in order to protect the walnut industry of this State. It therefore is necessary to immediately revise the Nut Tree Insects Exterior Quarantine to add the brooming disease of walnut as a pest quarantined against, and to exclude walnut trees and parts thereof, except nuts, from all areas east of and including the States of Montana, Wyoming, Colorado and New Mexico.

NUT TREE PESTS EXTERIOR QUARANTINE
(Quarantine Proclamation 12)

Notice of Determination of the Director of Agriculture

Citation of Authority: Sections 106 and 107 of the Agricultural Code of the State of California.

Reference: Section 3260, Title 3, California Administrative Code, Chapter 4, Subchapter 3, Group 4, Plant Quarantine.

It has been determined that a serious virus disease of walnut, heart nut, and butternut (Juglans spp.) trees known as "brooming disease of walnut" has increased in prevalence in recent years and has now become widely spread into the native black walnut growth in many states east of the Rocky Mountains. Present data indicates that recognizable symptoms of the disease may not appear for some time after infection. Thus it becomes necessary to prohibit the movement to California of nursery stock produced in infected areas which may be a means of establishing the disease in this State. The Nut Tree Pests Exterior Quarantine is therefore being revised (1) to add the brooming disease of walnut as a pest quarantined against, (2) to exclude walnut trees and parts thereof, except nuts, from all areas east of and including the Rocky Mountain states and (3) to require certification of such trees and parts thereof affirming their production west of the Rocky Mountain states, as a condition of entry into the State of California.

Notice of Quarantine: It having been determined by the Director of Agriculture that a serious disease of walnut trees and dangerous insect pests of hickory, pecan and walnut trees new to or not heretofore generally distributed in this State, exist as hereinafter described, I hereby establish a quarantine at the boundaries of the State of California in accordance with Section 106 of the Agricultural Code of the State of California, hereinafter setting forth the pests against which the quarantine is established, the area under quarantine, the commodities covered, and the restrictions governing the entry of such commodities into this State.

Section 3260 C.A.C., entitled "Nut Tree Insects Exterior Quarantine", effective July 22, 1940, is hereby revised to read as follows:

3260. NUT TREE PESTS EXTERIOR QUARANTINE
(Quarantine Proclamation 12)

A quarantine is established effective January 28, 1941 against the following pests, their hosts and possible carriers:

(a) Pests. Nut tree case bearers (Acrobasis, spp.), and brooming disease of walnut.

(b) Area Under Quarantine:

(1) On account of Acrobasis spp., all States and Districts east of and including the States of Montana, Wyoming, Colorado and New Mexico.

(2) On account of brooming disease of walnut, all States and Districts of the United States.

(c) Commodities Covered. (Restricted Commodities). All hickory and pecan (Carya spp) and all walnut (Juglans spp.), trees, plants and parts thereof except nuts, are hereby declared to be hosts or possible carriers of the pests herein quarantined against.

(d) Restrictions. (1) Walnut Trees And Parts Thereof Prohibited From Certain Areas. On account of brooming disease of walnut, all species and varieties of walnut trees and parts thereof (except nuts) imported, shipped or in any manner brought into the State of California from any point in the United States east of and including the States of Montana, Wyoming, Colorado and New Mexico, except when shipped by or at the request of the United States Department of Agriculture for experimental purposes in accordance with Section 3153 C.A.C., shall be placed in quarantine and immediately destroyed or shipped out of the State in accordance with Section 3155 (a) C.A.C.

(2) Walnut Trees, Budwood and Scions Produced In Western States Admitted Under Certificate. All species and varieties of walnut trees and budwood or scions thereof produced in and shipped from any state west of the States of Montana, Wyoming, Colorado and New Mexico, will be admitted into the State of California provided each lot or shipment thereof is accompanied by an official certificate issued by the authorized agricultural inspection official of the state of origin affirming that brooming disease of walnut is not known to occur in the state where produced and that such commodities contained therein are a product of said state, also setting forth the amount and kind of commodities covered by said certificate.

(3) Hickory and Pecan Trees, Budwood and Scions Admitted Under Permit and Destination Treatment. Except as provided in paragraph (4) hereof, bare-rooted trees, budwood, or scions of hickory and pecan grown in or shipped from the area under quarantine on account of Acrobasis spp., will be admitted into the State of California only provided, a permit has first been secured from the Director (*) and subject to such disinfection or treatment () method of transportation, and limitations as to size and quantity as the Director may designate therein.

Persons contemplating the importing into this State of any such restricted products as herein provided shall first make application to the Director for a permit to do so, stating in the application the name and address of the shipper, the locality where the trees, budwood, or scions were grown, the amount, size and kind of trees, budwood or scions it is desired to import, and the name and address of the importer in this State to whom the permit should be sent.

(4) Hickory and Pecan Trees, Budwood and Scions Admissible Without Permit If Treated At Origin. Bare-rooted trees, budwood or scions of hickory and pecan, grown in or shipped from the area under quarantine on account of Acrobasis spp., will be admitted into the State of California provided same have been fumigated in a fumigation chamber, the construction, equipment, and operation of which has first been approved in writing by the Director. Such approval shall specify the conditions of entry, including the treatment procedure that must be complied with, and each lot of such restricted commodities must be accompanied by a certificate issued by a duly authorized inspection official of the State of origin, certifying that such commodities were treated under his personal supervision in an approved fumigator in accordance with the procedure specified by the Director. (See also Sections 3152 to 3156, inclusive.)

(*) Permits will designate terminal point of delivery where treatment facilities are available.

() Atmospheric fumigation with methyl bromide using not less than two pounds at 70° F. or above, or three pounds at 60° F. or above, per each 1000 cubic feet of chamber space for period of four hours.

3152. Enforcing Powers. All deputies of the Director and all State plant quarantine officers are empowered carry out all the provisions of Quarantine Regulations.

3153. Federal Shipments Exempted. Federal experimental shipments moved into this State by or at the request of the United States Department of Agriculture, are exempt from all the provisions of any Exterior Quarantine regulations.

3154. Commodities Covered Subject to Other Rules and Regulations. The admissibility and movement within the State of California of any commodity covered by a quarantine Regulation shall be further subject to the provisions of any other Rule or Regulation now in force or which may hereafter be established.

3155. Disposition of Violations. (a) Exterior: Any and all lots or shipments of commodities covered by any Exterior Quarantine Regulation arriving in the State of California in violation of or not in compliance with the restrictions thereof, shall be immediately destroyed unless no detriment can be caused to agriculture in this State by the shipment of such commodities out of the State within the specified time limits at the option and expense of the owner or bailee.

3156. Common Carrier Agents Must Hold Shipments. Any and all lots or shipments of commodities covered by any Quarantine Regulation must be held and not delivered to consignee or agent until inspected and passed by the Director, his deputy, or by a State plant quarantine officer.

There is nothing more vital to the progress of a community or state than that its citizens should be healthy and strong. To insure this condition, it is necessary that the health of every child should be safeguarded throughout his formative years.

One of the most important starting points in protecting the health of a child is to give attention to the health of his mouth.

In order to stimulate a better understanding of this problem, it is desirable to promote and encourage dental health in every possible manner.

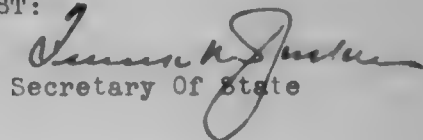

Therefore, I, Earl Warren, Governor of the State of California, do hereby designate the 7th day of February 1949 as CHILDREN'S DENTAL HEALTH DAY in our State, and I urge that parents, as well as all groups interested in the better health of our people, particularly of children, give their active support to the observance of this day.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 2nd day of February, One Thousand Nine Hundred and Forty Nine.

Conservation is the proper concern of every citizen, since we are all dependent upon the products of the earth. The abundance with which California has been blessed through our one hundred years of progress, now being celebrated in these centennial years, has been due largely to our natural resources.

When we reflect that much of the world's population is under-nourished, and that many techniques practiced in our own country are depleting the richness of the soil, the necessity for education and action in the field of conservation becomes self-evident. In the wise use, protection, and enjoyment of natural resources by our generation lies the only possible assurance of plenty for the future. Our youth in particular must be inculcated with the philosophy of conservation.

In order to call the attention of our people to the necessity of their individual contributions to the preservation of our abundant natural heritage, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week beginning March 7th, 1949, as CONSERVATION WEEK in California, and urge that this week be marked by appropriate ceremonies in which the importance of conservation programs will be stressed throughout our state. I recommend that particular honor be paid to California's greatest horticultural scientist, Luther Burbank, the one-hundredth anniversary of whose birth falls on March 7, 1949, which is ARBOR DAY in California.

No work in the field of humanitarian service is more essential than that which is carried on in all seasons of every year by the American Red Cross.

In times of disaster, the Red Cross binds up the wounds of the stricken, feeds the hungry and shelters the homeless. It continuously instructs our people in first aid, in accident prevention, in home nursing and in nutrition. Last year the Red Cross gave individual service to 214,000 people in California, including servicemen, veterans and their dependents.

The manifold activities of this great organization are made possible through voluntary contributions to the annual Red Cross Fund Campaign. Therefore, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim March 1st as the opening day of the 1949 Red Cross Fund Campaign, and I earnestly call upon the people of California to give it their generous and wholehearted support.

The privileges and responsibilities of the citizens of this Nation have never been more apparent than at this time when oppression in many parts of the world has denied formerly free peoples the basic concepts of liberty and democracy.

The fundamental rights of the common man to a voice in his government, protection against persecution, and freedom from fear have been part of the American way of life since the founding of the Republic. There are those, however, who would undermine the institutions of democracy and supplant them with a devious and sinister totalitarianism. It behooves all of us who value our liberty to work together in the common interest of defending and constantly revitalizing the principles and ideals of our national life.

Perhaps the most appreciative of the heritage of American citizenship are those who have attained full participation in the public affairs of our State and Nation during the past year, either through naturalization or by reaching the age of majority.

Accordingly, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, hereby designate the week of May 9 to 15, 1949, as "I AM AN AMERICAN WEEK" and urge all citizens to take occasion during that period to reaffirm their faith in the democratic processes which have made possible the freedoms we enjoy. I further urge that State, county and city officials, and patriotic, civic and educational organizations join in conducting public ceremonies to focus public attention upon the blessings and obligations of citizenship.

As the memories of the recent war grow dimmer and we settle more firmly into the ways of peace, there is a tendency on the part of many of our people to minimize the great task so ably performed by the armed forces during this and previous conflicts in which the United States has engaged.

If we are to preserve our ideals of freedom, the armed forces, in peace no less than in war, must receive the support of all citizens in carrying out their duty of protecting the peace, welfare and security of our Nation.

Army Day has been designated by the President and Congress to honor the Army of the United States in all its components -- the Regular Army, the National Guard and the Organized Reserve Corps -- the millions of Army veterans, and the many thousands of brave Army men and women who suffered and died on the field of battle.

Therefore, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim April 6, 1949, as ARMY DAY, and urge all the people of our State to join on that day in observances honoring the Regular Army, the Organized Reserve Corps and the National Guard and to display the flag of the United States of America over their homes and places of business.

Cancer, probably the most dread disease besetting our people, took the lives of more than 14,000 persons in California last year, and the number of fatalities is still on the increase both in the State and Nation.

Despite this mounting death toll, however, we have reason to be optimistic. During the past four years, funds contributed by the public to the American Cancer Society have enabled a large group of scientists to devote their full time to the problem of conquering this merciless killer. Many of these fine scientists are working in California universities on cancer research projects financed by the Society. Through energetic effort of this kind, the fight is on the way to being won.

Even now, cancer can be cured if it is recognized early and treated promptly. One of the major objectives of the American Cancer Society is widespread education of the public to recognize the danger signals of cancer before it is too late.

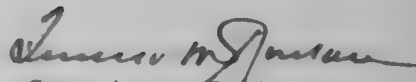

The nationwide campaign to raise funds for the support of the American Cancer Society begins April 1. Therefore, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim April, 1949, as CANCER CONTROL MONTH, and urge all the people of California to lend their full support to this great effort to combat and control cancer.

FINDING OF EMERGENCY

I, Earl Warren, pursuant to power vested in me as Governor of the State of California, find that the foregoing revocation of the cattle market regulation is necessary for the interest and preservation of the safety and general welfare of the public and that compliance with the notice and public procedure of the Government Code thereon is impracticable, unnecessary and contrary to the public interest, and therefore that the foregoing revocation is an emergency regulation to take effect immediately upon the filing of the same with the Secretary of the State.

The Director of Agriculture finds that the regulation of known headlies of cattle no longer exists in the State of Oregon. It is traditional during Holy Week for those of the Christian faith throughout the World to observe Good Friday as a day of meditation and prayer in remembrance of Christ's sacrifice upon the cross in atonement for the sins of men.

This day should be an occasion for each of us to reaffirm our devotion to Him and to renew our determination to translate into terms of our everyday activities the brotherhood and good will exemplified by His life on earth.

Our State law designates Good Friday as a holiday between the hours of 12 noon and 3 P. M., and I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby urge employers throughout the state to authorize their employees to leave their duties for the purpose of worship during this period.

Pan-American Day is observed each year on April 14th throughout the Western Hemisphere as a demonstration of the ability of the nations in North, Central and South America to live and work together in peace and good fellowship.

This long standing unity is particularly noteworthy in view of recurring disputes and conflicts in many other parts of the World. The fine relationships which have grown up among the American republics are based on a recognition of the rights of others and appreciation of the principles of freedom and equality.

Therefore, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim April 14, 1949, as PAN-AMERICAN DAY and, on behalf of the people of our state, I extend greetings to our good neighbors, the 20 Latin American republics, through their consular representatives in California.

Patriot's Day is observed each year on April 19th, the anniversary of the battles of Lexington and Concord where our forefathers fired "the shot heard 'round the world" in 1775.

Just as those trying days required the full strength and devotion of each man, woman and child, the critical state of world affairs today makes it essential for all citizens to pledge their energies to the support of our nation's power for peace.

The present-day American can be of great service to his country and also safeguard the security of himself and his family by the regular purchase of United States Savings Bonds. The savings bond program, in peace no less than in war, is essential to the economic strength and stability of our nation and our people.

Therefore, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim April 19, 1949, as PATRIOT'S DAY and urge all the people of our state to honor the Minute Men of 1775 and also the Minute Men and Women who are working today as volunteers in the savings bond program in California. I further urge all citizens on this occasion to recognize the importance of thrift in their daily lives through regular purchase of United States Savings Bonds on the Payroll Savings Plan where they work, the Bond a Month Plan where they bank, or by individual purchases at banks and post offices.

As our civilization becomes more and more complex it is increasingly essential that all of the youth of our state receive the benefit of the best possible basic education to prepare them for full and complete participation in the adult life of the community.

We in California have long been proud of our educational system and our people always have been generous in their support of their public schools. It is of the utmost importance, therefore, in the present rapid expansion of our educational facilities made necessary by the State's tremendous increase in population, that we maintain the highest professional standards.

The background of training our children receive during the five days each week they are in school is a vital force in moulding their character. To be certain that this training is placed in the hands of capable teachers, we must interest far more young people in preparing themselves for the teaching profession than are now doing so. This requires public realization of the lasting benefit to be derived by offering teachers compensation and opportunity comparable to what they can obtain in other employment.

It is not sufficient for one merely to pay his school taxes and consider that he has done his part. It is the responsibility of each citizen to maintain a continuing and active interest in our public schools and the type of education they provide.

With this thought in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of April 25, 1949 as PUBLIC SCHOOLS WEEK and urge all the people of our state to take occasion during this period to familiarize themselves with the programs and activities of our public schools.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 15th day of April, One Thousand Nine Hundred and forty-nine.

The preservation of our mental health, no less than our physical well-being, is a matter of vital concern to each of us. Healthy minds lead to happy, useful living and contribute to the welfare of all. Unhealthy minds lead to mental breakdown and to dependency, maladjustment, delinquency and crime.

Today there are more than 26,000 patients in California's mental hospitals and our institutions for the mentally deficient. They occupy about one-half of the total hospital beds in the State. We know that a great many of these patients can be cured. They, therefore, need treatment--not confinement--to return them to their homes and jobs. Those who do not respond to treatment must be given humane care, and we should always bear in mind that new methods of treatment may be found for those now considered incurable.

This is a state responsibility, and there must be an increased awareness on the part of our citizens of the grave problems resulting from inadequate facilities and insufficient personnel if we are to fulfill our obligation to these unfortunates.

Knowing about the principles of mental health and how to build it helps us to prevent mental illness. Knowing that effective treatment is possible encourages us to invest in the advanced methods of modern psychiatry. The effort and money thus expended, when weighed against the tremendous financial cost of mental breakdown, will prove to be an economy to the State and its people. The intangible savings in happiness and the welfare of our people can never be measured.

In the hope that greater knowledge will lessen the tragedy of mental illness, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of April 24, 1949, as MENTAL HEALTH WEEK, and urge the people of our state to acquaint themselves with their responsibilities in state and local programs for the prevention and treatment of mental illness.

PROCLAMATION

White Cane Week is being observed nationally from May 15 to 21, 1949, as a means of informing the public of the problems and needs of blind persons.

During this period, the National Federation of the Blind will sell White Cane Week stamps to raise funds for its program of improving the economic, social and general welfare of the blind and of helping the blind to help themselves.

Not enough of the people of our State are acquainted with the fact that a white cane, tipped with red, is the sign of a blind person, and that anyone carrying such a cane is entitled to the greatest possible protection from hazards which he is unable to see.

Motorists, in particular, must be informed of the necessity for giving an absolute right-of-way to the bearer of a white cane who is attempting to cross a street or highway.

Therefore, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of May 15, 1949, as WHITE CANE WEEK and urge the people of our State to purchase generous quantities of White Cane Week stamps to support the program of the National Federation of the Blind, and to become aware that the bearer of a white cane is a blind person who does not want our pity but only our intelligent assistance and consideration.

PROCLAMATION

May 22nd has been designated by Congress and is proclaimed by the President each year as National Maritime Day, commemorating the first trans-Atlantic voyage by a steam-propelled vessel, the American flagship Savannah, in 1819. The week containing this day is observed throughout the country as World Trade Week.

California has a vital interest in these events, because of her long established position as the gateway to the Orient and other Pacific lands. Without world trade our agriculture and industry could not continue to prosper.

An adequate merchant marine is essential if our country is to maintain a strong position in the markets of the world. Many of our men and women, afloat and ashore, have contributed to this Nation's standing as the world's leading maritime power.

If we are to remain strong in a troubled world we must maintain on both coasts a nucleus of the magnificent shipbuilding industry that produced so many fine ships for war uses. It is uneconomic and dangerous to be in the position of frantically building up our shipbuilding facilities in time of emergency and allowing them to deteriorate in time of peace.

Therefore, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim May 22, 1949, as MARITIME DAY and the period May 22 to 28, 1949, as WORLD TRADE WEEK, and urge the people of our State to become acquainted with our dependence upon our merchant marine, in peace as well as in war, and the importance of world commerce in our economic life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 20th day of May, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Forty-nine.

As the years go by, and our memories of war times become dimmer, let us never forget the tremendous cost in lives and suffering of our victories on the battlefield.

Many fine men and women who were disabled in the wars in which our Nation has engaged are being cared for in military and veterans' hospitals. Some of them will be unable to leave these hospitals for the remainder of their lives.

It has become a custom for these disabled veterans to make poppies which are sold to the public under the sponsorship of the veterans' organizations as a symbol of the sacrifices made by the men and women of our armed forces. The funds thus raised are used for the benefit of hospitalized veterans and the widows and orphans of deceased veterans.

Therefore, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim May 26, 27 and 28, 1949, as POPPY DAYS, and urge the citizens of our State to buy and wear veterans' poppies on these days as an expression of gratitude to those who gave so much to make our victories possible.

PROCLAMATION

Throughout the United States, Flag Day is observed each year on June 14th, the anniversary of the adoption of the Stars and Stripes as our national emblem by the Continental Congress in 1777.

The Flag, during the 172 years of its history has been a glorious symbol of freedom and progress. It provided tremendous inspiration to the patriots who fought against overwhelming odds to establish our Republic, and it has been a constant reminder to succeeding generations of the fundamental rights with which our citizenship has been so richly endowed.

The spirit that brought the Flag into being has continued down to the present day, and millions of Americans have offered their lives whenever they have been called upon to do so in its defense. On the anniversary of the birth of our Flag it is proper for us to give thought to the thousands of men who are languishing in military and veterans' hospitals as a result of that service, many of them permanently incapacitated for normal lives because of injuries that they have received. Because of sacrifices by these men and those who made the supreme sacrifice, the Stars and Stripes should have added significance to all who live under its protection.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim June 14, 1949, as FLAG DAY, and urge that the flag be flown on that day from every home, public building and business establishment, as a demonstration of appreciation of our American heritage.

PROCLAMATION

It is fitting that from time to time we take occasion to recognize the contributions made to our civilization and culture by persons outstanding in literature and the arts.

One of those most entitled to such recognition is Johann Wolfgang von Goethe, the poet, dramatist and philosopher, whose birth on August 28, 1749, is being commemorated in bicentennial observances throughout the Western World.

Therefore, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim August 28, 1949, as VON GOETHE DAY in California, and urge the people of our state to participate in ceremonies honoring this noted literary figure.

On August 10th, Herbert Hoover, adopted son of California, great American, world humanitarian, only living ex-President of the United States, celebrates his 75th birthday at Stanford University which claims him as her most distinguished graduate.

His life therefore has a greater than ordinary significance to our State because few men anywhere have lived more useful lives and none with greater devotion to the service of mankind, both at home and throughout the world. He has faced life in all its moods and having arrived at the three-quarter century mark in rugged mental and physical health, still serving his country and mankind, he is an inspiration to all who believe in courage and honor, in character and in undaunted determination to fight for the rights and the welfare of man.

Now therefore, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, in honor of the occasion, send the cordial greetings of our State to the Honorable Herbert Hoover on his 75th birthday, wishing him many happy returns of the day, and I invite all Californians who desire to do so to send their personal greetings to him at Stanford University.

GOVERNOR'S CERTIFICATE OF APPROVAL OF
CITY COUNCIL'S RESOLUTION FOR DECONTROL OF RENTS
UNDER FEDERAL HOUSING & RENT LAW

The City of Covina, in the County of Los Angeles, State of California, on June 6, 1949, presented for approval a certified copy of a decontrol resolution (Resolution #341) passed by its City Council on May 16, 1949, together with certified copies of transcript of proceedings before the Council and copy of petition for decontrol, and subsequently forwarded through its City Attorney certain supplementary information.

These documents establish:

- (1) That a public hearing was held by the City Council May 2, 1949 and May 16, 1949, after ten days notice thereof posted and published;
- (2) That the nearby cities of West Covina, Glendora and Azusa were notified of the meeting and its purpose;
- (3) That the City of Covina is essentially a community of homes occupying an area of approximately 1 square mile in the south-eastern portion of Los Angeles County, approximately 22 miles from the City of Los Angeles. Many of the working population are employed in citrus packing plants, a steel fabricating plant, or in stores and offices in town, and many commute daily to the City of Los Angeles and other neighboring areas;
- (4) That at or about the time of the hearing there were at least 45 rental vacancies in structures termed by the City Council as "standard", of which all but 4 were available for rentals ranging between $25 and $60 per month; and 10 additional rental vacancies, classed by the City Council as "sub-standard", where the rent asked is $25 per month, or less. It is estimated further that 15 additional apartments will become available in the $25-60 per month rental bracket if rents are decontrolled;

(5) No opposition to decontrol appeared at the Council hearing;

(6) The City Council, after a full and fair hearing, and after legal and sufficient notice, formally determined that there no longer exists in the City of Covina such a shortage of rental housing accommodations as to require rental control in such city.

Public records disclose that Covina is a city of the sixth class with a population of 3049 (1940 census) and a present estimated population of 4000.

In view of the foregoing considerations, and in accordance with the provisions of the Housing & Rent Act of 1947, as amended by the Housing & Rent Act of 1949, particularly Section 204(j), par. 3, the resolution and finding of the Covina City Council that there no longer exists such a shortage in rental housing accommodations as to require rent control in the City of Covina is hereby approved.

One hundred years ago a group of earnest, liberty-loving men assembled in Colton Hall in the pueblo of Monterey to create a constitutional government for the Territory of California.

With foresight and exceptional foresight the delegates to this convention laid the groundwork upon which California has developed from a few small isolated communities to the third most populous State in the Nation.

To commemorate the Constitutional Convention Centennial the people of Monterey Peninsula, in cooperation with the California Centennials Commission, have planned a celebration during the eight days of August 29 through September 5, 1949.

It is important that all of us be aware of the concepts of those who established the foundations of statehood. With this thought in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby urge the people of our State to visit Monterey during this period and to join in paying tribute to the men who were instrumental in transplanting on the Pacific Coast the seeds of representative government.

September 17, 1794, marks the 150th anniversary of the birth of General Friedrich Wilhelm von Steuben, Prussian military expert who gave invaluable assistance to our Continent during the battles which brought this Nation to being.

As the first Inspector General of the Army he served with distinction from the dark days of Valley Forge until after victory had been achieved, thereafter remaining as a resident of our Nation until his death on November 28, 1794.

In accordance with resolutions adopted by the Senate and the Assembly of the California Legislature, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim September 17, 1949, as STEUBEN DAY, and urge the people of California to join on that day in commemorating the memory of this great soldier who contributed so much to the founding of our Republic.

The Constitution of the United States, in the 162 years it has been in existence, has guided the development of our nation to a position of greatness beyond the dreams of the patriots who drafted it.

Through changing times and the increasing tempo of our existence, this Constitution has provided a living, flexible framework for the continued advancement of our ideals of government. Its influence has extended far outside the boundaries of our own country. It has provided inspiration for freedom-loving peoples throughout the World during some of the most trying times in history.

With our free institutions under constant challenge by subversive forces who would tear down and destroy them, it is of the utmost importance that each of us do everything possible to safeguard the Constitution and the principles it represents. This can be done only by our becoming increasingly familiar with this great document and the hard-won struggles which made possible its creation.

With this thought in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim September 17, 1949, as CONSTITUTION DAY, and I urge all the people of our State to take occasion on that day to reaffirm their faith in the Constitution as a bulwark of freedom and our hope for the future.

The first week of October of each year has been designated by Act of Congress as National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week for the purpose of acquainting employers and the general public with the accomplishments of those who have become productive workers in spite of disabilities.

During recent years thousands of handicapped persons, a great proportion of them disabled veterans, have been trained in specialized skills which enable them to produce as well as able-bodied employees, and in many cases to surpass them.

Their success has proved that a physical handicap is not an employment handicap in a properly selected occupation. Here in California 25,000 disabled persons are now receiving specialized vocational training under state and federal auspices. This training will enable them to enter the productive life of our state and nation if they are afforded job opportunities.

With such activity under way, California should participate fully in all programs which help to impress upon employers the existence of this pool of skilled labor. Therefore, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of October 2 to 9, 1949, as EMPLOY THE PHYSICALLY HANDICAPPED WEEK in California, and I urge the people of our State to lend their active support to furtherance of the training of handicapped persons and the utilization of their skills in commerce and industry.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 15th day of September, One Thousand, Nine Hundred and Forty-nine.

The free press of our nation takes on an increasing importance to all of us in the light of daily events, not only the instances of oppression which are reported to us from other parts of the world, but also the subversive challenges to our way of life which we see here at home.

History -- current history, in fact -- shows us that dictatorship and oppression are preceded or accompanied by curtailment of the free press. It is appropriate, therefore, that the editors and publishers of America have adopted the slogan, "Freedom Goes Where the Newspaper Goes," as the theme for this year's tenth annual observance of Newspaper Week.

The American press has engaged in a constant battle against despotism, intolerance and corruption every since the founding of our Republic. The future of America depends upon its continued vigilance, and upon public understanding of the vital importance of the service which newspapers render.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of October 1 to 8, 1949, as NEWSPAPER WEEK, and I urge all the people of our State to familiarize themselves with the newspaper services and facilities of their own communities to the end that they may better understand the part which the press plays in their daily lives.

National Fire Prevention Week, dedicated to alerting the public to opportunities for saving lives and avoiding needless destruction, will be observed this year during the period October 9th to 15th.

It should be a matter of grave concern to all of us that in 1948 our estimated national fire loss was $715,074,000. We are further advised that approximately 40 per cent of the factories and industrial establishments which suffered fire loss either did not reopen or failed in business shortly after reopening, thus causing much needless unemployment.

The fire hazard in California's forests and grazing lands has been the most critical since 1945 and will increase in severity until the advent of fall rains. Fires in these areas, which in nearly all cases could be prevented, constitute an economic calamity in the loss of priceless natural resources, the curtailment of badly-needed watersheds and degradation of recreational areas.

In support of the national fire prevention program and to the end that the people of our state may become more aware of fire hazards, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of October 9 to 15, 1949, as FIRE PREVENTION WEEK. It is my hope that during this period all of our citizens will re-examine their homes, their places of business and their recreational facilities with the view of eliminating fire hazards.

During the week of October 9 to 15 the California Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs will undertake the study of home town business promotion and development of new business opportunities.

The Federation has adopted as its theme, "Boost your Town--It Boosts You," to stress the importance of a vigorous business life to the welfare of a community.

It is a healthy condition in any community when women who share so largely in its business and professional life assume the responsibility of furthering its economic well-being. It is another splendid example of the increasing interest American women are taking in public life.

In recognition of the increasingly active role business and professional women's clubs are playing in community affairs in our State, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of October 9 to 15 as BUSINESS WOMEN'S WEEK in California, and urge commercial and industrial leaders to lend their cooperation to the efforts of these organizations to promote understanding of the importance of home town business.

GENERAL ELECTION PROCLAMATION.

I, EARL WARREN, Governor of the State of California,
Section 1001 of the Elections Code and Chapters 931, Statutes of 1949, hereby proclaim and order that Special Election be held on the 8th day of November, 1949, to submit to the qualified voters of the State of California, the following constitutional amendments proposed by the Legislature during the 1949 Session:

Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 83, relating to the issuance of bonds to provide for the construction to school districts of the State,

Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 84, relating to the Legislature,

Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 85, relating to local government, thereby repealing and deleting certain obsolete and superseded provisions,

Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 67, relating to suspension of the Constitutional Convention of 1879,

Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 68, relating to the effective date of statutes enacted in the year 1933,

Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 69, relating to the provisions of the Constitution,

Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 70, relating to constitutional provisions on the subject of State Internal affairs,

Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 71, relating to the putting into effect of the Constitution of 1879 and the election for that purpose,

Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 72, relating to the suspension of non-existent sections 26 and 27 of Article I of the Constitution; said sections not having been adopted,

Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 73, relating to State officers and deleting and repealing obsolete and superseded provisions relating to State officers and their compensation thereof.

Executive Department
State of California

I further proclaim that at such election there shall also be submitted to the vote of the electors such proposed constitutional amendments, questions, propositions, and initiative measures as are required to be so submitted by the Constitution and laws of this State.

And I do hereby offer a reward of one hundred dollars ($100) for the arrest and conviction of any person who violates any of the provisions of Division XIV of the Elections Code; the rewards to be paid until the total amount hereafter expended for the purpose reaches the sum of ten thousand dollars ($10,000).

GOVERNOR'S CERTIFICATE OF APPROVAL OF
CITY COUNCIL'S RESOLUTION FOR DECONTROL OF RENTS
UNDER FEDERAL HOUSING & REAT LAW.

CITY OF LA VERNE

The City of La Verne, in the County of Los Angeles, State of California, on July 28, 1949, presented for approval a certified copy of a decontrol resolution (Resolution #586) passed by its City Council on July 5, 1949, together with certified copies of transcript of proceedings before the Council, copy of petition for decontrol and other documents. These documents establish:

- (1) That a public hearing was held by the City Council June 20, 1949 after ten days' published notice thereof;
- (2) That the nearby cities of Pomona, Claremont, Covina and Glendora were notified of the meeting and its purpose;
- (3) That the City of La Verne is essentially a community of homes occupying an area approximately $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles by 2 miles in the southeastern portion of Los Angeles County. The population is estimated to be between 3500 and 4000 (1940 census 3092). Many of the working population are employed in local industry and in stores and offices in town;
- (4) That at or about the time of the hearing there were approximately 43 rental vacancies consisting of (a) 21 apartments, the majority of which would rent for from $20 to $50 per month, and (b) 22 homes, about half of which would rent for $75 or less per month;

It was further found that 38 newly constructed homes will be finished this fall and a substantial number of additional units will become available for rental if rents are decontrolled;

(5) No opposition to decontrol appeared at the Council meeting;

(6) The City Council, after a full and fair hearing and after legal and sufficient notice, formally determined that there no longer exists in the City of La Verne such a shortage of rental housing accommodations as to require rental control in such city.

In view of the foregoing considerations, and in accordance with the provisions of the Housing & Rent Act of 1947, as amended by the Housing & Rent Act of 1949, particularly Section 204(j), par. 3, the resolution and finding of the La Verne City Council that there no longer exists such a shortage in rental housing accommodations as to require rent control in the City of La Verne is hereby approved.

By Ching Fayant Deputy

on October 24th, peace-loving people throughout the world will observe the fourth anniversary of the effective date of the United Nations Charter. It is particularly fitting that we in California join in this observance on this historic occasion, since it was in San Francisco that the Charter was

In the four intervening years crises have occurred which emphasize the desperate need for the world-wide effort to promote understanding and harmony among nations. Although circumstances have made it impossible for the United Nations to achieve all the objectives enunciated in its charter, it remains the greatest hope of the World today for the eventual attainment of lasting peace. It behooves each of us to increase our understanding of the workings of this international organization and to cooperate in its efforts to bring about a world of peace and good will.

I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim October 24, 1949, as UNITED NATIONS DAY in California, and I urge the citizens of our State to participate in this day in programs dedicated to the promotion of international good will.

GOVERNOR'S CERTIFICATE OF APPROVAL OF
CITY COUNCIL'S RESOLUTION FOR DECONTROL OF RENTS
UNDER FEDERAL HOUSING & RENT LAW

CITY OF FOLSOM

The City of Folsom, in the County of Sacramento, State of California, on September 6, 1949, presented for approval a certified copy of a decontrol resolution (Resolution #52) adopted by its City Council on August 3, 1949.

The following facts relating to this matter are established:

1. A public hearing was held by the City Council August 3, 1949 after ten days' published notice thereof;
2. The City of Folsom is a community situate in the northeast corner of Sacramento County approximately 21 miles from the City of Sacramento. The population is estimated to be 2,000. Folsom is a community of modest homes with a business district comparable to the population. No industry exists in the city, but the Natoma Company operates a plant at the unincorporated town of Natoma two miles southwest of the city. The Folsom State Prison (established in 1880) is located at the eastern edge of the city;
3. No opposition to decontrol appears to have been expressed at the Council meeting, though the resolution of the City Council indicates there were two persons present who were against decontrol;

4. The City Council, after a full and fair hearing on October 1, 1949 and on October 11, 1949, formally determined that there no longer exists in the City of Folsom such a shortage of rental housing accommodations as to require rent control in such city.

In view of the foregoing considerations, and in accordance with the provisions of the Housing & Rent Act of 1947, as amended by the Housing & Rent Act of 1949, particularly Section 102(3), sub. 2, the resolution and finding of the Folsom City Council that there no longer exists such a shortage in rental housing accommodations as to require rent control in the City of Folsom is hereby approved.

CITY OF FULLERTON

The City of Fullerton, in the County of Orange, State of California, on September 26, 1949, presented for approval a certified copy of a decontrol resolution (Resolution #1340) passed by its City Council on September 6, 1949, together with certified copies of transcript of proceedings before the Council, copy of petition for decontrol and other documents. These documents establish:

(1) That a public hearing was held by the City Council August 16, 1949, after ten days' published notice thereof;

(2) That the nearby cities of LaHabra, Anaheim, Brea and Placentia were notified of the meeting and of its purpose;

(3) That the City of Fullerton had a population in 1940 of 10,441, and an estimated population in 1948 of 13,335; that it is situated in the northern portion of Orange County;

(4) Evidence was introduced to establish that a survey made shortly before the hearing of some 529 rental units in the city revealed 69 vacancies, of which 39 were in multiple rental units, 30 were individual houses, and of the 69 vacancies only 27 were for rent at a monthly rental exceeding $50.00 per month.

It was also established that 928 rental units have been constructed since 1942.

(5) No opposition to decontrol appeared at the Council meeting, although one letter in opposition was received after the conclusion of the hearing.

(6) The City Council, after a full and fair hearing and after legal and sufficient notice, formally determined that there no longer exists in the City of Fullerton such a shortage of rental housing accommodations as to require rental control in such city.

In view of the foregoing considerations, and in accordance with the provisions of the Housing & Rent Act of 1947, as amended by the Housing & Rent Act of 1949, particularly Section 204(j), par. 3, the resolution and finding of the Fullerton City Council that there no longer exists such a shortage in rental housing accommodations as to require rent control in the City of Fullerton is hereby approved.

CITY OF WOODLAKE

The City of Woodlake, in the County of Tulare, State of California, on August 31, 1949, presented for approval a certified copy of a rent decontrol resolution (Resolution No. 115), adopted by its City Council on August 18, 1949, together with a certified copy of transcript of proceedings before the Council, copy of petition for decontrol and other documents.

It is established that -

(1) A public hearing was held by the City Council August 18, 1949, after ten days' published notice thereof;

(2) The nearby cities of Exeter, Visalia and Dinuba, as well as the Board of Supervisors of Tulare County, were notified of the hearing and its purpose;

(3) The City of Woodlake is essentially a community of homes located in the east central part of Tulare County. The population is estimated to be 2500. The principal industry in the surrounding area is agriculture, and many fruit packing and processing plants are located there. Most of the working population are employed in local packing plants and in small stores and offices in town;

(4) The best information available is that at the time of the hearing there were upwards of 20 family rental units unoccupied and available for occupancy within the city. The Housing Authority of the County of Tulare, which maintains 22 housing units available to veterans, had 4 vacant units. Estimates show that the rental housing situation presently existing in Woodlake is substantially similar to that which existed in 1940 and prior thereto;

(3) The opposition to the resolution appeared at the Council meeting;

(4) The City Council, after a full and fair hearing and after legal and sufficient notice, formally determined that there no longer exists in the City of Woodlake such a shortage of rental housing accommodations as to require rental control in such city.

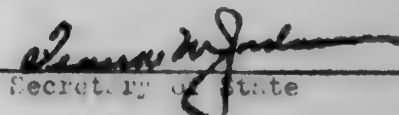

In view of the foregoing considerations, and in accordance with the provisions of the Housing & Rent Act of 1947, as amended by the Housing & Rent Act of 1949, particularly Section 204(j), par. 3, the resolution and finding of the Woodlake City Council that there no longer exists such a shortage in rental housing accommodations as to require rent control in the City of Woodlake is hereby approved.

PROCLAMATION

As busy as we are with the problems of peace, we must never become so busy, as individuals, as a state or as a nation, that we fail to remember the tremendous debt of gratitude we owe the men and women who gave of their blood that we might live in peace.

Many of those who received battle wounds are permanently disabled and must be cared for in veterans' hospitals for the remainder of their lives. Others must receive hospital care at frequent intervals and can be only partially restored to the normal life they formerly enjoyed.

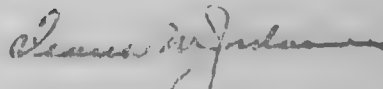

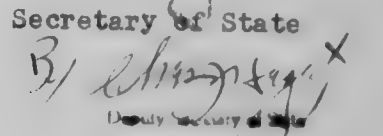

On November 10th and 11th of this year, representatives of Disabled American Veterans Chapters throughout California will sell forget-me-nots, and the funds contributed by the purchasers of these symbolic flowers will help to finance that organization's numerous services to our disabled veterans.

Accordingly, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim November 10 and 11, 1949, as FORGET-ME-NOT DAYS, and I urge the people of our State to participate in this expression of appreciation for the tremendous sacrifices of our war-wounded veterans.

PROCLAMATION

Thanksgiving Day throughout our national history has been an occasion for giving thanks for the many advantages we enjoy as Americans. It is a day for public reaffirmation of the spiritual principles on which our way of life is based.

Just as the Pilgrims gave thanks to God for the bountiful harvest of 1621 which ended for them many months of hardship and privation, we in this modern day owe Him the credit for the many blessings which we have received. Like the Pilgrims, we have had an abundant harvest. Our productive capacity has become so great that we are able not only to fill our own needs but also to give material aid to those who are trying to keep the light of freedom aglow in other parts of the world.

It is most appropriate that we recognize the Thanksgiving season as a time for prayer, both in our homes and in our churches. I am sure that during this period many of us will wish to remember the millions of hungry people in other lands by contributing to the food campaigns of churches and other recognized groups.

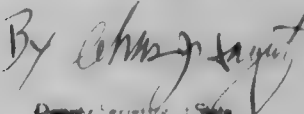

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Thursday, November 24, 1949, as THANKSGIVING DAY, and a legal holiday.

PROCLAMATION

On November 19, 1949, Kiwanis Clubs throughout the nation will sponsor the observance of National Kids' Day to focus public attention on the problems of underprivileged children.

Through events such as this, the communities of California have the opportunity to demonstrate their support of programs to assist in the development of our youth along sound and wholesome lines.

Boys and girls constitute our most precious asset, and no effort should be spared in providing the leadership and guidance they need during the formative years which determine the kind of citizens they will be as adults.

Therefore, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim November 19, 1949, as KIDS' DAY in California, and I urge the people of the State to cooperate to the end that our youth shall receive every possible advantage of the American way of life.

CITY OF BEVERLY HILLS.

The City of Beverly Hills, in the County of Los Angeles, State of California, on July 7, 1949, presented for approval a certified copy of a decontrol resolution passed by its City Council on June 28, 1949, together with certified copies of transcript of proceedings before the Council, copy of petition for decontrol and other documents. These documents establish:

- (1) That a public hearing was held by the City Council on May 23, 1949, after ten days' published notice thereof;
- (2) That the nearby cities of Los Angeles, Santa Monica, Inglewood, Pasadena, Culver City and Burbank were notified of the meeting and its purpose;
- (3) The City Council, after a full and fair hearing and after legal and sufficient notice, formally determined that there no longer exists in the City of Beverly Hills such a shortage of rental housing accommodations as to require rental control in such city. This finding is supported by specific findings of fact made by the Council relative to the vacancies in such city. The specific findings of fact are based on evidence which, although conflicting is sufficient to sustain such findings of fact.

In view of the foregoing considerations, and in accordance with the provisions of the Housing & Rent Act of 1947, as amended by the Housing & Rent Act of 1949, particularly Section 204(j), par. 3, the resolution and finding of the Beverly Hills City Council that there no longer exists such a shortage in rental housing accommodations as to require rent control in the City of Beverly Hills is hereby approved.

said day for the following purposes and to legislate upon the following subjects:

1. To consider and act upon legislation to appropriate to the counties and cities and counties for expenditure during the 1949-1950 fiscal year to meet the financial emergency of aid to the aged and to the needy blind and the administration of such aid confronting the counties and cities and counties by reason of the adoption of Article XXVII of the State Constitution at the special election of November 8, 1948.

2. To consider and act upon legislation to provide for the transfer of counties and cities and counties of personnel for the administration of aid to the aged and aid to the needy blind.

3. To consider and act upon legislation to increase the aid to the needy blind.

4. To consider and act upon legislation to provide financial assistance during the 1949-1950 fiscal year to school districts in which the increase in attendance during the current fiscal year over that of the last preceding fiscal year is such that the school districts are unable to provide for the operation and maintenance of necessary schools during the current fiscal year.

5. To consider and act upon legislation relating to the administration of the State.

6. To consider and act upon legislation to prohibit any officer or employee of the State, otherwise than in the discharge of his official duties, from representing for compensation the State or any other person before any administrative agency or officer of this State or from prosecuting or aiding or participating in the prosecution of any claim of another against the State or any other person thereof before any such agency or officer.

7. To consider and act upon legislation relating to the administration of the State.

PROCLAMATION

On December 15th of this year, our nation will observe the 158th anniversary of the ratification of the Bill of Rights by the thirteen original states.

The unequivocal language contained in the Constitution's first ten amendments, which comprise the Bill of Rights, was an expression of men who personally knew the rigors of oppression. The individual rights and freedoms which they held so dear thus became the keystone of our American way of life.

The system of government they fought to establish has been so outstandingly successful that millions of people throughout the world now look to us for strength and inspiration as they struggle for a semblance of the freedoms which through the years have become to us so commonplace.

Our democratic processes are under constant challenge by subversive forces which seek to discredit and destroy them. It is, therefore, of the utmost importance that we take advantage of every opportunity to reaffirm our faith in the principles set forth in the Bill of Rights.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim December 15, 1949, as BILL OF RIGHTS DAY, and I urge the people of our State to become more familiar with the fundamental meaning of the Bill of Rights and its significance in the world today.

hereunto set my hand
and caused the Great
Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 12th day of December, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Forty-nine.

PROCLAMATION

In the history of our country there are relatively few men who have made greater contributions to the welfare of mankind than George Washington Carver. Born in slavery and faced with obstacles which would have discouraged most men, he rose to eminence as a scientist and an educator. His life is an example of fortitude and accomplishment for all Americans.

During more than forty years spent in the development of Tuskegee Institute, Dr. Carver worked unceasingly to create new educational and economic opportunities for thousands of students. His chemical and agricultural research made it possible for untold numbers of families to rise from the depths of poverty to a more plentiful life.

It has become the custom, in accordance with an act of the Congress of the United States and a proclamation of the President to honor the memory of Dr. Carver on the anniversary of his death on January 5, 1943.

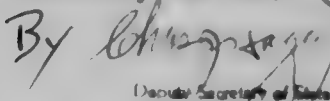

In furtherance of this national program I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim January 5, 1950, as GEORGE WASHINGTON CARVER DAY, and I urge all the people of our State to share in the inspiration which can be gained from a review of the life and work of this great man.

DIRECTION

To the State Treasurer

Under provisions of Veterans Bond Act of 1946, Section 993.7, Military and Veterans Code

To Honorable Charles G. Johnson, State Treasurer:

Whereas, an Act, known and designated as the "Veterans Bond Act of 1946," was duly and regularly adopted and approved at the General Election held in this State on the 5th day of November, 1946, and said Act is now in full force and effect; and

Whereas, the California Veterans Board at its regular meeting held on October 15, 1949, regularly adopted a resolution requesting the Veterans' Finance Committee of 1943 to authorize the issuance and sale of bonds of the aggregate par value of twenty-five million dollars ($25,000,000), which said request was supported by a statement of the plans and projects of the Department of Veterans Affairs with respect to the use of the proceeds of the sale of said bonds; and

Whereas, the said Veterans' Finance Committee of 1943 on November 3, 1949, approved the plans and projects of the Department of Veterans Affairs with respect to the use of the proceeds of the sale of said bonds and adopted a resolution determining the necessity and desirability for the issuance thereof in the aggregate value above-mentioned to carry such plans and projects into execution and specifying all matters and things required by Section 994.1 of the Military and Veterans Code of the State of California; and

Whereas, the California Veterans Board, by resolution adopted November 18, 1949, has requested the sale at public auction of said Veterans' Bonds, in the aggregate par value of twenty-five million dollars ($25,000,000) in denominations of one thousand dollars ($1,000.00) each;

Now, therefore, I, EARL WARREN, GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA, do hereby approve the said resolution adopted by the California Veterans Board, which is attached hereto and made a part hereof, pursuant to the provisions of the Veterans Bond Act of 1946 (Section 993.7 of the Military and Veterans Code). I hereby direct that you, as State Treasurer, on the earliest date possible following the execution of the bonds, after notice as required by law, sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, in accordance with the provisions of said Bond Act, Veterans' Bonds, numbered 75,001 to 100,000, both inclusive, of the par value of one thousand dollars ($1,000.00) each, and of the aggregate par value of twenty-five million dollars ($25,000,000), as prepared by you, from the proceeds of the said Veterans' Finance Committee of 1943, the proceeds from the sale of which said bonds shall be not less than the aggregate par value thereof, plus interest which has accrued thereon between the date of sale and the last preceding interest maturity date; and such proceeds from the sale of said bonds shall be placed in the Veterans' Par and Bond Holding Fund of 1943.

In Witness Whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State to

To the State Treasurer

Under the provisions of Veterans Bond
Act of 1949, Art. 5B, Ch. 6, Div. 4
Military and Veterans Code

To Honorable Charles G. Johnson, State Treasurer:

WHEREAS, an Act, known and designated as the "Veterans Bond Act of 1949", (Stats. 1949, Ch. 1267) was duly and regularly confirmed and ratified by Section 6 of Article XVI of the Constitution of the State of California, submitted to and approved by the electors of said State at the Special Election held in this State on the 6th day of June, 1950, and said Veterans Bond Act of 1949 is now in full force and effect; and

WHEREAS, the California Veterans Board at its meeting held on the 26th day of October, 1951, duly adopted a resolution requesting the Veterans' Finance Committee of 1943 to authorize the issuance and sale of the remaining Twenty-five Million Dollars ($25,000,000) principal amount of bonds authorized by the Veterans Bond Act of 1949, which said request included a statement of the plans and projects of the Department of Veterans Affairs with respect to the use of the proceeds of the sale of said bonds; and

WHEREAS, the said Veterans' Finance Committee of 1943 did on the 8th day of November, 1951, approve the plans and projects of the Department of Veterans Affairs with respect to the use of the proceeds of the sale of said bonds and expressed its determination that the issuance of the remaining amount of bonds authorized by the Veterans Bond Act of 1949 is and will be necessary to carry said plans and projects into execution and adopted a resolution determining the necessity and desirability for the immediate issuance and sale of bonds in the aggregate principal amount of Twenty-five Million Dollars ($25,000,000) under said Veterans Bond Act of 1949 to carry such plans and projects into execution, and further in said resolution specified all matter and things required by Section 995.2 of the Military and Veterans Code of the State of California; and

WHEREAS, the California Veterans Board, by resolution adopted the 30th day of November, 1951, has requested the sale of said Veterans' Bonds in the aggregate principal amount of Twenty-five Million Dollars ($25,000,000):

Now, therefore, I, EARL WARREN, GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA, do hereby approve (a) the said resolution adopted by the California Veterans Board, and (b) said resolution of said Veterans' Finance Committee of 1943 (which latter resolution is attached hereto and made a part hereof), pursuant to the provisions of the Veterans Bond Act of 1949. I hereby direct that you, as State Treasurer, after notice as required by law, sell upon sealed bids in accordance with the provisions of said Veterans Bond Act of 1949, Veterans' Bonds of the State of California, numbered C1 to C25,000, both inclusive, of the aggregate par value of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000) each, and of the aggregate par value of Twenty-five Million Dollars ($25,000,000), as prepared by you pursuant to the direction of the said Veterans' Finance Committee of 1943, as set forth in said resolution attached hereto, the proceeds from the sale of which said bonds shall be not less than the aggregate par value thereof, plus accrued interest thereon; and such proceeds from the sale of said bonds shall be placed in the Veterans' Farm and Home Building Fund of 1943.

RESCISSION OF ORDERS, RULES AND REGULATIONS TO TAKE EFFECT UPON

THE EXISTENCE OF A STATE OF EXTREME EMERGENCY AS A RESULT OF AN ATTACK UPON THIS STATE BY THE USE OF ATOMIC WEAPONS OR THE ISSUANCE BY THE WESTERN AIR DEFENSE FORCE OF AN ALERT WARNING INDICATING THAT AN ENEMY ATTACK IS PROBABLE

WHEREAS, Section 1535.1 of the Military and Veterans Code provides:

"The Governor may make, amend, and rescind the necessary orders, rules, and regulations to carry out the provisions of this chapter with due consideration of the plans of the Federal Government. . . . Any orders, rules, and regulations or amendments or rescissions thereof, made in the absence of a state of extreme emergency shall be in writing, shall be exempt from the provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act . . . , but shall be subject to the approval of the Disaster Council, and shall take effect immediately upon such approval. . . .";

NOW, THEREFORE, I, GOODWIN J. KNIGHT, Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the powers and authority vested in me by the Constitution and laws of this State and in accordance with the provisions of Section 1535.1 of the Military and Veterans Code, do hereby rescind Orders No. 1 to 10, inclusive, which were issued on September 6, 1955, to take effect in a state of extreme emergency existing pursuant to Section 1505.5 of the Military and Veterans Code, such rescission to be effective on July 5, 1956.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and the State of California, by virtue of the powers and authority vested in me by the Constitution and laws of this State and in accordance with the provisions of Section 1535.1 of the Military and Veterans Code, do hereby promulgate, issue and establish the following orders, rules and regulations, which are considered necessary for the protection of life and property

Executive Department

State of California

during the period of such a State of Extreme Emergency, such orders, rules and regulations to become effective on July 5, 1956:

ORDER NO. 1

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that all orders, rules and regulations issued pursuant to the State of Extreme Emergency shall take effect upon their issuance, and shall remain in full force and effect during the period of the State of Extreme Emergency and until the declaration of termination of the State of Extreme Emergency, except when terminated prior thereto by the specific provisions of any such order, rule or regulation.

ORDER NO. 2

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that, immediately upon the existence of a State of Extreme Emergency by reason of attack or by issuance of an alert warning by the Western Air Defense Force, all counties, cities and counties, and cities of the State will immediately sound the indicated warning signal. The Director of the California Disaster Office is hereby directed to prescribe the warning signals necessary to effectuate this action.

ORDER NO. 3

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that evacuation, voluntary or involuntary, shall be determined by local constituted authority or at the direction of the Governor or of the military forces. Local constituted officials, with the assistance of the State, shall carry out and control the movement of people in such manner as to assure all possible protection to the health, safety and welfare of the evacuees.

ORDER NO. 4

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that the Director of the California Disaster Office is authorized and directed to act on behalf of the Governor and in the name of the State of California in implementing and operating the California Civil Defense and Disaster Plan, insofar as adherence to such plan of operation is adequate to cope with existing conditions within the State; and is further authorized to deviate from

State of California

such plan of operation, as directed by the Governor, or to the extent and in such manner as he may deem necessary for the protection of life, property and resources of or within the State against unforeseen circumstances or hazards which, by reason of their character or magnitude, are beyond the scope of such plan of operation; and

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the Director of the California Disaster Office is authorized to delegate such powers as are herein granted, or as authorized under Section 1518.2 of the Military and Veterans Code, to the Assistant Director of the Disaster Office and such other personnel of his staff as he may deem necessary, and such Assistant Director or staff personnel may act on behalf of and in the name of the Director of the California Disaster Office in carrying out any authority so delegated; and

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the Regional Coordinators of each of the three (3) Mutual Aid Regions of the State are authorized and directed to assume command and control of operations within their respective regions in accordance with the California Civil Defense and Disaster Plan and the regional plans of operation of their respective regions, and to implement and operate such plans as they apply to their respective regions; and are further authorized to deviate from such plans as directed by the Director of the Disaster Office, or to the extent and in such manner as the Regional Coordinator may deem necessary for the protection of life, property and resources, of or within his region, against unforeseen circumstances or hazards which, by reason of their character or magnitude, are beyond the scope of such plans of operation.

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that all State and local officials or persons holding positions of responsibility in the State or in local accredited civil defense and disaster organizations, and all registered Civil Defense and Disaster Service Volunteer Workers, and all unregistered persons impressed into service during the period of the State of Extreme Emergency by a person having the authority to command the aid of citizens in the execution of his duties, are hereby declared to be members of the California Civil Defense and Disaster Corps; and

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that all officials of local political subdivisions of the State who perform duties in the State Control Center or in any Regional or Sector Control Center, and all registered Civil Defense and Disaster Service Volunteer Workers so assigned, are hereby declared to be personnel of the staff of the California Disaster Office for the period of the State of Extreme Emergency; and are subject to

State of California

the direction of the Governor, the Director of the Disaster Office, and/or the Coordinator of the control center to which such persons are assigned or attached; and

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that all officials and registered Civil Defense and Disaster Service Volunteer Workers heretofore designated and/or holding positions as Chiefs of Service, Coordinators, or in any other capacity as staff personnel at State, Region, or Operational Area levels are hereby declared to be personnel of the staff of the California Disaster Office.

ORDER NO. 6

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that the California Civil Defense and Disaster Plan, originally approved by the California State Disaster Council on September 12, 1950; all regional plans of operation developed thereunder, originally approved by the California State Disaster Council on June 23, 1952; any additions or amendments to or revisions of such plans which have been or may hereafter be approved by the California State Disaster Council; and the California Disaster and Civil Defense Master Mutual Aid Agreement, executed and approved by the Governor on November 15, 1950; together with all local plans developed thereunder, shall be in full force and effect.

ORDER NO. 7

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that the governmental functions of the State and of every political subdivision thereof shall continue in full force and effect for the protection of lives, property and resources within their jurisdiction; and all duly constituted officials of the State and of every political subdivision thereof shall continue to discharge their responsibilities and shall comply with, enforce, and assume the responsibility for implementing such rules, regulations or orders not inconsistent with or contradictory to rules, regulations or orders issued by the President of the United States or the armed forces of the United States, as are now or may hereafter be promulgated by the Governor, in accordance with approved plans and procedures.

ORDER NO. 8

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that the State Plan for Procurement for Civil Defense and Disaster During a State of

Executive Department

State of California

Extreme Emergency becomes effective, and those persons designated as Deputy State Purchasing Agents are authorized to use State procurement forms in obtaining supplies, equipment, and/or services necessary to implement approved civil defense and disaster plans.

ORDER NO. 9

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that the sale of alcoholic beverages shall be discontinued immediately.

ORDER NO. 10

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that all petroleum stocks for California distribution, including those in refinery storage, major distributing installations and pipe line terminals, shall be held subject to the control of the State Petroleum Administrator; and

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that retail outlets for petroleum products shall operate in accordance with rules and regulations prescribed by the civil defense and disaster authorities of the jurisdiction in which they are located.

ORDER NO. 11

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that all wholesale foodstocks, including those under the control of processors, wholesalers, agents and brokers, be held subject to the control of the State Food Administrator, except as herein noted:

- (1) Fresh fluid milk, fresh fruits and vegetables, and bread are not subject to this order;
- (2) Supplies necessary for the continued operation of restaurants, hotels, hospitals, public institutions, and similar establishments, for food consumed on the premises only, are not subject to this order; these requirements should be met with the least possible change in normal procurement and distribution procedures;
- (3) Supplies necessary for the operation of emergency feeding facilities in congregate shelters and improvised hospitals feeding over approximately 100 persons per day, may be obtained from wholesale sources upon approval of local civil defense and disaster directors; and

State of California

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that retail outlets for food-stocks shall operate in accordance with rules and regulations prescribed by the civil defense and disaster authorities of the jurisdiction in which they are located.

ORDER NO. 12

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that all drugs and medical supply stocks in California intended for wholesale distribution, shall be held subject to the control of the Director of the California Disaster Office; and

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that retail outlets for drugs and medical supplies shall operate in accordance with rules and regulations prescribed by the civil defense and disaster authorities of the jurisdiction in which they are located.

considered necessary for the protection of life and property

Executive Department

State of California

during the period of such a State of Extreme Emergency, such orders, rules and regulations to become effective on January 27, 1958:

ORDER NO. 1

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that all orders, rules, and regulations issued pursuant to the State of Extreme Emergency shall take effect upon their issuance, and shall remain in full force and effect during the period of the State of Extreme Emergency and until the declaration of termination of the State of Extreme Emergency, except when terminated prior thereto by the specific provisions of any such order, rule, or regulation.

ORDER NO. 2

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that, immediately upon the existence of a State of Extreme Emergency by reason of enemy attack or the receipt by the California Disaster Office of a warning indicating that such attack is probable or imminent, all counties, cities and counties, and cities of the State will immediately sound the indicated warning signal. The Director of the California Disaster Office is hereby directed to prescribe the warning signals necessary to effectuate this action.

ORDER NO. 3

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that evacuation, voluntary or involuntary, shall be determined by duly constituted local authority or at the direction of the Governor, the President of the United States, or of the military forces. Duly constituted local officials, with the assistance of the State, shall carry out and control the movement of people in such manner as to assure all possible protection to the health, safety, and welfare of the evacuees.

ORDER NO. 4

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that the Director of the California Disaster Office is authorized and directed to act on behalf of the Governor and in the name of the State of California in implementing and operating the California Civil Defense

WHEREAS, the possibility of widespread natural disaster is always present in this State; and

WHEREAS, potential enemies of the United States have capacity to attack this state and the United States in ever-growing force; and

WHEREAS, Section 1540 of the Military and Veterans Code provides:

"The Governor may assign to a state agency any activity concerned with the mitigation of disaster of a nature related to the existing powers and duties of such agency, and it shall thereupon become the duty of such agency to undertake and carry out such activity on behalf of the State"; and

WHEREAS, it is the duty of all State officials to assume active leadership in civil defense and disaster preparedness; and

WHEREAS, Executive Order No. 58-CD-1, issued April 2, 1958, formalized certain assignments of civil defense and disaster responsibilities which had previously been made; and

WHEREAS, current operational concepts in civil defense and disaster procedures, developed in the light of new techniques, necessitate changes in established plans;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN, Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the powers and authority vested in me by the Constitution and laws of this State and in accordance with the provisions of Section 1540 of the Military and Veterans Code, do hereby rescind Executive Order No. 58-CD-1, and do hereby issue this Order to become effective immediately:

A. Each department, independent division, bureau, board, commission, and independent institution of the State Government, hereinafter referred to as agencies, shall prepare and disseminate to all employees appropriate plans and instructions for:

1. The protection of its personnel, equipment, and supplies against the effects of enemy attack. Such plans shall provide for appropriate action under the several conditions of warning enunciated in the California Civil Defense Operations Plan (CALOP-1).

2. The protection and maintenance of vital public records and documents: one copy of each shall be stored in an adequately protected facility or kept outside of danger zones as delineated in the California Civil Defense Operations Plan (CALOP-1).

3. The carrying on of such of its normal services as may continue to be needed, on an emergency basis, in the event of enemy attack or natural disaster.

a. Each agency shall survey its normal functions and determine which of such functions must be continued notwithstanding enemy attack, and the extent to which its resources, including personnel, equipment, supplies, and facilities, must be devoted to carrying out such functions. An agency which has functions which must be continued notwithstanding enemy attack, and having its principal headquarters in a Danger Zone, shall provide for an auxiliary headquarters at a site in a support area, or at a location not in close proximity to a designated possible target, to which the appropriate personnel of the agency shall report in the event of enemy attack.

b. All resources, including personnel, of the agency not required in the performance of the functions which must be continued in the event of an enemy attack shall be available for the performance of civil defense and disaster functions and shall be reported to the California Disaster Office as soon as determined. Such resources will be assigned to the performance of a civil defense and disaster function by the Director, California Disaster Office, if such assignment is deemed necessary.

4. The protection of its personnel, equipment, and supplies, and the safeguarding of State property in the event of natural disaster with little or no warning.

B. Each agency which operates radio-equipped motor vehicles shall insure that the regularly assigned drivers of such vehicles receive training in radiological monitoring and reporting techniques and that an adequate number of supervisory personnel also receive such training.

Executive Department

C. The responsibility for emergency planning shall rest with the head of each agency. Copies of completed plans shall be submitted to the Director of the California Disaster Office for coordination. Plans shall be reviewed and tested at least once during each calendar year, and revised as necessary.

D. In addition to the responsibilities imposed above, each agency may be assigned additional specific civil defense and/or disaster responsibilities consonant with its capabilities by the Director of the California Disaster Office, as mutually agreed by the head of each agency concerned and the Director of the California Disaster Office, and approved by the Governor. Included shall be the assignment of competent personnel of the agency to serve as the staff of the Director, California Disaster Office, during periods of a state of extreme emergency and as liaison officers during a state of disaster. Each agency shall arrange for the proper training of personnel assigned a disaster function, and shall make such personnel available for test exercises.

E. The California Disaster Office shall assist other State agencies with technical guidance and assistance in carrying out the provisions of A through D above.

F. Authority is hereby granted for State agency employees, designated for participation in authorized training programs and test exercises conducted by the California

PROCLAMATION

Advertising, by creating consumer demand and thus stimulating national distribution and mass production, has played an important part in the development of the high standard of living which we enjoy in America. Through advertising we have come to accept as commonplace the advantages that are a source of wonderment to less fortunate people in many other parts of the world.

In this year marking our centennial of statehood, we in California have reason to be particularly appreciative of the power of advertising. By calling the attention of the nation and the world to the vast resources and opportunities of our State, advertising has contributed greatly to our growth and development.

Through the medium of advertising California has told millions of people of its climatic advantages, the glories of its mountains, the richness of its valleys and the attractions of its beaches and resorts. As a result, it has grown in 100 years into the second largest state of the Nation, and tourist travel has become one of its major industries.

To focus attention on the importance of advertising as a vital part of our economy I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period January 8 - 14, 1950, as ADVERTISING RECOGNITION WEEK, and I urge all the people of our State to become better acquainted with advertising in its various forms and its effect on our daily lives.

CITY COUNCIL'S RESOLUTION FOR DECONTROL OF RENTS
UNDER FEDERAL HOUSING & RENT LAW

CITY OF HUNTINGTON PARK.

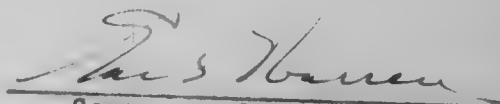

The City of Huntington Park, in the County of Los Angeles, State of California, on October 13, 1949, presented for approval a certified copy of a decontrol resolution (Resolution #3002) passed by its City Council on October 3, 1949, together with certified copies of transcript of proceedings before the Council, copy of petition for decontrol and other documents. These documents establish:

- (1) That public hearing was held on August 29, 1949 after ten days' published notice thereof;
- (2) That although opposition was expressed at the hearing, no factual evidence was submitted against decontrol;
- (3) The City Council, after a full and fair hearing and after legal and sufficient notice, formally determined that there no longer exists in the City of Huntington Park such a shortage of rental housing accommodations as to require rental control in such city.

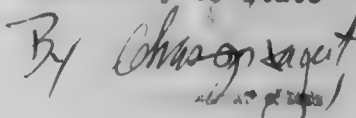

In view of the foregoing considerations, and in accordance with the provisions of the Housing & Rent Act of 1947, as amended by the Housing & Rent Act of 1949, particularly Section 204(j), par. 3, the resolution and finding of the Huntington Park City Council that there no longer exists such a shortage of rental housing accommodations as to require rent control in the City of Huntington Park is hereby approved.

PROCLAMATION

Modern science has made great strides in the fight against disease but we have yet to win the battle against the scourge of infantile paralysis. In fact, the year just past was the blackest in the history of this dread disease with more than 42,000 cases in the United States.

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has for many years conducted its annual March of Dimes campaign to raise funds to pay for the expensive treatment needed to counteract the effects of infantile paralysis and bring its victims back to health. Without the March of Dimes only a few could afford the treatment it is making available to thousands of men, women and children throughout the Nation.

In addition to paying the costs of treatment in individual cases, March of Dimes contributions help to finance a research program which can be the means of eventually eradicating this terrible disease from our homes.

Two years ago California was forced to rely heavily upon the National Foundation when it had an unprecedented number of cases of infantile paralysis. Although we were fortunate during 1949 in having fewer cases than other parts of the country, we have no way of knowing when our State might be hard hit again. If such an attack should come we have the satisfaction of knowing that the National Foundation stands ready to aid us.

It is a matter of vital concern to every Californian that the program of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis not be curtailed. Therefore, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Monday, January 16, 1950, as the opening day of the MARCH OF DIMES campaign, and I urge all of the people of our State to contribute generously for this essential work.

These documents establish:

- (1) That public hearings were held by the City Council on July 13 and October 28, 1949, after ten days published notice thereof;
- (2) That the nearby cities of Santa Monica, Compton, Santa Ana, Los Angeles and Signal Hill were notified of the meetings and their purposes;
- (3) That between the dates of the two public hearings the City of Long Beach, under the direction of its City Manager, conducted its own independent city-wide vacancy survey;
- (4) That the City Manager's survey showed that on or about the 19th of September, 1949, there were approximately 1990 vacancies for rent of which 1098 were furnished and 892 unfurnished. It showed that the rental vacancy factor in standard dwelling units in the City of Long Beach was 3.5 per cent;
- (5) The City Council, after a full and fair hearing and after legal and sufficient notice, formally determined that there no longer exists in the City of Long Beach such a shortage of rental housing accommodations as to require rental control in such city.

PROCLAMATION

In this year of California's centennial of statehood, we are reminded that the tremendous growth and development of our State during its first 100 years is due in large part to the great abundance of its natural resources.

Today, with a population of nearly 11,000,000 people, the drain on these resources is greater than ever before. We have reached the point where California's future progress will be measured by how we conserve its forests, its agricultural and range lands, its water, its mineral and oil deposits, its beach and mountain recreational facilities, and its fish and game.

If we are to make certain that California continues as a pleasant and productive place to live and work, each of us must take a personal interest in the conservation of its resources. We must be particularly careful, in our enjoyment of the out-of-doors, to prevent the destruction of our forests through the scourge of fire. We must come to understand the interdependence of forest conservation, water conservation and soil conservation and the relation of all of these to full development of our recreation and fish and game programs.

In the interest of focusing the attention of the public on the urgent need for increased conservation during the second century of our statehood, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period of March 7 to 14, 1950, as CONSERVATION WEEK and I urge all the people of our State to become more aware of the extent to which our daily welfare depends upon natural resources.

One of the basic considerations in the welfare of a community is the health of its citizens. It is important, therefore, to see that our children are thoroughly impressed with proper practices in preserving their physical well-being, and thus insure good health habits when they become adults.

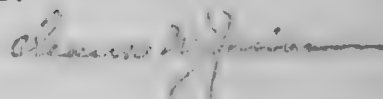

Dental health in particular is largely a matter of care. Proper and regular attention to the condition of a child's mouth will prevent needless disease and decay which are not only damaging in themselves but can disable other parts of the body.

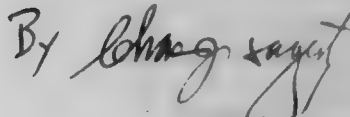

In order to stimulate a better understanding of the importance of good dental practices, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim February 6, 1950, as CHILDREN'S DENTAL HEALTH DAY, and I urge parents and others interested in the health of our children to give their active support to the observance of this occasion.

We in California have reason to be proud that the tremendous growth of our State in recent years has been achieved without tension and discord. It is a splendid demonstration of the ability of men and women of widely differing origin to work together for the common good.

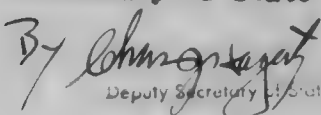

There is no reason why this same spirit of brotherhood cannot prevail in the relationships of people the world over. In fact, our hopes for permanent peace depend in great part upon the degree to which mankind can replace bitterness, prejudice and fear with the constructive influences of friendship and good will.

The National Conference of Christians and Jews is again sponsoring the observance of American Brotherhood Week throughout the Nation as a means of furthering the fundamental principles of universal brotherhood. In keeping with the purposes of this program, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of February 19 to 26, 1950, as BROTHERHOOD WEEK, and I urge all the people of our State to cooperate in the observance of programs which will help to promote mutual trust and understanding.

Through the years we have come to depend upon the American Red Cross in time of need. It is the agency we know to be prepared not only to deal with local emergencies, but to mobilize relief facilities at the scene of all major disasters. Its network of service extends around the world.

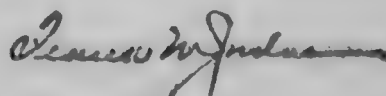

The Red Cross is on call regardless of season. It provides many services to our men and women in uniform, both at home and overseas, and to veterans and their families. Its educational programs in home nursing, first aid, accident prevention and water safety help to make our communities better and safer places to live. In all, the Red Cross rendered 157,841 individual services to California people last year.

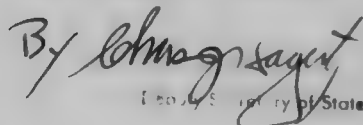

These manifold functions are made possible only through voluntary contributions to the annual Red Cross Fund Campaign which is held in March of each year. To call the attention of the public to this vital need, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim March 1st as the opening day of the 1950 Red Cross Fund Campaign, and I earnestly call upon all of the people of our State to give it their generous and wholehearted support.

PROCLAMATION

The foundation of organized society is the observance of law. Every act of lawlessness provokes more lawlessness, and unless there is effective law enforcement the end result is chaos and anarchy.

Today we find that the lawlessness of war is having a marked effect not only in international affairs but in the observance of law by individuals throughout the world. This is nothing new. Through the centuries there has always been a similar reaction to war. To counteract it, there must be a strong awakening of public determination to curtail the blight of crime.

In our own country during recent years the incidence of organized crime has gone beyond the bounds of reason. Every good citizen who himself observes the laws should exert his influence for higher standards of law enforcement in his community, his State and the Nation to the end that criminals are blocked in their efforts to undermine law enforcement.

In order to further this highly important cause, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim February 19 to 26, 1950, as CRIME PREVENTION WEEK, and I urge all of the people of our State to become more fully aware of the tremendous toll of crime and the need for maintaining a continuing interest in how our laws are enforced.

WHEREAS, An extraordinary occasion has arisen and now exists requiring that the Legislature of the State of California be convened in extraordinary session; now, therefore,

I, EARL WARREN, Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority in me vested by Section 9 of Article V of the Constitution of the State of California, do hereby convene the Legislature of the State of California to meet in extraordinary session at Sacramento, California, on Monday the sixth day of March, 1950, at 12 o'clock noon of said day for the following purposes and to legislate upon the following subjects:

1. To consider and act upon legislation relating to the protection and care of, and assistance to, children, needy persons, and others specially in the need thereof.

2. To consider and act upon legislation to enact the uniform support of dependents law.

3. To consider and act upon legislation relating to lobbying and other attempts to influence legislation.

4. To consider and act upon legislation to prohibit any State officer or employee, otherwise than in the discharge of his official duties, from representing for compensation the interests of any other person before any administrative agency or officer of this State or from prosecuting or aiding or assisting in the prosecution of any claim of another against the State or any agency thereof before any such agency or officer.

5. To consider and act upon legislation relating to the appropriation and apportionment of State funds for the support of the public school system.

6. To consider and act upon legislation relating to the apportionment of the bonded indebtedness of school districts when district boundaries are changed.

7. To consider and act upon legislation relating to air pollution and research on the effects of air pollution on public health.

8. To consider and act upon legislation providing for a survey and analysis of the public works programs of the State and local agencies and the advance planning of such programs, and methods of financing such programs.

9. To consider and act upon legislation relating to the financing of public works and improvements by counties, cities and counties, cities, and public districts.

PROCLAMATION

Cancer took the lives of more than 14,000 Californians last year. Perhaps the most tragic part of this tremendous toll is that at least one-third of these persons could have lived on, had there been early diagnosis and prompt and adequate treatment.

Through funds contributed by the public to the American Cancer Society, considerable progress has been made in saving the lives of cancer sufferers. The Society has sponsored extensive cancer research projects and has carried out a widespread campaign of educating the public to recognize the danger signals of cancer before it is too late.

Despite such gains, this dread disease kills one of every eight persons. To speed the day when this death rate can be effectively reduced, it is essential that there be increased medical research and experimentation and greater public awareness of the early manifestations of cancer.

PROCLAMATION

Good Friday is observed by men and women of the Christian faith as a day of meditation and prayer in memory of Christ's sacrifice upon the cross.

Through the centuries this anniversary of the Crucifixion of Christ has been a symbol of the great love which He held for mankind. It is an occasion for us to reaffirm our devotion to Him and seek with renewed vigor to make His life on Earth the pattern for the conduct of our own lives.

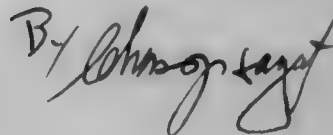

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby call attention to our State law which designates Good Friday, April 7, 1950, as a legal holiday between the hours of 12:00 noon and 3:00 p.m., and proclaim these hours as a period to be consecrated to our religious devotions.

Because of a new awareness on the part of the public, California is moving speedily out of the asylum age for mental patients and into the hospital age, where not only good care but scientific treatment leading to rehabilitation can be given to all of our citizens who are so unfortunate as to suffer this kind of illness.

As the result of this interest of the people, the Legislature has provided for improved standards of care and treatment and for a building program to meet the needs of growth. But the goal of a good mental health program must include more than hospitals and efforts to cure. It must include preventive effort, and this is dependent in large part upon wholesome conditions in the home, the schoolroom and in community life. As part of our statewide program we need to utilize all local facilities, both public and private, which can contribute to the mental health of the community.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of April 23rd through 29th as MENTAL HEALTH WEEK, and I urge the people of our State to acquaint themselves during this period with the need for their increased interest and participation in State and local programs for improved mental health.

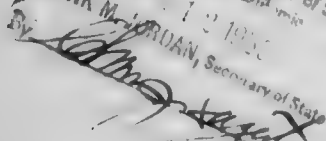

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have

PROCLAMATION

As we take inventory of our blessings and our accomplishments in this, our 100th year of statehood, we view with satisfaction the progress that has been made in education, the basis of which is our public school system.

The little red school house which was the symbol of public education a century ago expanded into a network of elementary and high schools, junior and State colleges which now serve the needs of 1,600,000 young Californians.

It has been a great cooperative venture. Both State and local governments have made their contributions. We like to believe that through their joint efforts the opportunities afforded our children for a sound basic education are not excelled anywhere. If we are justified in this conclusion it is only because our citizens have shown a personal interest in education and because public-spirited men and women have been willing to devote their lives to the teaching of our youth.

It is of paramount importance that this civic interest be strengthened and that those in the teaching profession be supported and encouraged in their efforts. One of the best ways of accomplishing these results is for each citizen to know the public school system. The best way to know it is to keep in constant touch with it. Therefore, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of April 24th to April 30th, 1950, as PUBLIC SCHOOLS WEEK in California, and I urge every citizen to visit a public school during this period to become personally acquainted with the programs and accomplishments of our educational system.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have

The white cane has become widely known as the sign of a blind person. It should indicate to everyone that the person carrying it must be given the greatest possible protection from hazards which he is unable to see. In particular, it is of vital importance that motorists be on the lookout for the bearers of these white canes and give them an absolute right of way as they cross our streets and highways.

White Cane Week is observed nationally from May 15 through May 21, as a means of acquainting the public with the problems and needs of the blind. During this period the National Federation of the Blind will sell Braille bookmarks to raise funds for its program of improving the economic, social and general welfare of the blind and of helping blind persons to help themselves.

In furtherance of this worthy effort, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of May 15, 1950, as WHITE CANE WEEK in California. I urge the people of our State during this period to support the program of the National Federation of the Blind and to help achieve greater recognition of the fact that the bearer of a white cane is a blind person who merits our intelligent assistance and consideration.

Citizenship for many generations of Americans has meant independence from oppression, persecution and fear. It has given us an opportunity to exercise our voice in government and to live in freedom without regard to origin, race or creed.

Perhaps the most appreciative of the priceless heritage of American citizenship are the men and women who have recently attained full participation in the public affairs of our Nation through naturalization. To honor these new citizens and also our youth who have assumed the obligations of citizenship by reaching the age of majority, the third Sunday in May of each year has been designated by the President and Congress as "I Am An American Day."

It is most fitting on this occasion that we demonstrate our understanding that the institutions of democracy must be continually nurtured and safeguarded if they are to maintain their vitality. The development of this understanding is of greater importance than ever at this time when our fundamental concepts of liberty and democracy are under constant challenge by the propagandists of subversive doctrines.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim May 21, 1950, as "I AM AN AMERICAN DAY" in California and urge all citizens on this occasion to reaffirm their faith in the principles that have made our country great. I further urge that public officials, and patriotic, civic and educational organizations join in conducting public observances to focus the attention of our people upon the blessings and obligations of citizenship.

PROCLAMATION

In the recent world conflict the armed forces of our Nation teamed together with memorable success against aggressors who threatened our civilization. With the coming of peace they have continued this teamwork in the interests of a vigorous and effective national defense.

To call attention to the vital importance of our country's military forces, the President and Congress have designated Saturday, May 20th, as Armed Forces Day. It is fitting that on such a day we give recognition to all who have contributed to the building of our military forces.

It is an occasion on which we should honor the veterans who contributed so much to our recent victory, and the men and women in civilian life who participate actively in our defense program through service in the National Guard and the reserve forces.

If we are to preserve our ideals of freedom, the armed forces -- in peace no less than in war -- must receive the support of all citizens in carrying out their duty of safeguarding the security of our Nation.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Saturday, May 20th, as ARMED FORCES DAY in California, and I urge all citizens of our State to display the flag of the United States from their homes and places of business and to participate in programs to increase public awareness of the mission and accomplishments of the armed forces of the United States.

A strong Merchant Marine is important to all of us, not only economically but as a means of maintaining friendly relationships with other lands. By facilitating travel and promoting the exchange of goods and ideas, our merchant fleet does much to bring about greater understanding and tolerance among the peoples of the world.

During the recent war the Merchant Marine proved its ability to deliver tremendous amounts of war supplies to all our battlefronts. It is no less important in peacetime that it be kept active and of sufficient size so that we may never again be found wanting in case of emergency. It is essential that we in California devote every effort to the maintenance on the Pacific Coast of a basic shipbuilding industry capable of expansion on a moment's notice.

Because of California's long-established position as the gateway to the Orient and other lands of the Pacific we have a vital interest in the development of world trade. Much of our economy is dependent upon the movement of our agricultural and industrial products through our ports.

May 22nd, the anniversary of the first trans-oceanic voyage by a steam-propelled vessel, the American flagship Savannah, in 1819, is designated each year by the President and Congress as National Maritime Day. The week which includes this day is observed throughout the country as World Trade Week.

Accordingly, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim May 22, 1950, as MARITIME DAY, and the week of May 21, 1950, as WORLD TRADE WEEK, and I urge the people of our State to acquaint themselves with the accomplishments of our Merchant Marine and the importance of world commerce in the economic life of our State and Nation.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 15th day of May, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty.

Pursuant to Chapter 1.5 of Division 1 of the Welfare and Institutions Code, and in order to provide for the continued operation of the State plans for Aid to the Aged, the Needy Blind, and Needy Children under the provisions of the Welfare and Institutions Code, I do hereby find as facts:

That assistance to this State for the above mentioned Public Assistance programs is provided for by the Federal Social Security Act and

That this State has qualified to receive Federal assistance for the above mentioned Public Assistance programs and has not been notified that further payment of such Federal assistance will not be made because of failure of this State to comply with the requirements of the Federal legislation and

That Federal assistance to this State for the above mentioned Public Assistance programs for the month of June 1950 has not been received, and it is improbable that such Federal assistance will be received by this State prior to the usual time for transmitting such Federal assistance to the counties of this State because of the Congress' failure to give timely passage to a deficiency appropriation bill now before it and

That inability of the State and the counties to disburse assistance payments on June 1, 1950, as provided by law, would deprive 270,000 needy aged, 10,000 needy blind and 108,000 needy children of benefits required to meet their needs.

In consideration of the above findings and in conformity with my practice under similar conditions in the past, I do hereby proclaim the existence of a period of welfare emergency and declare that the sums estimated by the State Department of Social Welfare in the amount of Federal assistance payable to this State under Federal law for the month of June 1950, and appropriated by Section 145.3 of the Welfare and Institutions Code are available for expenditure.

You are, therefore, authorized and directed to do all things necessary to accomplish the intent and purpose of said Chapter 1.5 of Division 1 of the Welfare and

Flag Day, which marks the anniversary of the adoption of the Stars and Stripes as our national emblem in 1777, is a day on which we should give thought to what has been accomplished under our American system of government--a system which makes every citizen a full partner in the government of his community, his State and his Nation.

Throughout the 173 years of its existence, the flag has been a glorious symbol of freedom and progress which succeeding generations of Americans have been proud to defend on the fields of battle. And today it is a source of strength as we strive to find a way of insuring lasting peace in a troubled world.

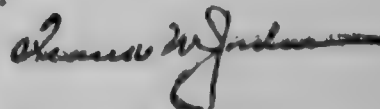

As we honor the flag on its anniversary, let us realize that a Nation is no stronger than the spirit of its people. The flag and the Nation it represents can move forward only through the vital force of a virile citizenship.

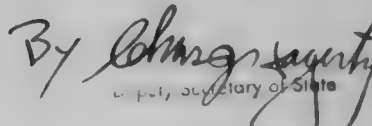

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Wednesday, June 14, 1950, as FLAG DAY in California, and urge that the flag of the United States be flown from every home and place of business on this day in tribute to the principles of freedom and democracy which it represents.

PROCLAMATION

The Corps of Engineers of the United States Army, established by the Continental Congress in 1775, will observe its 175th anniversary on June 16th.

This organization has served on the battlefronts in times of war, from the trenches of Bunker Hill to the bridges across the Rhine and the airfields of Okinawa. In times of peace the Corps has improved the Nation's harbors and thus has contributed much to the development of domestic and world trade. It has worked to harness our rivers for protection against floods, for the generation of hydroelectric power, and for the extension and advancement of water borne commerce.

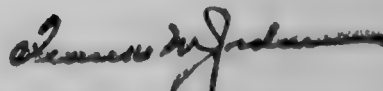

The Corps of Engineers has been working on military and civilian projects in California since 1847--three years prior to California's admission to the Union. Throughout the years it has had a major part in the work of improving our rivers and harbors, in building dams, flood control works and other facilities, and in the construction of military establishments in our State.

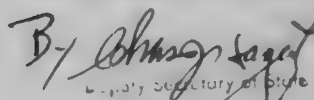

Therefore, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Friday, June 16, 1950, as CORPS OF ENGINEERS DAY in California, and I urge the people of our State to join in expressing appreciation for the accomplishments of the Corps of Engineers and its service to California and the Nation.

During our country's formative years there were many men from other nations who contributed to its firm establishment and sound development. Among the most distinguished of these was General Friedrich Wilhelm von Steuben, Prussian military expert who rendered invaluable assistance to the harassed Continental Army in the struggle for independence.

Joining the forces of our young Nation in the dark days of Valley Forge, he served with distinction as the first Inspector General of the Army. After victory had been achieved, he remained as a resident of our Nation until his death in 1794.

In recognition of the important part this great general played in the success of our country's fight for freedom, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim September 17, 1950, the 220th anniversary of his birth, as STEUBEN DAY in California, and I urge the people of our State to join in observances being held on that day in his memory.

California and the working people of America are this year celebrating centennials. In California we are observing the 100th year of our statehood and giving recognition to the pioneers who charted the path our State has followed. Throughout America, organized labor is observing the 100th anniversary of the birth of Samuel Gompers, the man who pioneered so effectively in the organization of the working men and women of our nation.

California, which has in a single century become the second largest state in the nation, owes much to organized labor. The peoples of no state in recent years have been called upon to face greater changes in their economy or greater congestion due to population gains. Yet, in the face of all such problems, employers and labor working together have won for our State world-wide recognition, both as a producer of the needs of war and the needs of peace.

One of the symbols of this tremendous accomplishment is found in the union label. It is a symbol of cooperation between employers and workers--a symbol of working conditions and employment principles. It seems especially appropriate, therefore, that in observing Labor Day this centennial year we give thought to the part the union label has played in our development. To further such public awareness, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim September 2 to 9, 1950, to be Union Label Week in California. It is my hope that during this week there will be appropriate observances throughout the State in honor of employers and employees whose record of harmonious cooperative achievement has contributed so effectively to the welfare of our State.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 21st day of August, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty.

The first week of October each year is designated by act of Congress as National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week. Its purpose is to increase employment opportunities for disabled persons.

Physical disability need not be a handicap to production. Thousands of physically handicapped persons have demonstrated this through their contributions to industry, agriculture, business and public service, both in war and peace. When properly trained and placed in suitable jobs, they consistently equal and frequently surpass their unhandicapped fellow workers in application, dexterity, productivity and reliability.

These deserving and ambitious people do not ask for charity. They ask only for equal consideration with the able-bodied in employment for which they are suited by natural aptitude or special training.

We are now engaged in a greatly expanded program of national defense production, with increasingly heavy demands being made upon our productive capacity. In view of these demands it is essential that all of our labor resources be utilized to the fullest. The skills possessed by the physically handicapped must not be overlooked.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of October 1 to 7, 1950, as EMPLOY THE PHYSICALLY HANDICAPPED WEEK in California and I urge that all citizens lend their support to furtherance of programs for the training and employment of handicapped persons.

In these days when our Nation is engaged in a bitter struggle halfway around the world, it is of the utmost importance that all of our people understand fully the threat of communism, not only abroad but right here at home.

Communism is not concerned with one isolated battle-front. Communism threatens the peace of the entire world. It is conducting a strenuous campaign to win the minds of people in every land as a prelude to hoped-for world domination.

As Americans, accustomed to freedom of thought and action, we may sometimes be inclined to discount the danger of communism to our free institutions. That danger, however, is very real and very near. The fighting in Korea and the constant threat of trouble elsewhere should convince every American that this is true.

The means by which all of us can join the fight against communism is made available to us through the CRUSADE FOR FREEDOM. This movement gives us opportunity to act together and thus increase the effectiveness with which our Nation deals with communism in all its insidious manifestations.

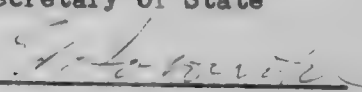

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period September 4th to 10th, 1950, as CRUSADE FOR FREEDOM WEEK in California, to inaugurate the period of enlistment in this movement in our State. I appeal to all the people of California to give support to the CRUSADE FOR FREEDOM by signing the Freedom Scroll and by wearing the Freedom Button as expressions of their devotion to the cause for which these symbols stand.

In a State with a record of growth such as we have experienced in California, the many problems we face in connection with our educational and youth welfare programs require constant cooperation and consultation between parents and teachers. The means for accomplishing this is made available to us through the California Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Parent-Teacher Associations in all our communities have shown great initiative and perseverance in making the people of our State cognizant of the need for new school buildings and all the other facilities required by our rapidly increasing school population. We know that we can continue to rely upon these associations for community leadership, because for more than 50 years they have had an important part in developing and maintaining the high educational standards in which we Californians take such pride.

This year they have taken a position of leadership in planning for California's participation in the Mid-Century White House Conference on Youth, to be held in December, 1950. Their assistance has been particularly valuable in connection with California's statewide youth conference, held as a preliminary to this important national meeting.

In order to call public attention to the many contributions being made to community life by Parent-Teacher Associations of our State, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of October 8 to 14, 1950, as PARENT-TEACHER WEEK in California. I urge that during this period all Californians become familiar with the work of their local Parent-Teacher Associations with a view to fuller participation in the fine programs they have undertaken.

In times such as these, when we face a challenge to our entire concept of free government, it is essential that all of us understand the protective purposes and benefits of our Constitution.

The Constitution of the United States was brought into being 163 years ago by men who had been involved in bitter struggle and who knew firsthand of the limitations upon human rights that can be imposed by oppressors. The document they drafted was not only a statement of basic law for our Nation but a pattern for a way of life which they visualized.

Through changing times and vastly differing circumstances, this Constitution has guided the development of our Nation to its present position of greatness. The principles of liberty and equality which it embodies have come to serve as an inspiration for freedom-loving people everywhere.

Our Constitution derives its strength from the knowledge and understanding of the people. It is a warm and vibrant document, made so by use and appreciation. To neglect it would be to invite tyranny. Safeguarded by constant devotion to its precepts, it will continue to be a bulwark against all forces seeking to destroy our form of government.

PROCLAMATION

In an effort to call public attention to the need for greater adult participation in youth programs, Kiwanis Clubs throughout the Nation are observing September 23, 1950, as National Kids' Day. One of the important purposes of this day is to assist in making it possible for underprivileged children to enjoy some of the benefits normally enjoyed by boys and girls in more fortunate circumstances.

The greatest resource we possess is our youth, for it is the young men and women of today who will carry on the traditions of America tomorrow. It is incumbent upon all of us, therefore, to share in the responsibility for helping them to meet the problems with which they are confronted in the troubled world of today.

In furtherance of this worthy effort, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim September 23, 1950, as KIDS' DAY in California, and I urge the people of our State to join in programs that have for their purpose the development of our youth into useful and self-reliant citizens.

hereunto set my hand
and caused the Great
Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 20th day of September A.D.,

PROCLAMATION

The importance of a free press has never been more convincingly demonstrated than in these troubled days. Wherever we turn, we find free institutions under constant challenge by forces of oppression. We have seen examples, in other parts of the world, where the curtailment of a free press has led to the quick destruction of free government. Time and again it has been proven that only when people are fully informed can they recognize and counteract movements which seek to enslave them.

The right to know the truth is an American heritage handed down to us by our founding fathers. They had firsthand knowledge of the devices of oppressors, and they wisely insisted upon the guarantee of a free press being written into the Constitution of the new Nation they had established.

American editors have fought unceasingly through the years to prevent any encroachment upon our freedom of the press, or upon any of the other basic freedoms which our Constitution guarantees. In this continuing effort they should receive the vigorous support of all who wish to continue to live in a free country.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period October 1st to 8th, 1950, as NEWSPAPER WEEK in California and I urge that during this period the people of our State become more familiar with newspaper services and facilities in their own communities and the importance of a free press in the protection of our form of government.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 27th day of September, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty.

The period October 8th to 14th has been designated nationally as Fire Prevention Week. It is the purpose of this observance to call public attention to the tremendous toll taken annually by fire and to emphasize the need for eliminating fire hazards in our homes, in our business and industrial establishments, and in our forests and recreational areas.

In these unsettled times, we must guard not only against normal fire hazards but also the possibility of sabotage. Our present annual fire toll, terrible as it is, is only a small fraction of the destruction which could be caused by saboteurs bent upon hampering our defense production.

The destructive potential of fire as an instrument of war was clearly demonstrated in World War II, when cities and villages were literally erased from the face of the earth by fire bombs. We must, therefore, as part of our civilian defense program, take every possible step to insure the effectiveness of our fire prevention and fire fighting facilities.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period October 8th - 14th, 1950, as FIRE PREVENTION WEEK in California. I urge that during this period all of the people of our State make a determined effort to seek out and eliminate fire hazards, and that throughout the year constant attention be given to ways and means of preventing and combating destructive fires.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 5th day of October, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty.

Poets throughout the ages have added richness to history by recording the beauty and the pathos of life as they saw it. Through their verses, they have expressed the most profound aspirations of mankind. They have put into words some of the deepest and most tender feelings of men toward their fellow-men.

By focusing attention on oppression and degradation, poets have contributed to the gradual rise of freedom and equality among the peoples of the World. They have captured man's every mood and experience--whether it be a prayer to the Almighty, the expression of pride in his country, or the joys and sorrows of his daily life.

One of the things that has contributed to the greatness of our Nation is the ability of our people to see the beauty inherent in our routine activities and surroundings. No matter how dark the day, we can draw enjoyment and inspiration from good poetry, just as we can from listening to good music, or studying a beautiful painting.

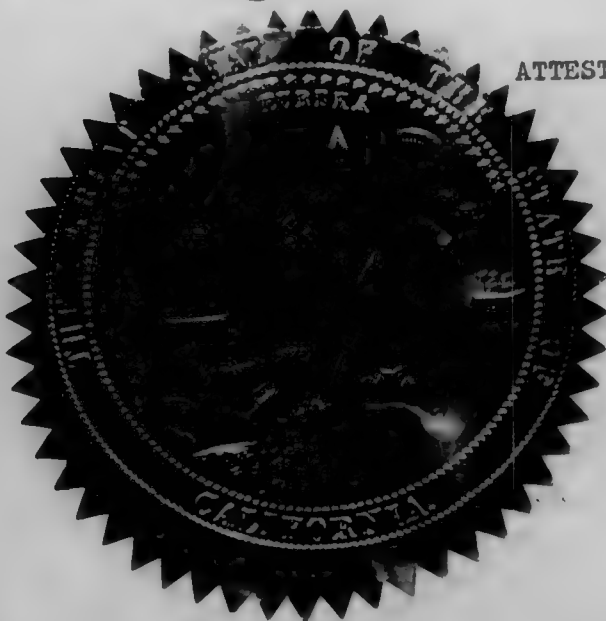

In the interest of calling public attention to the accomplishments of our poets and their contribution to our literature, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim October 15, 1950, as POETRY DAY in California, and I urge all Californians to join in this observance.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 5th day of October, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty.

A theme which might well be adopted by every Californian has been selected for this year's observance of Business Women's Week, October 15th to 21st, by the California Business and Professional Women's Clubs. In urging their members to "Measure up for Full Partnership," these progressive groups have set an objective which cannot help but react to the benefit of the communities in which they play such a vital role.

Such a program is needed if California is to develop as fully and soundly during its second century as during its first. Only through active participation of all citizens as full partners in the duties and responsibilities of our daily lives can we hope to achieve that end.

In recognition of the fine leadership that Business and Professional Women's Clubs have shown in many civic programs, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of October 15th to 21st, 1950, as BUSINESS WOMEN'S WEEK in California. I urge that throughout the State during this week added attention be given to the contribution of business and professional women to the welfare of our communities.

SELECTIVE SERVICE REGISTRATION PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, the Congress of the United States has enacted and the President has approved Public Law 779, 81st Congress which amends Section 4 of Title I of the Selective Service Act of 1948; and

WHEREAS, the President has proclaimed and fixed October 16, 1950, as the day of registration when certain male persons of the ages and qualifications described in said amendment to the Selective Service Act of 1948 are privileged to register their names and addresses as in the Proclamation provided and as well has proclaimed the registration of certain other persons upon their acquiring such qualifications, and has delegated to the Director of Selective Service the authority to fix the date or dates for the special registration of certain other persons referred to in said Proclamation; and

WHEREAS, Section 10 (b) (5) of Title I of said Act provides that the services of all officers and agents of the several States and subdivisions thereof may be utilized to the end that said registration may be accomplished:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, EARL WARREN, Governor of the State of California, do proclaim as follows:

1. Registration shall take place in the State of California as specified by the President of the United States in his Proclamation.

Executive Department

2. I call upon every male person in the State of California who is required to register by said Proclamation, to register at a place of registration at the time specified for his registration by the Proclamation of the President of the United States.

3. I call upon all officers of the State of California and political subdivisions thereof to perform whatever acts may be required of them in assisting in the registration to be held pursuant to the Proclamation of the President of the United States.

4. I specifically call upon the local boards and upon all registrars of the Selective Service System of the State of California to maintain registration places during the period of registration and to carry out the registration therein.

5. I call upon all employers, including the State of California and political subdivisions thereof, to give those under their charge sufficient time in which to fulfill the obligations of registration required of them under the Proclamation of the President of the United States.

6. I call upon the news disseminating agencies and the newspapers to give the fullest coverage and publicity to the registration, so that every person who

The prestige of the United Nations has increased tremendously in recent months as a result of its prompt and effective action to counteract aggression in Korea. Its decision to meet force with force has given freedom-loving people everywhere new hope for the eventual achievement of lasting peace. At the same time, those who would enslave and destroy the free nations of the world have been served warning that the principles enumerated in the United Nations Charter are more than mere words.

The cost in blood of the action in Korea has been heavy. It will have been in vain unless the lessons learned there result in the strengthening of the United Nations to the point where its machinery can prevent a new world holocaust. The Korean incident has also made clear that the achievement of this objective requires the effective cooperation of all peoples who oppose oppression. It is not within the capabilities of any one nation, no matter how powerful or influential that nation may be.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim October 24, 1950, the fifth anniversary of the founding of the United Nations, as UNITED NATIONS DAY in California. I urge all the people of our State to participate on this Day in programs honoring the United Nations and to become familiar with its aims and accomplishments.

American Education Week provides us with an excellent opportunity to re-examine our progress in the field of education and to become more fully aware of the need to make available to our children the finest education it is possible to give them.

It is particularly important in time of world stress such as we are now experiencing that our educational standards be of the highest. The school children of today have the responsibility for the conduct of the affairs of our Nation in the years to come. We must, therefore, look to our schools to lay an effective groundwork for good citizenship and develop the inspiration that is so essential to the advancement and protection of our American ideals of freedom and democracy.

Teachers and principals can do their best work only if they have the full cooperation of parents, and there is no better way to further this cooperation than for parents to visit the schools and keep in close touch with educational programs. With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of November 5 to 11, 1950, as AMERICAN EDUCATION WEEK in California, and I urge all citizens of our State to make a special effort during this period to become thoroughly acquainted with the problems and accomplishments of our schools.

We in California again are seeing firsthand some of the terrible tragedy of war. By the hundreds, servicemen wounded on Korean battlefields have landed on our shores in ships and airplanes, bound for hospitals in which many will remain for life. For others, years of tedious and painful treatment lie ahead before they can hope to resume even partially the normal lives they formerly enjoyed.

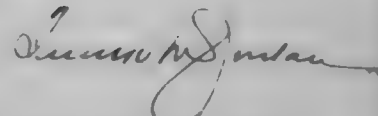

Those of us who have not been called upon to perform front line duty owe to these men and others who were the casualties of previous conflicts a tremendous debt of gratitude. They gave of their blood to make it possible for us to live in peace.

The annual sale of forget-me-nots to finance rehabilitation programs for these veterans will be conducted by the Disabled American Veterans throughout California on November 10th and 11th. Accordingly, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim November 10 and 11, 1950, as FORGET-ME-NOT DAYS in California and I urge our citizens to buy and wear these tokens of our gratitude to those who have given so much.

Thanksgiving Day traditionally is an occasion for us to give thanks for the many blessings we enjoy as Americans and to renew our faith in the spiritual principles that have guided our Nation to its present position of greatness.

Just as the Pilgrim fathers gave thanks to Almighty God for the bounty of their first harvest, let us thank Him for the vast production of our farms and our industrial plants. For the Pilgrims, the Thanksgiving observance marked the end of a terrible period of hunger and privation. Although they still faced the dangers of an unknown wilderness, they gave thanks for the progress they had been able to make. For us, Thanksgiving should be a reminder of the suffering they endured and the kind of courage possessed by those who built our Country.

Our enjoyment of the pleasures of Thanksgiving is tempered by our consciousness of the sacrifices our servicemen are making in the battlefields of Korea and the casualties which have saddened so many of our homes. As we give thanks to Him for the blessings that have come to us, let us pray for an early and successful conclusion of the United Nations effort in Korea. Let us ask His aid as we strive, with other freedom-loving peoples, to bring lasting peace to a troubled world.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Thursday, November 23, 1955, as THANKSGIVING DAY in California.

As we strive today for a better world, much inspiration may be drawn from the life of George Washington Carver, whose name has come to be symbolic of devotion to the welfare of mankind. Although born in slavery he became one of America's greatest men.

Men of every race and creed have benefited from Dr. Carver's chemical and agricultural research as well as his progressive influence as an educator. During more than forty years spent in the development of Tuskegee Institute Dr. Carver surmounted obstacles which would have discouraged a less determined leader in order to create new educational and economic opportunities for a large segment of our people.

In furtherance of a national program to honor the memory of Dr. Carver on the anniversary of his death on January 5, 1943, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim January 5, 1951, as GEORGE WASHINGTON CARVER DAY in California and I urge that the people of our State become more familiar with his many contributions to the advancement of our way of life.

The "March of Dimes" campaign of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis provides the opportunity for all of us to join in the fight against a scourge that struck 2,110 children and adults in our State last year. Although progress has been made in the treatment of this dread, crippling disease, medical science has not yet been able to determine its cause or prevent its occurrence. In fact, 1950 is the third most severe polio year in California's history.

The resources of the National Foundation are available wherever needed, to assist every infantile paralysis patient in the Nation in obtaining the best available medical care, regardless of age, race or creed. Thus, every Californian who contributes to the March of Dimes has a part in making available to polio victims in this State the very expensive treatment which otherwise only a few could afford. In addition, these contributions finance a research program which we hope will eventually eradicate the shadow of infantile paralysis from our homes.

It is imperative that this year's campaign be successful, because the National Foundation entered the year 1951 with a deficit of more than $5,000,000. Our own State was responsible for a large share of this deficit, since $659,940 was sent by the National Foundation to 28 California chapters which had depleted their treasuries in meeting a sharp increase in cases in the closing months of 1950.

In the interest of making sure that the fight against infantile paralysis is continued unceasingly, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Monday, January 15, 1951, as the opening day of the "MARCH OF DIMES" campaign in our State, and I urge all Californians to contribute as generously as possible to meet this urgent need.

High in the ranks of the great agencies which have dedicated themselves to the task of building character and good citizenship in our Nation stands the Young Men's Christian Association, which this year will observe the 100th anniversary of its founding in North America.

As we Californians observe the completion of 100 years of statehood and enter our second century of progress, we have reason to be thankful for the influence of the Y.M.C.A. Those who have pioneered in its programs have added strength to the foundations of our State and have contributed much to youth welfare and social progress in the communities of our State.

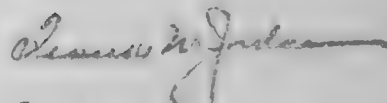

Today, the Y.M.C.A. has 136,760 members in the State of California enrolled in 129 local Associations. It can adequately fulfill its obligation to this widespread membership only if its programs receive the enthusiastic support of people who are interested in safeguarding the physical, mental and moral welfare of our younger generation.

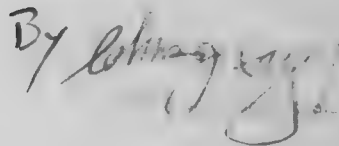

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, hereby proclaim the week of January 21-26, 1951, as Y.M.C.A. The American people have always given generously for the support of the American Red Cross, for hardly anyone is unaware of the great service it performs in time of emergency, whether it be flood, fire, earthquake or other disaster. We in California have seen a very recent demonstration of this service when the Red Cross rendered immediate large-scale assistance to families driven from their homes by the floods in parts of our State.

With the tremendous growth of our armed forces, Red Cross services to our military men at home, on occupation duty, and on the fighting fronts must be greatly expanded. The Red Cross is providing the armed forces with large quantities of blood to save the lives of battle wounded fighting men, in addition to its normal program of providing blood to hospitals and clinics. It also must be prepared to provide vast additional supplies on almost a moment's notice.

In the field of civil defense, the Red Cross is training 20,000,000 persons in first aid - 3,500,000 of them in California - in a program to prepare each family to care for itself insofar as possible in time of emergency. A quarter of a million women throughout the country are being recruited and trained as Red Cross nurses aides, and at least a million more will receive home nursing training.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim March 1, 1951, as opening day of the RED CROSS FUND CAMPAIGN IN CALIFORNIA, and I urge all the people of our State to contribute wholeheartedly to the Red Cross so that this organization so vital to our wellbeing may continue to meet effectively the heavy demands placed upon it.

Diseases of the heart and blood vessels constitute the greatest cause of death in our Nation - a fact long known to the medical profession but not generally understood elsewhere.

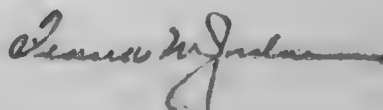

A nationwide effort to remedy this lack of understanding has been undertaken by the American Heart Association. Through a program of research, professional and public education, and community heart services it seeks to develop and spread knowledge of how heart ailments can be prevented and of the modern treatments now available. The California Heart Association has been formed as an affiliate of the national organization to carry on the program in this State.

As we work to protect our American system of free government against those who would destroy it, there is no room for prejudice and bigotry. We can achieve the fullest measure of our potential strength only through tolerance, unity, and teamwork.

With ill will so prevalent in many parts of the world today, we can best serve the cause of peace by adhering firmly to the human principles that have contributed so much to our democracy. We can give encouragement to the oppressed peoples of other lands by working to eliminate divisive forces and influences from our midst and making certain that the seeds of brotherhood are nurtured carefully in every community.

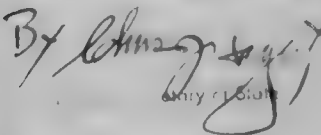

In furtherance of the constructive influences of fellowship and good will, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of February 18 to 25, 1951, as BROTHERHOOD WEEK in California, and I urge that all of the people of our State join in programs which will encourage mutual respect and understanding.

California's tremendous development during its 100 years of statehood has been in large part due to a seeming abundance of natural resources--climate, fertile soil, water, vast forests, and mineral deposits. As we enter our second century of statehood, however, it is increasingly apparent that our sound growth will be dependent upon the extent to which we conserve and replenish these resources. It is only because of conservation programs which we have so far developed that California has been able to adjust itself to the requirements imposed by its phenomenal growth.

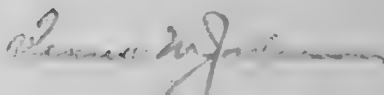

In the year ahead our conservation programs must serve a double purpose. We are again being called upon to draw heavily upon our natural resources to sustain production for national defense needs. At the same time we are having to further develop our State to meet the requirements of increased population. It is essential, therefore, that all of us cooperate in advancing those programs through which our resources can be more fully developed and more efficiently utilized.

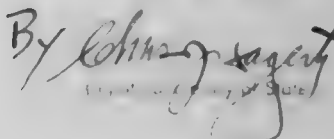

With these thoughts in mind I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of March 7 to 14, 1951, as CONSERVATION WEEK in California. I urge that during this week all of the people of California become familiar with the extent to which the future welfare of our State is dependent upon the success of programs we now have under way to conserve our forests, our agricultural and range lands, our water, our mineral and oil deposits, our beach and mountain recreational facilities, and protect our fish and game life. On the first day of this Week, March 7th, which is observed as Arbor Day, I urge that special attention be given to planting, in the interest of making our State more beautiful and more productive.

PROCLAMATION

Good Friday, observed throughout the Christian world on the anniversary of the crucifixion of Christ, comes this year during a period of grave international stress--a period in which the young men of many nations are dying on the battlefields of Korea and we face the danger of a far greater conflict.

In our efforts to halt aggression and build a society based on brotherhood and good will, rather than hatred and destruction, we turn for inspiration to the example of Christ's life on Earth and His sacrifice upon the Cross. It is in times like these that we have the greatest need for His divine guidance that has outlived all wars.

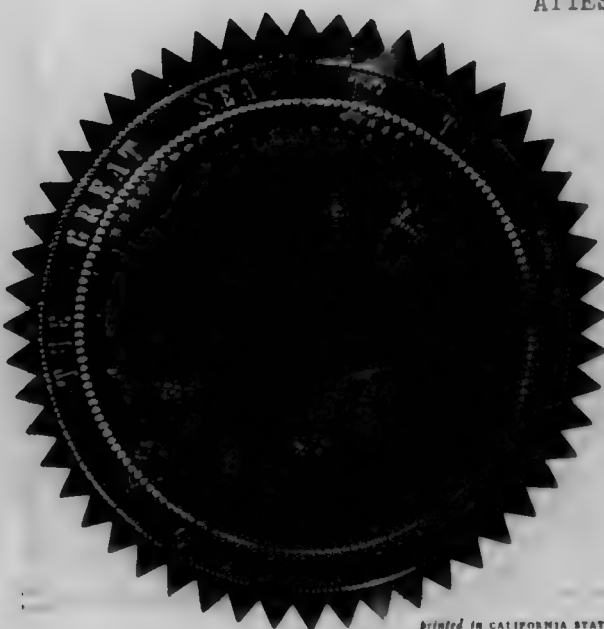

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby urge that Good Friday, March 23, 1951, which by State law is a legal holiday between the hours of 12:00 noon and 3:00 p.m., be observed by all those of the Christian faith in our State as an occasion of spiritual meditation and devotion.

Advertising is something that we take so much for granted in this modern day that we fail to recognize the part it has played in the development of the American economy. Advertising, by creating consumer demand, has made possible our system of mass production, with its benefits of national distribution, uniformity of product, low costs and high wages. It has helped to insure the maintenance of the free press and free radio that have kept Americans better informed than the people of any other nation in the world.

We in California have particular reason to appreciate the tremendous power of advertising, for it has been through advertising that millions of people have learned of our State and the advantages of its climate, its resources and its facilities. Without advertising, the nationwide and worldwide merchandising of many of our famed products would not have been possible, and California's great growth and development of the past 100 years could not have been achieved.

In cooperation with the effort of the advertising industry to bring about more widespread realization of the role of advertising in our daily lives, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period March 25-31, 1951, as ADVERTISING RECOGNITION WEEK in California.

Medical experts tell us that approximately 5,000 of the nearly 15,000 Californians who died of cancer last year could be alive today if the disease had been detected in time. This is a terrible toll of unnecessary death in a state and a nation that have made such great progress in recent years in counteracting the ravages of disease. It means that greater attention on the part of all of us to the symptoms of cancer will pay dividends in reducing the toll of this disease which now is responsible for one of every seven deaths.

The American Cancer Society, through funds contributed by the public, conducts a double-barreled attack on this dread killer--an extensive research program and also a widespread educational campaign to acquaint the public with the need of recognizing the danger signals of cancer. In the interest of finding a cancer preventive or cure, the Society last year spent $17,000,000 of its budget for research purposes. Part of this amount was allocated to universities in our own State for cancer projects.

Because of the importance of insuring the continuation of research and experimentation and bringing about greater public awareness of the symptoms of cancer and the importance of early treatment, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the month of April, 1951, as CANCER CONTROL MONTH in California. I urge the people of California to contribute generously during this month for the support of the important programs of the American Cancer Society.

PROCLAMATION

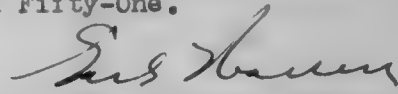

History teaches, and many recent examples in various parts of the world have demonstrated with startling clarity, that freedom such as we cherish cannot long exist without popular understanding and appreciation of individual responsibility.

One of the basic institutions upon which we rely for the furtherance of our American ideals is the public school system. Public schools, by enabling every child to gain a liberal education regardless of station in life, promote recognition of the responsibilities of citizenship and constitute a major bulwark against subversive doctrines.

We in California are proud of the school system that has been developed in our State. Its success has been due to many factors--the interest of mothers and fathers in their children, the cooperative efforts of state and local officials, and the energy and determination of those public spirited men and women who are devoting their lives to the teaching of our children.

The continued progress of our school system requires increased public understanding of the importance of education and the greatest possible encouragement and support of our teachers. To this end, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period April 23rd to 27th, 1951, as PUBLIC SCHOOLS WEEK in California, and I urge that during this Week every citizen visit a public school and become personally acquainted with the work and activities of our public school system.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 17th day of April, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-One.

The American people have more to be grateful for than any other people on the face of the earth. It is important in times such as these that we display our recognition of this fact and express the gratitude that we feel.

It should be apparent to all of us that our freedom and our way of life are being challenged by a worldwide conspiracy. One of the devices used by that conspiracy has been to make May 1st an occasion for demonstrations throughout the world by which the conspirators have attempted to show the scope of their movement.

Americans in every walk of life can help to counteract these efforts. We can show the world on this same day that we have convictions which are equally as firm as those of our forefathers. We can display the same fortitude and determination as the men who established this country and guided its development along lines which have led to its present position of greatness.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim May 1, 1951, as LOYALTY DAY in California. I urge that all Californians join on this day in emphasizing before the world that trying conditions such as we face today, do not weaken us but rather fortify us in our determination that our Nation shall continue to be, as it has always been, a land of freedom and opportunity.

Leaders in the field of mental hygiene tell us that approximately one person in twenty spends some part of his life in a mental hospital and that one in every ten seeks professional help for an emotional problem at some time or another.

On the basis of the many advancements that have been made in the field of mental health, we know that a substantial reduction is possible in the number of persons afflicted with mental ailments. We have seen our mental institutions in California become more and more identified with an atmosphere of hope rather than a shadow of despair. This is due largely to the progress that has been made in the treatment of mental diseases and in shortening the time which many types of patients must spend in institutions. We have seen the establishment of out-patient clinics which have been the means of treating large numbers of people without the necessity of their being confined in an institution or being separated from their homes and families.

No longer is the door of an "insane asylum" shut forever upon victims of mental illness. For every 100 patients now receiving treatment in our modern mental hospitals, more than 70 are turned back to normal productive lives, and even this figure can be bettered.

Medical science cannot do the job alone, however. All of us can help in the prevention of mental illness through our participation in and encouragement of programs which contribute to wholesome conditions in the home, the schoolroom and in community life. Such programs pay great dividends in making it possible for those who might otherwise suffer mental breakdown to live happy, productive and useful lives.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period May 2nd to 8th, 1951, as MENTAL HEALTH WEEK in California. I urge that during this Week all citizens of our State take the opportunity to become more fully aware of the causes of mental illness, the advances being made in its prevention and treatment, and the importance of community cooperation in programs which contribute to its reduction.

PROCLAMATION

In time of international difficulties such as we face today, every American has special reason to be grateful for the rights and privileges he enjoys as a citizen of the United States.

Many Americans take their citizenship for granted. This is seldom the case, however, with those who have recently acquired citizenship, either through naturalization or by reaching the age of majority. Most of these new citizens have given thought to the development of our American heritage and know something of the struggles and sacrifices that were involved in winning the rights and freedoms we now enjoy. Some of them have come from lands where the people have never enjoyed freedom of thought and action and protection against persecution. Others have seen the destruction of democracies whose citizens once enjoyed freedom.

It is imperative for all of us to join with these new citizens in the realization that freedom is not something we can enjoy indefinitely without effort on our part. The protection of our American way of life demands constant vigilance, for there are forces of oppression at work throughout the world to undermine free institutions and the concept of individual liberty.

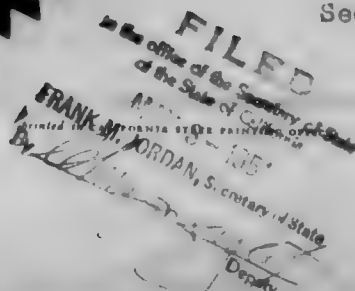

In furtherance of action taken by the Congress and the President, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim May 20, 1951, as "I AM AN AMERICAN" DAY in California. I urge that special observances be held throughout our State on this day in honor of those who have assumed the obligations of citizenship during the past year, and that all citizens of our State take this opportunity to reaffirm their faith in the principles that have made our country great.

White Cane Week is observed throughout the Nation each year as a means of acquainting the public with the problems and needs of the blind. One of its main purposes is to bring about greater public awareness that the bearer of a white cane is a blind person who is entitled to the greatest possible protection from all hazards--particularly the dangers of traffic--which he is unable to see.

The white cane should not, however, be regarded solely as a symbol of dependence. It also is an emblem of courage. In the vast majority of cases it is carried by a person who is anxious to make his own way in the world. With modern training methods, blind persons can become self-supporting in a wide variety of occupations and skills. Many are capably performing production jobs in our national defense program.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of May 15th to 21st, 1951, as WHITE CANE WEEK in California. I urge that during this week all the people of our State cooperate with the California Council for the Blind and the National Federation of the Blind in programs to improve the general welfare of blind persons.

Armed Forces Day will be observed throughout the Nation on May 19th, by designation of the President and the Congress, as a means of honoring all of the military services of our country--Army, Navy, Marines, and Air Force, and also their reserve units and the National Guard.

The spirit in which the various military services have joined together for the observance of this Day is typical of the fine cooperation which has contributed so much to our achievements on the fighting fronts of Korea. The cost in casualties of our successes in Korea, terrible though it has been, is undoubtedly far less than it might have been without this cooperation among services.

It is imperative that we on the home front give our full support to the men and women who are suffering untold danger and hardship in Korea. We should be willing to make any needed sacrifice for the successful prosecution of our defense production program, upon which our armed forces are so dependent in meeting the ever present threat of international communism.

It is also most appropriate on Armed Forces Day that we express our thanks to the veterans who have contributed to the achievement of victory in previous wars in which our Nation has engaged, and to the men and women in the civilian components of the armed forces--the Reserve and the National Guard. Many of them are now serving on active duty for the second time in six years.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim May 19, 1951, as ARMED FORCES DAY in California, and I urge that this Day be observed throughout California by appropriate public ceremonies, by the display of the national colors, and by visits of our people to armed forces installations where "open house" is held.

May 22nd has been designated by Congress and is proclaimed by the President each year as National Maritime Day, commemorating the first trans-Atlantic voyage by a steam-propelled vessel, the American flagship Savannah, in 1819. The week containing this day is observed throughout the country as World Trade Week.

Even if our experience in World War II were not conclusive, the lesson of the present situation in Korea should leave no doubt of the necessity for maintaining at all times a strong Merchant Marine. It should now be all the more apparent that the best interests of our Nation require the maintenance on the Pacific Coast of a basic shipbuilding industry that is capable of rapid expansion as needed.

In all the urgency of the national defense program, however, we must not forget that the Merchant Marine is also an important instrumentality in our normal peacetime economy. California has a vital interest in the development of world trade for much of our State's progress is dependent upon the movement of industrial and agricultural products through our ports.

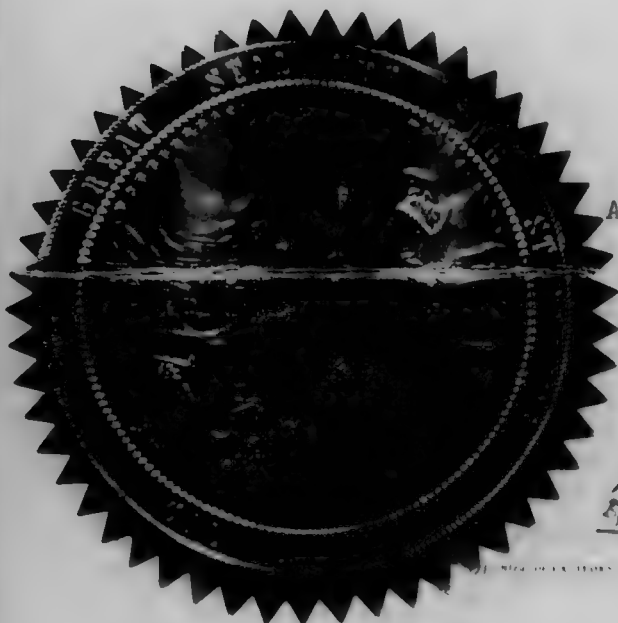

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim May 22, 1951, as MARITIME DAY in California, and the week of May 20 to 26, 1951, as WORLD TRADE WEEK, and urge the people of our State to become better acquainted with our great dependence upon our Merchant Marine, in peace as well as in war, and the importance of world commerce in our economy.

Because of the trying times we are passing through and because of the danger to freedom throughout the world, it is most appropriate that in our 175th anniversary observance of Independence Day we recognize the basic religious principles on which our Nation was founded.

The framers of the Declaration of Independence clearly expressed their spiritual faith and saw to it that our Nation in its early days was firmly established on the basis of Freedom Under God. In the immortal words of the Preamble, it is stated:

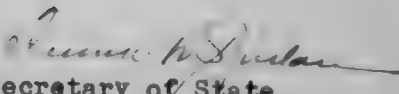

"We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness."

In furtherance of a national movement to bring about a greater awareness of the religious foundations of our freedom, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby designate the week of June 30th to July 6th, 1951, as INDEPENDENCE WEEK. I urge that during this period there be appropriate religious and civic observances and that the people of our State reflect upon the blessings we enjoy through Freedom Under God.

PROCLAMATION

We in California, with the completion of the basic features of the Central Valley Project, are about to see the fulfillment of a dream. This great project, authorized by the voters of California at an election in 1933, has been constructed by the Federal Government at a cost of $400,000,000. It will provide flood control for the Sacramento Valley area, power and water for Northern California communities and supplemental water for a million acres of fertile lands in the San Joaquin Valley. It involves the longest mass movement of water ever achieved by man.

Everyone familiar with California's growth during its first century of statehood knows of its complete dependence upon water. Its agricultural growth began with the development of small irrigation districts and community projects. Its industrial growth began with the development of hydro-electric power. With each succeeding decade larger and larger projects have been required, until today we have reached a point where there is little remaining water capable of development except through the construction of tremendous multiple-purpose projects. Such a project is the Central Valley Project. It is one of the greatest multiple-purpose projects in the Nation and as such incorporates the hopes and ambitions of hundreds of California communities.

The first movement of Central Valley Project water through its full 500-mile route from Shasta Dam to Bakersfield will occur during the period August 1st to August 10th, and all along its path there will be community observances to mark its daily progress. The final linking of the project's water transmission network will be achieved on August 4th with the throwing of a switch at the giant Tracy Pumping Plant. There, tremendous pumps will lift Sacramento River water 200 feet and start it on its way to the dry lands farther South.

The project is one of the greatest advances that has been made in the history of our State. It gives us new hope as we enter our second century of statehood--a century in which we know that our continued growth will require the conservation of every drop of water that falls in our State for every useful purpose that water can serve. With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, hereby proclaim August 1st to 10th, 1951, as CENTRAL VALLEY WATER FESTIVAL DAYS, and I urge all Californians to participate wholeheartedly in the many community observances being held during this period.

ENDING OF EMERGENCY

I, Earl Warren, pursuant to power vested in me as Governor of the State of California, find that the foregoing sheep scabies regulation is necessary for the immediate preservation of the safety and general welfare of the public and that compliance with the provisions of the Government Code thereon is unnecessary, and contrary to the public interest, and therefore adopt the foregoing as an emergency regulation to take effect immediately upon the filing of the same with the Secretary of State.

The Director of Agriculture, State of California, has advised me for the treatment of sheep with a dip (No. 1) which requires only one treatment. It is necessary to use it warm resulting in a saving of money to producers in safeguarding the sheep. Since large numbers of sheep are expected to be brought into this state immediately, it is desirable that the regulation be made effective upon the filing of the same with the Secretary of State.

PROCLAMATION

A most important contribution to the achievement of our Nation's independence was made by General Friedrich Wilhelm von Steuben, Prussian military expert, who joined the struggling Continental Army during the dark days of Valley Forge.

As the first Inspector General of the Army, he was instrumental in strengthening the discipline and training of our forces and contributed tremendously to their subsequent victory. Following the end of the war, General von Steuben stayed on as a resident of our newly founded Nation until his death in 1794.

In accordance with a Concurrent Resolution adopted by the Senate and Assembly of the California Legislature, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim September 17, 1951, the 221st anniversary of the birth of General Friedrich Wilhelm von Steuben, as STEUBEN DAY in California and urge the people of our State to join in observances being held on that day in his honor.

PROCLAMATION

One of the most inspiring stories in all of the colorful history of California is the account of its discovery by Juan Rodrigues Cabrillo. In 1542, this great Portuguese explorer became the first European to set foot in what is now our State.

When Cabrillo sailed into San Diego Bay he was looking for a northern passage which supposedly joined the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans. Although he never found the passage he sought, his discovery of California was an achievement great in itself. He was the first of many men of vision--representing many nations--who helped to lay the foundation for the great western migration that is continuing even today.

Cabrillo's voyage involved great hardships and tested his endurance and courage. By sheer determination, though sorely injured, he guided his vessels northward until his expedition reached a point beyond the Farallones. Even as death overtook him, he directed that his mission be completed before sails were set for home.

In cooperation with the program of the Cabrillo Civic Clubs of California to observe the 409th anniversary of Cabrillo's arrival in California, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim September 28th, 1951, as CABRILLO DAY, and I urge all people of our State to participate in observances planned for that day in honor of this early-day explorer.

PROCLAMATION

In the troubled world in which we live today, we must keep ever in mind that the greatest hope we have for the future lies in our youth. It is, therefore, of the utmost importance that the training and guidance we give our children are the best it is possible to give them.

Parent-Teacher Associations in communities throughout our State have made a major contribution to this end by providing the means for all-important cooperation and consultation between parents and teachers. Such Associations have for more than 50 years been among the foremost agencies in the development of programs for the building of character, for community leadership, and for developing and maintaining the high educational standards in which we in California take such pride.

Problems confronting the Parent-Teacher Associations have been multiplied during recent years by California's tremendous gain in population and the resulting extremely heavy demands upon our school system. The local associations, and their statewide organization, the California Congress of Parents and Teachers, have given outstanding assistance in planning and carrying out the vast expansion of school programs and facilities required to meet our ever-increasing needs.

To promote a better understanding of the important civic functions performed by the Parent-Teacher Associations of our State, and by the California Congress of Parents and Teachers, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period October 7th through 13th, 1951, as PARENT-TEACHER WEEK in California, and urge that all Californians acquaint themselves with the Parent-Teacher program and its many accomplishments in the molding of good citizens.

PROCLAMATION

In these days when the forces of oppression are probing continually to find weaknesses in the free nations of the world, we have daily reason to be grateful for the vision of the men who drafted the Constitution of the United States of America.

Conceived 164 years ago, our Constitution is the product of centuries of struggle for freedom and the bitter lessons learned from the grinding oppression of a tyrannical sovereign. From these lessons were developed the basic guarantees of freedom and equality upon which our system of government is based.

We who have enjoyed the fruits of these guarantees are prone to accept them as our birthright. We must recognize, however, that they will be ours only so long as we vigilantly protect them. The continuance of our way of life and the hopes of freedom-loving people everywhere depend upon our successfully resisting all attempts to belittle or destroy the safeguards contained in our Constitution.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim September 17th, 1951, as CONSTITUTION DAY in California, and urge the people of our State to seek a broader understanding of this fundamental document from which stems our Nation's greatness.

PROCLAMATION

Continuance of our Nation as a powerful force for freedom in the world requires that all our people--both men and women--do their full part in meeting their responsibilities as citizens.

The California Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs has taken the lead in demonstrating ways in which women throughout the State can make their contribution to better citizenship. As a means of bringing about public awareness of the part which women can play in the daily economic life of our Nation, they have sponsored the annual observance of Business Women's Week. This year they have selected as their theme the slogan "Full Partnership for the Job Ahead."

In furtherance of this program, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period September 23rd through 29th, 1951, as BUSINESS WOMEN'S WEEK in California, and I urge that during this period emphasis be given to the need for all Californians to work together for the continued progress of our State and Nation.

PROCLAMATION

In the light of recent international events, our cherished right of freedom of the press takes on added importance. For as we consider the ugly pattern of aggression by forces seeking to dominate the world, we find that the gagging of the press is invariably a prelude to the destruction of free government.

We have reason to take pride in the alert and vigorous press that has been built up in our Nation under our traditional freedom of thought and expression. We cannot, however, assume that it will always be that way. In our own hemisphere, we have witnessed the death of La Prensa, one of the world's great newspapers. Elsewhere, we have seen the perils that beset the men and women of our free press in their pursuit of the truth. We have the example of William N. Oatis, now incarcerated behind the Iron Curtain in a mockery of justice by oppressors who know that the printing of the truth interferes with their aim to destroy individual rights and freedom.

In view of these and other disturbing events in the world today, it is appropriate that the slogan "Your Newspaper Lights the Way of Freedom" has been selected for the 12th annual observance of National Newspaper Week. In cooperation with this program of the free press of our Nation, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period October 1st to 8th, 1951, as NEWSPAPER WEEK in California. I urge that all the people of our State take the opportunity during this period to become more familiar with the services and facilities offered by their community newspapers and their contribution to the preservation of our way of life.

PROCLAMATION

California has been called upon to shoulder tremendous responsibilities in our national defense program--responsibilities that require full utilization of all our available resources. One of the resources that it has been proven can be used to advantage during this critical period is the large pool of potential manpower among physically handicapped persons.

The physically handicapped have demonstrated over and over again that when placed in employment for which they are suited by natural aptitude and special training they consistently equal, and frequently surpass, their unhandicapped fellow workers. The handicapped constitute a highly desirable manpower source at any time. To overlook their usefulness in time of crisis is to ignore a valuable asset in our economy.

Our program for rehabilitation and utilization of physically handicapped persons is doubly important now because of our responsibility to the men fighting in Korea. Eighty percent of the American soldiers disabled in that conflict are under 20 years of age and few of them have had previous work experience. These young men come home with hope for the future in their hearts, because they know of our past achievements in training disabled war veterans for useful, productive lives. We must redouble our efforts to develop job opportunities for them so that their hope will not be in vain.

National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week, by Act of Congress and Proclamation of the President, will be observed throughout the Nation during the second week of October. In accordance with this program, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period October 7th to 14th, 1951, as EMPLOY THE PHYSICALLY HANDICAPPED WEEK IN CALIFORNIA. I urge that maximum attention be given to the achievements and abilities of handicapped citizens, not only during this week but throughout the year.

PROCLAMATION

National Fire Prevention Week, dedicated to alerting the public to opportunities for saving lives and avoiding needless destruction by fire, will be observed this year during the week beginning October 7th.

Between 11,000 and 12,000 persons lose their lives to fire every year in the United States and about 94 per cent of these fatalities occur in the home. The heaviest loss of life is among children under the age of five and persons over the age of sixty-five. In addition, nearly a billion dollars worth of our natural and created resources are destroyed annually by fires. We Californians are keenly aware of this destruction since every year we suffer millions of dollars of loss in timber and grassland fires.

Fire prevention and protection also are vital parts of our Civil Defense program. Our past fire losses, appalling though they have been, are but a fraction of what we might expect should saboteurs begin operating in our communities or should showers of fire bombs be released on our cities.

With these thoughts in mind, and in support of the National Fire Prevention program, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period October 7 to 13, 1951, as FIRE PREVENTION WEEK in California and I urge that in addition to the special observances and programs planned for this particular week that thought and effort be directed throughout the year to means for preventing the great waste caused by fire.

October 15th of each year is observed throughout the Nation as Poetry Day for the purpose of calling public attention to the accomplishments of poets and the beauty and inspiration inherent in good poetry.

Poets have added richness to history by recording their impressions of life as they saw it. Because of their efforts, we have available to us the personal thoughts, the deep feelings, the accomplishments and the tribulations in mankind's advancement through the ages.

By directing the spotlight of public attention on social injustices, poetry has been a factor in the gradual rise of freedom and equality among the peoples of the world. It has had its part in the development of our Nation by giving expression to such basic sentiments as devotion to God, love of country, and the joys and trials of daily life.

In the interest of encouraging public appreciation of poetry, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim October 15, 1951, as POETRY DAY in California, and I urge all Californians to join in this observance.

PROCLAMATION

October 24th, 1951, will be the sixth anniversary of the founding of the United Nations. Since 1945 when this organization was formed in our own city of San Francisco we have experienced both encouragement and setbacks in our international relationships. We have seen great progress in the solution of many world problems. At the same time, we have seen the outbreak of ferocious fighting in Korea and serious developments in many other parts of the world which contain the threat of a new world war.

Although the forces of communism have made it impossible for the United Nations to realize all of the high hopes held for it when its charter was signed, the necessity for such an organization has been clearly established. The United Nations, including in its membership the world's principal nations, provides the only forum available to us for the settlement of international controversies and thus is our greatest hope for the eventual achievement of lasting world peace.

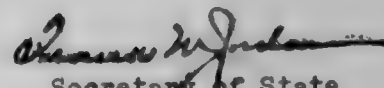

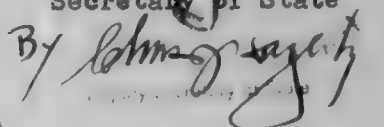

In these cloudy and uncertain days, it is important for those who are striving for world peace to have faith in the ultimate triumph of right. Such a faith encompasses faith in God, faith in ourselves, faith in the cause of peace, and in the instrumentality we have built to achieve it--the United Nations.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim October 24th, 1951, as UNITED NATIONS DAY in California. I urge that on this Day appropriate programs be conducted in our schools and elsewhere to acquaint the people of our State with the principles and objectives of the United Nations and to give recognition to its accomplishments in the first six years of its existence.

PROCLAMATION

News reports from Korea tell us daily of the great sacrifices being made by our servicemen on the fighting fronts. The casualties of "Heartbreak Ridge" and dozens of similar engagements, and the suffering involved in each ship or plane load of casualties returning to our shores are heralded in the headlines and of course draw our attention and sympathy. We must make sure, however, that the passage of time does not cause us to forget the tremendous debt we owe these young men, and others like them in other wars, who gave of their blood for the defense of our Nation.

Many of those who have received battle wounds are permanently disabled and must be cared for in veterans hospitals for the remainder of their lives. Others must receive hospital care at frequent intervals and can be only partially restored to the normal life they formerly enjoyed.

On November 10th and 11th, representatives of Disabled American Veterans chapters in California will conduct their annual sale of forget-me-nots, to help finance that organization's numerous services to disabled veterans. Accordingly, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim November 10th and 11th, 1951, as FORGET-ME-NOT DAYS, and I urge the people of our State to buy and wear these tokens as an expression of appreciation to those who have given so much.

PROCLAMATION

Thanksgiving Day is one of the oldest and most significant of our American traditions. It extends back more than three centuries to the simple ceremony of a small group of Pilgrims who, having struggled successfully through their first year in the new world, paused to give thanks to Almighty God for the bounty of their first harvest.

Like the Pilgrims, we have reason individually and nationally to express our thankfulness for the blessings we have received from our Heavenly Father. High among these blessings are the unity and understanding which have kept our Nation strong and vigorous, and the vast production of our farms and industrial plants which has made it possible for our Nation to become a major force for the preservation of freedom in the world.

Thanksgiving Day should be for all of us an occasion for religious consecration and rededication to the ideals and principles which have guided the development of our Nation. In our Thanksgiving observances this year let us pray for an increased willingness among all the nations of the world to work for a lasting peace. And let us pray for an early and successful conclusion to the fighting in Korea--the cause of such great sacrifice by our servicemen on the battlefields and so many heartaches for those of us at home who anxiously await their safe return.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Thursday, November 22nd, 1951, as THANKSGIVING DAY in California, and I urge all Californians to join in observances in church and home in grateful recognition of the blessings we enjoy as Americans.

The annual March of Dimes campaign which will be held throughout the month of January offers the opportunity for all of us to join in the fight against infantile paralysis. This is a disease that strikes without warning and kills or cripples thousands of men, women and children each year.

The March of Dimes makes it possible for every infantile paralysis patient in the Nation to obtain the best available medical care--very expensive care over a long period of time--which only a few could otherwise afford. In the last four years the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has spent $79,000,000 of March of Dimes funds in direct payments for care of patients. Its efforts have saved the lives of countless polio victims.

In addition to paying the cost of treatment in thousands of individual cases, March of Dimes contributions help to finance research programs which have made possible great progress in the treatment of infantile paralysis and which can be the means of eventually eradicating this terrible disease from our homes.

It is of the utmost importance that Californians contribute generously, for our State has had in 1951 its second worst year in the number of infantile paralysis cases. California has exceeded 3,000 cases, an increase of more than 1,000 over the preceding year. Because of this heavy load, it has been necessary for the National Foundation to advance $1,000,000 to California chapters to augment local funds being spent for care and treatment of polio patients.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Wednesday, January 2nd, 1952, as the opening day of the MARCH OF DIMES campaign in our State, and I urge that all Californians contribute their dimes--and their dollars--during the month of January to make this important campaign an outstanding success.

High in the ranks of those who have made important contributions to the advancement of our Nation stands the name of Dr. George Washington Carver. Born in slavery and faced with obstacles that would have discouraged most men, he rose to eminence as a scientist and educator. His life is an example of fortitude and accomplishment for all Americans.

For more than 40 years Dr. Carver worked unceasingly to develop Tuskegee Institute into one of the Nation's great educational institutions. His accomplishments in chemical and agricultural research made it possible for hundreds of thousands of Americans to rise from the depths of poverty to a more plentiful life. Men of every race and creed have benefited from his scientific genius.

In furtherance of a nationwide program to honor the memory of Dr. Carver on the anniversary of his death nine years ago, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim January 5th, 1952, as GEORGE WASHINGTON CARVER DAY in California, and I urge that the people of our State share in the inspiration which can be derived from his great record of accomplishment.

During the earlier period of California's development the great natural resources of our State seemed practically inexhaustible, and their waste was often ignored. In recent years, however, we have experienced the tremendous drain on all of our resources caused by World War II and the unprecedented growth which has made California the second most populous state of the Union.

Today we recognize that the very future of our State depends upon the manner in which we conserve and replenish these resources. We must prepare for continuing rapid growth and at the same time meet the increasing demands of our Nation's defense production program. We find we can no longer tolerate waste or misuse of our water, our forests, our agricultural and range lands, our oil and mineral deposits, our wildlife and our recreational areas. We must cooperate in the furtherance of conservation programs through which our resources can be more fully developed and more efficiently utilized.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period March 7 - 14, 1952, as CONSERVATION WEEK in California, and I urge that during this period all Californians consider how much we depend upon our natural resources in the daily life of our State.

On the first day of this Week, March 7th, which is observed as Arbor Day, I urge that special attention be given to planting so that our State may be made more beautiful and more productive.

PROCLAMATION

The building of California to its present position as the second ranking state of the Nation has been accomplished by the cooperative efforts of people of all creeds, races and national origins. Successive generations of Californians have lived and worked together in as fine a spirit of brotherhood as is to be found anywhere on the Earth today.

The presence of ill will in so many other parts of the world gives emphasis to the need for closer adherence to the principles of brotherhood in the relationships of people everywhere. In fact, our hopes for permanent peace depend in large measure upon the degree to which mankind can replace bitterness, prejudice and fear with the constructive influences of friendship and good will.

To further the understanding of the importance of these principles, the National Conference of Christians and Jews sponsors throughout the Nation each year the observance of Brotherhood Week. In keeping with the purposes of this program, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period February 17 - 24, 1952, as BROTHERHOOD WEEK in California, and I urge all the people of our State to cooperate in observances and programs which will help to promote tolerance and good will.

Advertising has played an important part in the development of the high standard of living we enjoy in America--a standard of living that is a source of wonderment to less fortunate people in many other parts of the world.

By creating consumer demand, advertising has made possible our American system of mass production with its benefits of uniformity of production, low unit cost and high wages. It has been an important factor in the preservation of our free press and free radio, which are the mainstays of a free nation.

Here in California we have particular reason to be appreciative of the power of advertising. By calling the attention of the nation and the world to the vast resources and opportunities of our State and the products of its farms and factories, advertising has contributed tremendously to California's growth and development into the second largest state of the Union.

In conjunction with the effort of the advertising industry to create a more widespread understanding of the importance of advertising in our economy, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period February 17 - 23, 1952, as ADVERTISING RECOGNITION WEEK in California.

Through the years the American people have come to depend upon the American Red Cross in time of emergency. It is the agency we know to be prepared to deal with disaster or distress, whether it involves only a single family or requires the mobilization of vast relief facilities at the scene of a major catastrophe.

The Red Cross has also undertaken heavy obligations in connection with our national defense program and the rebuilding of our armed forces. It provides the facilities for collecting and delivering to the fighting fronts the whole blood and blood plasma that have helped to reduce the death rate among our war wounded to an all-time low.

Funds for the Red Cross program are obtained entirely through voluntary contributions and therefore the responsibility falls upon all of us to make sure that its widespread network of service shall continue to be instantly available, wherever and whenever the need arises.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim March 1, 1952, as opening day of the RED CROSS FUND CAMPAIGN in California, and I urge all Californians to respond generously and wholeheartedly to insure its outstanding success.

The Girl Scouts of the United States of America have, since the founding of the organization on March 12, 1912, given guidance and inspiration to millions of girls throughout the Nation. The organization has grown to the point where its enrollment includes at the present time nearly 1,500,000 girls and 400,000 adult leaders.

The programs of the Girl Scouts serve a great American need by giving emphasis to the rights, privileges and obligations of American citizenship and helping to develop wholesome community life. Its activities are of the greatest value in preparing youth for the responsibilities of adult life.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim March 12, 1952, the 40th anniversary of the Girl Scouts of the United States of America, as GIRL SCOUT DAY in California. I urge all Californians to cooperate to the fullest extent in the furtherance of the Girl Scout movement so that increasing numbers of girls may benefit by the experience of being a part of it.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 23rd day of February, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-Two.

Libraries play an important part in our daily life by making readily available informational, inspirational and recreational resources for people of all ages.

In our libraries we find full freedom of information -- one of the fundamentals of free government. They are the source of current expression on all sides of the issues of today, as well as repositories of the great writings of history. They are a major factor in the educational process in opening up to our students a vast store of information which cannot be obtained elsewhere. In helping to build an informed citizenry, they contribute directly to the welfare of our communities, our State and our Nation.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period March 10 - 16, 1952, as LIBRARY WEEK in California, and I urge all people of our State to visit their libraries during this period and to become more familiar with the great variety of materials and services they offer.

Cancer took the lives of nearly 15,000 Californians last year. Medical experts tell us that with early recognition and prompt treatment at least one-third and possibly half of this number could have been saved.

During April the American Cancer Society will conduct its annual campaign for funds to carry on its continuing crusade against this dread disease. It is a campaign that affects the welfare of every American, for no one knows where cancer will strike next.

The Society supports the work of many brilliant scientists in an intensive cancer research program--a program which may be the means of unlocking the secret of cancer's cause and of finding a preventive or cure. In the last five years the Society has spent $1,000,000 on research programs in California alone. It also carries on a widespread educational campaign to acquaint the public with the need for recognizing the danger signals of cancer.

In support of these important objectives, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim April, 1952, as CANCER CONTROL MONTH in California, and I urge all of the people of our State to give their fullest possible support to efforts of the American Cancer Society to combat and control cancer.

It is traditional during the Holy Week for those of the Christian faith throughout the world to observe Good Friday as a day of meditation and prayer in remembrance of Christ's sacrifice upon the cross.

In this year of world turmoil, with the young men of many nations still fighting and dying in Korea, and with the constant threat of a new world war, we have the greatest need for His divine guidance. The example of His life on Earth and His sacrifice upon the cross should give us inspiration in our efforts to bring about a lasting peace and to build a society that is based upon brotherhood and good will.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby urge that GOOD FRIDAY, April 11, 1952, which by State law is a holiday between the hours of 12:00 noon and 3:00 p.m., be the occasion for spiritual meditation and devotion by all those of the Christian faith in our State.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 4th day of April, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-Two.

One of the great and basic institutions upon which we rely for the furtherance of our American ideals is our public school system. It is the birthright of every American to attend our public schools and to there acquire the essentials for making an honorable living, as well as an understanding of the reciprocal privileges and responsibilities of American citizenship, the advantages of our way of life, and the place of our country in the world.

We in California are proud of the school system that has been developed in our State. We like to believe that the opportunities afforded our children for sound basic education are not excelled anywhere. If we are justified in this conclusion it is only because the people of our State have shown a personal interest in education and because public spirited men and women have been willing to devote their lives to the teaching of youth.

Our school system can meet the objectives expected of it only when there is widespread public understanding of our schools and the type of education they provide. This kind of understanding can best be developed by the intimate knowledge that comes from inspecting the school houses, knowing the teachers and seeing the work of the pupils.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of April 28 - May 2, 1952, as PUBLIC SCHOOLS WEEK in California, and I urge every citizen to visit at least one public school during this period and to become personally acquainted with the programs and accomplishments of our educational system.

As communicable disease comes more and more under control, mental illness emerges as one of our greatest public health problems. Statistics show us that one person in every twenty will spend some part of his life in a mental hospital. In California, one person enters a State mental hospital every thirty-five minutes.

But, unlike the days when a mental hospital was a place of despair where custody only was provided, now the doors work both ways. Medical science has made great strides in the treatment of mental illnesses. Today the majority of mentally ill patients recover. In California, seven of every ten are eventually released and the average time for treatment is just over four months. And there is hope for greater progress. Research continues to throw new light on the causes of mental illness, to develop new modes of treatment, and to suggest new means of prevention. Our application of this knowledge will be more rapid if our citizens know and understand what can be done.

We cannot inoculate ourselves against mental illness, but we can work toward providing the healthiest environment in our homes, our jobs, our schools, and in our relationships with people.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period May 4th through 10th, 1952, as MENTAL HEALTH WEEK in California. I urge that during this week all citizens of our State take advantage of the opportunities being offered to learn about our programs and to participate in community mental health activities.

To emphasize the importance of United States participation in the XVth Olympiad at Helsinki, Finland, the week of May 18 to 25, 1952, has been designated as National Olympic Week.

Many California men and women will have the honor of representing the United States at the Olympic Games from July 19 to August 3, 1952. They and their teammates will constitute our Nation's unofficial ambassadors of freedom and good will to this traditional sports gathering of more than seventy nations, whose principal aim is the fostering of better international understanding through the universal medium of youth's love of athletics.

The present grave international situation makes theirs a responsibility seldom borne before by Olympic athletes. The fine competitive spirit and outstanding qualities of chivalry and friendship which I am confident our athletes will demonstrate will add prestige to our Nation.

It is to the best interest of our Nation, therefore, that we present as strong and complete Olympic Teams as possible. To do this requires the raising of funds through public contribution and other means to equip, quarter and furnish subsistence to our athletes.

FRANK M. WHITMAN, Secretary of State

By resolution of Congress, and by Presidential proclamation, May 22nd has been designated as National Maritime Day to commemorate the first crossing of the Atlantic by a steam-propelled vessel, the American flagship Savannah, in 1819. The week containing this day is observed throughout the country as World Trade Week.

In California these events have particular significance because of our long established position as the gateway to the Far East and other ports of the vast Pacific. Ever since California became a State, world trade has figured heavily in its economy, and with our great growth agriculturally and industrially, we have entered an even more promising era as a supplier of world markets.

To keep pace with our expanding world-wide commitments in foreign trade, supply for our far-flung military forces, and aid to our allies in the resistance to communistic aggression, we must maintain a strong Merchant Marine, backed by a rapidly expandable shipbuilding industry. In California we have the facilities and men to maintain and build the ships needed to keep our merchant fleet in a state of readiness.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim May 22, 1952, as MARITIME DAY in California, and the week of May 19 to 24, 1952, as WORLD TRADE WEEK.

The profession of teaching carries with it some of the gravest responsibilities and at the same time some of the greatest satisfactions of our modern society.

Upon the teachers in our schools is imposed the highly important duty of molding youthful character. The foundation they establish has much to do with determining the kind of citizens which the members of our rising generation will be as adults. It is the teacher who provides the initial inspiration needed for the protection and advancement of our American ideals. Certainly no other profession yields the personal satisfaction that comes to the teacher from the development of human personality and from helping boys and girls to acquire the standard of values by which they will live in later years.

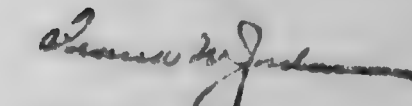

It is important that we interest greater numbers of young people in the opportunities offered in the teaching field, if we are to meet the needs arising from the extremely rapid growth of our State and our constantly increasing school population. Otherwise, we cannot satisfactorily staff our thousands of new classrooms or provide suitable replacements in those we already have.

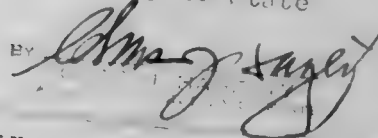

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim June 1, 1952, as TEACHERS' DAY in California and the period June 1st to 7th as TEACHERS' WEEK. I urge that during this period all citizens of our State become more familiar with the accomplishments of our teachers and the opportunities offered by teaching as a career for young men and women.

This year we observe the 175th anniversary of the adoption by the Continental Congress of the Stars and Stripes as the national emblem of the United States.

Through all the years, since its birth on June 14, 1777, the Flag has been an inspiring symbol of the sacrifices made by our founding fathers in establishing our free Nation. In more recent years it has become a symbol of hope for freedom loving people everywhere. It is a source of strength to us as we resist the efforts of the forces of oppression which have already enslaved vast numbers of once free people and which seek to rule the world.

As we honor the Flag on its anniversary, let us realize that a nation is no stronger than the spirit of its people. The Flag and the nation it represents can move forward only through the vital force of a virile citizenship -- the kind of citizenship needed to counteract the march of totalitarianism and bring about lasting world peace.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Saturday, June 14, 1952, as FLAG DAY in California, and I urge that the Flag of the United States be flown from every home, public building and business establishment as a demonstration of our devotion to the principles of freedom which it represents.

To emphasize the importance of safety in agricultural operations, the week of July 20th to 26th has been proclaimed by the President as National Farm Safety Week.

The need for accelerated accident prevention measures on California farms is clearly indicated by a six percent increase in agricultural work injuries in our State last year. Farm leaders throughout the State, working through a series of county committees, have taken the initiative in safety programs seeking to counteract this trend.

I am confident that with added emphasis among farmers and farm employees on proper safeguards in farming operations and use of farm equipment, our State's agricultural accident record can be substantially improved.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period July 20 to 26, 1952, as FARM SAFETY WEEK in California. I urge that all of California's rural residents give constant attention to safety measures on our farms, not only during this period but throughout the year.

One of our country's greatest sources of strength is its tremendous capacity for production. It is a strength that the world recognizes and aggressors fear--a strength that is capable of serving equally well the needs of war or the needs of peace.

Essential to the development of such strength is the freedom which working people have under our American system to organize themselves and to have the status of full partnership on the production team.

One of the symbols of labor's accomplishments is the union label. It is labor's means of identifying itself and it has become widely recognized as an indication of a better product or service. It is testimony that the product was produced or the service rendered under conditions that contribute to the continued advancement of our Nation.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim September 1, 1952, as LABOR DAY in California, and September 1 - 7, 1952, as UNION LABEL WEEK. In doing so, I urge that the people of our State make themselves more fully aware of the contribution which organized labor has made and is continuing to make to our national welfare.

AUTHORITY: Section 211 Agricultural Code, State of California.

Determination of Director of Agriculture

It has been determined by the Director of Agriculture of the State of California that the infectious diseases known as scabies of sheep exists in the States of Colorado, Indiana, and Pennsylvania and that importation of sheep from those States into California might spread such disease among sheep within California.

It is, therefore, necessary for the protection of the sheep industry of this State that the States of Colorado, Indiana, and Pennsylvania be added to the list of States in which the disease is known to exist and that sheep therefrom be subjected to the restrictions on sheep applying to infected areas as set forth in the regulation hereby amended.

It has been determined by the Director of Agriculture of the State of California that the infectious disease known as scabies of sheep no longer exists in the States of New Mexico, South Dakota, and West Virginia, and importation of sheep from these States into California is not considered as capable of spreading such disease among sheep within California; and, therefore, the States of New Mexico, South Dakota, and West Virginia should be removed from the list of States in which the disease is known to exist.

This proclamation amends the proclamation restricting the entry of sheep into California issued by the Governor, April 6, 1951, and amended April 19, 1951, August 13, 1951, and November 7, 1951, and shall revise paragraph (c) of Section 760 of the California Administrative Code to read as follows:

DECLARATION OF EMERGENCY

I, Earl Warren, pursuant to power vested in me as Governor of the State of California, find that the foregoing sheep scabies regulation is necessary for the immediate preservation of the safety and general welfare of the public and that compliance with the notice and public procedure of the Government Code hereon is impracticable, unnecessary, and contrary to the public interest, and therefore adopt the foregoing as an emergency regulation to take effect immediately upon the filing of the same with the Secretary of State.

The Director of Agriculture advises that the infectious disease known as scabies of sheep has just been reported by the United States Bureau of Animal Industry as existing in the States of Colorado, Indiana, and Pennsylvania. Due to lack of authority in existing laws to require the application of safety measures at origin, sheep which have been exposed to the disease are arriving in California from these States, where this serious disease is now known to occur, without required dipping prior to entry into California. This may be the means of introducing the disease before adequate precautions can be taken to safeguard the sheep industry of California. It is necessary, therefore, that this regulation be made effective as soon as possible.

PROCLAMATION

"I Am An American" Day has for many years been observed throughout our Nation as the occasion for re-emphasizing our devotion to the principles which have made our Nation great. It is an occasion on which we honor our new citizens -- both those who have attained citizenship through naturalization and those of our youth who have reached the age of majority.

Those who have only recently acquired citizenship are probably the most appreciative of its blessings. They have had reason to give thought to the development of our American heritage, and have become familiar with the struggles and sacrifices that were involved in winning the freedom we now enjoy. Some of our newly naturalized citizens have come from lands where people have never known such freedom. Others have seen the destruction of democracies which once were free but have had that freedom taken from them.

As we welcome these new citizens, let us assure them that they have a place in our efforts as a united people to resist the powerful forces that are constantly striving to undermine and destroy the free institutions of our Nation. Only through concerted effort and by exercising the greatest vigilance can we be sure that evil schemes of aggressors bent upon world domination cannot be successful here.

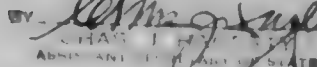

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, in accordance with action taken by the California Legislature at its 1952 session, do hereby proclaim Sunday, September 14, 1952, as "I AM AN AMERICAN" DAY in California. I urge that public observances be held throughout our State on this Day, and that all Californians take the opportunity to give thanks for the rights and privileges they enjoy as citizens of the United States of America.

PROCLAMATION

California, because of its growth during recent years, has gained a place of new importance and new responsibility in national elections. At no time in its history have its voters been in a position to wield greater influence upon national and international decisions than they will be at the elections this November.

In view of the predicament in which our Nation finds itself today, and the consequent need for a maximum outpouring of voters in November, it is important that attention be given during the next few weeks to qualifying voters for participation in the election.

The right to vote transcends the ambitions of any and all candidates. It is a personal right that is above all partisanship, selfish interest and prejudice. It is a right inherited from men who fought and died to attain it, and a right which men are still fighting and dying to preserve. It is a right which every American man and woman should recognize is best preserved by usage--a type of usage that calls for each of us to act as though the future of the Nation depends upon the decisions we personally record in the voting booth.

As California prepares for its participation in the national campaigns and the November election, it is logical for us to first endeavor to qualify as many men and women as possible to be participants in the election. Our State laws have fixed September 11th as the last day for residents of our State to register and thus qualify themselves as voters.

To the end that no Californian be unaware of the deadline for registration and of the importance of his personal participation in the election, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby designate the period from September 1 - 6, 1952, inclusive, as REGISTRATION WEEK in California. During this week it is my hope that the leaders of all political, civic and educational organizations in our State, and the leaders of all public information agencies such as radio, television, press and motion picture, will cooperate in a public drive to register voters so that California will be capable of full participation in the voter decisions which must be made in November.

PROCLAMATION

It is important that all Californians take a special interest in matters of education, for we are living in the fastest growing State of the Union. We are faced with new problems daily in our efforts to see that our children receive the kind of education to which their birthright entitles them.

Parent-Teacher Associations in communities throughout the State are contributing greatly to the solution of these problems by providing the means for cooperation between parents and teachers that is so essential to sound education. Local parent-teacher groups, and their statewide organization, the California Congress of Parents and Teachers, deserve much credit for their assistance in the development and maintenance of the high standards of education for which our State has become nationally recognized.

For more than 50 years these Associations have contributed leadership in the development of community programs for the building of youthful character and the strengthening of family relationships. Their influence has come to extend far beyond the schools themselves.

In furtherance of the programs of this most important organization, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby declare the week of October 13, 1952, as PARENT-TEACHER MEMBERSHIP WEEK in California, and I urge that during this period all Californians take advantage of the opportunity to become familiar with the Parent-Teacher organization and its many contributions to good citizenship.

Never in our national existence has there been greater evidence than is before us today of the vital role of a free press in safeguarding liberty. In the relentless march of aggressors as they seek to dominate the world, we have seen in case after case the destruction of free government invariably preceded by the gagging of the press.

In the United States, the freedom of our press, along with the other basic freedoms we enjoy as Americans, is guaranteed by our Constitution. Under that guarantee the American press has always been a strong and vigilant force in the fight against despotism, intolerance and corruption. Freedom of the press cannot be taken for granted, however, inviolable as it may have seemed throughout our history. It must be constantly nurtured and protected, lest it be gradually undermined by forces which seek our national destruction.

Through the annual observance of National Newspaper Week, the publishers of our Nation give leadership in bringing about greater realization of the concern which every American should have in maintaining press freedom. This year the slogan of the week is "Your Right to Know--a Constitutional Guarantee."

In furtherance of this national program, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim October 1 to 3, 1952, as NEWSPAPER WEEK in California. I urge that during this period all of the people of our State become more familiar with the newspaper services and facilities of their own communities to the end that they may better understand the importance of the press in maintaining our way of life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 12th day of September, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-Two.

Through changing times and the increasing tempo of our existence, our Constitution has provided a living, flexible framework for the continued advancement of our ideals of government. Its influence has extended far beyond the boundaries of our own country. It has become a symbol for freedom-loving peoples everywhere.

September 17th has for many years been observed throughout the Nation as "Constitution Day" in commemoration of the adoption of the Constitution of the United States on September 17, 1787.

By action of the Congress and the President, the anniversary of the signing of the Constitution will in addition be observed each year as "Citizenship Day" in recognition of all who, by coming of age or naturalization, have attained the full status of citizenship.

There are those among our newly naturalized citizens who have particular reason to be appreciative of American citizenship because they have come from lands where people have never known such freedoms. We who have grown to maturity enjoying freedom in the true American sense can draw a lesson from these people--a lesson that should make each and every one of us more determined to protect the constitutional guarantees on which our freedom depends.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim September 17, 1952, as CONSTITUTION DAY and as CITIZENSHIP DAY in California. I urge that on this day all the people of our State join in public ceremonies honoring the new citizens of our Nation. I further urge that all Californians seek greater understanding of the principles of liberty, equality, and justice contained in the Constitution of our Nation.

The 1952 observance of National Business Women's Week will mark the 25th anniversary of this annual event designed to call attention to the accomplishments of women in business and the professions.

The theme for this year's observance, "The Ramparts We Build" calls to mind the important role women have played from the earliest pioneer days in making our Nation strong. To meet the needs of our day requires not only the same courage, spirit, and endurance so characteristic of our early pioneers, but also strong, individual thinking and a caliber of independent and group action far transcending requirements of the past.

We have always been able to count on the support of business and professional women in the solution of many problems of our growing State. We will need their help to an increasing extent in the future if California is to develop as fully and soundly as it is capable of doing.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of September 28 to October 4, 1952, as BUSINESS WOMEN'S WEEK in California. I urge that during this period recognition be given to the important contribution that business and professional women are making to the welfare and advancement of our communities, our State and our Nation.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 13th day of September, A. D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-Two.

Fire last year took the lives of 12,000 Americans, and more than twice that number were severely burned or disfigured for life. Fire is second only to that other great killer, traffic, as the leading cause of accidental death in our Nation.

Each year forest fires destroy enough saw-timber trees in the United States to build 80,000 five-room homes--a city of a quarter million people. Pulp-size trees destroyed by fire would supply every newspaper in the United States with its newsprint requirements for twelve months.

In our own State an aggressive program of fire prevention has shown marked results in reducing both the number of forest and grassland fires and the acreage burned. A progressive fire safety program in our state, city, and county institutions and other public buildings and in private and public hospitals has decreased fire losses to the point where fire insurance premiums on these structures have been reduced by 20 per cent.

Such advances, however, must not cause us to relax our efforts. Fire prevention and protection programs must be pursued vigorously and consistently if we are to continue to progress in reducing losses of life and property.

In furtherance of such programs, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim October 5 to 11, 1952, as FIRE PREVENTION WEEK in California. I urge that during this period all Californians give special attention to the elimination of fire hazards and to the necessity for continued effort throughout the year to protect our homes and communities against destructive fires.

It is estimated that at least 2,000,000 handicapped persons in the United States today are capable of supporting themselves--not as a matter of charity but as fully productive workers--if suitable employment opportunities are made available to them. California has 140,000 of these people. In our growing State, with our tremendous responsibilities in the national defense program, this is a manpower source we cannot afford to overlook.

Many handicapped persons now seeking employment were disabled in the service of their country. We owe them a debt of gratitude and have a moral obligation to do everything possible to restore them to a full and productive life. But whether their disabilities were incurred on the fields of battle or under other circumstances, these handicapped people deserve our understanding assistance.

Physically handicapped workers have demonstrated repeatedly that, when properly trained and placed in employment for which they are suited, they consistently equal and frequently surpass their unhandicapped fellow workers. Disability without employment means dependency and increased public assistance rolls. By placing handicapped persons in employment we can reduce the expenditure of tax money as well as increase the productive effort of our Nation.

By Act of Congress and Proclamation of the President, National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week will be observed throughout the Nation during the second week of October. In furtherance of this important activity, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period October 5 to 11, 1952, as EMPLOY THE PHYSICALLY HANDICAPPED WEEK in California. I urge that all Californians give their support to programs for the training and employment of the handicapped, not only during that week but throughout the year.

PROCLAMATION

Few incidents in the history of our Nation are more inspiring than the discovery of California by the Portuguese explorer Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo. In 1542, he sailed into San Diego Bay and became the first European to set foot on California soil.

Cabrillo was searching for a non-existent northern passage which was thought to connect the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans. Like many of the early-day explorers, he died disappointed at not achieving his original objective and little realizing the importance of the discovery he had made.

This intrepid navigator led the way for men of many nations -- for other daring explorers, the Spanish colonists, the mission fathers, the gold seekers of '49. He laid the foundation for the great western migration that has made California the second largest State of the Union.

Cabrillo was a kindly and understanding man. He sought to win the confidence of the natives instead of engaging in murder and plunder. In turn, they willingly gave him needed provisions, water, shelter, and first information they had of the land beyond the coast. Although gravely injured, he was faithful to his responsibility, and with his dying words he directed that his ships proceed to the goal he had set out to reach.

It is my hope that we in this modern day will be able to keep alive the spirit of men like Cabrillo -- men whose search for a brighter horizon enabled them to push forward against every obstacle. By doing so we can continue to make our State, our Nation and the world a better place in which to live.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim September 28, 1952, as CABRILLO DAY in California, and I urge that the widest possible recognition be given to the accomplishments of the great explorer, Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo.

Proclamation

I, EARL WARREN, Governor of the State of California, do hereby proclaim that a General Election will be held throughout this State on Tuesday, the fourth day of November, 1952, at which the following offices are to be filled:

Thirty-two electors of President and Vice-President of the United States;

Representatives to the Congress of the United States from each of the thirty congressional districts of the State;

One United States Senator;

State Senators from each of the following twenty senatorial districts of the State: First, Third, Fifth, Seventh, Ninth, Eleventh, Thirteenth, Fifteenth, Seventeenth, Nineteenth, Twenty-first, Twenty-third, Twenty-fifth, Twenty-seventh, Twenty-ninth, Thirty-first, Thirty-third, Thirty-fifth, Thirty-seventh, Thirty-ninth;

Member of the Assembly from each of the eighty assembly districts of the State;

One Presiding Justice, District Court of Appeal, First Appellate District, Division Two, for the term prescribed by law;

Two Associate Justices, District Court of Appeal, Second Appellate District, Division Two, for the term prescribed by law;

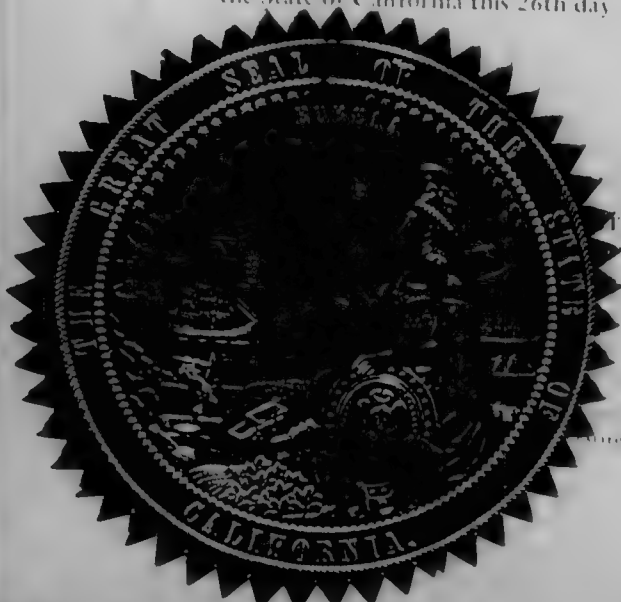

One Judge of the Superior Court of the State of California in and for the City and County of San Francisco, Office No. 7;

Also, such other State, county and judicial district, or other offices as are provided by law to be filled at such election.

I further proclaim that at such election there will also be submitted to the vote of the electors such proposed constitutional amendments, questions, propositions and initiative measures as are required to be so submitted by the Constitution and laws of this State.

And I do hereby offer a reward of One Hundred Dollars ($100) for the arrest and conviction of any person who violates any of the provisions of Division XIV of the Elections Code; the rewards to be paid until the total amount hereafter expended for the purpose reaches the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars ($10,000).

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I hereunto set my hand and affix the Great Seal of the State of California this 26th day of September, 1952.

Poets throughout the Nation observe October 15th of each year as Poetry Day as a means of increasing public appreciation of good poetry and its great contribution to our national culture.

Much of the knowledge that has come down to us through the ages has been in the form of poetry. Through verses composed through the years we have come to know much of the thinking of man and of the thoughts and tribulations which have gone into the making of history.

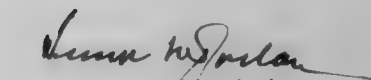

Poetry has contributed to social and economic advancement of people and nations by focusing attention on injustice and intolerance. It has captured man's every mood and experience, whether it be a prayer to God, the expression of pride in country, or the joys and trials of daily life.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim October 15, 1952, as POETRY DAY in California. I urge all Californians to join in this observance and become more familiar with the accomplishments of poets and their contribution to our literature.

Special Election Proclamation

I, EARL WARREN, Governor of the State of California, do hereby proclaim that a Special Election will be held throughout this State on Tuesday, the fourth day of November, 1952, to submit to the qualified voters of the State of California the following constitutional amendment proposed by the Legislature during its Second Extraordinary Session of 1952:

Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 3, relating to the issuance of bonds to provide loans and grants to school districts of the State.

Said Special Election will be held under the authority of Chapter 19, Statutes of the Second Extraordinary Session, 1952. It will be consolidated with the General Election to be held on said date of November 4, 1952, and the consolidated election will be held and conducted in all respects as if there were only one election.

I further proclaim that at such election there will also be submitted to the vote of the electors such proposed constitutional amendments, questions, propositions, and initiative measures as are required to be so submitted by the Constitution and laws of this State.

And I do hereby offer a reward of One Hundred Dollars ($100) for the arrest and conviction of any person who violates any of the provisions of Division 14 of the Elections Code; the rewards to be paid until the total amount hereafter expended for the purpose reaches the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars ($10,000).

Thanksgiving Day is one of the oldest and most sacred of our traditions. It is an occasion on which we should express our thanks for all of the blessings we enjoy as Americans, and reaffirm our faith in the spiritual principles that have made our country great.

Just as the Pilgrims gave thanks to God for their bountiful harvest, after the suffering they endured during their first winter in the New World, let us thank Him for the progress we have made individually and as a Nation, and for the vast production of our farms and our factories.

On this Thanksgiving Day I urge that all Californians join in prayers of thanksgiving in their homes and in their churches. In our Thanksgiving observances, let us pray for divine guidance as we strive with other freedom-loving nations to end the terrible fighting in Korea and bring honorable and lasting peace to a troubled world.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Thursday, November 27, 1952, as THANKSGIVING DAY in California.

PROCLAMATION

The Fraternal Order of Eagles is sponsoring throughout the Nation a series of community observances of Freedom Week -- the period between December 7, 1952, the 11th anniversary of the attack upon Pearl Harbor, and December 15, 1952, the 161st anniversary of the adoption of the Bill of Rights.

It is appropriate that the observance of these two anniversaries should be linked together. The Pearl Harbor attack shocked most Americans into the realization that the basic freedoms which many had taken for granted could be wrested from us if we were not strong enough to defend them.

The threat to our way of life did not end with the successful conclusion of World War II. On the contrary, our free institutions have been under increasing rather than diminishing challenge by subversive forces which seek to discredit and destroy them. It is of the utmost importance, therefore, that we take advantage of every opportunity to reaffirm our faith in the principles set forth in the Bill of Rights.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period December 7 - 15, 1952, as FREEDOM WEEK in California, and I urge all the people of our State to take advantage of the opportunity to join in public observances dedicated to the strengthening and preservation of our American heritage.

To the State Treasurer

Under the provisions of Veterans Bond
Act of 1951, Art. 5c, Ch. 6, Div. 4,
Military and Veterans Code

To Honorable Charles G. Johnson, State Treasurer:

WHEREAS, an Act, known and designated as the "Veterans Bond Act of 1951", (Stats. 1951, Ch. 1086) was duly and regularly confirmed and ratified by Section 16 of Article XVI of the Constitution of the State of California, submitted to and approved by the electors of said State at the General Election held in this State on the 4th day of November, 1952, and said Veterans Bond Act of 1951 is now in full force and effect; and

WHEREAS, the California Veterans Board of the Department of Veterans Affairs at its meeting held on the 29th day of November, 1952 duly adopted a resolution requesting the Veterans' Finance Committee of 1943 to authorize the issuance and sale of One Hundred Million Dollars ($100,000,000) principal amount of bonds authorized by the Veterans Bond Act of 1951, which said resolution included a statement of the plans and projects of the Department of Veterans Affairs with respect to the use of the proceeds of the sale of said bonds; and

WHEREAS, the Department of Veterans Affairs, by and through the duly appointed, qualified and acting Director of

State of California

Veterans Affairs, did on the 29th day of November, 1952 approve said resolution of the California Veterans Board requesting the Veterans' Finance Committee of 1943 so to act; and

WHEREAS, the said Veterans' Finance Committee of 1943 did on the 10th day of December, 1952 approve the plans and projects of the Department of Veterans Affairs with respect to the use of the proceeds of the sale of said bonds and expressed its determination that the issuance of the amount of One Hundred Million Dollars ($100,000,000) of the bonds authorized by the Veterans Bond Act of 1951 is and will be necessary to carry said plans and projects into execution and adopted a resolution determining the necessity and desirability for the immediate issuance and sale of bonds in the aggregate principal amount of One Hundred Million Dollars ($100,000,000) under said Veterans Bond Act of 1951 to carry such plans and projects into execution, and further in said resolution specified all matter and things required by Section 996.09 of the Military and Veterans Code of the State of California; and

WHEREAS, the Department of Veterans Affairs, by resolution adopted the 18th day of December, 1952 has requested the sale of said Veterans' Bonds in the aggregate principal amount of One Hundred Million Dollars ($100,000,000);

NOW, THEREFORE, I, EARL WARREN, GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA, do hereby approve (a) the said resolution

Executive Department

State of California

adopted by the Department of Veterans Affairs, and (b) said resolution of said Veterans' Finance Committee of 1943 (which latter resolution is attached hereto and made a part hereof), pursuant to the provisions of the Veterans Bond Act of 1951. I hereby direct that you, as State Treasurer, after notice as required by law, sell upon sealed bids in accordance with the provisions of said Veterans Bond Act of 1951, Veterans' Bonds of the State of California, numbered D1 to D100,000, both inclusive, of the aggregate par value of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000) each, and of the aggregate par value of One Hundred Million Dollars ($100,000,000), as prepared by you pursuant to the direction of the said Veterans' Finance Committee of 1943, as set forth in said resolution attached hereto, the proceeds from the sale of which said bonds shall be not less than the aggregate par value thereof, plus accrued interest thereon; and such proceeds from the sale of said bonds shall be placed in the Veterans' Farm and Home Building Fund of 1943.

In Witness Whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed this 30th day of December 1952.

PROCLAMATION

The past year has seen continued progress in medical research against infantile paralysis. However, this is no time for relaxation in the fight against this dread disease. More than 55,000 boys and girls and men and women were stricken during 1952 in our Nation's worst polio epidemic of all time.

During January the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis will conduct its annual March of Dimes campaign to raise funds necessary to pay for the very expensive treatment needed to counteract the effects of infantile paralysis and bring its victims back to health. Without the March of Dimes only a few could afford the kind of treatment it is making available to thousands of men and women and children throughout the Nation.

In our own State of California there were nearly 4,000 reported cases of polio during 1952, and the National Foundation spent nearly $3,000,000 on patient care in our State.

In addition to paying the costs of treatment in individual cases, March of Dimes contributions help to finance the research programs which we hope will soon provide the means for eradicating this terrible disease from our homes.

Since no one can foresee where infantile paralysis will strike next, it is a matter of vital concern to every person in our State that the programs of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis not be curtailed. Therefore, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Friday, January 2, 1953, as the opening day of the March of Dimes campaign in our State and I urge all Californians to contribute generously during the month of January for this essential program.

PROCLAMATION

Few men in the history of our nation have made a greater contribution to the welfare of mankind than did George Washington Carver. Born of slave parents, he overcame tremendous obstacles to become an eminent scientist and educator.

Dr. Carver's accomplishments in chemical and agricultural research have contributed to the development of many of our widely-used agricultural practices of today, including crop rotation and diversification, the introduction of new crops and the discovery of a wide variety of agricultural by-products.

He worked unceasingly for more than 40 years in the development of Tuskegee Institute, creating new educational and economic opportunities for thousands of students.

His accomplishments have benefited not only the members of his own race but have helped to make a better life for all Americans.

In furtherance of a national program to honor the memory of Dr. Carver on the anniversary of his death on January 5, 1943, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim January 5, 1953, as GEORGE WASHINGTON CARVER DAY in California and I urge that the people of our State become more familiar with his many contributions to the advancement of our way of life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 2nd day of January, A.D., One Thousand Nine hundred and Fifty-three.

AS, an abnormally heavy and continuous rainfall occurred in recent days, causing floods in many areas of California and threatening further and more severe inundations, particularly in the northern counties of the State, and

AS, said flooding has already resulted in extensive property damage, and the acute threat of further and more severe inundations creates an imminent danger to the lives, health and well-being of persons in these areas, to the safety of public and private property and the maintenance of essential services therein, and

WHEREAS, the employment of personnel, equipment and facilities under the jurisdiction and control of the State of California will be of material assistance to counties, cities and other local agencies in alleviating and preventing actual and threatened damage to life, health and property,

THEREFORE, I hereby find and proclaim:

- (1) That a situation of emergency resulting from existing and threatened floods exists in the State of California,
- (2) That the heads of State departments or the Adjutant General (or State officers or employees acting pursuant to their authority) may direct the employment of State personnel and of equipment and facilities under the jurisdiction and control of the State for the performance of any and all activities in the State designed to prevent and alleviate actual or threatened damage due to said floods, and
- (3) That all the laws of the State of California which do or may require advertisement for bids for the purchase of supplies or the employment of services necessary in connection with flood control and flood relief activities in the State, are suspended as of this date.

PROCLAMATION

Californians have particular reason to be appreciative of the value of advertising. Through the medium of advertising, millions of people have learned of our State's climatic advantages, the glories of its mountains, the richness of its valleys and the attractions of its beaches and resorts.

Were it not for advertising, it is doubtful that California would now be the second most populous state of the Nation, and certainly tourist travel would never have achieved its present rank as one of our major industries. Likewise, we must credit advertising with a major part in the building of our State into one of the great industrial and commercial centers of the Nation.

Advertising has contributed to a better life for all Americans -- a kind of life that is a source of wonderment to less fortunate people in many other parts of the world. It has done so by creating consumer demand and thus stimulating national distribution and mass production, which enable all of us to have more of the things that go to make up the American standard of living.

In cooperation with a program of the advertising industry to focus attention on the importance of advertising as a vital part of our economy, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period February 15 - 21, 1953, as ADVERTISING RECOGNITION WEEK in California. It is my hope that during this period all the people of our State will become better acquainted with advertising in its various forms and its effect upon our daily lives.

PROCLAMATION

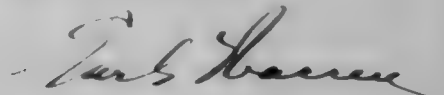

February 8, 1953, will be the 43rd anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America, and the week in which this date occurs will be observed as Boy Scout Week.

Later this year California will be the host state for the 1953 Boy Scout National Jamboree which will be held at the Irvine Ranch in Orange County, July 10th through 16th. Attending that great Jamboree will be 50,000 boys and their leaders from all parts of the United States.

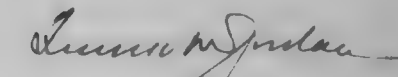

Serving the needs of boys in their most formative years, the Boy Scout program is one of the finest programs ever developed for the encouragement of good citizenship. It has influenced the lives of more than 20,000,000 American boys and its present active enrollment is 3,250,000. We have thousands of men who have gained prominence in every endeavor in our State who will freely testify to the value of Boy Scout training in their youth.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of February 7th through 13th, 1953, as BOY SCOUT WEEK in California. During this period I hope that all Californians will become more familiar with the Boy Scout movement and the great contribution being made by the thousands of volunteer Scout leaders and the many organizations and groups which sponsor Cub Packs, Scout Troops and Explorer Units.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have
hereunto set my hand and
caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 5th

PROCLAMATION

Through the sponsorship of the National Exchange Clubs the week of February 16th is being observed throughout the Nation as Crime Prevention Week. This observance is one in which Californians should take a very great interest, because our State can achieve its potential development only if crime is kept rigidly under control.

California has grown tremendously in recent years and as a result of this growth we have had to face many unusual problems. In spite of crowded conditions our new citizens have adjusted themselves splendidly to the life of our State. We have had an orderly growth. However, in any period of great change such as we have experienced, we must be alert to the dangers of an increase in crime and delinquency.

We in California have been able to keep crime under control because our law enforcement officials generally have been alert to these dangers and because they have had the support of law-abiding citizens. The suppression of crime requires constant vigilance both on the part of enforcement officers and the public, and any relaxation in our efforts along these lines means that organized criminals will immediately take the initiative.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim February 16 to 21, 1953, as CRIME PREVENTION WEEK in California. I urge all the people of our State to become more fully aware of the tremendous cost of crime and the need for maintaining a continuing interest in the manner in which our laws are enforced.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have
hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be

We in California and people throughout the Nation have come to depend upon the American Red Cross in time of emergency. We know that wherever disaster may strike, whether it involves a single community, several states or the Nation as a whole, the relief facilities of the Red Cross will be mobilized quickly and effectively.

During the month of March the Red Cross will conduct its annual fund raising campaign. This year the national goal is $93,000,000--the largest since World War II. Nearly all of the $8,000,000 increase over last year's quota will go to finance the collection and processing of additional pints of blood for the production of gamma globulin, the new weapon against infantile paralysis. Tests with this new blood derivative have given new encouragement in the continuing fight against one of our most dread diseases.

The quantities of blood required for this new purpose will be in addition to normal quotas, which last year resulted in 433,736 pints of blood being collected in California by the Red Cross and cooperative private blood banks for the armed forces and 127,612 pints for use in local civilian hospitals. These and other functions of the Red Cross, such as counseling and financial assistance for servicemen and their families, first aid and home nursing programs and many other activities, are of greatest importance to our communities and our State.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the month of March, 1953, as RED CROSS MONTH in California. I urge all the people of our State to give their generous support to this annual fund raising campaign so that we may be sure the widespread network of Red Cross service shall continue to be available wherever and whenever needed.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 26th day of February, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-Three.

The California Society for Crippled Children and Adults and its affiliated organizations will conduct their annual Great Seal campaign this year during the period from March to April 30th.

Funds raised through the sale of these seals are used to pay for rehabilitation, medical and educational services for many hundreds of crippled children and adults in our State and to help these handicapped people to more joyful and joyable lives.

Through such services it is possible for dependent children to become independent adults and thus conserve human resources and productive ability which otherwise would be lost.

In furtherance of this worthy program, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period from March to April 30th, 1933, as the Great Seal Month in California. I urge all the people of our State to give their generous support to the Great Seal campaign and thereby lend a helping hand to persons who are most deserving of our help.

I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby set my hand hereunto and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 4th day of March, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-Three.

PROCLAMATION

No other state is growing as rapidly as California, and therefore Californians have particular reason to be concerned with the conservation of natural resources. So vast was Nature's endowment of California that in the early days of our State's development these resources seemed almost inexhaustible. Today we know better.

The demands of many years of war and defense production, and the tremendous growth of our State in recent years, have forced the realization that our natural resources are not inexhaustible. It must now be apparent to everyone that the future development of California is closely dependent upon the conservation of our water, our forests, our agricultural and range lands, our mineral deposits, our wildlife and our recreational areas. To waste or misuse them is to limit the productivity which our State could otherwise achieve.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period March 7th to 14th, 1953, as CONSERVATION WEEK in California. I urge that all the people of our State give their support to programs through which our resources can be developed and utilized to the best advantage, not only for our own immediate needs but in keeping with our obligations to succeeding generations.

The first day of Conservation Week--March 7th, 1953, which is the birthday anniversary of California's great horticultural scientist, the late Luther Burbank--is designated as ARBOR DAY. I suggest that on that Day special attention be given to programs of planting, in the interests of making our State more beautiful and more productive.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 4th day of March, A. D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-Three.

During April the American Cancer Society will conduct its annual campaign for funds to carry on its programs of education, service and research. It is a campaign that affects the welfare of every American, for no one knows where or whom cancer will strike next.

If 1953 follows the pattern of the past several years, cancer will take the lives of more than 15,000 Californians. However, nearly half of these deaths are unnecessary. Knowledge of cancer's warning signs, prompt diagnosis of the disease, and adequate medical treatment could prevent them.

It is the purpose of the American Cancer Society to reduce this toll of needless death by making people aware of the danger signals of cancer and by sponsoring an extensive research program seeking to find the secret of cancer and how to prevent or cure it.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim April, 1953, as CANCER CONTROL MONTH in California. I urge all of the people of our State to support to the fullest possible extent the efforts of the American Cancer Society to combat and control cancer.

Those of the Christian faith throughout the world observe Good Friday as a day of meditation and prayer in remembrance of Christ's sacrifice upon the Cross.

In the turbulent times in which we are living, we have the greatest need for His divine guidance. It is my hope that millions more than ever before will pause this Friday to reaffirm their devotion to Him and seek to pattern their own lives on His example.

Let us pray for added inspiration for men of peace as they strive to build a world society based on brotherhood and good will rather than hatred and destruction.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby urge that GOOD FRIDAY, April 3, 1953, be the occasion of spiritual meditation and devotion by all Californians of the Christian faith.

Under our State law the hours from 12:00 noon to 3:00 p.m. on that date are a legal holiday, and I urge employers throughout the State to authorize their employees to leave their duties during this period for the purpose of worship.

The public school system in California goes back literally to the very beginnings of our State. California's first constitution--drawn by a convention meeting in Monterey only a few months after the discovery of gold--made provision for a system of public education.

The progress of our public schools from that small beginning to the vast educational system we have today has not been easy. It has required the cooperative efforts of State and local officials, the active interest of parents and of citizens generally, and the energy and devotion of public-spirited men and women who have been willing to devote their lives to the teaching profession.

In recent years we have had to face tremendous problems in the administration of our schools, as in many other activities of government, because of California's unprecedented increases in population. We have learned that the solution of these problems is only possible when there is public interest, understanding and cooperation. Such public support is likewise essential to encourage those in the teaching profession.

The best demonstration of such support is for each citizen to become familiar with the public school system and to keep in touch with it. Therefore, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period April 27th to May 2nd, 1953, as PUBLIC SCHOOLS WEEK in California. I urge every citizen to visit one of the public schools during this period and become acquainted with the programs and accomplishments of our educational system.

It is a fact in the nation today with the startling fact that preventable accidents in the home or in the immediate vicinity--not including traffic accidents--are the leading cause of death for children between the ages of one and 15 years of age in the United States combined. Such accidents represent an annual toll of 1,500 children dead, 50,000 permanently disabled, and 1,500,000 with lesser disabling injuries.

It is a field in which we are capable of making determined action on the part of parents in correcting dangerous situations in the home and with continuing instruction of children in the dangers they face in their everyday life, will bring about a reduction in accidents.

In furtherance of a nationwide program in behalf of child safety, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California do hereby proclaim the period May 10th through 16th, 1953, as CHILD SAFETY WEEK in California. I urge that during this period all the people of our State, whether or not they are parents, should take a check of their potential areas of danger and take steps to correct them.

We are faced today with mounting costs of mental illness. Involved are not only the costs of maintaining mental hospitals, but also indirect costs expressed in such terms as crime, alcoholism, juvenile delinquency, suicide and divorce.

We have learned that one person in ten will seek professional help with an emotional problem during his lifetime; that one family in five is directly affected by mental illness, and that one person in 20 will spend part of his life in a mental hospital. Last month nearly 1,600 persons were admitted to already crowded California mental hospitals--one person every 26 minutes.

Medical science has made great progress in the treatment of mental patients and there is hope for greater progress. We are no longer in an age where the doors of an "asylum" are slammed shut on them. The majority now recover and can return to normal, productive lives.

Great strides have also been made in the prevention of mental breakdowns. This is a field in which everyone can help, through participation in and encouragement of programs which contribute to wholesome conditions in the home, the schoolroom and community life.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, hereby proclaim the period May 3 to 9, 1953, as MENTAL HEALTH WEEK in California. I urge that during this week all the citizens of our State become more familiar with the causes of mental illness and the importance of community assistance and cooperation in its prevention and treatment.

The Armed Forces of the United States will be honored throughout the Nation on May 16th, a date designated by the President and the Congress as Armed Forces Day.

The theme of this year's observance is "Power for Peace." All of the military services -- the Air Force, Army, Navy, Marine Corps, the Reserve and the National Guard -- are cooperating to give public demonstration on this occasion of the power on which we rely for the security of our Nation.

It is fitting that on this Day we give recognition to all who have contributed to the building of our military forces. It should be an occasion for us to honor the men and women who are serving our Nation as members of the Armed Forces. Let us honor, also, those in civilian life who have an important part in our military program through service in the National Guard and the Reserve forces, large numbers of whom have been called away from their homes and jobs to fight in Korea.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Saturday, May 16, 1953, as ARMED FORCES DAY in California. I urge all the people of our State to participate in Armed Forces Day programs in their communities and to visit military installations which have scheduled "open house" programs.

White Cane Week is observed throughout the Nation each year during the period May 15th to 21st as a means of directing attention to the problems of the blind and to the need for greater public support of programs to help blind persons to help themselves.

The white cane should receive instant recognition as the sign of a blind person who is entitled to the greatest possible protection from the hazards which he is unable to see--particularly the hazards of traffic.

We should not, however, regard the white cane as a mark of dependence. Many of those who carry it are making their own way in the world, and many more are capable of becoming self-supporting if opportunities to receive needed training can be made available to them.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period May 15 - 21, 1953, as WHITE CANE WEEK in California. I urge that all the people of our State give their support to programs for the benefit of the blind.

One hundred thirty-four years ago, on May 22, 1819, the American steamship SAVANNAH began the first successful crossing of the Atlantic Ocean under steam propulsion--opening a new era in communications between nations. The anniversary of this historic event is observed each year as National Maritime Day, and the week containing May 22nd as World Trade Week.

It is appropriate that we take this occasion to honor the American Merchant Marine and the American men and women, sailors and officers, who have contributed to our Nation's position as the world's leading maritime power.

We in California have a vital interest in these events because of our State's position as the gateway to the Pacific. During World War II and again during the Korean fighting we have seen our State become a vast staging area for the men and equipment required to carry on overseas military operations. Likewise, we have seen California take on ever-increasing importance as a crossroads for the commerce of peace. We can only guess at the potential world market for California industrial and agricultural products with the achievement of a lasting world peace.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim May 22, 1953, as MARITIME DAY in California, and the week of May 17 to 23, 1953, as WORLD TRADE WEEK. I urge the people of our State to become familiar with the scope and function of our Merchant Marine and the importance of world commerce in the economic life of our State.

The American-Korean Foundation has been established on a nationwide basis to work for the relief of the distressed civilian population of South Korea and for the rehabilitation of their war-torn country. With the endorsement of President Eisenhower, the Foundation will conduct a campaign during the period June 7 to 14, 1953, for at least $5,000,000 in contributions by the American people, to accomplish its immediate objectives.

We in America have little conception of the devastation which war has brought to South Korea--the extremely heavy civilian casualties, the total destruction of thousands of homes, the lack of needed hospital facilities, the widespread hunger and suffering.

Despite their terrible ordeal, the Korean people are determined for the future and determination to rebuild their country. It is the aim of the American-Korean Foundation not only to meet immediate requirements for food, clothing, medical assistance and emergency shelter, but to carry out long-range plans of assisting in the reconstruction of the country and revitalizing its shattered economy.

In furtherance of this very important program, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period June 7 to 14, 1953, as AID TO KOREA WEEK in California, and I urge that all Californians contribute generously to help relieve the terrible distress of the people of Korea.

PROCLAMATION

Sunday, June 7, 1953, is being observed as a day on which all Americans are urged to join in giving recognition to the role of the teacher in the life of our Nation.

Our educational system is one of the most important foundation stones for the building of our social, economic and political structure, and there is no factor in that educational system of greater importance than the quality of instruction which our children receive. Our teachers have much to do with determining the kind of citizens which boys and girls will be as adults.

Few other professions involve such grave responsibilities and at the same time yield such great satisfactions as those that come to the teachers in our schools in helping to guide young people through their most formative years.

Throughout the Nation there is a shortage of qualified persons to fill teaching positions in our educational system. We in California have a particular problem in this regard, in view of our extremely rapid growth. Our school population is now increasing at the rate of nearly 3,000 children a week or 150,000 a year. We must recruit many additional teachers each year to staff the new schools we are building because of this tremendous growth.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim June 7, 1953, as TEACHERS' DAY in California. I urge all Californians to become familiar with the accomplishments of our teachers and to help call to the attention of young people about to choose a career, the opportunities available to them in the teaching profession.

We observe Memorial Day this year as our Nation nears the third anniversary of the outbreak of fighting in Korea. Our terrible casualties there and the dangers inherent in trouble spots elsewhere in the world should serve to make us acutely aware of the basic conflict between the free world and the oppressive forces of communism.

I hope that under these circumstances the people of our State will give thought to the origin and purpose of Memorial Day. It should be an occasion for all of us to reflect upon the tremendous sacrifices made by succeeding generations of Americans in the wars in which our Nation has engaged -- sacrifices which have made it possible for us to enjoy the benefits of free government and our American way of life.

On this Memorial Day let us pray for Divine guidance in our efforts to seek not only an honorable end to the fighting in Korea but to establish a basis for lasting peace throughout the world. Let us resolve not to regard the great principles of our Nation only as something to fight for in war, but to keep them constantly before us in our daily life and make them the guideposts for even greater achievement in the ways of peace.

In accordance with this traditional observance of our Nation, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Acting Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Saturday, May 30, 1953, as MEMORIAL DAY in California. I urge that on this Day, flags be displayed from our homes and public buildings and that all Californians participate in patriotic and civic activities in remembrance of the brave men and women who have given their lives for their country.

PROCLAMATION

National Flag Week is this year being observed from June 8th to June 14th, the latter date being the 176th anniversary of the official adoption of the Stars and Stripes by the Continental Congress in 1777.

Created during the dark hours of our Nation's fight for independence, the Flag of the United States has been through the years a glorious symbol of a free people. It has been the rallying point for succeeding generations of Americans as they have been called onto the fields of battle to defend the very existence of our Republic. It is today a source of strength and inspiration to our servicemen who are fighting in Korea against the forces of communist aggression.

On this anniversary of the birth of the Flag, let us pledge anew our devotion to the principles which inspired our forefathers to struggle for freedom against tremendous odds. Let us resolve to do everything within our power to safeguard and strengthen those principles and to resist every effort to tear down or destroy them.

This observance of National Flag Week has received the personal endorsement of President Eisenhower and he has accepted honorary chairmanship of the National Flag Week Committee. In furtherance of this National effort, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Acting Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period June 8th to 14th, 1953, as FLAG WEEK in California, and June 14th as FLAG DAY. I urge that throughout that period the flag of the United States be displayed each day on public and private buildings and from the homes of our citizens.

The observance of Independence Day should be an occasion for all Americans to reflect upon the factors which have contributed to the development of the great nation we know today. One of the greatest of these factors has been steadfast reliance upon Divine guidance in charting the affairs of our Republic through each succeeding crisis.

Our government is a government under God. Our Declaration of Independence proclaimed it as such and our founding fathers made it a reality. The foundation they laid has led to the development of a Nation which has assumed a position of leadership in the free world. The principles which have contributed to this leadership are now in the process of being tested on a worldwide scale. The question which must be determined is whether we and the other people of the free world, through faith in God and belief in the dignity of man, can match in fervor the fanaticism of atheistic and totalitarian communism. The fate of the world is in the balance until this conflict is resolved.

The strength of our nation ever flows from the strength of its citizens. Ours is a nation which maintains itself through the demonstrated faith of its people in their institutions. With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim July 4, 1953, as INDEPENDENCE DAY in California. I urge that on this Day all Californians join in prayer for the continued strengthening of the principles of freedom in the troubled world in which we live. I further urge that the flag of the United States of America be flown on that day from our homes, public buildings and places of business, and that the people of our State join in patriotic observances in honor of the 177th anniversary of the independence of our nation.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have

Accidents on farms constitute a much greater hazard than accidents in the more populated areas because of the very nature of agricultural work. Farmers frequently work alone, and even if other persons are nearby, the medical facilities immediately available in case of accident are likely to be quite limited.

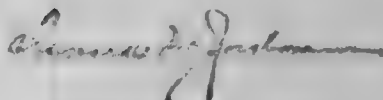

In an effort to counteract this added danger, farm groups have sponsored the annual observance of National Farm Safety Week. This year the observance will be held, by proclamation of the President, during the period July 19th to 25th.

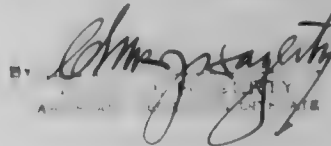

In furtherance of this national program, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period July 19th to 25th as FARM SAFETY WEEK in California. I urge that during this period particular attention be given to safety activities in the rural areas of our State to the end that throughout the year increased effort be made to insure proper safeguards in farming operations and use of farm equipment.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 9th day of July, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-Three.

PROCLAMATION

The Union label has long been recognized as an indication of good products and good services. It is a sign that the product is produced or the service rendered under conditions which contribute to the continued advancement in human relationships.

Each of our Nation's greatness can be traced to its tremendous capacity for production -- a capacity which came from the freedom of American working people to organize themselves and to achieve recognition as full partners in the production process.

Under our American system, the average worker in the United States has achieved a standard of living which is an inspiration to the rest of the world. At the same time our entire economy has prospered and grown to a degree where it has been able to provide assistance to the weaker nations of the world.

In the interest of calling public attention to the accomplishment of organized labor and its contribution to the life of our Nation, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Monday, September 7, as LABOR DAY and the period September 7 to 13 as UNION LABEL WEEK in California.

PROCLAMATION

September marks the 166th anniversary of the completion of a document which was then, and is now, the outstanding work of its kind -- the Constitution of the United States of America.

Through 166 years of peace and war, prosperity and depression, the Constitution has met the challenge of time and crisis. This document is living proof that the basic laws of justice and liberty are not outmoded by the years and that no other form of government can compare with the operation of government by the people.

Knowing that the Constitution will continue to stand only as long as we, individually and collectively, adhere to its ideals, the Sons of the American Revolution, with the co-operation of the Constitution Week Observance Committee, is sponsoring a commemoration of this important anniversary.

Therefore, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Acting Governor of the State of California, do hereby proclaim the week of September 13-19 as CONSTITUTION WEEK, and I urge every citizen in the State to pay honor to those who conceived the Constitution -- the foundation on which our great Nation has been built.

PROCLAMATION

Probably the most appreciative of American citizenship are those who achieve it through the process of naturalization. They have had particular reason to give thought to the reasons underlying our national development and to the struggles and sacrifices that were involved in winning the freedom we now enjoy. Some of them have come from lands where people never have known the meaning of freedom. Others lived in countries which once were free but which, through aggression or lack of vigilance, have lost that freedom.

Of all which the world has experienced in recent years, none has so benefited America. We have gained a record number of new citizens who have come to our Nation from other lands. Since 1900, more than 2,000,000 persons achieved citizenship through naturalization. Of these, more than 150,000 qualified for citizenship through service in the armed forces of our Nation, most of them during World War II.

Our An American Day has, for many years, been observed throughout our Nation as a means of honoring these new citizens and also those of our youth who have reached the age of majority. It is an occasion on which all of us should join in re-emphasizing our devotion to the principles which have made our country great.

Accordingly, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Sunday, September 13, as I AM AN AMERICAN DAY. I urge that special observances be held throughout our State on this day in honor of those who have assumed the obligations of citizenship during the past year, and that all citizens of our State take this opportunity to reaffirm their faith in the principles that have made our country great.

PROCLAMATION

California, the most rapidly growing state in the Union, has faced tremendous problems in meeting the educational needs of its ever-increasing number of young people. Only through great vision and leadership on the part of countless numbers of people, working in every community, has it been possible to keep abreast of these needs and to make available to every child the sound basic education to which his birthright entitles him.

The California Congress of Parents and Teachers has been particularly helpful in giving leadership to programs through which our traditional high standards of education have been safeguarded despite the tremendous expansion which has been necessary in all of our school facilities during recent years.

An organization of this kind cannot be effective unless it has the widespread support of the public it is seeking to serve. Californians generally will have the opportunity to demonstrate such support during the second week in October which has been set aside for the annual Parent-Teacher membership campaign.

Accordingly, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of October 11th to 17th, 1953, as PARENT-TEACHER MEMBERSHIP WEEK in California. I urge that during this period all Californians take advantage of the opportunity to become more familiar with the Parent-Teacher organization and its many contributions to good citizenship.

An average of more than 30 Americans a day lose their lives by fire. Since the turn of the century more than half a million persons in the United States have died as a result of fire. This is nearly twice the number of Americans killed in World War II and the Korean fighting combined.

Fire loss records so far this year indicate that unless there is a marked decline during the final months of the year the 1953 national fire loss will exceed one billion dollars. This would be an increase of two hundred million dollars over last year, which itself set an all-time record.

Carelessness with fire is also depriving us each year of vast areas of our forest and watershed areas and depleting two of the resources most vital to California -- timber and water, both of which are essential to the continued growth of our State.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Earl Warren, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period October 4 - 10, 1953, as FIRE PREVENTION WEEK in California. I urge that all Californians concern themselves with the elimination of fire causes and give their support to effective programs for the prevention and control of fire.

October 15th is observed throughout the Nation each year as Poetry Day. Its purpose is to bring about increased appreciation on the part of the public of the accomplishments of poets and the contribution which poetry can make to the betterment of our daily life.

We in California have reason to join wholeheartedly in this observance. Our history has been a most colorful one and has provided the basis for countless poems which will bring to succeeding generations the thoughts, the feelings, the hardships and the accomplishments of those who pioneered and developed our State.

Throughout all history, poets have had an important part in recording the story of mankind's advancement. Much of the knowledge, much of the culture, and much of the beauty of the ages has come down to us in the form of poetry.

In the interest of bringing about greater public awareness of poetry's great contribution to our literature, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim October 15, 1953, as POETRY DAY in California.

The City of Hope, famed haven of healing in Los Angeles County, is observing its 40th year of unselfish service to stricken citizens of every creed, race or nationality.

Treatment is given free of charge to victims of dreaded cancer, tuberculosis, leukemia, Hodgkins disease and heart ailments requiring surgery. All funds received during the month of October will be devoted to a new leukemia wing for children, and thus help to fight a disease which kills more children between the ages of one and 14 than any other disease.

As the State of California has grown, so have the needs of the City of Hope grown. From a small beginning the world renowned institution at Duarte has spread until it now occupies several beautiful buildings devoted to research and treatment of catstrophic diseases. A staff of internationally famous experts is in charge at the City of Hope, bringing relief to the suffering and restoring to health many who had known only despair.

Since the City of Hope has been built for the benefit of all mankind, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim October, 1953, as CITY OF HOPE MONTH in California, and urge all citizens to lend their support to this remarkable institution.

Future Homemakers of America has become one of the leading organizations of its kind in the Nation, with more than 8,500 chapters in the United States and a total membership of 367,000. It has 189 chapters in California, with a total membership of 7,603 for the past school year.

Now in its ninth year, the organization serves a very important function in stimulating the interest of young girls in the arts of homemaking, developing such attributes of good citizenship as leadership and cooperation, encouraging greater interest in community activities, and in many other ways contributing to better home and family life.

With the thought that young people should have the widest possible public support in carrying on worthy programs of this kind, I, Goodwin J. PROCLAMATION

One of the most important factors in the building of good citizenship and the furtherance of our American ideals is a sound basic education. Much of the greatness of our Nation can be credited to the groundwork that has been laid in the schoolroom, and the progress of America in the future will depend in large measure upon maintenance of the highest standards of education.

We in California have long taken pride in the excellence of our schools, and our people have shown a determination not to let educational standards suffer despite problems of growth and the necessity for tremendous expansion of all our school facilities. The solution of such problems has been possible only through the closest cooperation of parents, school officials and all others concerned.

One of the greatest continuing needs of our schools is for many more young people to become interested in devoting themselves to a career of teaching. Here in California, particularly, we have been hard pressed to meet requirements for great numbers of additional teachers to accommodate an ever-increasing school population. Certainly there are few professions that offer greater opportunity for service and greater personal satisfaction than the profession of teaching.

In cooperation with a national program of giving emphasis to the accomplishments and needs of our schools, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period November 8th to 14th, 1953, as AMERICAN EDUCATION WEEK in California. I urge that during this period Californians make a special effort to visit their schools and become more thoroughly acquainted with the work they are doing.

PROCLAMATION

Thanksgiving Day is truly an American tradition--an occasion for all of us to reflect upon blessings we enjoy as Americans and to reaffirm our faith in the Heavenly Father upon whose guidance we depend for our continued well-being.

Let us be guided in our observance by the example of the Pilgrims, who on the first Thanksgiving gave thanks to God for guiding them through a perilous winter and making their harvest a bountiful one. Like the Pilgrims, we are enjoying the fruits of abundant production, both in the harvest of our fields and in the flow of goods from our factories, and it is most appropriate for us to recognize the Thanksgiving Season as a time for prayer in our homes and our churches.

We have reason this year to be especially thankful for the fact that the terrible fighting in Korea has come to an end. Let us hope and pray that temporary peace in that embattled land can be translated, through cooperation among Nations, into an honorable and lasting peace throughout the World.

In the interest of giving widespread emphasis to the spiritual principles underlying this important observance, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Thursday, November 26, 1953, as THANKSGIVING DAY in California, and I urge all the people of our State to join in giving thanks for all we have achieved individually and as a Nation.

PROCLAMATION

December 15, 1953, will be the 162nd anniversary of the adoption of the first 10 Amendments to the Federal Constitution, generally known as the Bill of Rights.

The Bill of Rights guarantees to every American certain fundamental rights, and at the same time imposes upon all of us the obligation to defend and preserve the invaluable privileges guaranteed therein to all citizens, regardless of race or creed.

This most important addition to our basic law has given strength to our Nation throughout its history, and the principles it established are of particular importance today when we are seeking to sustain the essential liberties of mankind in a world seriously threatened by forces of tyranny and oppression.

Believing these principles essential to the orderly conduct of our free society and Nation, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period December 9-15, 1953, as BILL OF RIGHTS WEEK in California, and I urge all Californians to familiarize themselves with the Bill of Rights and support to the fullest possible extent the basic freedoms it guarantees to all Americans.

PROCLAMATION

On December 17, 1903, at Kitty Hawk, North Carolina, the air age began with the launching of a home made flying machine by Wilbur and Orville Wright. That flight extended for only 120 feet--little more than half the wing span of one of our large present day transports--but it opened vast new horizons for mankind.

It is difficult to imagine how different our life would be today without the vast aviation development of the past 50 years. Surely no other single factor has brought about such great change for so many people in such a comparatively short time.

We in California have particular cause to reflect on the great role of aviation in the growth and development of our State. We have become the leading State in the Nation in most branches of aviation and much of our tremendous increase in population in recent years is directly traceable to aviation development.

National, State and local committees have sponsored many events throughout 1953 in observance of the 50th Anniversary of Powered Flight. These events will culminate on December 17, 1953, the 50th Anniversary of the Wright Brothers' first flight, with the observance in all parts of the Nation of Kitty Hawk Day.

In furtherance of this national program, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim December 17, 1953, as "KITTY HAWK DAY" in California. I urge that on this day and throughout the month, all Californians give recognition to the great advancement of aviation and become more fully aware of the important part which this great industry has in our daily life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have
hereunto set my hand and
caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 2nd day of December, A.D., One

PROCLAMATION

During 1953 infantile paralysis hit our State and Nation with such tragic force that more than 38,000 people of all ages throughout the United States were stricken by this dread disease.

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has performed a monumental service in aiding those afflicted--assuming costs of patient care, sponsoring extensive research, providing for the recruitment of professional personnel, and supplying thousands of pieces of vitally needed equipment.

Research has brought us to the threshold of success in the battle against polio, and our generous support is needed to help finance the field tests of a trial vaccine during the coming year.

Between January 2 and January 31, 1954, volunteers throughout California and the Nation will call upon their neighbors to join the fight against polio.

It is a matter of vital importance to every Californian that the 1954 campaign be an outstanding success. Therefore, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the month of January, 1954, MARCH OF DIMES MONTH, and urge every resident of our great State to give generously to this great humanitarian cause, knowing that as we give, we will be striking a strong and perhaps decisive blow against a cruel enemy of all mankind.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have
hereunto set my hand and
caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 21st

WHEREAS, the extreme fire weather conditions existing in Southern California have resulted in large and devastating forest fires destroying many acres of valuable watershed and much property, and

WHEREAS, there is no relief from extreme fire weather conditions in sight, and

WHEREAS, the presence of hunters and other persons in the forests and watersheds of the Special Winter Deer Season areas of Southern California under these extreme climatic conditions can expose life and property to further menace from forest fires,

NOW, THEREFORE, the following described areas are closed to hunting and fishing and to entry by any person other than one of the following classes:

- (a) Owners and lessees of land in the area.
- (b) Bona fide residents in the area.
- (c) Persons engaged in some bona fide business, trade, occupation, or calling in the area and persons employed by them in connection with such business, trade, occupation, or calling.
- (d) Authorized agents or employees of a public utility entering such area for the purpose of operating or maintaining public utility works or equipment within the area.
- (e) Members of any organized fire fighting force.
- (f) Any federal, state or local officer in the performance of his duties.
- (g) Persons traveling on public roads or highways through the area. Said closure is made under the provisions of Section 4128, Division 4, Chapter 1, Article 4 of the Public Resources Code and Section 39.3, Division 1, Chapter 2, Article 2 of the Fish and Game Code, and shall be effective as of January 2, 1954 and shall remain in effect until weather and fire conditions warrant the lifting thereof.

Among the giants of the American past, Dr. George Washington Carver stands with the greatest. No other man so personified the realization of our Nation's finest traditions as did Dr. Carver in his rise from the almost hopeless obscurity of slavery to a well-deserved position of international prominence and respect.

His 40 years of tireless devotion to the development of Tuskegee Institute in Alabama into one of the finest educational facilities in the world have brought to Dr. Carver the undying gratitude of men and women of good will the world over. His accomplishments in the fields of scientific research and education have benefited not only members of his own race but have helped to make a fuller life for all Americans.

To further the national program honoring the memory of Dr. Carver on the anniversary of his death, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim January 5, 1954, as DR. GEORGE WASHINGTON CARVER DAY in California, and urge that the people of our State refresh and expand their knowledge of the many contributions this great man has made to the American way of life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 29th day of December, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-Three.

The period February 21-27 has been set aside ^{Deputy} for observances to direct public attention toward the character, accomplishments and objectives of the Future Farmers of America in assisting its members to prepare for useful and productive lives in various phases of agriculture.

This splendid organization, by contributing to the knowledge and experience of its nearly 12,000 members in some 230 California high schools, is making an important contribution to the over-all advancement of our State.

Its program has become a vital part of our State's public school system, offering training for constructive leadership, community service, thrift and other attributes of good citizenship.

With this in mind, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the observance of FUTURE FARMER WEEK in California during the period February 21-27, 1954, and urge all the people of this State to give encouragement and assistance to the work of this organization.

PROCLAMATION

A major factor in the orderly progress which has accompanied California's tremendous growth in recent years has been the ability of a great majority of our people to meet their many problems and work together for their effective solution, without regard to the faith or ancestral background of the various individuals participating. Because the flags of seven nations have flown over our State at different times, and inasmuch as the cultures of many peoples have become assimilated into the splendid traditions of California, such cooperative effort on the part of our citizens is generally accepted as a natural part of daily life in this State.

Continued evidence of unreasoning prejudice throughout the world, and indeed in isolated instances in this State, based solely on differences in beliefs or pigmentation, emphasizes the need for firm and positive support of the principles of brotherhood among all people everywhere. With the development of new and terrible weapons for mass-destruction, such mutual respect and acceptance have become not only desirable but actually involve the survival of civilization.

To focus public attention on this great need, the National Conference of Christians and Jews sponsors each year the observance of Brotherhood Week. To further this worthwhile program, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period of February 21-28, 1954, as BROTHERHOOD WEEK in California, and I urge all the people of this State to cooperate in assisting the cause of understanding and good will not only during the focal week but throughout the entire year.

PROCLAMATION

Assistant Secretary of State

Our Nation historically is committed to uphold the fundamental rights and individual dignity of all men and women. Events in recent years have thrust world leadership upon us in the ceaseless struggle against the forces of oppression in our time.

Communistic imperialism, through force and treachery, has enslaved more than 70 million souls, denying them freedom of the press, speech and religion. One of the most effective weapons against this terrible tyranny is Radio Free Europe.

This non-governmental agency combines the voluntary financial and technical assistance of the American people with the work, will and knowledge of hundreds of refugees from their enslaved homelands. Together, these forces for freedom have pierced the Iron Curtain with truth and encouragement to keep alive the hopes of these people for their eventual self-liberation.

Spearheading the financial and administrative support of Radio Free Europe in the United States is the Crusade for Freedom, supported by voluntary contributions from the American people.

Giving consideration to this great work, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim February 12 to 22, 1954, as FREEDOM WEEK in California. I urge all Californians to reaffirm their adherence to the ideals of freedom at home, and to support the Crusade for Freedom while it gives assistance to the oppressed millions in their struggles for relief from totalitarian bondage.

The people of the United States today are enjoying the most abundant life ever known to mankind. In developing consumer desires and demands, advertising has given the primary impetus to the unique American system of mass production and nationwide distribution. This, in turn, enables us to have more of the things that go to make up the American standard of living.

California in particular has experienced tremendous growth and progress, largely through well-planned advertising programs which have spread the word of our State's climatic advantages and the attractions of its wide variety of topography. This activity has brought unprecedented industrial expansion and millions of new citizens to our State.

In recent years, the advertising industry has been recruited to assist our Nation and its allies in carrying our message of truth, hope and freedom throughout the world in the international struggle for the souls and minds of men and women.

To assist in focusing public attention upon the importance of the advertising profession to the American way of life, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim the period February 14-20, 1954, as ADVERTISING RECOGNITION WEEK in California, and I urge that all the people of this State familiarize themselves with the contributions advertising has made to our commerce, recreation, arts and knowledge.

PROCLAMATION

More deaths in our Nation are attributable to diseases of the heart and blood vessels than to the next five highest causes combined. During the year 1952, over 53 per cent of the deaths in California were caused by heart and circulatory ailments. In addition, these maladies constitute the most extensive of all the social and economic burdens caused by illness which the people of this State must bear.

To combat this ruthless killer, the Heart Associations and the Heart Fund Committees of this State are dedicated to an active program embracing research, community service and education. Great progress is being made and every day lives are being saved through this work. The outlook of victims of heart diseases is being vastly improved through more complete public information and by new medical and surgical techniques developed by the Heart Association.

For the purpose of focusing public attention and support upon these efforts, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the month of February, 1954, as HEART MONTH in this State, and Sunday, February 14, upon which volunteer workers will carry their message into thousands of California homes, as HEART SUNDAY.

PROCLAMATION

Since its founding in February, 1910, the Boy Scouts of America as an organization has been a powerful factor in preparing young men for the responsibilities of constructive citizenship in our dynamic Republic. Essentially, success in Scouting is attained through the same means which must be adopted by anyone for real success in life--integrity, dedication, determination and hard work.

Among its other splendid objectives, Scouting teaches the young men who participate in its programs that the freedoms we enjoy are not to be taken lightly but must be vigorously defended and should be zealously cherished. The Boy Scout movement can flourish only where personal liberty exists.

The Scout Oath and the Scout Laws chart an inspiring course not only for any boy but for any person who will sincerely try to follow them. In the fight against juvenile delinquency, Boy Scouts have always been among the most effective soldiers on the side of decency and order.

To assist in bringing the work of this outstanding youth organization more forcibly to public attention, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim the week of February 7-13, 1954, as BOY SCOUT WEEK in California, and I urge that the people of this State familiarize themselves with the extensive contributions Scouting has made to our Nation, and give more support to the Boy Scout programs than they ever have before.

PROCLAMATION

The annual observance of Crime Prevention Week serves an excellent purpose in helping to focus public attention upon the efforts of those engaged in the protection of our human and material resources from the evil forces of violence, corruption and vandalism.

The direct cost of criminal law enforcement in California last year was nearly $135,000,000. The indirect cost is beyond estimation in monetary terms. In this State we have been able to a large extent to check the spread of crime by the cooperation of State and local officials with many voluntary and privately financed agencies in the prevention as well as in the suppression of lawlessness. An outstanding example of this kind of activity is our statewide Conference on Children and Youth being held in Sacramento February 25 and 26 to consider many of the basic problems involved.

It must be emphasized that the continuous fight against the anarchy of crime and violence requires the constant vigilance not only of enforcement officers but of all concerned with the preservation of the decency, dignity and security of our people.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim the period of February 14 to 21, 1954, as CRIME PREVENTION WEEK in California. I urge that every individual and organization take an active part in giving strong support to those elements within our homes and communities which will help to keep this Nation free and secure.

WHEREAS, An extraordinary occasion has arisen and now exists requiring that the Legislature of the State of California be convened in extraordinary session; now, therefore,

I, GOODWIN J. KNIGHT, Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority in me vested by Section 9 of Article V of the Constitution of the State of California, do hereby convene the Legislature of the State of California to meet in extraordinary session at Sacramento, California, on the first day of March, 1954, at 12.20 p.m. of said day for the following purposes and to legislate upon the following subjects:

Item No. 1. To consider and act upon legislation relating to alcoholic beverages and the administration of the alcoholic beverage laws.

Item No. 2. To consider and act upon legislation relative to increasing unemployment insurance benefits.

Item No. 3. To consider and act upon legislation relative to the providing of funds for the purchase of farms and homes under the Veterans' Farm and Home Purchase Act of 1943.

Item No. 4. To consider and act upon legislation relative to validating the organization, boundaries, governing officers or boards, acts, proceedings, and bonds of public bodies.

Item No. 5. To consider and act upon legislation relative to the size and number of license plates for registered vehicles.

Item No. 6. To consider and act upon legislation relative to the administration of the Department of the California Highway Patrol.

Item No. 7. To consider and act upon legislation amending Section 53021 of the Government Code to remove budgetary and other restrictions upon the authority of local agencies to spend funds in meeting emergencies created by great public calamity, such as extraordinary fire, flood, storm, epidemic, earthquake or other disaster.

Item No. 8. To consider and act upon legislation to provide for the reclusion in State Highway Route 75 of the portion of said route from Route 4 near Stockton via Copperopolis to Route 65 near Altaville and to provide for the payment of maintenance costs of the highway constituting such portion of said route on and after October 6, 1953.

Item No. 9. To consider and act upon legislation relative to short term financing of water districts organized under the California Water District Law.

Item No. 10. To consider and act upon legislation concerning school districts reorganized pursuant to Chapter 16 of Division 2 of the Education Code.

Item No. 11. To consider and act upon legislation relative to providing for an additional bond issue to finance capital outlay for construction or improvement of public schools.

Item No. 12. To consider and act upon legislation relative to student transportation districts.

Item No. 13. To consider and act upon legislation relative to the Military Department, the National Guard, and the wearing of military uniforms.

Item No. 14. To consider and act upon legislation to repeal an act entitled "An act for the certification of land titles and the simplification of the transfer of real estate," approved March 17, 1897, as amended by initiative approved by the electors November 3, 1914, and to provide for the submission thereof to the electors pursuant to Section 1b of Article IV of the State Constitution.

Item No. 15. To consider and act upon legislation relative to extending the period for which a city may lease property owned by it.

Item No. 16. To consider and act upon legislation relative to extending the provisions of Chapter 47 of the 1944 Fourth Extraordinary Session and the provisions of the Construction and Employment Act to newly incorporated cities.

Item No. 17. To consider and act upon legislation relative to the exclusion from a sanitary district of territory situated within the corporate limits of a city.

Item No. 18. To consider and act upon legislation relative to depositories of funds for community services districts.

Item No. 19. To consider and act upon legislation relative to allocations to counties for highway projects completed during the 1953-1954 Fiscal Year.

Item No. 20. To consider and act upon legislation to grant to the City of Redwood City the right to construct flood control projects on certain lands of the State of California in San Mateo County.

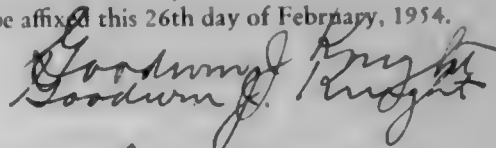

Item No. 21. To consider and act upon legislation relative to amending the Water Conservation Act of 1931 with respect to the issuance and payment of bonds and the levy and collection of special assessment taxes pursuant to that act.

Item No. 22. To consider and act upon legislation relating to the continuation of an authorized excess tax rate by a school district following unification of school districts.

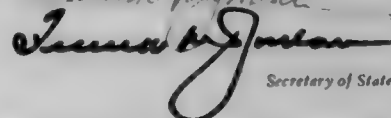

Item No. 23. To consider and act upon legislation to provide adequate minimum retirement allowances for school teachers retired for age before rendering service sufficient to entitle them to full benefits for service retirement.

Item No. 24. To approve or reject charters and charter amendments of cities, cities and counties, and counties, ratified by the electors pursuant to the Constitution of the State of California.

PROCLAMATION

In the year just past, the American Red Cross assumed the lead in organizing assistance to prisoners of war during the exchange following the armistice in Korea, and by its efforts served to strengthen the position of our Nation internationally. When major disasters struck in such distant places as England, Belgium, Holland, Japan, Turkey, Iran and Greece, this organization was there with prompt and effective relief for the victims.

These international efforts are in addition to the many magnificent services which the Red Cross renders to the people of this State and Nation. Included in its dynamic program are assistance to Armed Forces personnel and veterans, provision for an integrated blood donor program which has been instrumental in saving the lives of thousands each year, training programs for nursing and first aid, development of the Junior Red Cross, and countless other services to humanity.

Last year the Red Cross rendered aid to 24,500 families in 319 domestic relief operations, spending more than $5,000,000 for disaster relief and preparedness. Relief granted is an outright gift from the membership.

These important services all require a large amount of money, most of which must come from voluntary individual contributions. With this in mind, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim March, 1954, as RED CROSS MONTH in California, and urge that all the people of our State generously support the organization's annual fund raising campaign. Only through this means can we be assured the Red Cross will continue to render its valuable services whenever and wherever human need and distress require them.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 1st day of March, A. D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-Four.

PROCLAMATION

The most potent weapon in the arsenal of the forces of freedom in the world is truth, for we have Divine assurance that truth shall make men free.

In order to be able to determine and evaluate the truth, it is important that all the people have access to the books and documents which will offer them light in their search for knowledge and understanding.

In a dynamic society such as ours, the progress and development of this Nation depend upon the continuing education of its people. In our libraries we find the widest variety of educational facilities. There men and women, boys and girls, can find limitless information, inspiration and worthwhile recreation.

Considering these things, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period of March 7-13, 1954, as CALIFORNIA LIBRARY WEEK, and urge that Californians avail themselves of that time to visit their libraries and familiarize themselves more fully with the many advantages offered therein to everyone, to the end that these facilities be more extensively used and further developed in the interests of the community, State and Nation.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 1st day of March, A. D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-Four.

PROCLAMATION

The arid wastes of ancient and forgotten civilizations, and the plight of sections of our own country, stand as mute and ominous warnings of what can result from the unwise utilization or flagrant squandering of nature's resources.

Wisely and properly used, our water, soil and forest resources will continue to meet the growing demands of our expanding economy. With scientific and intelligent application, our petroleum and mineral deposits can be made to meet not only current needs but those of countless future generations.

Constant and conscientious consideration of such matters is essential to our prosperity and the survival of our Nation. It is an obligation we have to our children and grandchildren.

While conservation is a year around necessity, Arbor Day brings special emphasis upon the planting of new trees to enhance the beauty of our daily surroundings and to aid in the preservation of our soil and water resources. In this State, Arbor Day has traditionally been observed on March 7, the birth date of Luther Burbank, who brought fame both to himself and to California through his work in the scientific development of plant life.

Viewing the tremendous value of such programs, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim the period of March 7-14, 1954, as CONSERVATION WEEK in this State and urge that all Californians familiarize themselves with programs aimed at the conservation and efficient use of the many bountiful gifts with which we have been so abundantly endowed. I further urge that the fullest possible support be given to the various projects designed to stimulate the planting of new shrubs and trees to the end that beauty and productivity of our State may be increased.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have

PROCLAMATION

Through programs of scientific and sympathetic rehabilitation, thousands of persons otherwise hopelessly handicapped are able to enjoy happy, active and useful lives. Adaptation of the skills of these people to productive pursuits has been of tremendous value, not only to the individuals but to the commerce and culture of their community and State.

Outstanding in providing medical, educational, vocational and recreational facilities for such work are the California Society for Crippled Children and Adults and its affiliated organizations. Working closely with public agencies, these groups have demonstrated the great advantages of providing services which make it possible for dependent crippled children and grown-ups to become independent and productive citizens.

Generous voluntary public support of the annual Easter Seal campaign is vitally necessary to the continuing progress of this commendable work. With this in mind, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim the period March 18 to April 18, 1954, as EASTER SEAL MONTH in California, and urge the people of this State to give the fullest possible support to the Easter Seal campaign, thus giving aid to people who richly deserve their help.

PROCLAMATION

Every day, large numbers of Californians must face the heartbreak which accompanies cancer when it strikes the homes of our people. During 1953, more than 16,000 residents of this State succumbed to this merciless killer.

Upon this dark and tragic scene a ray of hope has appeared in recent years. The American Cancer Society reports that during 1953 the lives of more than 5,000 victims of this disease were saved because the symptomatic danger signals were detected early enough for effective treatment. The Society estimates another 5,000 could have been saved if the warning signs had been recognized earlier.

The hope is held that through a vigilant and diligent campaign of research and education the terrible toll exacted annually by this malady will be materially reduced. Giving leadership and impetus to this year-around program is the American Cancer Society which is sponsoring scientific study into this disease in numerous hospitals and universities of this State, as well as providing and distributing timely life-saving information to the public.

The financial obligations of these programs must be borne by voluntary personal contributions from millions of Americans. Recognizing the great value of the American Cancer Society and the necessity for widespread support of its efforts, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim April, 1954, as CANCER CONTROL MONTH in this State. I urge my fellow Californians to generously and actively assist this humanitarian cause to the fullest extent possible.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 12th day of March, A. D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-Four.

PROCLAMATION

It is a startling and shameful fact that accidents far outnumber all other causes of death and disability among our boys and girls. Each year, unnecessary and preventable accidents kill 12,500 children under the age of 15 years, cripple 50,000 and result in disabling injuries to another 1,500,000.

We have no greater obligation than to protect our young people, and their security demands more extensive safety education for them and for their parents. Programs designed to make children and adults alert to the dangers of accidents serve not only to develop a sense of individual responsibility for personal safety, but also help to point out and eliminate or minimize danger points in our dwellings, schools, playgrounds and nearby areas.

To call attention to the need for concerted action by all Californians, young and old, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period of April 25 through April 30, 1954, as CHILD SAFETY WEEK in this State. I urge all citizens to actively support their local public health officials, safety councils, medical associations, hospitals, school authorities and civic groups under whose auspices a Child Safety Crusade will be conducted in a nationwide movement to reduce the tragic toll taken in home area accidents.

More than 91 years ago, Abraham Lincoln issued a proclamation under his military powers as President declaring that Americans of Negro ancestry be "forever free." During the years immediately following, this declaration was implemented by the passage of a series of amendments to our Federal Constitution abolishing slavery, guaranteeing all citizens full protection of the law and providing for equal rights regardless of "race, color or previous condition of servitude."

These basic laws deserve the full support of all Americans, not as statutes alone but in the spirit of men of good will working together. In the light of current history, with its terrible weapons of mass destruction, nothing can better serve the ends of national security and international peace.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People for 45 years has been engaged in the task of combatting bigotry and discrimination, and its fundamental objectives have earned the commendation of all who believe in the ideals which form the basis for the American way of life.

In recognition of the efforts of the NAACP to make this indeed "one Nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all," I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim March 28 to April 3, 1954, as FIGHT FOR FREEDOM WEEK and urge all Californians to assist in developing the concept that every American is entitled to equality of opportunity without regard to ancestral background or religious conviction.

A sense of fair play and the will to win are fundamental to our way of life. As much as any other single factor, the sport of baseball has served to make these things inherent in the American character.

Baseball has its participants and adherents in our largest cities and in our smallest cross-roads hamlets. From the neighborhood sand lots through the semi-professional and professional organizations, this sport has proven its tremendous value in providing exemplary training in vigorous teamwork toward the realization of a worthwhile goal.

Inasmuch as California is the home of six of the eight baseball clubs comprising the Pacific Coast League, which opens its 1954 season on April 6, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim the period of April 6-11, 1954, as BASEBALL WEEK in our State, and I urge Californians to give fullest possible support to this sport by attending games and encouraging the teams of their individual choice.

PROCLAMATION

There are many signs in our times which tend to make the shortsighted despair of the future. However, in the life of the Man of Galilee we can find a guide to conduct for peaceful, harmonious living. To men and women of the Christian faith throughout the world, the Good Friday commemoration of the Crucifixion provides inspiration for faith and hope in spite of any discouragement of the moment.

The eternal Cross still stands in undiminished glory above the ruins of men and empires who sought to place themselves above God. In the senseless din of their own selfish ambitions they failed to heed the voice of the Son of Man, pleading for peace to all peoples--peace based upon the will of God and built upon justice. His ministry brought to the world divine promise of a better, brighter future for all mankind through mutual helpfulness, personal humility and respect for the dignity of others.

Considering these things, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby urge that the hours between noon and 3:00 p.m. on Good Friday, April 16, 1954, be observed by all Californians of Christian faith as a time for reverent meditation, devout prayer and consecrated dedication to the principles of peace and brotherhood lived and taught by Jesus of Nazareth.

Among the freedom loving nations of the Western Hemisphere there exist today strong bonds of good will and mutual respect based upon the splendid traditions and cultural heritage which they have in common. This has enabled these nations to live and work together in peace and amity in an otherwise turbulent world.

In California particularly we take pride in the historic background we share with our friends to the south. Place names and local customs reflect to a large extent the Spanish and Mexican influence which guided the early development of California. Californians of Latin-American ancestry constitute an extensive and valuable segment of our population, making important contributions to the sound progress of our State.

In consideration of the warm friendship and understanding existing between our Republic and our good neighbors in this part of the world, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim April 14, 1954, as PAN-AMERICAN DAY in California, and I urge that my fellow Californians join me in extending cordial greetings and best wishes to our friends in the other American nations.

PROCLAMATION

The price of our Nation's peace and security has been exacted through the death and suffering of the flower of America's youth. In defense of our way of life, thousands of men and women have answered the call to the colors and have died on alien battlefields or have been carried from them to spend the rest of their lives in hospital beds.

When the drums of war are silent and the immediate physical threat to our Republic has been averted, it becomes much too easy to forget the obligation we owe to these men.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars, the American Legion and their auxiliary organizations each year sponsor poppy sale programs to honor the memory of America's heroic dead by rendering aid to their living disabled and dependent comrades in arms. These little artificial flowers are glowing symbols of those who fought and died that our Nation might thrive and live. Funds thus raised are used for the benefit of invalided veterans and the widows and orphans of our war dead.

Reflecting upon these things, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim the period May 21-30, 1954, as POPPY DAYS in our State, and I urge my fellow Californians to buy and wear veterans' poppies in grateful acknowledgment of the irredeemable debt we owe to the men and women who have given so much.

The strength of our Republic has its roots deep in the freedom we all enjoy. High among these basic freedoms are freedom of opportunity and freedom of enterprise. The fact that men and women who work to produce the wealth of our Nation are able to participate in the development and profits of business and industry makes this favored land the envy of nations throughout the world.

Every citizen, according to his means, has a personal stake in the progress and security of our country. Investment in a home, in savings, in insurance, in real property, in securities or in business is an expression of faith in the future of our Nation and confidence in a way of life which has made it strong and great.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the week of April 25 through May 1, 1954, as INVEST IN AMERICA WEEK in our State, and urge my fellow citizens to give consideration to the importance of this observance, which originated in California and now extends throughout our Nation.

PROCLAMATION

May 1 has become the rallying date for the oppressive forces of communistic imperialism. Each year on that day, the enemies of freedom and individual dignity seek through meaningless slogans and noisy demonstrations to delude and mislead free peoples of the world into forfeiting their inherent human rights.

To counteract such activities, the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States are sponsoring a nationwide observance on that date through which Americans everywhere can reaffirm their loyalty to the traditions of our Republic and the basic tenets of the American way of life.

All loyal citizens should take advantage of this opportunity to demonstrate we are worthy of the heritage we have received from generations past. Let us be ever vigilant to keep free from the harmful effects of discredited alien philosophies and take pride in the glorious accomplishments of our Nation.

In support of this worthwhile program of the VFW, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim May 1, 1954, as LOYALTY DAY in California and I urge all Californians to pledge anew their adherence to the principles which have made our Nation great.

PROCLAMATION

The greatest source of assurance for the future of the American way of life is our public schools system, wherein our youth become familiar with the magnificent history of men and events which has made our Republic the most powerful, respected and favored country the world has known.

The public schools provide the tools of knowledge which will equip our young men and women to become constructive and responsible citizens in this land of freedom.

We have a great responsibility to maintain and advance the ideals and the standards which our people have come to expect of their public schools. We must continue the building of new classrooms to accommodate our rapidly growing population. We must keep abreast of new methods which will be helpful in continuing the vitality of our public schools. And we must encourage increasing numbers of loyal, able, qualified men and women to adopt teaching as a lifetime career.

To assist in bringing these things more forcefully before my fellow Californians, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim the period of April 26 to May 1, 1954, as PUBLIC SCHOOLS WEEK in California, and I urge all citizens to take advantage of the opportunities offered to become more familiar with the programs, goals and accomplishments of the public schools in their communities.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 20th day of April, A. D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-Four.

With the strains and stresses imposed upon us by this technological era with its many tensions, the problems of mental health should be of personal concern to each of us.

Many things of most pressing and serious public concern in our times are symptomatic of mental illness. Most instances of crimes of violence, juvenile delinquency, alcoholism, narcotics addiction, suicide and divorce have roots in emotional instability and mental insecurity.

Recognizing the urgency of this problem, people in the medical profession in California have joined with our State Department of Mental Hygiene to develop the best possible diagnosis, treatment and care for the mentally ill. Through such teamwork, based on scientific, humanitarian concern for the afflicted, Californians have reason for pride in the progress being made in this regard.

We must not, however, become complacent. Much remains to be done in research and education to bring about public understanding and sympathetic interest. Everyone can assist in establishing improved conditions for mental health by contributing to wholesome, worthwhile programs in churches, schools and community life, and by striving to maintain a generally pleasant and stable family life at home.

To aid in securing public assistance in the reduction of mental illness in our State, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim the period of May 2 through May 8, 1954, as MENTAL HEALTH WEEK in California. I urge my fellow Californians to become more fully acquainted with State and local programs for prevention and treatment of mental illness and to familiarize themselves with ways in which they can most effectively contribute to the success of these programs.

PROCLAMATION

The cultural and economic traditions of our State are closely interwoven with the 21 early Catholic Missions of California, founded between 1769 and 1823 by missionaries of the Order of Saint Francis under the leadership of Father Junipero Serra. The spiritual determination and outstanding ability of this dedicated group laid the foundations for many of our State's outstanding cities.

This year we in California are honored to have these historic landmarks as the reverent objectives of a special pilgrimage for the Franciscan National Marian Congress. We take pride in the heritage which brought about this national recognition.

The California Mission Trails Association has done much to perpetuate the fame of these unique monuments to man's faith in God and the future, and of the many fine communities which have risen near them.

Since the Marian Congress tour of the Missions will be held during that period, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim the period of May 2-9, 1954, as MISSION TRAILS WEEK in California. I urge that all Californians familiarize themselves with the importance of the fine work done at our 21 Missions in bringing religion, industry and culture to our State, and extend recognition to their fellow citizens who today live and work in the areas where the early Padres first brought civilization to our State.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 23d day of April, A. D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-Four.

Our Republic is a great and peace loving nation. We should constantly endeavor to devise ways and means, in common cause with other nations, under which there shall be reasonable hope of securing peace on earth.

Peace, like freedom, is a prize which is not to be won by a people lacking in strength, courage and determination. Our efforts for peace and international respect would neither receive nor deserve serious attention if we fail to maintain the power and pride to sustain them. If we are to preserve and perpetuate our traditions of individual dignity and freedom, our country's Armed Forces, in peace as in war, should have the support of all citizens in carrying out their task of protecting the peace, welfare and security of our Nation.

The Armed Forces of the United States will be honored throughout the Nation on May 15, designated by the President and Congress as Armed Forces Day. It is fitting that we pay homage to the men and women serving in our Nation's Armed Forces for their contribution to the preservation of the principles and ideals of our American heritage.

Also deserving of our grateful recognition are those in civilian life who compose an important part of our military defense program through service in reserve components and in the National Guard--traditional guardians of life and property during domestic disaster and vital units of our Nation's security forces.

Mindful of these considerations, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim May 15, 1954, as ARMED FORCES DAY in California. I urge that all Californians participate in Armed Forces Day programs in their communities to the fullest possible extent and visit military installations which have scheduled "open house" programs in observance of this occasion.

PROCLAMATION

We in California are fortunate to have within the boundaries of our State so many of the Nation's major seaports--from San Diego in the south to Eureka in the north. The progress and traffic of our ports and harbors are of great importance to our economy.

Hundreds of millions of dollars in wages, dividends, profits and taxes are derived from the maritime industries within our State. Through our port cities a substantial share of the products of our farms and factories is channeled to overseas markets.

A strong and vigorous Merchant Marine is essential to the maintenance of our position of leadership among the free nations of the world. It is through the medium of our merchant fleet that we have the closest and most frequent contact with our friends in foreign lands, providing excellent opportunities for the promotion of greater understanding and mutual respect among the peoples of the world.

Considering the importance of transoceanic commerce to our State, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period of May 17-23, 1954, as WORLD TRADE WEEK, and May 22, 1954, the 135th anniversary of the first trans-Atlantic voyage of a steam-propelled United States merchant ship, the Savannah, as MARITIME DAY in California. I urge that all citizens of our State familiarize themselves with the foreign trade and shipping industries which are so essential to the continuing progress and development of California.

The white cane has become the generally accepted symbol of a blind person and indicates that anyone carrying it should be extended the greatest possible consideration and assistance in dealing with the hazards which beset those unable to see. Operators of motor vehicles should be especially vigilant, yielding an absolute right of way to the bearers of white canes on our streets and highways.

To advance the welfare of our fellow citizens who have been deprived of the blessing of sight and to aid these people in their efforts to overcome their handicap, the National Federation of the Blind sponsors White Cane Week. Through educational programs promoted by such activity, we are provided with the opportunity to become better acquainted with the problems of our blind friends and neighbors.

To assist in furthering this worthwhile work, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period of May 17-22, 1954, as WHITE CANE WEEK in California, and I urge the people of our State to give the greatest possible support to the National Federation of the Blind in its programs to assist our less fortunate fellow Americans.

PROCLAMATION

It has become traditional throughout our Nation to set aside one day each year upon which to pay reverent tribute to those who gave their lives that our Republic might live. This has become a day to remember these sacrifices and to contemplate the principles which motivated them.

Far from home and loved ones, thousands of Americans have fought and died to secure peace on earth. Through sorrow and sacrifice the men and women of our Armed Forces have been motivated by an unselfish desire for universal peace. Such peace can only come from justice for all peoples, based upon their right to live on equal terms of freedom, dignity and security with one another, without fear or suspicion.

In solemn contemplation of these truths, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim Sunday, May 30, 1954, as MEMORIAL DAY in California, and I urge all Californians to join in praying for international peace which will guarantee the honor and legitimate rights of all mankind. I hope that all of our people will participate to the fullest possible extent in appropriate civic and patriotic ceremonies and services dedicated to the sacred memory of our Nation's heroic dead.

PROCLAMATION

The schools of our Nation constitute the greatest assurance of the perpetuation of the principles of our Nation and of our country's continuing progress. To maintain this first line of defense for our Republic, it is imperative that greater numbers of young people become interested in the opportunities offered by the teaching profession.

Along with more material considerations, public recognition and appreciation contribute substantially to the rewards of those who instruct in our schools.

To focus attention on this outstanding group of Americans, each year one teacher is selected by nationwide organizations vitally interested in the welfare of our children to be honored as the Teacher of the Year. Californians can take pride in the fact that this year Dr. Ethel Percy Andrus of our State has been selected by the National Retired Teachers Association, by the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, and by the National Education Association, to be so honored.

In grateful acknowledgment of our obligation to the men and women who instruct and guide the youth of our State, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim Sunday, June 6, 1954, as TEACHERS' DAY, and the period June 6-12 as TEACHER CAREER WEEK in California. I urge that during this period the people of California endeavor to become more familiar with the accomplishments, purposes and problems of the teachers in our schools and of young people preparing to enter upon a teaching career.

Each year, the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and its affiliated local unions sponsor a Safety Truck Check throughout our Nation, with a view to insuring greater traffic safety on the highways and streets.

The consistent efforts of the Teamsters to promote courteous, careful operation of properly equipped and maintained vehicles merit the fullest possible public praise and encouragement. Through such activities numerous lives are being saved and travel is made more pleasant for thousands of motorists.

To encourage such safety measures, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim the period June 7-11, 1954, as TRUCK SAFETY WEEK in our State. PROCLAMATION

During 1953, death came to 3,371 people in California as the direct result of accidents involving motor vehicles. There were more than 110,000 injuring accidents in that year and the economic loss to the people of our State has been estimated at $320,000,000 because of these tragedies in traffic.

If criminals and outlaws in our midst were to exact such a toll, an aroused citizenry would undertake a crusade to stamp out the roots of such activity.

The California Safety Council, a statewide volunteer organization, is inaugurating a Traffic Safety Crusade, assisted by the newspapers of our State, directed at increasing the awareness of individual drivers to their responsibilities for the promotion and maintenance of safety on our highways and streets.

Recognizing the value of such programs in reducing vehicular accidents in our State, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby designate the period of June 14-21, 1954, as the opening week of this Crusade, and I urge all Californians to cooperate by signing Safe Driving Pledges and by otherwise promoting the cause of traffic safety to the fullest possible extent.

PROCLAMATION

On June 14, 1777, the Congress of the United States adopted a resolution establishing the Stars and Stripes as the banner of our infant Republic and for 177 years this has been the honored emblem of our Nation on this continent and throughout the world.

There is inspiration for all Americans in that beautiful symbol of our past glories, our present pride and our future hopes. Our Flag and the American way of life have developed side by side throughout our history. We are heirs to the most magnificent banner that has ever exemplified the struggles, ideals and ambitions of a great people.

It is imperative that all Americans revere the fundamental rights of mankind symbolized by Old Glory and that they proclaim and defend them against all enemies, alien and domestic.

To assist in dramatizing the importance of the Star Spangled Banner to our national life, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim the period of June 13-19, 1954, as FLAG WEEK, and designate Monday, June 14, 1954, as FLAG DAY in our State. I urge that our National Emblem be displayed by every home, public building and business establishment, and that all citizens participate in appropriate celebrations and observances commemorating the anniversary of our Flag.

PROCLAMATION

On June 17, 1579, Captain Francis Drake brought his ship, the "Golden Hind," into a "convenient and fit harbor" on the shore of modern Marin County to refurbish and prepare for the long voyage home to the England of Elizabeth I.

When Drake and his companions landed they found the natives most hospitable and the inland a "goodly country and fruitful soil, stored with many blessings fit for the use of man." To commemorate their landing, the intrepid commander "caused to be set up a monument.....namely a plate of brass, fast nailed to a great and firme post."

Today this plate is a prized relic of our historic past, preserved at our University of California. Authentic reproductions have been presented to Her Majesty, Elizabeth II, in recognition of the warm bonds of friendship and understanding which exist between our Nations.

The Drake Navigators Guild has undertaken to conduct research and educational programs based upon this chapter of our State's colorful and picturesque past. This group has already achieved outstanding results and continues to work to bring about a fuller understanding of our marvelous history.

Believing that the fullest possible encouragement should be given to such efforts aimed at preserving the traditions of our growth and progress, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim Thursday, June 17, 1954, as DRAKE'S DAY in our State. I urge all Californians to familiarize themselves with the explorations and career of Sir Francis Drake and with his important contribution to the development of our heritage.

PROCLAMATION

Assistant Secretary of State

Based upon an appeal to "the Supreme Judge of the world" and relying upon "the protection of Divine Providence," delegates to the Continental Congress on July 4, 1776, declared that the American states were to be independent of alien domination.

These men laid the firm foundation upon which the structure of our Republic has been erected. Fundamental among these principles is that which holds that the people have the power and ability to govern themselves.

Privilege and duty are inseparable and personal liberty cannot be maintained without acceptance of individual responsibility. Every citizen, regardless of ancestry or faith, must have equal protection under the law. Liberty may only be enjoyed in harmony with the identical liberty for all others. This is the basis for our political freedom. All have the right to be considered as individuals and to be judged on their own merit. Their differences of belief and opinion must be respected; their rights must be jealously defended.

The rights of an individual must not be exercised in such a manner as to interfere with the rights of others or to offer a threat to the security of our Republic.

Ours is a dynamic nation. Each citizen should consistently and vigorously oppose all forms of tyranny which might offer a threat to the ideals and institutions of the United States. Recognizing the dangers inherent in the communistic conspiracy, we must also be ever vigilant to combat the forces of bigotry, oppression and tyranny, in whatever guise they may appear.

With deep and firm belief in the ideals which led to the inception of our Nation, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim the 4th of July, 1954, as INDEPENDENCE DAY in California. I urge that all citizens extend prayerful gratitude to the Almighty for the manifold blessings of freedom under God which are ours, and that we all renew our trust in Divine Justice as we go forward with courage to meet the challenges and promises of the future.

On July 14, 1954, the United States Air Force's Civilian Ground Observer Corps will mark the second anniversary of "Operation Skywatch," performing a vitally important service to the defense of our great Republic. The untiring patriotic service of hundreds of volunteers in the Ground Observer Corps constitute the first line of defense for the security of the United States.

If we are to be assured that hostile aircraft will not be able to approach our cities, our industrial plants and our military installations undetected, the fullest possible support and encouragement must be extended to the men and women who give so unselfishly of their time and talent to this service. There is little glamour and less glory to such watchful waiting but upon this vigilance may depend the lives of millions of people and the very existence of our country.

To assist in bringing the continuing need for additional volunteers in this important service before the public and to extend grateful recognition to the thousands of people now serving in the great number of observer posts and filter centers, I, Goodwin J. PROCLAMATION

Throughout the history of mankind, farming has been a naturally hazardous occupation. With the great progress that has been made in the mechanization of agriculture even greater care is needed on the part of farmers, their families and employees to avoid the painful and costly results of preventable accidents. In our State such outstanding organizations as the Red Cross, the Farm Bureau, the Grange, 4-H Clubs, Future Farmers of America, the National Safety Council and many others have undertaken, in cooperation with governmental agencies, to reduce the danger of farm mishaps through extensive programs of education and action.

It has been said that "the measure of civilization is our concern for human life." We must recognize that accidents do not just "happen"--they are caused and they can be avoided. With proper maintenance and safety devices, dangers arising from the use of farm machinery can be minimized. With proper diligence and recognition of rules of personal safety, accidents arising from human carelessness can be virtually eliminated.

With these thoughts in mind, I join with the President of the United States in encouraging the promotion of agricultural safety by proclaiming the week of July 25-31, 1954, as FARM SAFETY WEEK in California and I urge that all Californians living in the rural areas of our State devote increased effort toward assuring adequate safeguards for the protection of life and property not only during the period of this observance but throughout the entire year.

The progress of our state and the well-being of our great people are dependent upon the health, vigor, and enterprise of the people. Between the ages of 20 and 40, the people of California are the most energetic and productive. Uncontrolled fire is a serious menace to our national security and to the individual safety of all Americans. Detrimental effects are felt by commercial and industrial establishments, by employer and employee, and its tentacles reach into the very heart of our Republic - the American home. Each year thousands of acres of our timber and lumber reserves are ravaged and thousands of acres of our valuable grazing and watershed lands are made barren.

The loss of human life by fire each year is alarming, and even though we have had no major disasters involving large scale fatalities, our California vital statistics show an appalling loss of life in the home attributable to this cause. Four hundred and fifteen deaths due to fire in the home were reported during 1953, and the tragedy is that a substantial number of these were children under 15 years of age, many of these under the age of five years.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim the week beginning October 3, 1954, as FIRE PREVENTION WEEK in California. I urge the citizens of California to join with the professional and volunteer fire officials and firemen in their efforts to reduce this needless wasteful sacrifice of life and property, and I strongly recommend that each and every home owner make an inspection of his home, in order that this "death a day by fire" in the home can be stopped.

PROCLAMATION

Since the foundation of our Republic, the keystone of our precious freedoms has been the right of franchise. The abridgement of this right has brought men to arms and on numerous occasions the flower of our Nation's manhood has been sacrificed so that this privilege might be strengthened, broadened and made more secure.

It is a paradox that this basic right of free men, so won and nobly defended, should be lost to thousands through their own inactivity and failure to exercise it. To insure that only those entitled to the vote of an American are permitted to exercise it, certain regulations have become necessary. Among these is the one which prescribes a system of registration. This is important in the conduct of orderly and efficient elections and is a necessary condition for those who wish to exercise their right of franchise.

Since the last time for registration of voters in this State, it has been determined that it will be optional with the officials in the various counties as to whether they will accept registrations on September 2 or else registrations the preceding day. It is indicated that some counties will provide such registrations on Admission Day while several others will accept registrations after September 2.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do proclaim the period from the date of this proclamation until the close of the registration of REGISTERED VOTERS in the State of California, and all eligible Californians qualify themselves to participate in the 1954 General Election by taking advantage of the opportunity that they are properly registered. I also take this opportunity to remind my fellow citizens that those who are not registered will be unable to effectively express their choices for candidates and issues on the November 2nd ballot.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 20th day of August, A.D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-four.

Whereas the American people have shown their devotion to the principles of democracy and the rights of man in the productive and voluntary cooperative efforts of the people of this State;

And whereas the people of this State, and progressed, men of skill and talents to bring about the better affairs of our Nation by their efforts in advancing the economic well-being of the people and have served to make the worker a better American.

And whereas the high standards of work and production and cooperation of management and labor is the basis of the goods and services produced in this State.

Now, therefore, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of the State of California, hereby proclaim the period of September 5, 1954, as UNION LABEL WEEK in our State. Further, I take advantage of the opportunities afforded by the use and purpose of the label to urge that the product of the State of California be labeled as such.

PROCLAMATION

Each year, throughout our State, nearly 1,000 local and national health, welfare, recreational and public service agencies conduct cooperative fund raising programs through numerous Community Chests, United Fund and other combined appeals for funds.

By this means the work of these various groups is financed in the communities where such fund campaigns are held. Those making contributions can be assured that they are helping to give homeless or needy children an added measure of security and affection. This money helps bring to the physically handicapped a fuller life through useful activity. Families are thus enabled to stay together during periods of severe economic stress. Guidance for young men and young women is provided along paths of healthy development, self-reliance and constructive citizenship.

In recognition of these worthwhile, humanitarian programs, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim the months of September, October and November as COMMUNITY CHEST AND UNITED FUND TIME in our State, and I urge every fellow Californian give the fullest possible support to the men and women in their cities and communities who are voluntarily contributing their time and talents to insure the success of their drives and the continuation of the causes represented.

PROCLAMATION

California citizens of the Jewish faith are now preparing to participate in the nationwide celebration of the American Jewish Tercentenary which will be launched officially on September 12th to commemorate the 300th anniversary of Jewish settlement in the United States.

The theme of this observance, "Man's Opportunities and Responsibilities under Freedom," will provide a unique occasion for Americans to strengthen their understanding of the principles of democratic freedom and the tradition of harmony among all citizens.

We in California have reason to be proud of the progress we have made in the advancement of the ideals of brotherhood and the part our State has played through the years in championing religious liberty and the humanitarian doctrines which have marked our Nation as a symbol of freedom in the world today.

During recent years our State has experienced unprecedented growth which has brought with it problems requiring the fullest cooperation of all segments of our society to solve. The manner in which these problems have been solved is a splendid demonstration of the ability of people of widely differing origins and of all races and religious beliefs to work together for the common good.

Now, therefore, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period from September 12, 1954, to October 12, 1954, to be "AMERICAN JEWISH TRICENTENARY MONTH" in this State, and I do call upon all citizens of California to join in marking this significant occasion with public ceremonies and in all other appropriate ways to take part in the observance of this great anniversary.

PROCLAMATION

Another milestone will be reached in the proud history of the United States Navy and in the colorful annals of California when Mare Island Naval Shipyard celebrates the centennial of its founding by Commander David Glasgow Farragut on September 16, 1854, as the first naval base on the Pacific Coast.

Today Mare Island stands as a monument to the vital role which the Fleet has performed in protecting the Nation's western continental frontier from threats of those who would breach our security. Under the Navy's watchful eye seafaring commerce has been nurtured and protected, thus adding in great measure to the economic growth of our State.

From this great base during the past century have sailed many expeditions on peaceful and humanitarian missions-- exploration, polar relief, maritime succor and voyages of mercy to disaster-stricken areas of the world. But it is in pursuance of its motto, "Our Sole Mission is to Serve the Fleet," that this great bastion of defense achieved renown in four wars. For it is from her docks and wharves that the armed might of the Navy has sailed forth to defend the American people, American possessions, American honor and the American way of life in farflung battle zones. And it has been Mare Island which provided the haven for casualties of battle, both men and ships, where they were made whole to fight again.

The pages of history are emblazoned with Mare Island's technical achievements since the first product of its ways, the USS Saginaw, was launched in 1859. Hundreds of fighting ships, large and small, display tablets attesting to their launching at Mare Island and bear mute testimony to the skill of the artisans who fashioned them.

To these men and women whose skills have contributed in large part to America's supremacy on the seas, the Nation owes a salute. It is they who have made Mare Island vigorous and vitally strong and who have enriched the civic life of the City of Vallejo across the narrow strait.

With these thoughts in mind, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby proclaim the period September 13, 1954, to September 19, 1954, as "MARE ISLAND CENTENNIAL WEEK," to be devoted to suitable observances in honor of the West Coast's oldest naval base. I further recommend that the people of California during this period reflect upon the contribution which Mare Island personnel have made to our State and Nation and that proper recognition be accorded them in all observances.

PROCLAMATION

On the playgrounds, in the classrooms and in the homes of America is to be found the hope of the future strength and security of our beloved Nation. The parents and teachers of our youth therefore have a tremendous responsibility beyond their immediate obligation to the young people under their charge.

In a republic such as ours, the most valuable citizen is the person who is able to acquire the fullest possible knowledge and information on public issues, and then to act intelligently upon the basis of the known facts. Through guidance in the home and at school, this type of citizen is developed by cooperative effort, patience, and determination on the part of those charged with this task.

Parents and Teachers Associations throughout California's school districts have performed invaluable service in promoting a fuller understanding of the problems involved in training and education of our citizens of the future. In many communities, these associations have been instrumental in solving school deficiencies, in combating the causes of juvenile delinquency and in focusing public attention on other problems concerned with the relationship of parents, teachers, and young people with one another.

To bring public attention to the multiple public services performed through these organizations, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim the period of October 4 to October 9, 1954, as PARENT-TEACHER WEEK in California, and urge all citizens to become more familiar with the programs and purposes of the Parents and Teachers Associations in developing better citizenship among the boys and girls of our State.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 10th day of September, A. D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-four.

The perpetuation of a free press is a guarantee of human liberty and personal freedom in our beloved land, for as long as our press is unfettered, we are free. The sovereignty of the people and freedom of the press are inseparable. When either is subjugated to tyranny or oppression, the other perishes.

A wise man once said, "Let it be impressed upon your minds, let it be instilled into your children, that the liberty of the press is the palladium of all the civil, political and religious rights." In view of our constitutional guarantees of human liberty and personal freedom in this great Republic, this is a reassuring thought.

However, we must all be diligently alert and uncompromising in opposition to any attack upon this bastion of our precious liberties. A shackled and enslaved press not only would deprive us of a guiding light for the security and progress of our way of life, but would constitute a dangerous will-of-the-wisp which could be used to decoy our people to disaster and destruction.

Contemplating these basic truths, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim the period of October 1 - 8, 1954, as NEWSPAPER WEEK in our State and urge the people of California to take advantage of every opportunity offered to gain greater appreciative understanding of the important contributions which newspapers and the men and women who serve on their staffs have made and are making to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" in our communities, our State, and our Nation.

Assistant Secretary of State

Our Republic and the living standards of its people have become the envy and inspiration of the entire civilized world. This has been brought about through the ingenuity, industry and intelligence of the people. Our productive might and our potential for the future make our Nation the greatest in the history of mankind.

A factor which has contributed greatly to our progress has been the willingness of Americans to judge and value their fellow citizens for their abilities rather than for their disabilities. Ancient and less enlightened societies limited their own development by cruelly rejecting and destroying persons with physical handicaps. By such action, they foolishly squandered valuable human resources.

Each year, the people of our country are becoming more deeply concerned with the wellbeing of those around them. We are constantly gaining in appreciation of the capabilities of the physically handicapped, and there is increasing public awareness that these men and women should be accepted as a normal part of our society and encouraged to assume their rightful places in commerce, industry, science and government.

Making suitable gainful employment available to a disabled person brings great benefits in human relations. In addition, it has been proven in instances without number that the hiring of the handicapped is a sound labor investment. They are generally devoted to their work and extraordinarily loyal to their employer. In striving to compensate for their disability, they frequently develop their other faculties to a point which nears maximum efficiency.

In recognition of the tremendous advantages which come to all our people through such activity, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim the period of October 1 through October 9, 1954, as EMPLOY THE PHYSICALLY HANDICAPPED WEEK in our State. I urge that all Californians work together with greater determination and broader vision in order that the courage, initiative and hard work of thousands of disabled individuals can be utilized to the greatest possible benefit for all.

PROCLAMATION

In appraising the contributions of Juan Rodrigues Cabrillo, the Portuguese sea captain who discovered California in 1542, the eminent historian, Hubert Howe Bancroft, wrote, "To this bold mariner, the first to discover her coasts, if to anyone, California may with propriety, erect a monument."

This intrepid navigator, in a small wooden sailing vessel explored an uncharted coast in the name of the King of Spain, bringing to the civilized world its first actual knowledge of this wondrous land which is our home State. While in more recent years, monuments have been erected to Cabrillo and appropriate recognition is made of his exploits, his final resting place on a small island off the California coast is unmarked and lost under the shifting sands. He gave his life while making his greatest contribution to the history of mankind--the extensive, painstaking exploration of the coast of California. In a sense, however, all California is his monument.

However, in contrast to many empire builders of his era, Cabrillo apparently had a high regard for the rights of all men. His treatment of the native Indians of the land he discovered and charted quickly established friendly relations with them. The manner in which he treated the Californians of 1542 enabled his expedition to return with a vast amount of information about the land he had found which otherwise would never have been gained at that time.

The exemplary courage and conduct of this remarkable man could well be used for guidance by men and women of today and in the years ahead as they meet the challenge of new and unpredictable frontiers of tomorrow.

In recognition of his contribution to the history of our State, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim September 28, 1954, as CABRILLO DAY in California and I urge that my fellow Californians avail themselves of every possible opportunity to become more familiar with the life and accomplishments of Juan Rodrigues Cabrillo, the discoverer of California.

This year marks the centennial of the work of Florence Nightingale as a nurse on the battlefields of the Crimean War. In the generations since, professional nurses have made countless outstanding contributions to the health and welfare of mankind. Their great service has extended through peace and our daily life just as effectively as it has through war and disaster.

The progress of nursing has been reflected in higher health standards for the people of our Republic. The continuing improvement of nursing education and of nursing service is of primary importance in encouraging young people to take up this career as their life work.

Recognizing the unselfish service of professional nurses to humanity, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim October 11-16, 1954, as NURSE WEEK in our State and I urge that all Californians join in an appreciation to the men and women who care for those in need of care, who help restore the ailing to health, who work for the prevention of sickness, and who assist the weak to regain strength.

In ancient times the sagas and tales of the people were carried from place to place and handed down from generation to generation by wayfaring minstrels who phrased news and history in verse. Thus the art of poetry has played an important role in the preservation and dissemination of mankind's historic knowledge.

Poets and prophets of the world's great faiths, through the ages, have recorded their words of wisdom and truth in poetic fashion that they might be better understood by the people.

Millions of people have found and still find solace, encouragement and joy through poetry -- both in its reading and in its composition. The poems and songs of America provide an inexhaustible source of patriotic inspiration to the citizens of our Republic. Poetry also gives profound expression to the loveliness of nature and to the nobility that is in humanity.

To help bring about greater public recognition of the importance of poets and poetry to our civilization and culture, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim October 15, 1954, as POETRY DAY throughout California.

For several years members of the California Federation of Business and Professional Women have been active in working for improvement in the commercial, cultural and civic affairs of our State.

In local clubs throughout California, these women are constantly striving to promote better citizenship among their friends and neighbors as well as within their own membership. Their efforts to encourage better business methods, to create new employment, and to conserve existing economic resources have been vitally important to the progress and prosperity of a great many cities and towns in our State.

The record of achievement established by the Business and Professional Women's Clubs in helping to bring the women of America into fuller participation in the industrial, commercial, professional and governmental activities of our Republic is both noteworthy and inspiring.

The contributions of this group of citizens have been important to the orderly growth and development of California and in recognition of their services, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim October 10 to 17, 1954, as BUSINESS WOMEN'S WEEK in our State. I urge my fellow citizens to observe this occasion by becoming as familiar as possible with the accomplishments and programs of the business and professional women in their home towns.

The American home is the fountain of strength for the Nation. Just as our past was built upon the foundation of the home, so our future depends upon the family life of the Nation.

Through participation in the programs of the Future Homemakers of America, girls of today are preparing to assume the most important single occupation in our country--that of homemaker. Activities which are designed to help our young people become better citizens render valuable patriotic service to our Republic. The loyalty and affection which are essential to any successful home are also requisites of good citizenship.

In commemoration of the tenth anniversary of the founding of Future Homemakers of America, I, Goodwin J. PROCLAMATION

As Americans, we must never permit the urgency of the moment to dull our memory of the great debt which we owe to the thousands of men and women who sacrificed their lives and shed their blood to preserve the honor and security of our Republic.

Many who left their homes and careers to repulse and rout the forces of our enemies returned permanently and totally disabled, requiring hospitalization for the remainder of their lives. Still others are in need of hospital care at frequent intervals and are only partially able to resume the life which they enjoyed before they answered the call to duty in defense of our beloved land.

Each year, members of the Disabled American Veterans chapters throughout our State offer for sale symbolic forget-me-nots to the public. Funds derived from this source are used to help finance the DAV's many services on behalf of our disabled veterans.

To assist in bringing this program to the attention of the people of California, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim November 4-11, 1944, FORGET-ME-NOT WEEK. I urge my fellow citizens to avail themselves of this opportunity to express in some measure the grateful appreciation for the sacrifices which were made in their behalf by their war-wounded friends and neighbors.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 13th day of October, One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-Four.

The preservation of our Republic is dependent upon the knowledge, understanding and capabilities of its citizens. Our schools are the Nation's first line of security and their proper maintenance is of paramount concern to every citizen.

Accurate information regarding the nature of individual responsibility in the solution of school problems is essential to the success of the educational programs for our future citizens.

Among the greatest and most persistent of these problems is that of attracting more qualified young men and women to the teaching profession. California's schools especially must employ increasing numbers of new teachers in order to keep pace with our tremendous growth in population. We have a primary obligation to provide sound, thorough training to the youth of our land so that they may prepare themselves for the obligations of constructive citizenship in a dynamic society.

To direct public attention to the importance of education in the continued well-being of our Nation, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim November 7-13, 1954, as AMERICAN EDUCATION WEEK in our State and urge that all Californians take advantage of the opportunities offered by this observance to become better acquainted with school programs and needs, to the end that they will be qualified to assist in developing high educational standards for all our people.

PROCLAMATION

Throughout its history, our Republic has been blessed with men and women who have met the challenge of their day and taken their place in the pages of the past. Upon occasion there arises an American leader whose personality symbolizes the glories of our heritage and the promise of our future, above and beyond that individual's position in place and time.

Such a man was the 26th President of the United States, Theodore Roosevelt. His creed was simple and direct: "There is no limit to the greatness of the future before America, before our beloved land... We can serve the world at all only if we serve America first and best... We must feel in the very marrow of our being that our loyalty is due only to America, and that it is not diluted by loyalty for any other nation or all other nations."

To Teddy Roosevelt, Americanism was a vibrant, living reality. His intense and undeviating patriotism has been a beacon of inspiration not only to his own generation but to all Americans. His humanitarian approach to the problems of the people; his rigid insistence on conservation of our resources for the generations yet to be; his belief in military and naval preparedness as a guarantee of national dignity and security - all these things have earned for him a leading place among the heroes of our Republic.

In grateful memory of his important contributions to our country's character and traditions, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim October 27, 1954, the 90th anniversary of his birth, as THEODORE ROOSEVELT DAY in our State and I urge all Californians to become more familiar with the words and works of this great American.

PROCLAMATION

On November 11, 1918, the carnage of the first World War ended with an armistice in a remote forest village in France. It since has become the custom of our people to observe this date with appropriate ceremonies dedicated to those who have served so valiantly in battle and elsewhere in our country's armed forces during time of war.

The anniversary of the Armistice also has served to dramatize the eternal hope of all men and women for peace with freedom, security, dignity and honor. Despite the holocausts of international conflict which have shaken the world since then, this date has continued to symbolize the desires of our people for a just and lasting peace.

November 11 in the past has been generally known as "Armistice Day" by the Americans everywhere. This year, expanding the significance of the day in our heritage, Congress has seen fit to officially designate the day as "Veterans' Day" in recognition of those men and women who have served to sustain our Republic in time of armed conflict, not only during World War I but in all actions which have occurred since.

Considering these facts, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim the anniversary of the World War I Armistice -- November 11, 1954 -- as VETERANS' DAY throughout California. I urge my fellow citizens to reflect with grateful appreciation upon the sacrifices of their kindred, their friends and their neighbors who have worn with honor the uniforms of our armed services when our beloved land was threatened by the forces of tyranny and aggression. Upon their service will be erected the future peace and security of our Nation.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 22nd day of October, A. D., One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-Four.

The people of our Republic traditionally have relied upon spiritual values for their strength and guidance. At the very foundation of our Nation, the framers of our Declaration of Independence recognized that the people are "endowed by their Creator" with the basic freedoms and rights which we now enjoy. It is entirely appropriate that we frequently offer humble and prayerful gratitude for the Divine Benevolence which has been bestowed upon us.

The bond which connects mankind with the Deity is religion. It is from religious faith that freedom and virtue derive their eternal strength. Religion is the basis for individual happiness, national well-being and international accord. In religious thought men and nations have found example and inspiration for truth, justice and righteousness.

In deepest humility, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim November, 1954, as GO TO CHURCH MONTH throughout our State. During this period, I hope that my fellow citizens will take more active and consistent interest in the services and programs at their chosen places of worship. I ask that all Californians join in prayers that we may find strength to follow the course which is charted for us, that we may find vision to see the light before us and we may be -- as individuals and as a people -- always on the side of the right.

PROCLAMATION

The fundamental freedoms which we all enjoy as Americans constitute a precious heritage. We must never lose sight of the fact that this inheritance has been secured for us by the service and sacrifice of the men and women who have served in the armed forces of our Republic when its honor and security have been threatened.

The oldest decoration which is conferred upon United States service personnel is the Purple Heart, given to those who have suffered wounds in battle action. A society has been formed which limits its membership to those who have earned this distinction. The Military Order of Purple Heart is devoted to service of American men and women who, because of injury and disability in defense of our country, are deserving of the gratitude and assistance of all their fellow citizens.

In recognition of the irredeemable debt owed those who have given so much to bring peace and security to all our people, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim November 4-11, 1954, as PURPLE HEART WEEK in our State. During this period, the Military Order of the Purple Heart and Auxiliary will make available their traditional viola to all who support their programs of aid and rehabilitation for their disabled and handicapped comrades.

Assistant Secretary of State

Once more we have come to the season of the year which traditionally has marked the end of the harvest of nature's bounty to mankind. Since the earliest days of our history, the American people have set aside a period of this season in which to offer prayerful thanks for the munificence of Almighty God which has been bestowed upon us as individuals and as a nation.

We are indeed blessed among the peoples of the earth. We have been endowed with great personal liberty and with a most fruitful land. This is a divine heritage and we have a sacred responsibility to insure that it is securely protected and passed on undiminished to future generations.

As we reflect upon our past and upon our future prospects, the people of California find much to gladden their hearts and for which to be grateful. It is most appropriate that we should follow the long-established custom and set aside a day for the giving of thanks to our Creator.

In contemplation of the sacred gifts granted us through the benevolence of God, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim Thursday, November 11, 1954, as THANKSGIVING DAY in our State. I urge the citizens to assemble in their customary places of worship upon that day to join in services of prayer and thanksgiving and to reaffirm our dependence on the protection of Divine Providence."

Traffic accidents claimed the lives of 3,371 people in California last year and resulted in injuries to 110,000 others. The economic loss of these crashes has been estimated at $320,000,000.

This needless carnage, suffering and financial loss have been of deep concern to all. While we have improved the record so far this year, the highway toll is still frightful.

Recognizing the same problem on a national scale, President Eisenhower's Action Committee for Traffic Safety has designated a Safe Driving Day, or S-D Day, during which every state and every community is asked to strive for a 24-hour period completely free of traffic accidents. The day selected is Wednesday, December 15, 1954.

The period between now and S-D Day will be dedicated to preparatory activity to arouse public consciousness to the need for observance of proven methods of traffic safety and support of those public officials and others who devote their efforts to making our streets and highways safer.

In the hope that this practical demonstration of an accident-less 24 hours will produce a realization that the same results can be achieved during each of the other 364 days in the year, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, do hereby designate Wednesday, December 15, 1954, as SAFE DRIVING DAY in California. I urge every Californian, motorist and pedestrian alike, to join wholeheartedly in a determined effort to make Safe Driving Day a success.

The first ten amendments to our Federal Constitution guarantee certain fundamental rights to all Americans against encroachment by the arbitrary and capricious exercise of governmental powers.

The philosophy of individual freedom, contingent upon individual responsibility as set forth in these articles, has attracted to our shores millions who suffered under foreign oppression. The principles set forth in our Bill of Rights offer hope for personal opportunity and human dignity to men and women everywhere.

The events of history have conferred upon us leadership in the struggle for the defense and preservation of the essential liberties of mankind against the inroads of totalitarian tyranny, whatever its guise.

These rights are not static. They were won through determined struggle, untiring vigilance and great sacrifices. They can be sustained only through the dedicated efforts of an alert nation. Our Bill of Rights has come to us as a trust to be nurtured and safeguarded for future generations. This is the sacred obligation assumed in consideration of the manifold blessings we enjoy as Americans.

Commemorating the 163rd anniversary of the adoption of our Bill of Rights in our Constitution, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim December 9-15, 1954, as BILL OF RIGHTS WEEK throughout our State. I urge that all Californians become more familiar with the text and with the spirit of these articles, and that they actively support efforts which will sustain and strengthen these vitally important laws of our land.

For in the history of mankind have risen from obscure origins to the heights of international acclaim and respect as did Dr. George Washington Carver. Born a slave, this man, armed only with his genius, attained before his death on January 5, 1940, world-wide eminence as a scientist, educator and statesman.

Four decades of his life were devoted to aiding the growth and progress of Tuskegee Institute of Alabama. The important contributions of Dr. Carver helped make this school one of the finest educational facilities in the world today. His work in the fields of chemistry and agricultural science was instrumental in providing a better, more abundant life for thousands of people, not only in his own country and time, but throughout the world and for generations to come.

It has become traditional to honor this outstanding American with special observances each year upon the anniversary of his death. In accordance with this custom and with deepest respect for the memory of this great man, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim January 5, 1954, as DR. GEORGE WASHINGTON CARVER DAY in our State. I urge all Californians to give consideration to the contributions which Dr. Carver made in Dr. Carver's life and to the many accomplishments of the highest order of the public.

In an atmosphere of competitive freedom, with incentive for initiative and reward for achievement, scientific research has brought to our Nation a standard of living without equal and without precedent.

A generation ago vast industries based on recent developments in the field of science were almost beyond human conception. Financed by the voluntary contributions of the American people, great inroads are being made in mankind's struggle to conquer crippling and death-dealing maladies which have plagued humanity for centuries. Miracles have been wrought under the guidance of scientists in the fields of transportation, communication and motive power. The material well-being of our people is to a great extent a measure of scientific progress.

On the Berkeley campus of our great University of California, the American Association for the Advancement of Science this year will hold its 121st annual meeting, the first ever conducted west of the Rocky Mountains. This is symbolic of the great part scientists from all sections of our State have played in the significant developments that have taken place in recent years.

In recognition of the outstanding role of science in our society, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim the period of December 20-31, 1954, as SCIENCE WEEK in our State and it is my hope that as many of my fellow citizens as possible will view the great variety of exhibits which will be on display during that time.

The March of Dimes is now endeavoring to provide protection against the ravages of poliomyelitis for healthy girls and boys in addition to financing vitally needed medical care and rehabilitation aid for victims of infantile paralysis in our State and throughout the Nation.

With the prospect of freedom from the crippling scourge of polio brighter than it has ever been, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis during the year ahead is facing a herculean task. The additional cost of vaccine, together with the millions of dollars needed for patient treatment, scientific research and professional training -- all financed by the Foundation -- in 1955 will amount to approximately $64,000,000. This entire sum must be raised through the voluntary contributions of Americans everywhere.

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis is firmly committed to continue its care and assistance to polio victims of previous years and to those who will be stricken in the future before a preventative vaccine is perfected and made available for general use.

To give encouragement and support to this great humanitarian crusade against suffering, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim January, 1955, as MARCH OF DIMES MONTH in our State and I urge every Californian to be as generous as possible in contributing to the March of Dimes so that this very worthwhile program may be strengthened and the hour of victory over polio brought nearer to realization.

PROCLAMATION

There are in the world today two great contending forces to determine the course of humanity for generations yet to be. Recent history has confronted the American people with many sobering global realities. We have learned that we cannot trust nor compromise principle with communistic tyranny and we now know that our own freedom is endangered whenever anyone's freedom is unjustly threatened or denied.

As leaders among those fighting for individual dignity, personal liberty and human justice we have an obligation to strengthen every effective weapon in this struggle for the hearts and minds of mankind. During the past few years the agencies of the Crusade for Freedom have proven to be among the most effective. Radio Free Europe, Winds of Freedom and other similar projects are carrying messages of truth and courage behind the Iron Curtain, made possible by the voluntary private contributions from all sections of our Republic.

Through such means words of freedom are carried to men and women under communist domination by people they know and trust. Exiles who loved freedom enough to leave their homes and families at great personal peril are able to carry on the fight by broadcasting information, encouragement and hope to those in their native lands. Each day they transmit to their homelands the mounting evidence that communism is in fact a reaction to the dark ages of man's history rather than a new force or a new idea for the advancement of humanity.

Those who dream of freedom in communistically dominated countries must be given renewed courage and determination to resist the Soviet tyranny which oppresses them. Our freedom as well as theirs, depends upon it. Since the Crusade for Freedom has nurtured the will-to-freedom among the captive peoples of Europe, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim February 12-22, 1955, as FREEDOM WEEK throughout our State. I urge Californians everywhere to join in this magnificent effort on behalf of world peace and human liberty by giving the Crusade for Freedom their full and enthusiastic support.

The United States today enjoys higher standards of living than have ever been attained by any other nation at any time in human history. We are able to live so much better than our forefathers -- and so much better than those in most foreign lands -- because of the wide variety of economic enterprises within our Republic.

An ingredient vitally essential to this process is volume advertising. In our free economy, where various interests must compete for the patronage of the people, advertising multiplies their freedom of choice, thus insuring improved products at lower costs.

Beyond this the advertising industry consistently serves the public welfare directly through support on numerous civic and social causes. Through their Advertising Council, the men and women in advertising have helped to recruit thousands for Civil Defense work, student nursing and blood bank donations; they have been responsible for the sale of millions of dollars in U. S. Savings Bonds; they have been instrumental in raising more millions for such causes as Red Cross, Community Chests and others; they have saved numerous lives and much property through fire prevention and safety campaigns.

Advertising is at work in a multitude of media throughout the year, bringing boundless benefits to all Americans. It is entirely appropriate that a week be set aside to encourage broader public recognition and better understanding of the manifold services of the advertising industry to our people. With these thoughts in mind, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim the period of February 13-19, 1955, as ADVERTISING RECOGNITION WEEK in our State.

Young people constitute our nation's greatest natural resource. In their energy, enthusiasm, imagination and ability rest the preservation and development of the way of life which has become our heritage.

A problem of grave concern to all Americans is the incidence of the tragic narcotics habit among our people. Preying upon false daring and foolish pride, unscrupulous purveyors of illicit drugs use many cowardly subterfuges to encourage "experimentation" in the use of narcotics. These vultures in human form fatten themselves upon the hopeless misery and tragic deterioration of their victims.

To the eternal credit of our young men and women, there is a strong and growing determination to resist and combat the use of harmful narcotics among the youth of our Republic. To encourage and assist in such worthwhile efforts, I, Goodwin J. The prevalence of heart and circulatory ailments constitute one of the leading health problems of the United States. In addition to being responsible for over half of all the deaths which occur each year in our nation, these diseases are also widespread causes of disability from chronic disease. This constitutes a severe strain upon our national economy, depriving the commercial, cultural and political life of our Republic of the priceless talents and efforts of thousands of Americans. In addition, millions of dollars are lost to the American people annually in lost wages and increased medical expenses.

The extensive program of education, research and community service carried on through the American Heart Association and its affiliates offers greater hope than ever before that this heavy toll of disability and death can be materially reduced.

Beginning on February 1 and continuing throughout the month, the 1955 Heart Fund campaign is being conducted. In recognition of this crusade on behalf of better health for more of our people, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim February, 1955, as HEART MONTH throughout our State and designate February 20 as HEART SUNDAY. PROCLAMATION

At the inception of our national existence, the founding fathers recognized that provision for the security of certain Divinely endowed rights equally to all men is a fundamental function of government. It is a basic precept of the American way of life that distinction between individuals because of the superficial differences of racial derivation or religious faith is hostile to our finest traditions and incompatible with the institutions of freedom in our Republic.

Anything which seeks to unjustly deprive any individual of freedom of conscience simultaneously dilutes the freedom of every other citizen of this nation. Our hopes for "one nation, under God, indivisible," and for permanent peace in the world depend to a large extent upon the progress mankind can effect in replacing bitterness, bigotry and fear with understanding, mutual appreciation and respect for the rights of others.

In recognition of the outstanding work of the National Conference of Christians and Jews in the development of good will among the people of the United States, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim February 20-27, 1955, as BROTHERHOOD WEEK in California. I urge all the people of our State to give every possible cooperation in observances designed to promote understanding and peace on earth through good will among men and women of all creeds and races.

PROCLAMATION

The public library system of California offers to the people of our State a wide variety of valuable services. A library card is, in fact, the key to a vast treasure of information and inspiration for children and adults of all ages.

As long as people are able to read, think and learn, men and women will strive for peace and liberty with honor and dignity. On the shelves of our libraries and among their materials the knowledge of experts in nearly every phase of science, art and human enterprise is readily available to all. There will be found the greatest and most profound thoughts of mankind through the ages -- expressions of principles and ideals of freedom, justice and the human worth.

The resources of local libraries throughout our State are bolstered by the California State Library and the great research libraries of the University of California. These are dedicated to offering to the people sources for their education, culture and recreation. It is an objective of our library system to place these intangible necessities within the reach of all who will accept them.

To aid in bringing the multitude of valuable services available at our libraries to public attention, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim March 6-12, 1955, as CALIFORNIA LIBRARY WEEK. I urge that all Californians take advantage of the opportunities presented during that period to become more familiar with the books, periodicals and other materials and services available through their libraries.

PROCLAMATION

Vast deserts of the Old World hold a grim and uncompromising lesson for the American people. Areas which once sustained magnificent civilizations in splendid prosperity today provide only the barest of essentials for existence to mere handiuls of nomadic tribes. Centuries of unwise exploitation of nature's bounties have taken their terrible toll and left behind barren, arid wastes.

The people of no nation or generation have the right to selfishly exploit the blessings of the earth which are theirs to enjoy. We inherit these things as a sacred trust, to be wisely used and passed on to those who will come after us as part of their heritage. The present security and future well-being of our Republic depends upon constructive long range planning for the maintenance of productive soil, the husbanding of water supplies, replenishing plant life, protection of our mineral and petroleum resources, and the propagation of fish and wild life.

In California, programs designed to encourage public recognition of the need for conservation of our manifold natural resources have been developed around March 7, the birthday of the great California naturalist, Luther Burbank, which is traditionally observed as Arbor Day. On that date, special emphasis is placed upon the planting of new trees to enhance the beauty of our State and to assist in the preservation of our precious soil and water resources.

To aid these vitally important programs, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, hereby proclaim March 7-14, 1955, as CONSERVATION WEEK in our State and urge my fellow Californians to give increased attention to the conservation education of our youth and adults not only during this period but throughout the years ahead. Only by intelligent conservation practices can we hope to sustain the American way of life with its high standards of living, boundless opportunities and ideals of human liberty with all their many blessings.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have here-

PROCLAMATION

Under Congressional charter the American Red Cross has a tremendous responsibility in serving the men and women in the armed forces of our Republic.

Wherever they serve, those in the uniform of the United States are aided by the Red Cross in many ways. In California alone, Red Cross workers provide personal assistance and morale building services at 39 military posts and 10 military hospitals. In addition, Home Service workers of 128 chapters in our State offer counseling and other help to veterans and their families. Nearly $1,000,000 was made available in loans and grants to service personnel or veterans within California during the last fiscal year.

Red Cross occupational and recreational therapy programs in the state mental hospitals of California are of material assistance in the rehabilitation and readjustment of those suffering with mental illness. Red Cross blood donor work each year makes available thousands of pints of blood for civilian hospital patients, for defense purposes and for such vital blood fractions as gamma globulin and serum albumen. Red Cross chapters are constantly on the alert to the potential requirements for food, clothing and shelter anywhere and any time major disaster should strike.

Valuable first aid training, home nursing instruction and related programs enable thousands of Californians to help themselves and others when accidents or catastrophe occur. The Junior Red Cross movement in our schools is widely accepted as a valued aid to education with nearly 2,000,000 boys and girls in 3,630 California schools enrolled for service to others through this medium.

Inasmuch as these humanitarian programs are dependent upon the voluntary contributions for continuing financial support, the American Red Cross will conduct its annual campaign for members during the month of March. Considering the value of this work to our people as well as to others throughout the world, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, proclaim March, 1955, as RED CROSS MONTH in our State and urge my fellow citizens to join the Red Cross, helping to maintain and expand its services to those in need of them.
